COLORADO COLLEGE | September 15, 1949 | NUMBER 1

Miss Sallie Payne Morgan New Asst. Dean of Women

Miss Sallie Payne Morgan is now the new Assistant Dean of Women here at Colorado College. We sincerely wish her a very happy year at C. C.

Miss Morgan has had a very fine education, having attended the Blue Mountain College in Mississippi for undergraduate work, and the University of North Carolina and Columbia University for graduate work. She majored in psychology and earned a Master's Degree in Student Personnel Administration.

After giving vocational, academic, and personal guidance as Student Counselor at Barnard College in Columbia University she came to C. C. because she wanted a small liberal arts co-ed college. She had also visited Colorado and likes the location and people.

As Dean of Women at Indiana University and Dean of Students for eleven years at Randolph Macon College in Virginia, she has had a great deal of experience in other schools.

During the war, Miss Morgan was Assistant Director of Engineer Personnel at the Glen L. Martin Aircraft Company of Maryland. She hes also traveled in Europe and England.

Miss Payne, in speaking of her plans here at CC, said:

"The whole program will be directed to the improvement of the quality of living together so that there can be freedom for learning how to live and get along together through sharing—freedom for progress in scholarship."

DR. GEORGE W. ADAMS, CC's new Dean of the College, who took over his duties this fall. Dean Adams was previously a faculty member at Harvard University, was secretary of the graduate school, director of extension, and dean of special students.

Two New Deans To Take up Their Duties This Fall

Highlighting the 1949 commencement program was the appointment of a new dean of the college, a new dean of the chapel, and a new assistant dean of women, all of whom began their duties this fall.

The very important position of dean of the college was given to Dr. George W. Adams of Harvard University. Dean Adams was born in Jacksonville, Ill. He attended public school there and went on to Illinois College where he earned his AB degree with honors. He also holds a PhD and an AM from Harvard.

Dr. Adams has had much experience in the field of education. He was head of the department of history at Lake Forrest College and also at MacMurray College for Women. He was an instructor at M.I.T. Dean Adams held positions at Harvard such as director of the summer school, director of extensions, and dean of special students.

DR. EDWIN C. BROOME

During the war, Dr. Adams spent quite a bit of time with the Office of Civilian Defense and

Six Visiting Students from European Countries Arrive for School Term

The six students from foreign countries started arriving in the United States in the Spring of 1949, destined to spend one year at Colorado College. Under the direction of the Student Council, and aided by five fraternities and four sororities on the campus and in conjunction with Ralph Giddings and the American Field Service, the five men students are provided with tuition, board and room for the next two semesters. The sixth student Gerda M. Ungar, is sponsored by the Women's Educational Society.

Coming to the United States for the first time, the students had varied impressions as they entered a new land:

Hans Bunch, Denmark, was fascinated by modern New York City, but was pleased to find Colorado similar to his home, and in contrast to New York.

Karel Westerling, Holland, arrived in the U. S. last year and attended summer school at Yale University. Westerling is now doing graduate work at CC and plans to study law upon completion here.

Karl Klemm, Germany, arrived in New York harbor during the night and was impressed with the silhouetted buildings towering in the darkness. Klemm was pleased with the friendliness of the American people.

Philippe Hersent, France, is also a graduate student at Colorado College and was intrigued with the neon advertisements on Broadway in New York. Hersent found our hurried, informal life very different from the people in his homeland.

Gottfried Freinbierler, Austria, will arrive at CC within a few days, and Gerda Ungar arrived on Tuesday in time for registration.

School Assembly Today

The Growlers and Red Lantern sponsored an all-school assembly this morning during the regular assembly period, at Perkins Hall.

At the assembly the football team was introduced, and the cheerleaders led the students in some cheers. They also led the group in some school songs, not only for the benefit of the freshmen, but also some that the upperclassmen didn't know. This was the first step in plans being made by the Growlers and Red Lantern to have unison singing by the student body at CC games.

Majority of Classes Now Under Honor System; Many Hope This to Be Last Trial Period

PLEDGE—The pledge, "I have neither given nor received aid on this examination," should be on each examination paper—either mimeographed and then signed, or written in full on each examination by the student. In case of the presentation of a paper without the signed "pledge," the instructor shall notify the student who shall then sign the paper.

WHERE APPLIED—The provisions of this plan shall apply to all work done in the classes under the Honor System. All tests given in these classes shall be given in such a manner as to promote the Honor System. Students taking examinations under the Honor System will be allowed freedom of movement within the building where the examination is being given. Because of the problem of classroom space, West Hall; East Hall; and Tenney Hall will be considered as wings of Palmer Hall, and free movement within these areas is acceptable.

EXPLANATION IN EACH COURSE—Aside from the fixed principles that are inherent in the Honor System, each professor should explain clearly just how it will be applied in his particular course. The professor may apply the system to the preparation of term papers, laboratory problems, research work, etc. as he sees fit. For example, a math professor might wish for each individual student to work out assigned problems alone—or he might have no objection if the students wanted to work together on the problems. But in this and all similar cases the professor should make clear the procedure he wants followed.

The presence of proctors in examinations given in courses under the Honor System is discontinued.

Depending on the nature of the course and on the nature of the examinations, the professor may be present in the examination room after issueing the examination questions to answer questions. If present he will be there soley to answer questions and to receive the examination papers at the end of the allotted time.

REPORT OF VIOLATIONS—Any violation of the Honor System should be dealt with in the following manner:

1. Warning—The individual who observes a violation should first directly approach the person concerned and warn the person that if they again see the person violate the Honor System, their name will be submitted to the Honor Council for appropriate action.

2. If a second violation is observed, it is the duty of the observer to submit a short written report of the incident to the chairman or to any member of the Honor Council.

HONOR COUNCIL—The Honor Council, consisting of 12 members, shall elect a chairman from their number. The Honor Council shall not be considered to be sitting officially unless all members are present. In the event of a prolonged absence of an Honor Council member, the class that he was elected from shall select an alternate.

The Honor Council shall appoint a recording secretary, not a member, and having no vote, who will record, in shorthand, all the proceedings before it.

The Honor Council shall exercise a dual function; it shall administer the Honor System, revising its rules as the need for revision presents itself, and it shall hear and consider all cases arising from an alleged infraction of the system.

TRIAL—Trial proceedings shall take place as soon as possible after the filing of a report of violation. The chairman shall notify the accused and the accusor to be present; and in addition any witness which any of the three parties—the person accused, the person filing the accusation, and the Honor Council—wishes to call. The proceedings of the trial shall be secret. A unanimous vote of the 12 Honor Council members shall be necessary for a guilty verdict.

The accused shall inform the council when it renders its decision, or within five hours thereafter, whether or not he cares to exercise his option of appeal.

VERDICT—In the event that a guilty verdict is returned against

RUSH WEEK ENDS FOR MEN WITH FRATERNITIES PLEDGING 123

Colorado College yesterday afternoon announced the pledging of 123 men to five fraternities—one of the largest pledge lists in the history of the school.

These men begin their pledge training immediately, ending with their initiation sometime in the Springs. the accused, the Honor Council shall report its decision to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, with such recommendations as they see fit to submit.

Eventually, when the Honor System becomes more widely established at Colorado College, the power to dismiss a student for an infraction of that system will rest entirely with the Honor Council.

The Honor Council requests that if the person dismissedf rom Colorado College asks that a transcript of his college record be forwarded to another institution for the purpose of gaining admission there, the administrative office involved at Colorado College shall take into consideration the recommendations of the Honor Council as to the presence or absence of any extenuating factors.

APPEAL—Any student who believes that the Honor Council has acted contrary to justice or has erred in considering his case shall have an unqualified right of appeal. For purposes of hearing appeal cases the following provisions and procedures shall apply:

1. The Honor Council shall designate a member of the faculty, preferably one with legal training, and occupying a disinterested position, to preside over the appeal court.

2. A jury, chosen by lot, from the classes under the Honor System, shall hear the evidence on the appealed case. The jury shall consist of twelve members. No member of the Honor Council may serve on the jury. A unanimous vote of the jury shall be required for a verdict of guilty. In case the jury fails to reach an agreement, the accused shall be declared innocent of any charges brought against him, and the records of the case will be destroyed.

3. The accused shall have the right of counsel. Any member of the faculty, administration, or student body may serve as counsel with the exception of members of the Honor Council, who may not serve.

4. The Honor Council shall designate one of their members to serve as the prosecutor.

5. Both counsel for the accused and the prosecution shall present a written statement and their respective statements shall be read aloud by the presiding officer.

6. Both counsel for the accused and the prosecution shall have the right to question jury members and move for their dismissal for bias or prejudice.

7. The Honor Council shall be responsible for the preparation of the prosecutions statement.

8. Withnesses may be called, and a refusal to testify shall be considered a violation of the Honor System.

9. The jury's finding of fact shall be final, but any recommendation the jury chooses to make as to the penalty affixed to a verdict of guilty shall be advisory in nature, and shall be forwarded to the Honor Council for due consideration.

10. The presiding officer shall have no vote in the determination of the verdict. His position is to rule on the admissability of evidence, using his own discretion as to what evidence, is pertinent and proper to the case. He may instruct the jury concerning the weight to be attached to the evidence submitted.

11. The trial shall be open to all members of classes under the Honor System, and shall be held in such a place as the Honor Council may designate.

12. A recording stenographer shall be appointed from members of the faculty, administration, or student body, to record the proceedings of the appeal trial.

13. The spirit of the appeal proceedings shall be that of a search for the facts involved in the case. Evasive action by either counsel, or an attempt to defeat the ends of justice by hiding behind a procedural technicality shall not be tolerated by the Presiding Officer.

14. The records of the proceedings of the appeal trial shall be kept, along with the records of the proceedings before the Honor Council, in a suitable file in the office of the Dean of Admissions.

53 Less Students At CC This Term, Fewer Men Enroll

There are 53 less students enrolled at CC this September than last year at this time—1,180, compared to the previous 1,233, according to the latest figures released by Registrar Richard E. Elson.

There are 300 freshmen this year, compared to 364 last year; 360 sophomores this year, 396 last year; 270 juniors this year, 263 last year; 170 seniors this year, 150 last year, 60 graduate students this year, 55 last year; and 20 special students and visitors this year, 14 last year.

The ratio of men to women students has declined this year from 2 to 1, to 7 to 4, due to the fact that most of the veterans began school before this term. This is most obvious in the freshman class, where the men number 155, the women, 125, as compared to 288 men and 136 women last year.

Registration closes September 30, and the enrollments ought to number 1,200 by that time, which the present school policy sets as an ideal number for classes and accommodations.

Southwestern Indian Weaving Silverwork Shown at F. A. C.

The Fine Arts building has a fine exhibit of Southwestern Indian art now on display. Private collections loaned to the Fine Arts Center and the organization of articles by the Taylor Museum and John Adair of the Department of Anthropology of Cornell University makes this a truly interesting exhibit.

Frances Beiber designed some of the silver articles. The silversmithing of her work was executed by Lomay-Esva, a Hopi silversmith of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Lomay-Esva has followed the inspiration of Frances Bieber in some of his silver jewelry, also being shown. Many other articles are separated into modern and more crude earlier work. History of Honor System Here at CC

In the spring of 1948 President Gill suggested to a number of faculty members who had had previous experience with an Honor System that a similiar system be proposed to the students in their classes. Twelve classes voted to start this experiment. Each class elected one representative to a body designated as the Honor Council. The following students were the original members of the Honor Council. Robert Udick, Douglas Gregory, Dwight Brothers, Stanley Boucher, Helen Stevenson, Clyde Dillehay, Mary Daehler, Don Bogren, Elizabeth Van Rensseler, William Barton, Betty Braham, and William Funk. Bob Udick was selected as temporary chairman, and later William Barton became permanent chairman of the Honor Council. The Honor Council then proceeded to draft the plan, later strengthened by several amendments, under which the Honor System is currently in operation.

It has been the feeling of President Gill and of the students and faculty members who have participated in the experiment that the Honor System will make a vital contribution to the program of Colorado College. Although present participation has been limited, it is the hope of the college that the Honor System will be ultimately extended to all classes.

Each semester an invitation to the faculty at large to participate in the system was issued. Each semester the number of courses operating under the Honor System has been gradually extended. This fall 134 courses will be operating under the Honor System, out of 218 courses scheduled for the fall semester.

This year will be the critical year for the Honor System. That the Honor System may be a working reality and not a mere pretense, it is essential that the administration, faculty, and students give it their whole hearted support, and that they accept willingly and courageously its heavy responsibilities.

AWS Activities for Year Planned at Annual Conference

Plans for the year are well under way after the Asociated Women Students annual conference and luncheon at Bruin Inn, September 5.

The theme of the 1949-50 season will be "Co-operation and Education" with which AWS hopes to work more closely with A.S.C.C., N.S.A. and other campus groups.

Guest speakers at the conference were Dean Fauteaux and Miss Sally Morgan, new assistant Dean of Women, who stressed the College student's responsibility.

On the legislative board are president, Gale George; Connie Koehler, vice-president; Barbara Prechtel, secretary and Barbara Clark, treasurer.

Committee members include: Eleanor Ebersole, social; Jeanne Wise, publicity; Leslie Lockhart, scrapbook chairman; Margie Holman and Polly Robinson, personnel Harriet Lore, song; Wilma Downing, service and Dorothy Wilkinson and Anne McCune, welcoming.

Party for New Girls Proclaimed Success

The Associated Women Students launched a very successful beginning of the yearly activities with the AWS party in Bemis, Sept. 10.

In charge of the program was the welcoming committee, headed by Dottie Wilkenson, president, Anne McCune, vice-president, and Kris Sinding, representative.

A skit was presented to the new women, concerning helpful hints on dorm and college life. A style show was presented by members of the welcoming committee, demonstrating types of clothing necessary to the C. C. camps. Following the skit, the guests partieipated in group singing, and refreshments.

The party has been deemed as an excellent means for both the freshmen and the upperclasswomen to get acquainted, and it is the intention of the Asociated Women Students to have it an annual affair.

This is the start of a great new year for you and for COLORADO COLLEGE. With the proper spirit it may well prove to be CC's greatest. After meeting the new Freshmen last weekend I feel confident that they will be a fine addition to our college family.

I believe that you who are new to our campus, and to Colorado Springs will find the merchants of the city are interested in your welfare and that of COLORADO COLLEGE. As representative for Perkins-Shearer I would like to extend their greetings and an invitation to come into the store and look around. You will find that there is a grand feeling of hospitality without any high-pressure tactics employed.

COLORADO COLLEGE was founded in 1874, just two years after the establishment of our firm. Perkins-Shearer was founded on the bases of service to the Community and high quality merchandise. That spirit still prevails today and I am sure that you will agree with me after you have paid us a visit.

Aspen Will Be Scene of FIS 1950 World Ski Championships, First Time in U. S.

Aspen, Colo., scene of the downhill and slalom races of of the 1950 World Ski championships, the biggest skiing contest ever to take place in this country, will be easily accessible by car not only during championships week, February 13 to 19, but all winter long, Mark U. Watrous, Colorado State Highway Engineer, announced today. Mr. Watrous said that Colorado will spend up to half a million dollars keeping its famous mountain roads open and clear, no matter what depths the snow reaches. Twenty years ago there were no open roads over the mountains but now the state keeps 17 passes clear on a 24-hour basis with 12 huge rotary snow plows, with several permanent snow clearance installations (where the highway men live, on the spot, have mighty equipment set and ready to go to work at the first sign of a snow storm).

It is estimated that in general 77% of the people who ski reach their destinations by car. In Colorado that percentage may well be that percentage may well be pegged at 93%! Therefore, Mr. Watrous' statement will be welcome news to the many winter sports lovers planning to attend the 1950 World Ski Championships, which are being held for the first time in the United States. Considered even more important than the Winter Olympics ski races, the Aspen Championships are sponsored by the Federation Internationale de Ski (FIS), world ski governing body. This group is made of the ski associations of Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Greece, Great Britain, Holland, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Jugoslavia, Lebanon, Liechtenstein, Norway, Palestine, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey. Hosts to the champion skiers invited from these countries are the National Ski Association of America, the Southern Rocky Mountain Ski Association, the Aspen Ski Club.

The Aspen races are "open," under FIS rules, not only to top ranking amateur skiers but also to those perfectionists, ski instructors, as well. As a result, the 1950 titles won at Aspen will be true championships of the world in every sense! And since this will be the first time since 1939 that these championships have been contested, the 8,000,000 ski fans in this country will follow the results with the keenest interest.

While American men skiers have never taken an international skiing title, hopes are running high for 1950. For a magnificent squad of America's swiftest skiers will train under Barney McLean, ex-Olympic ski star of Denver and one of the all-time greats of American skiing. Other former Olympic team-mates of McLean's racing in the FIS Championships are Steve Knowlton, Dick Movitz, Jack Reddish and George Macomber, present U. S. downhill champion. American prospects are made very bright, too, with the appearance of a fresh, new group of superb young skiers such as Jim Griffith, Dale Spence, Dave Lawrence, Pete Seibert, Dean Perkins and Brooks Dodge. To round out this powerhouse of skill and courage are Leon Goodman of Sun Valley and the fabulous Toni Matt, living legend of skiing for his feat of schussing (straightdown—no checks, no turns!) the 45-degree angle of the Headwall on Tuckerman's Ravine in New Hampshire!

However, the men aren't alone in their attempt to stack up championships medals for the United States. Our ten best women skiers —Paula Kann, Andrea Mead, Ann Dodge, Rhona Wuertle Gillis, Katy Rodolph, Janette Burr, Pete Berg, Dodie Post, Suzy Harris, Brynhild Grasmoen—will race in downhill and slalom events

Tigers Face Aggies in Opener Saturday Night

Bengals In Fine Shape For Colo. A.&M. Under The Lights at Washburn

By BOB LEAVITT

The newly rejuvenated and highly spirited Colorado College Tigers will pry open the lid on their nine game 1949 schedule Saturday evening under the lights at Washburn Field when they play host to the Colorado A. & M. Aggies. Kick-off time is slated for 8.00 p. m.

The Aggies handed the Tigers a 25-6 trouncing last season and the Bengals are out to avenge this defeat with an eager group of boys who possess the desire to play winning football.

In last Saturday's intersquad game the White team defeated the Cold eleven 33-0 in an exhibition of football that impressed the spectators and CC coaching staff. The Whites were composed of a tentative Tiger starting line-up which displayed some sensational offensive and defensive playing.

Head Coach Al Binns and Assistant Coach Jerry Carle have been holding daily drills for the Tigers for over two weeks and from all indications this year's CC gridders are way ahead of the injury riddled and battered team of last season.

Although Coach Binns has not yet named a starting line up for Saturday night's game, from all expectations Dwight Brothers, and Bruce Carson a former Dartmouth freshman gridder will operate from the half back spots with ace passer and signal caller John Crumley holding down the quarterback slot. Hard driving Mark Kochevar is still rated as the number one fullback. Reserve backfield men who will be depended on are halfbacks Glenn Scarcia, Emil Volez, and Tony Esposito, with Andre Gambucci, Pat Killen and Joe Holmes slated to see plenty of action from the left post.

For reserve fullback strength Binns can rely on big Bill Klumb and Van Allen a Denver sophmore. Bob Jones and John Schefelbein are expected to be the second and third quarterbacks.

Up in the front line on the offensive unit Doug "Moose" Van Metre and Hal Beile at the ends, Glen Blagg and George Webster at the tackles, Bud Parlapiano and Dave Oatman at the guard slots with slender Gary Lewis slated for the pivot post.

The other end combinations are Dick Perse, and Fred Randolph and Bill Perkins and Mel Kemsinger. Charley French, Ed Kohlmeier, Ray Powers and John Hay form reverse tackle strength. Four hard fighting guards that should see plenty of action are Don Laswell, Rollie Rogers, John Purcell, and Chubby Gill. Gene Swank and Jim Cox are rated as the two reserve centers.

Little is known of the Colorado Aggies as yet but in previous years Coach Bob Davis has come up with some top notch elevens which have won more than their share of games in a season. Last season the Rams were selected to play in the Raisin Bowl at Fresno, California.

As a pre-season prediction the Tigers will put up a good fight against the Aggies Saturday night the Binnsmen will win over half of their nine game schedule.

Tiger Tank Team ta Start Season Early

The CC varsity tank team which got a late start in last year's season, is looking forward to an early beginning with many more meets during the coming swimming season.

The prospects for a successful season are very bright. Most of last year's charter team members are returning. Faculty sponsor Robert M. Stabler and Coach "Klipp" Knorr are anxious that all new swimmers arrange for early tryouts. An organization meeting will therefore be held as soon as possible to sign up new men and arrange for daily practice.

Under the fatherly eyes of Prof Stabler and Captain Owen "Klipp" Knorr, the team had a somewhat abbreviated practice season and dived (!) right into conference meets. Included in this group were Colorado State, Colorado Mines, Montana State, and Colorado College. The CC team also had hopes of adding meets outside the conference with Colorado A. and M. and Denver University to its schedule.

Ben Douglas Returns to Coaching Field in Mo.

Ben Douglas, director of athletics and head football coach at CC for the 1947-48 school year, has returned to the coaching game after a year in private business.

Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., announced July 13, the appointment of Douglas as head basketball coach and assistant football coach. He reported there for duty August 1.

Formerly head coach at Grinnell College in Iowa during many successful seasons, Douglas came to CC in September, 1947, and resigned after an unsuccessful season to work in the sporting goods business.

The turquois items are of various shapes; some are of inlaid shells and others are shell necklaces with turquois pendants. Many different items are present combining silver, oyster shells, clam shells and other materials.

Navaho blankets ares hown in many beautiful weaves. The oldest blanket, made in 1850 is by far an inferior product compared with the later weaves and shades. Present day machines have made more uniform and more varieties of colors fast. The prominent colors in the Navaho blankets are white, red and blue.

The international importance of these FIS races will spotlight the attention of the sports world on a little Rocky Mountain village that has, in its day, been Colorado's roaring-est silver queen, then an almost lost, remote ghost-town. Now Aspen reaches for top place in the winter sun with a skiing terrain that many experts consider second to none in the world. Blessed with almost constaut winter nightfalls of light, fluffy snow, with clear, sunny Colo fluffy snows, with clear, sunny Colorado days, Aspen, on the man-made side, boasts the world's longest chair lift . . . it carries skiers up not just one but TWO mountains, to deposit them at the hub of a network of varied and wonderful ski runs that extend for miles.

In playing host not only to the famous of the skiing world but also to the great of movie, fashion and diplomatic circles as well, Aspen may well bulge at the seams this coming February. But the FIS Housing Office at Aspen is finding roofs to cover the heads of skiers and spectators not only in the village itself but all the way to Glenwood Springs, 40 miles away!

The 1949 formal panhellenic week, which began on September 18 with open houses at the sorority lodges and ended Sunday with a dinner for the new pledges with the organizations of their choice, was by far the most unique in CC rushing history. Letter to the Editor:

Looking back on the past week of sorority rushing with all of its hustling, bustling actives, pledges and rushees—fancy, impressive parties—the new pledge ribbons worn proudly over the hearts of the newly affiliated members as the rushing stopped on Sunday, it is evident that practically everyone considers it a week well spent, in spite of the neglected homework and the tension and strain of the week in general. (looking at it from both sides.)

Many girls did not join a sorority. The C.C. campus is noted for the friendliness existing between sorority and non-sorority girls, and it is certainly anything but a disgrace not to be a member of such an organization. BUT, what about the girls who wanted to join a sorority and were not given a fighting chance? Each sorority naturally has a quota to fill, a number sufficient to raise their chapter enrollment to a campus average. This, each year, takes care of less than 50 per cent of the new women. Does that mean that less than half of the incoming women students are interested in joining a sorority? Hardly.

In 1947 an idea was brought before the students—an idea of having another sorority on campus. What happened to that idea- Is having another Greek letter organization on campus an impossibility? Do I hear any comments?

—A Sorority Member.

By WALT SWEET

Within the past few months, I have twice been afflicted with a peculiar kind of murderous instinct Research shows that at one time or another, every college student has been touched by the same bug, but rigid conditioning for such treatment has prevented these feelings from reaching their diabolical best.

During the first of the summer, I was bullied into a most undesirable course (Sandal Repair 203), and after attending numerous eight o'clock harrangues, decided that this was out of my line. After all, who should know my line better than I? So, shouldering my burden, I burst upon the young summer afternoon, confident of the ease of the task ahead. Ah, Hah!! What a dope I had been! The mere formality of dropping a course became a ghastly nightmare, full of revolving angry faces and fluttering slips to be performed in quintuplicate. For a full hour, I was reduced to the ranks of "Waiters-in-line" while the employees of each necessary office performed the ritualistic dance of the buck-passers. Broken and beaten, I was finally admitted to the inner-sanctum of the final judge. Advancing the ordeals of all the nether regions, I mustered my courage and blurted out my intent. The placid eyes staring out at me from behind the desk suddenly kindled into a red-veined rage; the neatly parted hair of the supreme being became mysteriously disarranged; in truth, the man became a demon capable of causing ladies to faint and young children to run screaming to the comparative insecurity of their mother's skirts. Glowering at me, he began to chant with terrifying crecendo "no. no NO NO" Having, by this time regained some of my lost backbone, I hastened to recall to him the instructions printed on the registration sheet. This was a mistake. To those who bask in the sunshine of innocence, let me be quick to point out that administrative dictim is not composed with an eye to meaning what it says (it usually means about anything BUT what it says.) Outside again, I hastened to the men's room where I washed the footprints off my face, and sought out one of the gentler souls of my Cutler acquaintance. Calming my ragged emotions, he proceeded to outline a plan for accomplishing the task with as little needless bloodshed as possible.

Glowing with the warm inner-confidence of one who has his battles nearly won, and gulping in

SNOOP

By MARY RUBLE

Life is buzzing again at Tejon Tech with the return of many familiar faces and some new ones to suppliment the diminished ranks after last June's graduation.

Freshmen week was busy for all, just ask the freshmen who left the best years of their lives behind them after their ordeal over the Freshmen Tests. The freshmen were royally picniced, danced and open housed during their week but now things have returned to normal. Instead of words of welcome and name tags we see the dinks and cords, green ribbons and paddles and the cries of "What Say Freshmen". Yes, things have returned to that semblance of normality which characterizes the CC campus.

The early morning football practices have been discontinued now that classes have started and the members of the squad are feeling no regrets. All during Freshmen week the voices of the rhythm boys and their "Easy Sit Down" came floating up to the residents of the quad at 6 a.m. It's nice to know we have an enthusiastic football team but at this time of day the old college spirit seems to be a bit lacking.

Speaking of college spirit it was certainly present at the last football game. Particularly noticeable were Bill Smith, Howie Smith and Al Schoenfield who were attractively attired in raccoon skin coats hand painted hats and waving pennants. They exemplified something, perhaps it was college spirit.

Our oh-so-recent alumni, D. A. Stroup, is putting her experience, gained in writing this column, to good use by writing the advertising for the Safeway Stores. Could there be some semblence of similiarity between the price of cod fish flakes and the local happenings at C. C.?

Speaking of alumni several of our illustrous graduates seem to have acquired more than their degrees in the past few months. The former Dottie Lucas is now Mrs. Al Schisler, while Frannie has changed her name from Schwerer to Mrs. Eddie Ellenwood. It's now Mr. and Mrs. Louie and Dean Kinkle and all correspondence to the former Kathy Lockwood must be addressed to Mrs. Bud Stitt.

But it seems it isn't necessary to have a degree to get married as proved by Ruth, it used to be Dowdell, who came back to school with a new husband, Bob Reitinger. Jim Bowers took the fatal step and now its Mrs. Jane Powelson Bowers. Proving that getting married is the thing to do are Jim and Ann Ford, Jim and Phyllis Gander, Helen and Robert Chamberlain, Nancy and Bob Miller and Caroline and Joe Barron.

Showing more for the summer than a few sheckles and a sun tan are Carol Fisher who is sporting a ring from Bill Sabin and Jean Ramsay, Jane Ochsner and Joan Kilpatric who are learning to eat with their left hands to show off a certain piece of newly acquired jewelry.

And to prove that things can happen in the summer are Patti Sonnekson who is sporting a Phi Delt pin from Dick Pfeiffer. Not to be outdone Jack Pfeiffer gave his pin to Ellie Ebersole. Libby Sheldon is now wearing a pin from Dick Prescott, while Betty Schroeder is wearing Bill Schoof's pin. And while we're on the subject Barby Clark is wearing Joe Crager's pin, and we see Van Allen's pin on LaVon Rouse. Yes, it's been a busy summer.

But in spite of it all the new developments concerning rings and pins and things remain relatively the same. We still find the freshmen falling in the irrigation ditches, the long lines waiting for a booth and Murray's and J's and the co-eds sprinting down the hill at 10:20. Yes it's good to be back.

Last week I spoke of school spirit being one of the important factors in creating a greater college life. I don't believe that there is anyone who wasn't proud of our Tiger team last Saturday night—it was a team that showed the type of spirit we can all be aiming for. The backing of all of us can be a great asset in keeping this spirit high.

It's a good idea to remember that on and off of the playing field, appearance is most important. The person who is well-dressed can reflect confidence in all his actions. PERKINS-SHEARER has the answer to the problem of what to wear for all occasions, and the answer is VARSITY-TOWN clothes. Come in and look over the new fall pace-setters that will assure you of good style for years to come.

Educator Puts Racism On World Wide Basis

Estes Park, Colo.—D. Charles S. Johnson, President Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., speaking at the recent Young Men's Christian Association conference here on the subject of Racism, from a world-wide view point, said that "civil rights here can be considered the domestic counterpart" of the universal "issue of human rights, but that the racial situation in the US—as part of the world—is improving." However, the educator pointed out that "that doesn't mean that unpleasant situations, sometimes tragic ones, occur. But," the speaker continued, "improvements are being noted all over the country, as well as the rest of the world."

Johnson, speaking of picketing business houses that discriminate because of "color," contending that "it was a questionable means of combating race discrimination," said that although the "motive may be sincere, the idea behind the picketing isn't."

Binns Praises Tiger Gridders:

In his weekly talk to the Downtown Quarterback Club last Monday noon, Coach Al Binns had nothing but praise for his CC players who gave the Aggies such a stubborn battle before going down to a 14-7 defeat last Saturday night. "We made mistakes, but most of them on defense," Binns explained, "But we expected to after spending 90 per cent of our practice time on offensive plays. We shifted our strong side of the line to halt the hard running Aggie backs but A. & M. took advantage of this by running off our weak side for one TD." Binns had great praise for his Tiger backfield composed of John Crumley, Bruce Carson, Dwight Brothers and Mark Kochevar.

No C.C. Band at Opening Game:

For the first time in years the Colorado College student band was not present at the opening football game. If the student body is expected to attain any spirit whatsoever at the home games I believe that we should have a band on hand in an effort to back the team in as much as possible. It certainly is a disgrace for a college of this size not to be able to organize a band to play at our home athletic games.

Mines Student Paper Comments on C.C. Gridders:

Herb Waterman, sports editor of the Colorado School of Mines student newspaper, had a few brief remarks to make in regards to the 1949 edition of the C.C. Tiger gride eleven plus this season's outlook in the R.M.C. Here are his comments: "According to all reports the R.M.C. football championship seems headed for Colorado Springs. The bally-hoo drums have been beating loudly for the Tigers and Allison Binns, head coach at C.C., is making no bones about having a greatly improved team over his 1948 squad.

"Greeley will have their usual big tough line that John Hancock comes up with so consistently. The Bears have Lowell Stuckey, All-R.M.C. quarterback for three years returning, and he alone is enough to make them championship contenders.

Intramural Football to Get Underway Next Week:

The official C.C. Intramural Football program will commence next week according to intramural manager, Mike Yalich. The strong Phi Gams will be defending their 1948 championship. But the Fijis can expect some topnotch competition from the other Greek organizations and the Independents. The new rushing system will come to the aid of some of the Greeks who in the past have had difficulties in obtaining an ample number of men to participate.

TIGERS PUT UP STIFF BATTLE BUT DROP 14-7 DECISION TO COLORADO A. & M. AGGIES

By JOE HOLMES

The Colorado College football aggregation raised the curtain last Saturday night on what should be a most successful season. Although dropping a hard-fought 14-7 decision to Colorado A. & M., the team demonstrated its remarkable improvement over last year's club before a crowd of 5,000. Hard blocking and tackling were in evidence throughout the game to surprise the highly favored Aggies. With a few break C.C. might easily have come out on the long end of the score.

John Crumley, C.C.'s triple-threat quarterback, took the opening kick-off in his own end zone and returned it to his own thirty-three and with one more block he would have gone all the way. Brothers gained four yards thru the middle of the line and Carson went off his own tackle for a first down. Three running plays failed to gain and Brothers kicked out of bounds on the Aggie forty-five. Both teams showed strong defenses the first quarter and neither made any scoring threat.

Early in the second quarter, however, Ray Lopa intercepted a Crumley pass on his own forty-two and returned it to the Tiger forty-six. The Aggies moved the ball to the Bengal five yard line before being stopped. Two running plays failed to gain and Jim Randall took Dwight Brothers' punt on his own 43, returning it to the Tiger 33. Frank Faucett, speedy A. & M. back, went off tackle and tight-roped down the sideline for the first Aggie score. Faucett's placement was good and the score stood Aggies 7, C.C. 0.

After the kick-off the Tigers were forced to punt from their own 33 and the Rams took over on their 44. Faucett and Dasal Hallmark moved the ball to the Tiger 29. Joe Folsom got away for 15 and Eddie Hanna picked up five more. Hallmark went over the left side of the line for the second score of the game. Faucett again converted and the Rams took a 14 to 0 lead. Neither team threatened again the second period.

C.C. definitely out-played the visitors in the second half with John Crumley's passing and the hard-running of fullback Mark Kochevar spearheading the offense.

After a 52-yard Tiger drive in the third period petered out on the Aggie 15 the Bengals came back in the final stanza to march 57 yards for their only touchdown.

Crumley's pass to Perkins was good for 24 yards and another to Van Metre picked up 18. Carson carried to the Aggie four where Kochevar went over for C.C.'s initial tally. Ed Kohlmeir converted and the Rams lead was cut to 7 points.

Another scoring threat by the Tigers was halted when the officials detected an illegal receiver down field on a beautiful 55-yard pass by Crumley.

Crumley and Kochevar were big guns in the C.C. backfield while Cary Lewis, Moose Van Metre and Glen Blagg stood out in the line play.

The Bengals are pointing toward their initial victory of the season when they play Kansas Wesleyan next Saturday night, under the lights at Washburn field.

SPEEDY BENGAL FULLBACK — When the C.C. Tigers oppose the Kansas Wesleyan Gridders Saturday night, Bengal fullback Mark Kochevar will be carrying the pigskin for the victory hungry C.C. gridders.

KNOW YOUR TIGERS

Hal Beile—Tbis versatile senior has performed for C.C. as end, guard, center, and defensive line backer, and even full back. Hal is a three year letterman on the Tiger eleven and he is playing his favorite wing position again this season. Hal is 22 and weighs 175 and calls his home Park Ridge, Ill. This boy will be seeing plenty of service before the Tiger season is completed.

Bruce Carson — This 175 lb. sophomore started his college grid career at Dartmouth College but transferred to C.C. last year. He was ineligible for varsity ball last season and therefore performed on the undefeated Frosh Eleven. Bruce is 21, and at present is holding down a regular halfback position on the Begal Eleven. His home is Denver.

John Purcell—One of the most improved players on the Tiger club last season, Jack was awarded the 1948 Wagner Trophy for Most Improved player of the year. This 21-year-old senior should see plenty of action in the guard slot this season. His home is Chicago, Ill.

CC Gridders Seek First Win of Season Against Coyotes Under Lights

After staging a sensational battle against the Colorado A. & M. Aggies last Saturday night the C.C. Tigers settled down to some heavy contact work in preparation for the invasion of the Kansas Wesleyan "Coyotes" who will provide the opposition for Coach Al Binns and his Bengal eleven on Washburn field Saturday evening.

With the exception of Bruce Carson, right halfback, receiving a slight lip injury in the Aggie game last Saturday the Tigers came thru in tip top shape and the black and gold are expected to be in full strength for Saturday's contest.

Coach Binns was well pleased with the work of his starting eleven in the Aggie game and it is quite evident that the C.C. mentor will counter with the same lineup of John Crumley at quarterback, Dwight Brothers and Bruce Carson at the halfback slots with Mark Kochevar at the fullback position.

Hal Beile and Doug Van Metre will hold down the end posts with Glenn Blagg and George Wester at the tackles and Dave Oatman and Bud Parlapiano at the guard slots. Rangy Gary Lewis will operate from the pivot post.

The Kansas Wesleyan "Coyotes" suffered a 34-0 setback from Fort Hays, Kans., in their opening game last Saturday. Wesleyan is located in Salina, Kans., and has a student enrollment of 550 students.

The Coyotes are led by co-captains Mike Sulliven, a 155 lb. quarterback, and Elvis Robbs, a 180 lb. fullback. Both of these boys have played three years of varsity ball at the Kansas school.

Kickoff time for the Saturday tilt will be 8:00 p. m. and another large crowd is expected to be on hand.

College Course on Relaxation: Learn 'How To Smoke A Cigar'

When the journalistic class at the University of Denver asked to be enlightened as to the art and technique of smoking a cigar for the greatest enjoyment, a course unique in college and tobacco history was launched. The students learned the romantic history of cigars, their role in world affairs, and the etiquette of correctly smoking a cigar.

During the session, students enthusiastically puffed their cigars—panatelas, perfectos and coronas—while Professor Robert Rhode demonstrated the correct way to smoke a cigar.

A majority of the class, veterans of World War II, reported they first were introduced to cigar smoking during the war when they relaxed with a pleasing perfecto on the far-flung battlefronts. Nature of the class is to describe the importance of slow, leisurely puffs to get the most pleasure from smoking a cigar. The students also learned that the enjoyment of cigar smoking comes from the taste and aroma of the tobacco. Cigars need not be inhaled to be enjoyed, said the professor, merely puff and roll out the smoke as you relax.

One young lady in the class learned the fundamentals too. She said she'd report the rules to her male friends.

"The discharged veterans won't take orders from anybody but a top sergeant!"

Associated Women's Group Plans For Year, Asks For Student Cooperation

Do you need help in planning your career after you graduate? Do you have any complaints about Freshman Week? The A. W. S. Board has plans for these and many other activities. All that it needs is student co-operation. A. W. S. which is observing its twentieth anniversary this year, will celebrate by organizing an even larger and better scope of activities.

Under the direction of Miss Morgan, the new asistant Dean of Women, the A. W. S. Board is hoping not only to make them any organizations already under its sponsorship even more suecessful, but to develop new projects as well.

As the governing body of all women students at C. G., A. W. S. sponsors the Tiger Glub, W. A. A., the Q.A. Board, and all other women's activities. The need has been definitely realized for an integrated group this year with all of these organizations working together with Student Counell and N. S. A.

Now for the new plans! A. W. S. is opening its headquarters in Tieknor basement to everyone who wishes to use it. The board hopes to have organized parties, and study halls there for all the girls.

A further plan for the improvement and progress of the student magazine, "Kinnikinnik", is underway. Last year's edition was the beginning of what C. C. hopes will be a sueeessful example of student talent in the fine arts each year. Carol Fisher, who is representing the magazine for A. W. S. is now working with her committee to investigate possibilities for the continued publieation of "Kinnikinnik."

There will be a meeting of freshmen women with Ya-Ya-He, the official welcoming committee under the A. W. S., to discuss various points for the improvment of the weleoming program and the activities of Freshman week.

Also in the offing is the installation of a placement or aptitude guidance bureau to give tests and advice to sophomore, junior, and senior girls in order to help them plan their courses and their careers with an eye to what will suit them

Pres. William H. Gill, who spoke at the convocation Tuesday morning at Shove Chapel. The first Chapel service opened with an academic procession of the faculty.

Chapel Receives "New Look" in Palm Plants

That "new look" in Shove Chapel, caused by the attractive palm plants, is the result of the combined efforts of President Gill and the new dean of the chapel, Dr. Edwin C. Broome, plus the generosity of the Broadmoor Green House.

While Pres. Gill recognized the chapel as one of the most beautiful structures in the region, something in the building still left him with too cold a feeling. Dean Broome, upon his arrival as our new ehaplain, voiced the same opinion and the two began to look for ways to brighten Shove Chapel for the Tuesday morning services.

William A. Hoyne, manager of the Broadmoor Greenhouse, came to the college's rescue with the generous offer of donating half-a-score of the beautiful palm plants each Tuesday. Hoyne's staff brings the plants in on Tuesday and pieks them up for return.

It is suggested that all who are interested in the Players or the Radio Guild be present at the first meeting so they will understand how things are to be run during the eoming year. Tiger-Nugget Dance Will Be First All-School Formal, Crystal Room of Alamo Hotel Oct. 8

When is the first big dance of the year? It is the Tiger-Nugget Dance, which is being held in the Crystal Room in the Alamo Hotel on October 8. Other questions you ask—just what is the occasion for the dance? Is it formal? Is there a queen? Who's orchestra is playing and what time is it? Oh, dances do arouse quite a few questions from the intelligencia and others.

Every fall the staffs of the Tiger and Nugget get together and plan a big dance, the proceeds going to the Publieations Funds.

Yes, it's formal, so guys you had better get that good suit or tux in shape for the little woman.

Eaeh Sorority has elected one girl as its candidate, who if ehosen, will reign as Miss CG. Cast your vote for your favorite as you enter the door. The candidates are as follows: Barbara Lett, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta chose Button Elliott, Lorie Wilkening is Gamma Phi Beta's choice and Barbara Anson was chosen by the Delta Gammas. The I.W.A. candidate is Joan Tuten.

Bob Lovitt and his five piece orchestra will be playing from 9 until 12.

It isn't too early to be getting dates, guys, so ask that cute P'il gal who has eaught your eye.

Pete Buckstaff Elected Head Of N. S. A. at CC; Regional Convention to be at Boulder

On Wednesday of last week at a meeting in the Associated Students room of Lennox House "Pete"Buckstaff was elected Chairman of the National Students Asociation of Colorado College. The meetings are held every Wednesday night at 7:30 on the Second floor of Lennox house. All students are invited and urged to attend. It is a student organization conducted by students for the students of this college. It doesn't cost anything to attend these meetings and the organization does a lot for the students. For instance it promotes eloser Student-Faculty relations, especially under the honor system such as we have at Colorado College. The N. S. A. also encourages better relations between colleges and Universities.

This yenr the students will eleet eight to ten representatives who will go as delegates and observes to the regional convention at Boulder. The schools in the nation send their delegates to these conventions and these conventions in turn are responsible for the election of the National Chairman at the national convention. The National Chairman quits school for the year and is paid a salary. He has a full time job directing the organization.

There are now 3 regional officers on the Campus. Jim Kinder is the regional chairman, Clarice Hads the C. C. regional secretary, and Bill Murray is the regional publicity chairman. Last year the regional meeting was held at Colorado College; this year they will meet at Boulder.

In addition to all these activities, the N. S. A. also sponsors tours through Mexico and Europe. These tours are to acquaint the student with the political and social problems of these countries.

This year the organization would like to use purchase cards. These eards are sold to the students of the organization at $1.00 each. With the cooperation of the merchants it is then possible to buy

New Chapel Dean Will Talk Tuesday Morning

Presenting the first chapel talk of the academic year, Dean of Shove Memorial Chapel, Dr. Edwin C. Broome, Jr., will speak on the subject of "The Man with the Glass Eye," at the regularly scheduled chapel service, Tuesday morning, October 4.

This will be the first time that the entire student body, or faculty members, of Colorado College have had the opportunity to hear Dean Broome, since his arrival to the campus this semester.

The Chapel Choir, that reportedly did such an outstanding job at convocation last week, will also appear again this week. It is believed that the choir is one of the largest in the history of C.C.

Honorary Athletic Fraternity Ready For CC Aspirants

By BILL HANSON

Under the direction of Coach Cheddy Thompson and with Coach Jerry Carle as ehapter patron, Sigma Delta Psi is again on the Colorado College campus.

Sigma Delta Psi is a national honorary athletic fraternity, reactivated last year by Coach Thompson. It was active on the CC eampus prior to the war and is again ready for candidates for membership.

Any person, either a student or an alumnus of CC may attempt to qualify for acceptance. Since its reorganization last year, two persons completed the test. The first to complete it was Bill Pfeiffer with Dick Pfeiffer following. They are awaiting to be passed by the Executive Council. Jack Pfeiffer is now working on his test.

The qualification test consists of fifteen events. A candidate must satisfactorily complete within a period of one school year. A few of the events are: 100-yd dash, high jump, shot-put, rope climb, 100-yd swim, mile run and broad jump.

Sigma Delta Psi is an honorary organization eonsisting of self-competition. It will be another feather in CC's hat to develop it into a representative organization. All persons interested in becoming candidates should contact Coach Thompson.

HEY, YOU

Schussboomers!

We need brave, daring and skilled skiiers for this year's dynamic sik team. Anyone interested in trying out for either the men's or women's teams should be at the "C" Club Room in Cossitt tonight at 7:15 p. m. Racing experience is not necessary—if you think you'd like to try it, be sure and come!

Today's assembly, the first in this series will be a student participation assembly at which the student body will be entertained by Johnny Lesman, Anne McGune and a quartet with Pete Tyree.

Wes Bradly will be Master of Ceremonies. Three songs will be learned hy the students with the help of the Growlers, the Tigers, and other entertainers.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In the column "Sports Trail," Mr. Leavitt pointed out that the CC Band was not at the opening football game. Furthermore, the Band does not plan to play for any of the football games! The faculty, the students, the college as a whole, have prevented the band from making any progress. The heads of the college demand that there be sufficient students in the band before they donate any money to the cause. On the other hand the students insist that they must be guaranteed some reward (in the way of trips or compensation) before they will play in the band. As it stands, the band feels it is useless even to attempt to play at the football games. Public pressure will finally demand CC have a band, but the students must help. I believe the student body has a right to demand and should demand that Colorado College have a large band.

A Band Member.

About the C.C. Band

A detailed explanation of the band situation is too involved for presentation in the Tiger. However, a few words are in order.

Apparently there has been much glib and caustic talk about why we don't have a band at the football games. None of this talk has come directly to me except of course that which emanated from last week's Tiger. This type of talk is typical of the immature students who observe only the surface aspects of a situation, base their opinions on these limited observations, never dig deeper to attempt to really understand the matter at all, but still have the impudence to make incriminating statements and point fingers.

Students at the college level should, if they do not already have it, acquire the habit of thinking things through before speaking, and of obtaining all available facts before formulating opinions, particularly if they intend to viciously spout them off publicly.

Strange as it may seem, the band is also a concern of mine. Since I direct the band it seems quite logical that the place to quickly obtain accurate information about the band would be to talk to me. For those who are earnestly seeking accurate information about the situation may I state that my home telephone number is 7991-R, my office telephone number is 9375-W and my office hours are 1:15 to 2:15 Monday through Friday, Room 5, Tenney Hall. I will be very happy to discuss the matter with all concerned.

However, let me caution you about showing too much interest. In cooperation with President Gill and the athletic department we are getting under way a program to build the band and if you show too much interest we are sure to call on you for assistance. It MAY involve some work.

America Unlike the Impression Given By G.I.'s, Student Says

By PHILIPP HERSENT

ED NOTE—This article was written by Philipp Hersent who is the French student attending Colorado College this fall with the aid of the Student Council and other organizations on the campus.

What is your impression of the United States? This question asked to somebody who has been here for only three weeks seems premature.

Several people to whom I have spoken on the campus certainly think that my criticisms are more important than my praises; it is so easy to criticize and so difficult to give utterance to the real admiration that any foreigner must have for the United States.

In Europe we know you through the G. I.'s. Can you judge a county by an army? I do not want to imagine what your opinion of France would have been if a million French soldiers had landed in the States!

Therefore people are liable to think that this noisy G. I. who came to Paris for a three day leave is the typical American. I am terribly sorry for that, as this superficial exterior hides a real sense of responsibility. Why should we take your gaity and optimism for superficiality?

In your colleges you do not work as much as you would in Europpe; but you have here four years of real happiness. In France, a student studies after his high school education only in order to learn something for a future business and to acquire a culture. That is your purpose too, but you want also to have a good time in a country-like landscape.

A European student tries to have better marks than his neighbor, who is only a competetor; here aprenticeship of democratic life is almost more important than studies. Seeing the students being managed according to parliamentary rules, I understand why democracy works so well in America: you have those institutions in your blood since your youth

It had been said that Europe has a sense of the tragic, and that America kept a faith in progress too well established to understand modern world's tragedy. You have an acute desire to escape from despair. The sense of the tragic is grounded on man's awe in front of destiny. For Oedipus there is no solution and the European of today likes to think of himself as an Oedipus in front of the Sphynx called universe.

It is a fact that the American is more optimistic than any Frenchman. That is natural; you are a young country, which has been protected for a long time by an ocean, having resources without limits, and did not know our dangers, or distresses. We say that our pessimism is more realistic than your optimism; the truth is that two different realities justify two oposed doctrines. But each country seems to have a tendency to go too far, owing to their experiences and natures. That is why we can help each other in a spiritual way.

Your confidence is good to us, and our realism may usefully brake (the Cerman problem is an example) your optimism.

In spite of differences, every man of good sense likes America because you have inherited the virtues of the pioneer, made of good-will and good neighborliness.

Hobbes said that a man was an enemy of every other man. It is true everywhere except in the United States; here the man is a friend to his neighbor. Moreover we like America because this country is poetic, sentimental, romantic, and still realistic.

Kinnikinnik

Those unlucky upperclassmen who were unable to secure a copy of the new magazine "THE KINNIKINNIK" last spring will be able to correct this disaster Friday morning, September 30, in Palmer Hall. Freshmen and new students are free to fight for copies as long as they last. It involves absolutely no further taxing of various states of financial deprevation . . . IT'S FREE!

By WALT SWEET

While idling along the street the other day, I was surprised to note a drastic change in the appearance of one of the more prominent of our campus buildings. Dazzling new white paint gleamed from its balconies and trimmings, and the hint of elegant draperies showed through its newly cleaned windows.

Picking myself up from the sidewalk where I had collapsed in disbelief, I hastened inside to see if it wasn't just the same old cake re-frosted. But no! The golfball holes in the living room wall (so dear to the memories of my freshman year) had been filled up. The old green carpet, dirtied by the feet of undergraduates since the year one, had disappeared, and a new one lay unfolded in its place. The woodwork gleamed with new varnished, and the clean windows echoed with an unaccustomed sparkle.

Still tremoling from the shock of it all, I found my way again into the fresh sunlight of reality. Certainly it could only have been a fantastic dream! Spirited by the bracing air, I ambled across the campus in the direction of the other rock-pile built for the same purpose to see if the illusion would be repeated. Glimpsing it through the trees, I could detect no appreciable alteration in outward appearance, though such things could have been hidden by the profusion of pigeon-specked ivy which scaled its walls. Mounting the crumbling stairway into the front hall with the feeling of one returning to something entirely unchanged, I was given pause by noticing the presence of a thin coating of new paint. But there were flaws. Even the most careful of painters could not cover up the knife-gashes in the woodwork with paint alone. Time stood still in this spot. Here, at last, was something which had not changed. With increasing joy, I bounded up the stairway to see if I could still find my initials scratched into the crude iron cot

I had occupied so many years ago. With the feeling of a homecoming veteran, I discovered the smashed panel in the door made by one of my pals who had not learned the use of the knob. The decayed woodwork, the chipped plaster, and the shabby furnishings were all the same . . . even under their oh-so-slight veneer of new paint.

Ah, well, who can deny that the stumbling gait of progress is a slow one. One must learn soon in his mingling with official judgement, that first things come first. It is in the selection of those first things that the confusion comes in. To one who is usually illogical, it seems that Hagerman foundations are considerably more important than Cutler carpets, and that the cushioning of administrative heels is far less of an immediate headache than is the cushioning of undergraduate living quarters. I could be wrong!

World Federalist Organize Sept- 21

Following a six-week period of temporary organization, the United World Federalists of Colorado Springs, one of six Colorado chapters, met September 21 and set up its permanent organization for the ensuing year.

The slate of officers elected was headed by Dr. Max Lanner, of the music faculty, as chairman; Mrs. Lewis M. Knapp, vice chairman; Fred Morath, formerly a member of the Colorado University chapter, secretary; and Dr. H. P. Packard, a retired medical missionary, treasurer.

The membership of over sixty includes students and faculty from Colorado College and residents of Colorado Springs. They are part of the national and international movement for world federal government and have as their object to "work to create a world federal government with authority to enact, interpret and enforce world law adequate to assure peace."

Students interested in either more information or membership should address their requests to the chapter office 2118 Wood Ave., or telephone 791-W.

SNOOPER

By MARY RUBLE

The last edition of the Tiger was read with all the enthusiasm that a publication of this sort wa rants. However, one question seems to have come up many times regarding this issue. Could the placing of the column headings on the last page been accidental or a result of careful planning. Surely, there is some explanation.

Regarding Saturday's fire drills there is a word of warning to be given. In the past we have always had the utmost cooperation between the fire department and Colorado College. However, if the inhabitants of the Women's Residence Halls persist in leaping to the ground unaided while ignoring the strong manly arms of the firemen we may well expect the fire department to become less interested in our safety. Remember, if we expect cooperation we must cooperate.

Saturday night the ringing of the Cutler Bell brought back soothing memories to the ears of those few upperclassmen who had previously witnessed this phenomena. To the new members of the C. C. family we can only say—Remember it always. It has a certain nostalgia.

The first chapel service brought with it the usual amount of confusion concerning chapel seats. Freshmen were wandering up and down the aisles looking in vain for the N6-6. Then there were the wrathlike creatures who slithered up and down the side aisles with pencils, absent slips and self-satisfied looks. And then finally there was the playing of the War March of the Priests as the faculty came down the aisle in the academic procession. With these signs there could be no doubt that school has truly begun.

Along with the coloring of the leaves to give us that fall feeling we see the starting of intramural football. This isn't limited to the male population of C. C. for many of our young coeds spend their afternoons chasing and throwing footballs as well as learning to knock the opposing line down in a socially acceptable manner. As a warning to the fraternities the Gamma Phis are planning to challenge some unlucky group in a football encounter soon.

Swinging to items of a social nature, the dates of the Phi Gam pledges had the opportunity to play active at the Phi Gam pledge dance Saturday night. They were allowed to swing the paddles to the enjoyment of everyone but the pledges.

And while we're on the social life we find that Al Allured has given his pin to Corky Connel while Doris Vicellio is now wearing Bob Peterson's Phi Gam pin.

The Tiger Club has demonstrated their desire to help with freshmen orientation by teaching the class of 1953 that the green ribbons and paddles are for the girls while the sweaters, cords and dinks are only for the masculine members of the class. Connie Cannon seemed to have a little difficulty understanding this idea and hence got a chance to wear the freshmen cords and sweater on Friday and Saturday.

Speaking of freshmen, Pat Fisher was seen in Cossit Cafeteria with her nose buried in, of all things, a history book. It should be pointed out that there is a time and place for everything.

Operations Grass Seed With Crown and Lance

Crown and Lance, the independent mens' organization on the campus, plans to decorate Lennox House to help celebrate Homecoming. This is the first time that Lennox House will have been decorated for the Homecoming festivities. Bob Haynes is chairman of the committee.

Upon suggestion of Miss Donaldson, advisor of the I.W.A., Howard Smith, Bob Finch, Harry Kurachi, Ted Green and Win Sweitzer were snared by Bill Murray to dig up and re-seed the lawn in front of Lennox. How Murray ever persuaded the boys to exert themselves (for it involved physical labor) remains a matter of conjecture.

This "operations grass-seed" has progressed to the point where it becomes necessary to warn all pedestrians to walk on the sidewalk provided for such purpose. This fair warning particularly refers to females attired in high heels during the evening hours.

The participating members of "operations grass-seed" may well be proud and pleased to have aided in the betterment, well-being and beauty of the campus. Let's hope the stuff comes up next year.

Crown and Lance, meeting at Lennox last Monday, worked out a social program planned with emphasis on All-College functions. Al Schoenfeld was elected Winter Carnival chairman; Ed Spann, dance chairman; Bill Smith, homecoming float, and Jerry Swanson, publicity. Social chairman is Bill Murray.

Jim Harrison, athletic chairman, is extending the Crown and Lance participation in intramural sports to include all unaffiliated men on campus. In this way every student who wants to will have a chance at sports participation.

AWS "Sneak Preview" Of Campus Activities

Early last spring plans were drawn up for the 1949 A.W.S. "Sneak Preview" (formerly called "Success Course" and "Buzzbees"). The A.W.S.'s idea was to acquaint the freshmen and transfer students with the profs who were present, and to clear up any problems and questions concerning academic life. The informal gatherings were held in the dorms of the freshmen with two professors at each dorm. Dr. Worner and John White went to Bemis, Miss Ellis and Miss Donaldson were at Ticknor, McGregor was hostess to "Chief" Tyree and Mr. McCue, and Montgomery welcomed Miss Truax and Dr. Ericcson.

The six freshmen from Loomis attended the Montgomery meeting

Been Some Changes

During the summer months and prior to the opening of the fall semester the Kappa Sigs wielded a lot of paint brushes. The chapter house has been completely repainted inside with new light fixtures installed in all of the rooms, and a beautiful, new crested linoleum flooring has been laidin the main entrance of the house. In addition new furniture has been added and is being placed in the living rooms and card room.

A new neon sign has been placed on the gable of the Kappa Sig house which with its bright scarlet and green colors tells any passerby who can read Greek that 911 North Nevada Avenue is the site of Kappa Sigma Fraternity. The sign was a gift of an alumni.

Just a week from this Saturday the social season at CC will really hit its stride. The BIG event is the TIGER-NUGGET dance which is formal, and that means that all of the college crowd will be sporting their finest. If you don't have the proper attire for such an affair I would like to suggest that you get down to Perkins-Shearer and look over their fine selection of Varsity-Town tuxes.

Gals, you too can find many interesting items which will aid you in snaring that male you've had your eye on for the last two weeks. If you have any questions about the proper bait for your trap just ask JOAN METZLER who is your representative.

Gollier's Sports Editor Selects Pre-Season All-America Gridiron Team

In Collier's preseason All-America Eleven selected this week by Francis Wallace in his 10th annual football preview, Notre Dame bead the list of the 20 teams expected to lead all other squads in the nation.

If that statement doesn't shake a few gridirons, Wallace opines, then this order of the top teams may cause a few verbal skirmishes before the season officially opens. Granting the Irish to be the Number One club, Wallace foresees the following lineup:

2—Oklahoma, 10 wins, no losses.
3—Cornell 9-0
4—Michigan 8-1
5—Tulane 9-1
6—Sauthern Methodist 9-1

Tiger Crew In High Spirits for Saturday Game—

Being completely contented with the result of the decisive win over Kansas Wesleyan last week the C. C. Tigers look to the grid future with great prospects of enjoying an excellent season. Coach Al Binns is now ready to show the C.C. fans that he has a group of boys who possess the desire and determination to play football. As the situation now stands every member of the Tiger squad is fighting for a first string position and with this added incentive don't be surprised if you find several new faces in the C.C. lineup when the Tigers kickoff against Idaho State at Pocatello Saturday afternoon. However, the Idaho State Bengals are up for this game mainly because it will be their Homecoming tussle nd the Pocatello aggregation does not plan to spoil the spirited feelings of the thousands of alumni who will be on hand for this all important game.

Tiger "C" Club To Be Reactivated—

Thru the able cooperation and hard work of Coach Cheddy Thompson the Colorado College "C" club will be reactivated in the near future. In previous years the "C" club was a very active organization on the C.C. campus but since the most recent war the "C" club has fallen apart considerably. The purpose of a letterman's club is to promote a better feeling and closer relationships between the student body and the athletic department in that particular school. The lettermen club also assists in carrying out an efficient athletic program in the school.

C.C. Football Preview To Be Broadcast Over KRDO—

Each week for the remainder of the football season radio station KRDO will hold a C.C. "Personal Football Interview" direct from the office of Coach Allison Binns. Coach Binns and KRDO Sports Director Bill Ceary wil be on the air tonight at 6:30, to give out the highlights of this Saturday's game with Idaho State.

Mines To Be Real Contenders for R.M.C. Title—

The Colorado School of Mines gridders gave notice last week that they will be in the thick of the battle for the 1949 Rocky Mountain Conference football championship. The Orediggers upset the previous two year title holders Colorado State 12-0 last Saturday. Don't be surprised if the C.C.-Mines game to be played here on Nov. 19 isn't the deciding game for the conference title.

As for bowl prospects, the expert forecaster peered into his own private bowl and came up with the following New Year's afternoon fare:

Rose Bowl—Southern California vs. Minnesota.

Sugar Bowl—Oklahoma vs. Tulane.

Cotton Bowl—Southern Methodist vs. Tennessee.

Orange Bowl—Mississippi vs. North Carolina.

SMU's Dean Walker is chosen as back of the year, thereby annexing one of the backfield posts on Collier's preseason All-America eleven. His backfield mates: Charlie Justice of North Carolina; Art Murakowski, Northwestern, and Eddie Price, Tulane.

Up front is the All-America line of Owens, Oklahoma, and Hart, Norte Dame, ends; Wistert, Michigan, and Houston, Harvard, tackles; Nomellini, Minnesota, and Crawford, Mississippi, guards; and Tonnemaker, Minnesota, centering the line.

Chosen as coach of the year before proven is Madison Bell of SMU, Leon Hart of Notre Dame will be lieman of the year, Wallace figures, with Vic Janowicz of Ohio State and Bob Toneff, soph back and soph lineman respectively of the year.

Looking out across the nation, Wallace comes up with these regional choices:

The East—Cornell to win nine, lose none . . . Army close behind with eight victories, one defeat . . . undefeated (in 28 games) Wesleyan to remain that way . . . Dartmouth to lose only on, surprising . . . Harvard to take six, lose three . . . strong Brown, 7-2, the same rating as Penn State's . . . both Temple and Georgetown to lose six games . . . Navy, four wins five losses, as Wallace sees it . . . and Lord Jeffrey, Amherst to have a so-so season, five winners, three losers.

And in the South—North Carolina, with Charlie Justice, to have eight games on the plus side, two losses . . . Wake Forest and Virginia, each 6-3, Virginia Tech to suffer the miseries with two wins, seven losses; North Carolina State to split, 5-5 . . . and Duke and Clemson to end alike in the win-loss column, 6-3.

East of South — Collier's and Wallace see proud Tennessee on top, fumbling away only one, winning nine . . . and Ole' Miss ending the same way . . . Georgia close, 9-2, and Georgia Tech chugging along, dropping seven,, losing three. Doormats: Auburn and Mississippi State, each eking out one win, losing eight. Fair Alabama: seven to the good, three not to be discussed at season's end.

Southwest—SMU — Walker and Bell—nine wins, one defeat . . . Texas and Tevas Christian in the same ring, 8-2; Texas Aggies, 3-7 . . . little known Tempe, a surprising 6-3 record expected.

Missouri Valley — rough Oklahoma, to be undefeated . . . Missouri and aKnsas, each winning seven and losing three . . . Oklahoma Aggies, 6-4 . . . Nebraska 4-5, Colorado and Iowa State, the same . . . Tulsa, 4-6 . . . but Kansas State, 2-8.

In the Rocky Mountains—Utah and Denver to tie with eight victories, two losses; Colorado Aggies, 7-3; Wyoming, 6-4; Utah State, 5-5; Colorado College, 5-4; . . . expected to also run: Colorado Mines, 3-6.

Middle West — Notre Dame, enough said . . . Michigan to be Conference champ, with an 8-1 record . . . Northwestern to lose only one, too, a close second to Michigan . . . Minnesota and always eager Michigan State, 7-2; Ohio State and Illinois, each fin-

Frosh Gridders Open At La Junta J.C. Sat.

For the past two weeks twenty-five aspirants have been working out under the careful eye of coaches John Duggan, Ronnie Ivan, and Dale Drummond, in preparation for their opening game with La Junta Junior College at La Junta this Saturday.

There are no standout players this year but Dave Fletcher at quarterback, Wes Boucher at fullback, Dan Linger at tackle, and Wally Prebis at end have been looking good in practice. The coaches and the players have been handicapped these past couple of days because there are only about eighteen or twenty men out for practice, the rest either having quit the squad or are out with injuries. Only serious injury so far is a sprained ankle that Phil St. Alban received last week but he should be able to go before to soon.

Tigers Overpower Kansas Wesleyan 34-7 for First Victory of Current Grid Season

By JOE HOLMES

The Colorado College Tigers showed that their near upset victory over Colorado Aggies was no accident as they trounced Kansas Wesleyan 34-7, in a game that saw virtually all the Tiger reserves in action. C.C. demonstrated from the opening minutes that it was their ball game although two early drives folded inside the Kansas 20 yard line. The third attempt, however, proved to be a charm and John Crumely climaxed the drive with a brilliant run around his own left end for twenty-five yards and the first score of the game. Ed "Humphrey" Kohlmeier's try for the extra point was wide.

A Crumley to Carson aerial set-up the second C.C. touch down with Bruce, aided by some terrific donwfield blocking, making his way down the sidelines for 42 yards. On the next play Carson went over from the five for six more points.

Kohlmeier converted and C.C. took a 13-0 lead.

Lightning struck once more in the first half in the form of a full-back Mark Kochevar, who went around his own right end, fought his way through half the Kansas team and scored the Tiger third touchdown on a beautiful 47-yard run. Kohlmeier again converted to make the half time score 20-0.

The Bengals seemed to take it easy in the third period showing nothing spectacular on offense and leaving several defensive holes for the eager coyote back to hit. Recovery of a Tiger fumble on the 48 yard line paved the way for the only Kansas score. The coyotes moved to the C.C. 25 as the quarter ended. On the first play of the final frame aKnsas halfback, Bill Martin, passed to Bob Craig to spoil a perfect evening for the Tigers.

C.C. came right back however and Glen "Socko" Scarcia drove over from the six for the Bengals fourth tally. Scarcia showed many of the fans that size is not the most important attribute of a football player. His brilliant play both on offense and defense was quite pleasing to coaches as well as spectators.

The final C.C. tally came in the fourth quarter when Andre Gambucci went off his right tackle, outran the secondary and went over standing up. Not one of the Kansas players layed a hand on the speed merchant from Eveleth, Minnesota.

Highlight of the fourth quarter was several long passes by Bob Jones, sub quarterback. Which the ends were unable to hold. It looks like Bob will be ready to step into Crumley's shoes whenever needed.

The Tiger team travels to Pocatello next Saturday to play a highly touted Idaho State eleven. If C.C. is ready they should have another victory to their credit. Idaho wil be tough, however, and the game will certainly be close. C.C. tied Idaho State last year and beat them in '45. The boys from Pocatello really want to win this as next year they will be a sixth member of the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Standout Tiger Ball Carrier — Bruce Carson, speedy halfback for the C.C. Tigers has been playing outstanding ball in the Bengals' quest for a winning season. Bruce transferred to C.C. from Dartmouth last year and played sensational ball on the Dartmouth frosh eleven. He will probably start at the left halfback spot against Idaho State Saturday afternoon at Pocatello.

TIGERS GUNNING FOR SECOND STRAIGHT WIN AT POCATELLO

After emerging victorious over a heavy Kansas Wesleyan eleven last week for their first win of the season the high geared Colorado College Tigers will be seeking victory number two when they trek to Pocatello, Idaho to oppose the Idaho State Bengals.

C.C. mentor Allison Binns was well pleased of the performance of his Tiger gridders as they trounced the Kansas Wesleyan cleven 34-7 last weekend. Coach Binns has had the Tiger gridders in heavy contact work plus several long scrimmages all week with a tapering off drill climaxing the week practice today.

C.C. tied Idaho State 13-13 last season and the Staters have a veteran team returning this season. The Pocatello eleven suffered a 47-13 defeat at the hands of the University of Wyoming in their opening game but last week State came back to down College of Idaho 20-12.

Idaho Coach Johnny Vesser has one of the outstanding backs in the region in Jake La Rue, speedy half back who scored eight touchdowns last season, one a 99-yard run against Colorado College. He was honored as the best all-around athlete at Idaho State last year. Two other sensational backs on the Idaho State squad are Jay Paris, quarterback and Art Lepore, halfback, both of these lads are hard running backs with Paris tabbed as a great passer.

The Tiger starting line up against Idaho will probably include Hal Beile and Doug Van Metre at the ends, John Purcell and Dave Oatman at the guard slots with Glenn Blagg and George Wester at the tackles. Gary Lewis is slated to start at the pivot post and John Curmley operating from the quarterback spot. Bruce Carson and Dwight Brothers will man the halfback posts with Mark Kochevar holding down the tail back spot.

The C.C. Tigers 35 man traveling squad will leave Cossitt Hall at 12:30 p. m. by bus for Pocatello Friday afternoon with game time scheduled for Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

Atmosphere of Intolerance and Hatred Still Exist in Europe

By KARL KLEMM

Ed note—This article was written by Karl Klemm who is the German student attending Colorado College this fall with the aid of the Student Council and other organizations on the campus.

Having been asked to write an article about my impressions of this country I will have to start by making a similar statement as Phillipp Hersent did in the last TIGER. I have not been here long enough to be able to form a definite, rounded up opinion of the many positive and the few negative impressions I have had so far. Therefore I will only give you certain segments, which will have to be supplemented, amended, and put together during the year I may spend here.

First of all I would like to take this opportunity, however, to express to all students of Colorado College and particularly to Bill Pfeiffer and Jim Kinder as well as to the members of the College Administration my sincere appreciation for all they have done to make this wonderful experience possible for me.

Coming to the United States I am particularly happy to be one of the few Germans who are fortunate enough to escape the atmosphere of hatred and intolerance, which still exists in Europe to a considerable extent, for some time and to be able to live among you people, who do not judge a man by his age, his political and religious beliefs and his nationality, but only by his character, his personality and his knowledge. The true, sincere, and cordial understanding, which I found in this country, is one of the greatest experiences I ever had. After I had been on this campus for merely three days I felt as if I had known most of the American students for years. I found that most of you people do not make the serious and dangerous mistake of a generalization, in that you know there is a big difference between the real German and the Nazi indoctrinated one. This knowledge is very important for me, because it shows that there is a common basis upon which the American and the German students can work together for the benefit of both countries.

As far as your educational system in comparison to the European methods is concerned, I can only add a few things to Phil Hersent's statements. I think that the students of an American college feel much more like one big family and that they have more social contact with each other, than the students in Europe. Partly this is the result of the fact that you live right on the campus in your dormitories, and fraternity and sorority houses, while there are no such things in most European universities. On the other hand, however, it seems to me that you people have much more sincere and friendly, one could almost say brotherly, interest in each other than European students, who merely consider each other competitors for good grades during their university years and for a job after their graduation. In my opinion your system of close relationship makes the college years more of a really valuable, personality forming experience for the students than in Europe, where all one can achieve is an increased and specialized knowledge.

Another factor, which seems to make your college years more profitable and successful for you, definitely is your very close and sincere relationship to the professors. In Europe a university professor is a highly respected and almost feared person, and everybody tries to avoid getting in contact with him, while you talk things over with your instructors and get most problems solved that way.

Another valuable practice in your educational system is the frequent discussions, which are not so common at German universities at the present time. A discussion, which gives everybody a chance to express his viewpoint and to agree or disagree with the others, is in my opinion the best way to get everybody to really think over a certain subject, to strengthen one's selfconfidence, and to find out something about the fellow-student. Discussions of this type, which I had the opportunity to watch here, also seemed to me like a vivid demonstration of your democratic ideologies in so far as everybody respects the other person's opinion, no matter how heated the argument may be; and this respect for the other man's opinion is the important factor, which still lacks in Europe. I honestly hope that many European students will have a chance to visit this wonderful country during the years to come and find out about this attitude of respect for the other man's opinion, which make Democracy work. I hope that they will take all these ideas back to Europe with them, just as I am going to do, in order to use them over there in an attempt to achieve better neighborly relations and mutual understanding among the European people and to prevent another war.

By WALT SWEET

There is upon our campus a building whose use has been (until this year) somewhat vague to me. Although I am still somewhat confused as to its intended function, I am now very well versed in what actually goes on there.

Having registered myself for several innocent sounding courses, I suddenly found that extensive use of the Library was to be my happy lot. Waiting for the cover of darkness so that I wouldn't run the risk of seeming eager, I bounded for South campus, anxious to soak myself in this academic light. Entering the main reading room, I paused in awe at the sight of the austere tiers of dusty volumes. Here, at last, was knowledge! After a hasty search through the X's, I found the object of my search (The American Alphabet Annual) and retired to the obscurity of a far corner to thumb its treasured pages. After a few moments of careful concentration, I began to sense that things were not as they should be. Through the open windows wafted the gentle strains of the Anvil Chorus (sung by a full male quartet, accompanied by twelve small boys beating on snowshovels.). I will not soon forget that shock. Readjusting my bulging eardrums, I sought out another nook as far away from the place of my previous torture as possible. Finding my place again, I settled in comfort to read my lesson. But I was not to be long in peace. Heavy footsteps in increasing number, ran up and down behind me. Somewhere in the distance a door banged, and the raucous laughter of the Tuesday Evening Gin and Beer Club (which was meeting in the looby) distracted my frazzled attention. In disordered retreat, I fled to the stacks. There, in the deepest, mustiest corner, I again marshalled my thoughts and returned to my studies. After several long, uninterrupted minutes here, my senses detected the far-off ringing of a bell, and the scraping of many chairs. Only until I had been plunged into the total darkness did I realize the full meaning of this. The Library was closing.

At the risk of being serious (a damnable thing nowdays), it might be well to point out that there are certain unfortunates among us whose hard lot it is to have to use the materials of the Library . . . while at the Library! Certainly there are other places on our campus where the daily gossip and backbiting organizations can hold their meetings. Concentration on some of the academic bilge we are reading would be hard enough in a diving-bell at the bottom of the Dead Sea, let alone in the organized mayhem of our Library. Think it over, willya, huh?

Philosophers to Hold Meetings on October 13 to 15

The annual meeting of the Mountain - Plains Philosophical Conference will be held on the C.C. campus from Thursday evening through Saturday noon, Oct. 13-15.

The Philosophical Conference is composed of professors of philosophy in the Rocky Mountain states and adjoining states to the East. This will be the third meeting of the group, the University of Denver and the University of Colorado having previously played host to the conference. Dr. J. Glen Gray, of the C.C. philosophy department, is on the executive committee and acting as secretary for the Conference. The general subject for the two-day conference is "Relations between Theory and Practice." Four papers will be read by prominent professors and will be followed by extended discussion. The group has been invited by the College to tea at the Faculty Club to meet President Gill and other officials of Colorado College on Friday afternoon, prior to a conference dinner to be served at the Swiss Chalet.

Interested students and faculty members are invited to attend single sessions of the Conference, provided they are to stay thruout the session. Meetings will be held in Cossitt Hall all day Friday and Saturday morning.

FAC Sponsors Five Exhibits This October

Three widely distinct types of art and two schools of photography will be on exhibit this month at the Fine Arts Center. Classic art will be represented in the first presentation in Colorado Springs of the deposit collections from the New York Metropolitan Museum. Modern art will be shown in the drawings of Rico Lebrun, who will be remembered as a visiting instructor in the Fine Arts Center school. The present collection of his drawings is being circulated by the National Federation of Art.

What one modern American artist is doing both tin paints and sculpture will be presented in the one-man show of Morgan Wagner, one of Colorado Springs' own.

The third type of art is the Indian pottery of the Southwest, from the permanent collection of the Taylor Museum. This includes cooking vessels, water and grain storage vessels and ceremonial vessels.

I.W.A. Picnic to Be Held Monday Night

A real weiner roast with all the trimmings will be held Monday night in place of a regular I.W.A. meeting. All unaffiliated women are urged to attend. Meet at Bemis at 6:00. The price is 25c and a good time is promised for all.

Joan Tutin has been chosen as the I.W.A.'s candidate for Miss C.C. for the Tiger-Nugget dance. Jackie Van Valin will represent the group as their candidate for homecoming queen. Plans being completed for the homecoming float and anyone interested in helping with it is urged to contact Lyn Aldrich.

The widely acclaimed stream-of-consciousness photgraphy of Kathleen and Vladimir Telberg von-Telcheim, hung in the East gallery, will contrast with the conventional photography of the Annual Exhibition of the Pikes Peak Camera Club, which will be shown in the corridor from Oct. 10-30.

Gallery talks will be given Oct. 6 at 8 p. m. and Oct. 9 at 3:30 by Fred Bartlett, curator of painting, Oct. 16 on the camera exhibits by L. H. Benschneider, and Oct. 23, on the pottery exhibit by W. S. Stallings, Jr.

LEON LESTER, who retired as custodian at Perkins Hall, Friday, after 43 years of service to C.C., is pictured receiving a college flag from Pres. Wm. H. Gill. Lester set an all-time record for service rendered either by faculty administration or employes. He was also awarded a cash gift from the college, a special gift from the C.C. Music Department, and a lifetime pass to all Colorado College football games.

A lady bought a parrot from a pet store only to learn that it cussed every time it said anything. She put up with it as long as she could, but finally one day she lost her patience.

"If I ever hear you curse again," she declared, "I'll wring your neck."

A few minutes later she remarked rather casually that it was a fine day. Whereupon the parrot said, "It's a hell of a fine day today."

The lady picked up the parrot by the head and spun him around in the air until he was almost dead.

"Now then," she said, "It's a fine day today, isn't it?"

"Fine day?" sputtered the parrot, "Fine day? where the hell were you when the cyclone struck?"

Hi Gals! After the introduction Bob Blackburn gave me last week I find myself a little dubious. I am not so sure that I need to recommend the proper bait to trap that man, but maybe I do need to help you with those shopping problems you may have. The Perkins-Shearer Town and Country Shop has just the clothes for you, styled to please your slightest whim for activities on and off the campus. Look your smartest and and be comfortable in outfits made just for you, then you won't have to trap that man. He'll be following you.

First Debate Will Be at Colorado U. November 18, 19

Debate at Colorado College is now in full swing. With two meetings already held and information from many sources being compiled by members of the team, the CC debate group, under the direction of Mr. David Hart, is preparing for its first meet. This will be the Fifth Annual Colorado Invitational Forensic meet to be held at the University of Colorado on Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19. This year's question; "resolved that the United States should nationalize all basic non-agriculture products," promises to be one of the hardest questions ever debated in college circles. Colorado College will rest its hopes on Bill Barton (student manager), Jim Bowers, Auborn Benton, Jim Caywood, Byron Crain, William Grote, Harvey Hamilton (recording secretary), Chuck Hover, Hawk Mills, and Tom Ross.

Bill Barton and Bill Grote have debated for three years and Jim Caywood and Crain have spent two years on the team. Colorado College is a member of the Colorado-Wyoming Forensic league.

By MARY RIBLE

Another week has come and gone and it has brought with it the first snowfall on the Peak. Already our ski enthusiasts have begun to plan and save for their first ski trip of the season. The delightful aroma of ski wax has begun to fill the dorm. There is something a bit inconsistant about the wearing of shorts while waxing skis but there is no accounting for them what ski.

Sunday night the Sigma Chis and the Canterbury Club both chose Bemis Commons as their assembling spot before departing for their various social functions. This led to a great deal of confusion as to who belonged to which group. Perhaps in the future it might be wise to have all participants wear a large sign on their back stating who they are and where they are going.

Duck Nichols seems to be worried about the morals of the C. C. student body. She has, however, enlisted the aid of the Pilgrim Tract Society and now has a tract to explain the evils of practically any vice found on the C. C. campus. Anyone interested in this cause should consult Duck. She'd be glad to have aid in this crusade.

For democracy in action one should visit the history of the early west class. While electing their representative to the Honor Council they ran into a bit of trouble. Although there are only 25 in the class every election seemed to find between 28 to 31 votes cast. After five separate elections with much campaigning between the rural and urban factions a representative was finally chosen. Just who this might be no one seems to know but we can all be sure it was not a result of hasty judgment.

Switching to social matters we find that Bob Garrison and Dian Slocum are now engaged. Jim Harrison has given his pin to Pat Paterson while Archie Borman is now wearing Walt Rebmann's pin.

Elly Ebersole waited in vain for the Phi Delts to come and serenade. Unfortunately for Elly the pledges chose that night to pull a sneak. From all reports it was a most busy night for the actives and the pledges.

The sleepy looks on the faces of the Gamma Phis are due to their early arising to celebrate the beginning of the Gamma Phi Beta, or as it is commonly called Hell Week. This festivity is being held in honor of Donna Wolf and Bev Curless. Cheer up kids, it will only last a few days.

New Organization for Potential Rock Climbers

There is a new sport coming to Colorado College, a noncompetitive sport in which anyone, men or women, may take part. It is the thrilling, challanging sport of "rock climbing." Immediately to the mind of most people comes a vivid picture of a couple of foolhardy souls in the air, dangling precariously, ready to fall thousands of feet at any moment. Thus has rock climbing been sensationalized by fiction and Life magazine and the like, until it has come to be considered one of the most danger us pursuits possible. The author having done quite a lo. of climbing, can remember going to place that would not have been safe for your grandmother. In any case, the CC Mountain Club will start its Fall rock school next Sunday, October 9. It is especially intended for those who have never been further off the ground than a stool in Jay's; however all are invited.

Tonight, October 6, at 7:30 p. m., there will be a meeting of all present and prospective members in room 101, Palmer Hall. If you are unable to attend this meeting and should wish to go on Sunday, please contact either Virginia Parker or Bob Crabb so that we may be able to include you in our plans.

Get behind another of your school activities; join the CC Mountaineer Club!

Sigma Chi Pledge Party on Saturday

The Sigma Chi pledge party of last Saturday night was highlighted by several songs from a barbershop quartette consisting of Pete Tyree, John Codman, Jim Bowers and Beau Siebert.

This party, given in honor of the new pledges, was held at the Sigma Chi house, with dancing and scores of refreshments making up a midnight "snack." Telegrams, courtesy of Ron Sheflin, from various organizations in various parts of the country covered the walls and served in both an informative and a decorative manner.

Broome to Address The Channing Club

A discussion will follow the address.

Channing Club is planning a social and an inter-faith and intercultural program for the winter. All students and their friends are invited to attend.

Pledges Feted at Acacia Silver Room

The Silver Room of the Acacia Hotel was the scene of a gala celebration last Saturday night as members of Phi Delta Theta honored their new pledges with a dance. Music was furnished by Floyd Frame, well-known Colorado Springs combo. Novel dance programs resembling a Phi Delt pledge pin and containing the pledges' name were given each guest.

Serving as chaperones were Mr. Robert J. Simock, Mr. Paul Jones and the Phi Delt housemother, Mom Brusse.

Fifteen Initiated Into the Growlers

Fifteen men were initiated into the Growlers this past week from five fraternities and the Independent men. From Kappa Sigma they are Jim Hill, "Speed" Nelms, Stan Hasty; Phi Gamma Delta, Bob Dern, Chuck Hover, Al Strand; Sigma Chi, Pat Gormley; Phi Delta Theta, Bill Hamilton, Carl Rinker, Dino Theodora, Tom Dickson, Bob Leavitt; Independent Men, Walker Wheeler, Bob Finch and Howard Smith.

The quotas from each organization are arranged to give each a total of ten men in the Growlers. Dwight Hamilton is president.

Canterbury Club

In formality with heavy stress on the "come-as-you-are" feeling will be the keynote of the next meeting of the Canterbury Club, Sunday, at 6 p. m. That is the word from the officers and committees of the organization, sponsored by Grace church.

Starting off with a buffet supper in the parish house, the group will keep its informal air by not adhering to a cut-and-dried program. Instead, several members of the club will serve as hosts to students of the college, including unaffiliated students as well as Episcopal, and to some prominent citizen of Colorado Springs, who during the coffee hour, will discuss with the students some currently interesting subject. Following the discussion, a short devotional period will be held.

Because Sunday evening is commonly a busy evening for most students, the club hosts are anxious for those attending to feel free in coming as they are and whenever they can conveniently do so, and to feel free no obligation for staying for the entire evening.

Tigers Drop 28-6 Verdict to Idaho State

By JOE HOLMES

Well some days you have it and some days you don't. Last Saturday in Pocatello the Tigers didn't and Idaho State trimmed the visitors 28-6 to make for a happy Homecoming. Nothing seemed to work for the Binnsmen as they fell behind 14-0 at the half and never seriously threatened after the first few minutes of the opening quarter.

Mark Kochevar looked good in the opening quarter with some fine brokenfield running. Taking an Idaho State punt on bis own 20-yard line he twisted himself down the sidelines to the Idaho 20 before being hauled down from behind by Leo Setti. From this point on the Tigers couldn't seem to get going. None of their well-rehearsed plays worked too well and time and again C.C. was forced to kick after a series of downs. After their opening drive faltered C.C. showed very little of their vaunted offense until late in the third period. Sparked by the brilliant passing combination of Bob Jones and "Spider" Kensinger along with some fine running by Glenn Scarcia and Andre Gambucci the Tigers were finally able to score early in the last period. The touchdown came on a pass from Jones to Kensinger. Ed Kohlmeier's try for the extra point was wide.

Although Jake LaRue, highly touted I.S.C. speedster, who was slated to run all over C.C., was held with little gain, the Bengals from Idaho had a couple of hard running back to step into his shoes. A 56-yard drive late in the second period was climaxed by a thirty-one yard touchdown run by Jack Frisch, as he shook off three would-be C.C. tacklers.

Then with less than a minute left to play in the first half, Jay Paris dropped a nice pass into the waiting arms of LaRue who was all alone in the end zone. The score at the end of the first half, Idaho State 14, C.C. 0.

Idaho didn't slow down in the third period and got their third tally early in that quarter on a short pass over the middle. A fumble on his own 20 by Joe Holmes set up the final score for Idaho witb Jay Paris going over for the score.

The Tigers have an open date this week and then journey to Greeley on the 15th to play Colorado State.

Bengal Frosh Gridders Bow to La Junta J. C.

Two touchdowns in the third period gave the La Junta Junior College team an 18-6 victory Saturday night over the Colorado College freshman eleven in a game played at the winner's field.

Both clubs scored in the first period, but La Junta controlled the ball during most of the second half to chalk up its victory.

After La Junta scored on a Driscoll to Burton pass, CC countered with Young firing a scoring pass to Prebis.

In the third quarter, Brubaker went six yards for the second La Junta score andWood then traveled 62 yards for the final tally.

A passing flurry saw the Tiger Cubs move 50 yards in the final period before they lost the ball on downs on the La Junta 10 yard stripe.

Ghouls - Hags Clash On Gridiron Sunday

This Sunday at 2 p. m., the Gregg House Ghouls and the Howbert Hags will meet on Colburn Library field for the second in an annual series of female football games. Co-coaches Preston and Robinson believe their ball club will make protest well against this new development.

Everyone is invited to the game and no admission will be charged. The defeated team will furnish refreshments in a party for the victors after the game.

Fijis; Phi Delts; Kappa Sigs Win Opening I-M Tilts

By JIM PETERSON

As a result of last week's intramural play the Kappa Sigs, Phi Gams and Phi Delts came thru with wins to put them on top in the intramural league. The scrappy defending csampions, Fijis defeated the Sigma Chis by a 31 to 6 margin. The Phi Gams took the lead early in the game and were never pressed from then on. Chuck Smeeth along with Warren Arter sparked the winners all the way. At the same time on Stewart Field the Phi Delts whipped the Independent aggregation to the tune of 19-0. The Phi Delts were last years runner-ups to top honors and are in prime condition. The Betas were handed their first defeat of the seasoin by the powerful Kappa Sig seven. The Kappa Sigs were paced by Carl Lipp, Bill Harley and Bill McDonald as they racked up 31 points against the Betas 22.

Yesterday on Perkins field the Phi Delts clashed with the sporty Sigma Chi outfit. Results were not available at time of publication. Tomorrow will be kick off time for the Kappa Sigma, Independent battle and Phi Gam, Beta Tussle. The Phi Gams will meet the Betas on Stewart field while the Independents face the Kappa Sigs on Perkins field. Both games will start at 4:05 p. m.

NEW RATES FOR C.C. STUDENTS AT PATTY JEWETT COUNTRY CLUB

Patty Jewett Country Club has set up new rates for the fall semester for all C.C. students who are interested in playing golf this fall. The entire rate for the whole semester is $10.00. This is good until February 1st. The time of play is unrestricted and green fees are $1.00 for a weekend and 25 cents for a week day.

Tiger Cubs to Oppose Mountaineers Saturday At Washburn Field

Since the C.C. Varsity gridders are idle this weekend the Tiger freshmen eleven will share the limelight on the C.C. gridiron by playing host to the Camp Carson Mountaineers at Washburn field Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m.

The Bengal Cubs suffered a 18-6 defeat in their initial start against La Junta Junior College at La Junta last Saturday.

Coach Ron Ivan has been working for over three weeks with his Frosh charges and the big problem facing the Frosh mentor is lack of reserve strength. The yearlings squad number to 21 and to 22 men and injuries have kept several of the key men on the sidelines.

Nevertheless the Cubs will be ready for action Saturday night and from all expectations the tussle promises to be a good one.

The Carson gridders suffered a defeat in their lone encounter with an Army Air Force team from Kansas. But last week the Mountaineers defeated the Colorado Mines frosh 12-0 at Camp Carson.

World Championships Ski Course Ready For Snow at Aspen

Downhill and slalom racing courses to be used in the 1950 World Ski Championships here February 13 to 18, are complete except for snow, which is due in plentiful fashion about the end of October. Leonard Woods, executive secretary of the Colorado Alpine races, made the announcement as final licks were put on the trails early this week. Sponsored by the Federation International de Ski (FIS), the World Championships are being held for the first time in history in the United States. Up to now, they have never gone beyond the boarders of Europe. Crack ski stars have been invited from 31 countries by the National Ski Association to participate in the 1950 Championships at Aspen and at Lake Placid, where the jumping and cross-country events will takeplace, Jan. 30 to Feb. 5.

The FIS World Championships courses at Aspen were designed by Dick Durrance, world-famous downhill skier. Durrance also supervised their construction . . . the tree clearing, the moving of "mountains" of dirt and rock. The courses not only meet the stringent racing requirements of the FIS but also provide maximum vantage points for spectators, Woods said. The Men's Downhill run, which is awesome even in the unsnowed state, has been newly cut from slightly above Midway, half-way mark on Aspen's two-mountain chairlift, longest in the world. This new FIS course streaks down the east side of Aspen Mountain to join the North American trail coming out of Tourtelotte Park. Continuing down tight Spar Gulch to swing out on a newly graded road, the Championships run falls into the steep finish of the North American. The Women's Downhill race will be set on breathtaking Silver Queen trail and will also finish on the North American.

Magnifico Cut-off, now doubled in width as a result of clearance and grading, will be the scene of all the slalom events. The slalom races will be run the first four days of Championships Week, under a new ruling by the FIS Council at its meeting in Oslo, Norway, last May.

This innovation in international racing was made to cut down possibilities of racers being knocked out of the Championships through the hazards of 80-mile-an-hour downhill racing . . . thus imparing the standings of the various countries.

Aspen's Lions Club contributed the costs of clearing new courses and revamping older runs as its share of the campaign now current in Colorado to raise $100,000 for the internationally famous races, which according to Adolph Coors III of Denver, chairman of the Colorado Finance Committee, will focus the attention of the world on Colorado's magnificent ski facilities.

Late Arrival May Have Hampered Tigers at Pocatello—

Although there are always reason for defeat in any athletic contest here is one that should not be overlooked in last Saturday's C.C.-Idaho State game at Pocatello, Idaho, when our Tigers went down to a 28-6 defeat. The Tigers departed from Colorado Springs Friday afternoon and boarded a late afternoon train in Denver for the long jaunt thru the Rocky Mountains and arrived in Pocatello three hours before game time. Without any rest whatsoever the Tigers proceeded from the railroad station to the locker room and quickly suited up for the game which got underway at 2:15. From my point of view this isn't the right policy to follow when a team travels so great a distance to play a football game. Last season when Idaho State played C.C. here the Pocatello eleven arrived in Colorado Springs six days before game time.

Mines, Team to Beat in R.M.C. Race—

Although the R.M.C. championship is a long ways from being won I definitely believe that the Colorado School of Mines eleven will be the team to beat for the conference title. The Miners trounced the South Dakota Miners 46-0 last week while Colorado State was setback by the University of South Dakota and C.C. was stopped by Idaho State. Friday night Mines plays host to Western State at Golden and I predict another win for the Orediggers. C.C. will be in quest for their first conference win on Oct. 15 when they meet Colorado State at Greeley and if the Tigers have any hope of taking the R.M.C. crown they must get by their rivals from Greeley.

This Column Not Intended to Abuse C.C. Sports—

Strange as it may seem every year it's almost a tradition that a novice college sports columnist should sound off on his pet theories and ideas and outline the great, broad policies that are supposed to lie behind his scribblings. But this column is not intended to live up to any of the above convictions. In other words, "I ain't mad at anybody." What I will try to do is to call the shots as I see them, and at times the editorial will be actually facts, as various members of the sports staff throw in their contributions. Whatever is said I hope it won't be taken so seriously as to bring any bricks tbrough the TIGER window. However, since this is the place for sports opinon that's what it will be and as fair and interesting as I can make it.

School for $1.25 Fred Kirby's Idea At History Club

A school with no class attendance requirements ,no exams until the end of the term, few assignments, and all for only a buck twenty-five! Pipe dreams? Not according to Fred Kirby. That was only part of the picture of university life that he painted for the History Club last Sunday.

With Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Malone as hosts, the club met at the Malone residence to hear Kirby and A. C. Robertson, a graduate student, discuss their adventures at European universities. Kirby , a senior, returned this summer from a year's study in Switzerland with tales of super-bureaucratic government and a desire to see more of Switzerland, while Robertson, working on his M.A. in history, told of his studies as a Rhodes scholar at Oxford where student life was closely controlled and where the students were somewhat expected to enter fully into the social life of the college.

The program, in addition to Kirby and Robertson, included a quick session of twenty questions on American historical characters (during which it took Dr. Worner six questions to guess his fellow Missourian, Mark Twain) and grand refreshments provided by the Malones.

The next meeting of the History Club is scheduled for Sunday, November 6. Ray Calhoun, club president, expects the program then to be equally entertaining

CC German Students Make Years Plans

Largely due to its nucleous of the four German-speaking exchange students now on campus, the C.C. German club is looking forward to its most successful year in history. Sponsored by Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, head of the German department, and directed by the department's new assistant, Chas. A. McKinley, the group has had two meetings thus far, both with attendance high above last year's.

At last night's session (attended by both students and interested town folk) Frank Kirby showed kodachrome slides taken during his trip to Switzerland last summer. With the four German students in the lead, such folk singing has never been heard hereabouts.

Immediate projects for the group include the formation of a German band and a folk dancing group. Both will be under the direction of Mr. McKinley.

According to Dr. Brandt, the meetings are open to all students who are interested in German language and customs, whether or not they are enrolled in German classes. The meetings are held every two weeks; the next one is scheduled for October 19th in the Hayes House library.

COLORADO COLLEGE | October 13, 1949 | NUMBER V

Jack Pfeiffer Tells of Preparations For Homecoming Weekend Oct. 21-22

C.C.'s best all-college Homecoming is nearer than you think! In fact the big weekend is Friday and Saturday, October 21 and 22. There will be no classes on these two days, to allow time for Homecoming preparation. Jack Pfeiffer, Homecoming chairman, has drawn up a memorandum. Here is an out-line in brief. Friday, Oct. 21, the C.C. Players will present "The Tavern" in Perkins Hall at 2:30 and 9:00 p. m. The performance will be free of charge.

The starting gun of the Homecoming celebration will be the chuck-wagon dinner in the Carden of the Cods at 6 p. m. After the dinner the winner of the house decorations will be announced and a pep rally held.

On Saturday morning at 9:00 a. m. all units will assemble at the Pearl Laundry for the grand parade. Next week be sure and check the TIGER for information concerning the correct stating order, the positions and the route of the parade. Fraternities, sororities, Independents and business firms will enter floats. Expenditures on these may not exceed $100. The floats must be completed by 6:00 p. m. Friday, Oct. 21. This is the absolute deadline.

The football game against Ft. Hayes will begin at 2 p. m. At the half time the floats will drive around the track and the winners will be announced. The annual cross-country race will also be held at this time.

At 5:00 p. m. fraternities and sororities will hold open house for the alumni.

The semi-formal, all-college and alumni dance will take place at 9:30 p. m. in the Crystal Room of the Alamo hotel. Vern Byers and his orchestra will play. Tickets will cost $1.50 a couple.

It will be a big weekend and the student body will have to go some to exceed last year's floats and decorations. Parents of students are encouraged to attend. Tickets for the various functions may be purchased, after Monday, at the secretary's office in Cutler Hall. Let's make this a Homecoming we'll never forget.

Homecoming Queen Candidates Chosen, Election Wednesday

The following girls have been selected as candidates for Homecoming Queen. Theta, Joyce Matthews; Kappa, Rosemary Johnson; Delta Gamma, Anne McCune; Gamma Phi, Carol Weigen; Independent Women, Jackie Van Valin.

This year, different from pervious years, every individual in college will have the opportunity to vote for one of the above mentioned girls as Homecoming Queen. The voting will take place in Palmer Hall, Wednesday, Oct. 19, from 10 to 12 a. m. and Thursday, Oct. 20 from 11 to 12 a. m. The queen's name will be announced at the Chuck-Wagon dinner and she will be given her crown in this western atmosphere.

BIG BLAST

CHEER FOR TEAM AT GREELEY

Ye-ole Growler ingenuity has made it possible for the major portion of the C. C. student body to attend Greeley's homecoming so—let's all board the C.C. bandwagon and head for Greeley and the "BIG BLAST" (self-interpreted), this Saturday. Everyone is anxious to make Greeley's homecoming as homeless as possible, so "what say" we not only send the Tigers off with a bang, but follow them right up to Greeley to help them rejoice in the victory that they will usurp from their foes.

Just think, you economists, you not only get a round trip, scenic ride for the absurdly low price of $3.25 (Only 32½ thin dimes), a guaranteed exciting football game complete with a lot of T. D.'s for C. C., plus a stunning array of brightly colored floats and house decorations, if we have sufficient support there will be opportunity to engage in the age-old tradition of a goal-post fight. If, for different reasons, you can not find the goal-posts, Greeley scalps will be accepted as momentos. Although the Growlers suggest that everyone is requested not to engage in "undue rowdiness." Anyone who must be released, by financial aid, from the local hoose-gow can expect to be visited by the Creen Flashlight Tonsorial Artists and their fate wll be determined accordingly.

DON'T FORGET:—There are only a limited amount of bus tickets remaining on sale every morning, Main Hall of Palmer so don't push but shove gently while getting yours;

BRING YOUR ACTIVITY BOOKS TO GREELEY—

Everyone turn out for the "ONE BIG MAD BLAST" and we will successfully show Greeley that C.C. is still on the map.

For those interested, the busses will have everyone back in time for any Sat. night activities already planned.

P. S.—Hairless Joe and Lonesome Polecat will have a special bateh of genuine Kickapoo joy juice mixed to aid the celebration. Look

Dean Broome To Reactivate Chapel Board

That the Chapel Board will be reactivated where the students will have the opportunity to express their desires and opinions of the Chapel service was the announcement made by Dr. Edwin C. Broome, Jr., Dean of Shove Memorial Chapel, Monday.

According to Dean Broome, the purpose of the board is to act between students and the Dean of Chapel, so that students will have a ready channel for expression of their ideas as to the kind of chapel service they feel is the most suitable.

Dean Broome said in regard to the chapel service, "The Chapel is a regular feature of the program of Colorado College, but within the framework of the College's policy regarding chapel, there is considerable room for the planning of a program which will meet the desires of the students.

A preliminary plan has been worked out where 12 students will be chosen as members of the board and will meet about once a month with Dean Broome, to determine and discuss various aspects of the chapel service.

By this arrangement students could make suggestions as to what the entire student body wants, or if any individual had a gripe, he could take it to a member of the board who in turn would bring it up at the monthly meetings.

It has not yet been determined by what method the board would be selected but it is believed that two members, a man and a woman student from each class would be elected or chosen to serve on the board. The remaining four members would probably be chosen from the four religious groups on the campus.

American Colleges Unlike Ones In Denmark, States Hans Bunch

ED NOTE—This article was written by Hans Bunch who is a Danish student attending Colorado College this fall with the aid of the student council and other organizations on the campus.

By HANS BUNCH

In Denmark it came as a great surprise to me, that I got the chance to go to the United States. I always have dreamed about seeing foreign countries, and on the 31st of July, I left Denmark.

On my way to the United States I visited Hamburg, Berlin and Paris. I had a great trip and after 12 days sailing with the S. S. Marine Tiger, I arrived in New York.

New York, what a town! I always thought that it was big, but that it was that big and marvelous I did not expect. Skyscrapers, millions of cars and all people in a hurry. I was in New York for 14 days, and in that time I got a little knowledge of the town with its fantastic Empire State building, Radio Music Hall, the Negro Quarter, Broadway, and so forth. I listened to the records, 45 minutes without changing. I saw television, and I was impressed by your radio programs. In Denmark we only have two stations and they play the same program. Over here you have about eight stations in every state.

On the first of September I left New York. On my way to Colorado, I stopped in Chicago. In Chicago I did not stay more than one day. There I saw the buildings around Lake Michigan, which were very nice.

On the third of September I arrived in Colorado Springs, and what a day. A beautiful town surrounded by wonderful mountains, beautiful very clean roads, very very nice houses, and kind people. Above all I think that the people in this town are remarkable, for I think that American traits are more apparent in Colorado than anywhere else.

The 13th of September I started at Colorado College, and it was harder for me than I expected. I have learned some English in Denmark, about three years, but I am sorry to say that I did not do enough work at the school. If I at that time would have known that I one day would be able to go to the U. S. A. I really would have done 10 times more work.

Colorado College is a very nice college in one of the most beautiful towns, I have seen in the U. S. A. Your way to educate the students in your schools over here, is very different from the way we use in Europe, especially in Denmark. The universities in Denmark are more difficult than here, I suppose. Work about six hours a day in school and then we have about four to six hours home work every day. It is very hard, and not all the students can take the pressure before an examination which is at the end of the school year. We do not have tests as you have. We only have examinations once a year. Now, as a matter of fact, I have much more trouble over here, than I had in Denmark because I have to listen very hard all the time. I hope very much that I will get along better in about two or three months. In Denmark we are not allowed to take notes as you do in class. But I think it really is a very good idea to do it. It allows you to remember much better and you can look your notes over when you are at home and get an idea of what the professor explained to you in class.

Your schools in U. S. A. have a great deal more outside activities than we have in European schools. I think that it is a good thing, and I would like to see more sports in our European system.

At last I want to say if any student of Colorado College ever should go to Denmark I always will be at their disposal in my home town, Copenhagen. Thanks for all of your help and kindness in this wonderful experience.

Walt's Fault

By WALT SWEET

With the approach of winter, and the long lean months of snow and ice, the thoughts of many students turn to finances. Now there are various ways that the ingenious can find to supplement this seasonal lack of folding green stuff, but it is especially for these stodgy souls whose imaginations are limited that this is written. It is not too early to begin casting about for some useful employment, and right here on our campus loom some huge untapped deposits. . . .waiting only for the hand of the resourceful.

For instance, success is surely determined for the thoughtful student that provides a reasonably priced gondola service to and from Palmer Hall in the springtime. Dress this up with singing gondoliers and a spot of color in the right places and the reserves of Fort Knox will fall to your feet. Necessity, they say, is the mother of all invention!

To the enterprising young student who supplies fur-lined underclothing (at a normal fee) to Coeds having wintertime classes in the temporary buildings on the campus, popularity and monetary reward is assured. The earmuff concession outside the doors of several cold-blooded professors' classes should also prove successful. (Earmuffs may serve a dual purpose on some of these occasions!)

Another large source of revenue in the springtime would be the renting of hip-boots to those unfortunate souls who must plod the treacherous pathways of these hallowed acres and an emergency service to rescue other belabored students who step into the snow-camouflaged depths of our arterial watering system. (Rumor has it that several unidentified bodies haev been found in these abyssal depths at the time of the spring thaws!)

The rental of large herds of cows and sheep, to be used as replacements for obviously dull or unused lawnmowers, should meet with wide acclaim. Of course, these animals are pretty fussy about what they eat . . . nuff said!

There are, of course, many other fields of new and unexploited possibilities. My advice to you that need these jobs is to get at them soon . . who knows when some hair-brained (but quite efficient) administrator will come along and in one fell-swoop of modernization, destroy all of these lucrative but quite traditional opportunities.

Winter Concert Series at Fine Arts Center to Open October 25

The winter concert series of the Fine Arts Center and Colorado College will give the music-loving audience of the city a chance to hear three distinguished concerts, said Mitchell Wilder, director, today. Although the tickets have been selling well, good seats are still available and the public is urged to make reservations as soon as possible.

Student tickets are available at a special price.

A piano recital by Jacques Abram will open the series Tuesday evening, Oct. 25th. Abram has an international reputation as one of the American pianists of front rank, despite his youth.

A spectacular career was interrupted in 1942 by the war, in which the young artist served with honor. Since his return from the army, he has crowded his New York seasons with tours of Central and South America, where he was acclaimed as among our foremost virtuosi.

In Mexico, too, he had triumph. After his appearance in the Palace of Fine Arts with the Symphony Orchestra of Mexico, important critics wrote, "An exceptionally notable artist who gave us an eloquent performance. We want to hear more of Abram and soon."

Colorado Springs will want to hear more of Abram, too, in the opinion of Miss Elizabeth Howbert, in charge of theater at the Center, and those who attend his concert this month will have an evening well spent, she believes.

Miss Rosalind Nadell, young and beautiful mezzo-soprano, will be the second presentation, on Jan. 5. Miss Nadell is that rare operatic artist who is at home in light opera as well. Four years ago she made her debut as Mercedes in "Carmen" with the New York City Opera Center company, and almost simultaneously took the hit part of June in the New Opera Company's Broadway production of "Helen Goes to Troy." Shortly after touring with the Chicago String Ensemble and singing a concert every night for two weeks, she had all Detroit raving about her in the title role of "Roberta," the part made famous by Tamera and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

Her more serious successes include a "first" performance of "La Citta Perduta" by the modern Italian composer, Guerini, with the Indianapolis Symphony last April, a premiere which caused lively interest in nation-wide musical circles.

Included in her schedule for this season is an engagement with the Rochester Philharmonic to sing in a performance of Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony."

The last concert of the series will present the famous French team of Pierre Bernac, baritone and Francis Poulenc, composer-pianist. This team has been acclaimed widely in this country in past seasons, and their tour which begins after the holidays is solidly booked, bringing them to Colorado Springs March 9. Poulenc will appear with the Boston Symphony orchestra in the first performance anywhere of his newest concerto for piano which he completed in September in France.

It's getting so it isn't safe to walk past Hag these days. Some society hating young man on third floor is waging a one man warfare on all passersbys by shooting them with his new water gun. Cynthia Milton had the misfortune to pass by Hag the other day and was most thoroughly drenched. Perhaps some sort of vigilante committee should be formed to protect the innocent bystander.

Gale George and Susan Weary are the new campus authorities on laundry matters. Thinking that wet wash meant unironed they sent a three weeks supply to be returned as wet wash. As a result they were forced to use every available clothes line and tree to dry all their laundry. It should be pointed out that wet wash means wet wash.

The recent fire drill held in Hayes House proved to be most unsuccessful due to the various professors refusing to leave the building and no one's understanding that Mr. McCue's beating a waste basket signified a fire drill.

Perhaps a fire captain should be appointed for each floor to facilitate an orderly exit from the building. At any rate as the last one was so poor another drill should be held in the near future.

The music department will hold its first interdepartmental football game this Sunday afternoon at 2:00 on Perkins field.

This game will be open to music department students and faculty with any other interested persons serving as substitutes or in the cheering section. The Neo-Romandetists will play the Neo-Classists under most unusual circumstances. The fifty yard line will be designated as the middle C with a first down being called an octive. The goal posts will represent the bass and treble cleff with the cheering section singing Georgian Chants in diminished canon and other cheers with the Strophic variation. Should there be rain water polo or pooh sticks will be played, and in case of snow there will be practice in bobsledding for the Aspen International. So regardless of the prevailing weather there will be some sort of athletic event. This is probably one of the most studious athletic events to be held on the C. C. campus and should be quite worthy of anyones time.

In the recently pinned department there is Pat Hollister who is now wearing Dick McCleary's Beta Pin. Leading the D. G. chapter in singing to Pat was Renee Raymond who started the group singing "Girl of Phi Gam." Let's get these things straight Rene.

As an example of serious academic work of a college level there is Barbara Simboli who is taking Group Work. As her field work in ths course she spends several hours a week teaching knitting, bridge and canasta at the YWCA. Things are tough all over.

Benefit Bridge-Canasta Party, Sigma Chi House

Those reserving tables will please bring their own cards and scores. Door prizes will be awarded and tea will be served at 4:00.

Barbie Lett Crowned "Miss C.C." at Dance

Lovely Barbara Lett, Kappa Kappa Gamma candidate, was voted to reign at the 1949-50 Miss Colorado College at the Tiger-Nugget dance last Saturday evening. Dean Adams crowned Barbara with a halo of colorful fall flowers and presented her with a gold loving cup.

Barbara is president of her sorority, president of Loomis Hall and a member of the Tiger club. She is also very active in the Pick and Pan Players; is a junior, majoring in English and her home is in Pueblo.

Her attendants were Lorie Wilkening of Elgin, Illinois, Button Elliot, Chicago, Barbara Anson, Kewanee, Illinois and Joanie Tutin of Boston, Mass.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Van Saun and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Broome.

"New Look" Program In Beta House Yard

You have probably noticed the new walk which adorns the front of the Beta house, inscribed with the Greek letters of Beta Theta Pi. It was due to the laborious work of the new pledges who worked all last Saturday to further improve the yard surrounding the house. Also included on this "new look" program is the clearing away of dead shrubs and the cutting down of the large tree which was rotting away near the side of the house. Next time you happen by the corner of Tejon and San Raphael stop, look around and see the difference.

With the same air of informality and general fellowship that made last Sunday's meeting a huge success, the Canterbury club will meet this Sunday evening at Grace Church to enjoy an evening of square dancing and another buffet supper, followed by a brief devotional service.

As before, all Episcopal students and other unaffiliated students are invited for the evening event beginning at six and informal discussion among the members.

Episcopal students from all the Colorado colleges and universities will converge on Grace Church Ranch, Thunderbird, this weekend for a two-day occupational conference.

Under the leadership of the Rev. "Pat" Patterson, of Colorado University, and the Rev. Walter Williams, of Denver, the Episcopal students, including those from Colorado College, will discuss the opportunities offered youth for various types of lay work within the structure of the Episcopal Church. Full information is available at Grace church, Monument and Tejon.

Trophy Lamps Given Kappa Sig Chapter

The Kappa Sigma Mother's and Wives Club last Thursday afternoon had their monthly meeting at the chapter house. Mother Haugh was hostess for the afternoon. The mesdames Jobe, Hutton, and MacDougall, mothers of three of the Denver pledges also attended the meeting. Another new member present was Mrs. Long of Colorado Springs.

The Mother's and Wive's Club presented two new lamps to the chapter this year. They are made from two large silver trophies the fraternity won a few years ago and make most unusual and attractive lamps.

The next meeting of the women will be a tea on November 3rd to entertain several invited guests.

President of WES Presents New Perkins Auditorium to Wm. Gill

At a luncheon meeting of the Women's Educational Society, at Bemis Hall Monday Miss Margaret Cook, president of the organization, presented to President William Gill, for the college, the newly renovated auditorium at Perkins Hall. The renovating represents an expenditure of $24,000, authorized by the board of the society and careful planning on the part of the project committee of the society and its advisors.

Miss Cook, in presiding at the meeting, first said, "It is a great pleasure to welcome the members and guests, old and new, and for the sake of prospective members, may I say the Society welcomes to membership any woman who is interested in the work of the Women's Educational Society. The Society was organized in 1889 by Mrs. William A. Slocum, first president, and has played a long and helpful role in the life of Colorado College. It is a living memorial to Mrs. Slocum. At the time of its organization its object was to build a dormitory for girls and to raise loan funds to help girls. The Woman's Educational Society built and furnished Montgomery Hall in 1891 and later raised money for the salary of a trained nurse for the college. Since then, the Society has given and equipped the infirmary and refurnished it three years ago. With a loan scholarship fund, it has given help to about 500 girls.

Turning to President Gill, she then said, "Today we are celebrating the 75th Anniversary and carrying on the tradition established by Mrs. Slocum, and the tradition of our childhood that birthdays mean gifts. We are presenting to you, President Gill, for the college, the modernized auditorium of Perkins Hall, not perfect, as was our dream, but we think, perfect in part. It represents many gifts and much work and thought on the part of the architect and the building committee and, we hope, will be of lasting use and pleasure to the college and the town for music, lectures, and dreams."

President Gill, in accepting the latest gift of the Woman's Educational Society to the college, on behalf of the entire college family thanked Miss Cook and all the members for their continuous and friendly generosity to Colorado College. "The modernization of the aduitorium of Perkins Hall has long been a must in our plans," he said. "You, Miss Cook, have spoken of this project as not perfect as was your dream. Let me say to you now that your dream was perfect. I am sure the use of this modernized auditorium

Pick and Pan to Give "The Tavern" Homecoming Week

The Pick and Pan Players are giving three performances of "The Tavern" in Perkins Hall during the Homecoming weekend.

The cast has not been chosen yet. Mr. Tyree will direct.

There are two marionette shows, one sponsored by the Junior League and the other by the Pick and Pan Players. The Players have given fourteen performances in eight schools at the rate of two per school and four performances per week. Those who take part in the "Rumplestiltskin" marionette show are Caryl Spiegel, Carol Gaebel, Dave Berg, Freeman Hover and Baker Lambert.

The players want more members, and anyone who is interested is encouraged to attend meetings, The Radio section meeting is on Tuesday night in South Hall. The Drama section Thursday night in Cogswell.

There is also a debate or forum session under the direction of Mr. Hart.

Jean de Lagarde Speaker for The Opening of Perkins Hall

Jean de Lagarde, Consul General of France in San Francisco, has been announced as the speaker who will open the newly renovated Perkins Hall auditorium to the public at a lecture, presented by Colorado College, the Women's Educacational Society, and the Associated Students of Colorado College on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 8:15 p. m. M. de Lagarde has chosen as his subject; "The Role of France in International Politics."

Although there is no charge for the lecture, which will be a gift to the community, since there are only 430 seats in the newly renovated auditorium of Perkins Hall, cards of admission must be called for at the office of the secretary at Colorado College beginning Monday, between 10 and 12 each morning and between 2 and 4 each afternoon except Saturday.

Yesterday the modernized auditorium was presented to the college as a gift by the Women's Educational Society of Colorado College, a group of women in Colorado Springs, organized in 1889 to aid Colorado College. In the early summer, the Society gave contracts to the Metropolitan Scenic Company and to the lowest bidders of the three building and five electrical contractors submitting bids through the architect, Gordon Sweet. Extensive renovations ,now completed, at a cost of $24,000, have made an attractive small theatre available for plays, music, lectures, and other public gatherings for the college and the community.

Gone are the yellow pine wainscoating and the yellow walls; soft blue-grey walls and wainscoating act as the setting for a stage with a depth of thirty feet. The stage curtain to be installed next week is of turquois blue velour; the olio curtain, used as a backdrop for speakers, is of silver grey plush; the cyclorama curtain, for concerts, is midnight blue velveteen; there is also a rich grey cyclorama. The materials for all these curtains is sunfast and fireproof.

The stage in the auditorium is excellent. A service door has been cut through the outside wall to give direct access to the stage; one corner has been partitioned

Tigers Invade Greeley in R.M.C. Tilt Saturday

CC to Meet Colo. State Rivals in Crucial Game

The victory hungry Colorado College Tigers will be seeking their first Rocky Mountain Conference win of their season Saturday afternoon when they meet the defending champions, Colorado State Bears at Greeley. For the Tigers of Coach Allison Binns, this is the game of the year and a win over their close rivals from Greeley would definitely put them in the running for the conference title.

The Greeley Bears have yet to win a game in three starts. State received a 12-0 setback at the hands of Colorado Mines in their opening game, and then South Dakota rolled over the Bear 40-13 while last week the Staters suffered a 41-6 setback from Idaho State. The Idaho State defeat proved to be very costly for the Bears as their all-conference quarterback Lowell Stuckey, suffered a fractured jaw and the sensational Greeley back will be lost for the season. However this will be State's Homecoming game and from previous memories C.C. has never had the good fortune of taking the Bears on their home field, that is in the past few year.

C.C. was idle last weekend and therefore Coach Al Binns has been drilling his Tiger daily in preparation to halt the Bears' "single wing" formation which has not paid off too successfully this season. Inspite of the fact Coach John Hancock will be without the service of his ace quarterback Lowell Stuckey the Greeley mentor can rely on Jim Rhodes a capable ball handler and excellent signal caller. Another hard running back which should be causing the Tigers plenty of trouble will be Coston Cerise, a sophomore who will be a likely starter at the fullback spot. The Bears have an excellent pass receiver in six foot-two-inch Tony Balzar who along with Bob Biegel will undoubtedly man the end terminals against the Bengals. 210-lb. Frankie Burke and husky Dick Allsup are slated to start at the guard slots.

Although C.C. mentor Al Binns has not yet announced any definite lineup for Saturday's game, it is quite likely that John Crumley will be at the quarterback post with Dwight Brother and Bruce Carson at the halfback slots with Mark Kochevar holding down the fullback position. Doug Van Meter and Hal Beile are expected to line up at the ends with Gleen Blagg and Chuck French at the tackles and Rolly Rogers and John Purcell at the guard slots. Husky Gary Lewis will probably be at the pivot post.

The kickoff time for the C.C.-Colorado State game at Greeley will he at 2:30 p. m. and the game will be played on Jackson field. C.C. student activity book tickets will be honored at the gate.

Frosh Gridders Trounce Camp Carson 50-6 For Opening Win

By JOHN STEWART

The Freshmen Football team made a successful home debut last Saturday afternoon before a cold crowd of some 200 of the faithful, as they defeated the Camp Carson Mountaineers 50-6.

The first period was scoreless although the Freshmen had two chances to score but fumbled both times. Early in the second period a Fletcher to Boucher pass covered 36 yards and a touchdown. The try for extra point was no good. Two minutes later Norm Tuftedal took Ken Smith's punt on his own 25 yard line, sprinted straight up the middle, and was away on a 75 yard touchdown jaunt. Fletcher's placement was good. A few minutes later Don Linger blocked a punt and recovered on the Mountaineers 15 yard line. A pass from Fletcher to Prebissco read again for C.C. and the score at the end of the first half was C.C., 19; Camp Carson 0.

Three plays after the opening of the second half Ken Smith, Carson halfback got behind the Tiger secondary and took a pass from Len Boldt for 44 yards and the only Camp Carson score of the day. Just a minute later Wes Boucher found a hole and romped off guard for forty yards and another touchdown. An intercepted pass by Prebis was the next score as he intercepted it on the Carson 23 and raced into the end zone unmolested. The three other touchdowns came on passes to Craig Richardson and George Wurtz and a 34-yard run by Chuck Mollin.

Everybody looked good but especially in the spot-light were Dave Fletcher, former East Denver star; Wes Boucher, former Colorado Springs star and the two ends, Craig Richardson and Wally Prebis from the Chicago area.

Not to take anything away from the Freshmen but the truth must be told. The first half lasted almost forty minutes and the third period lasted a good half hour. Whether this was the fault of the timekeeper, the clock or whether everybody thought it was such a good game it ought to last a bit longer.

This week the Freshmen journey to Gunnison to play Western State. These two teams did not meet last year but two years ago the Tiger Cubs defeated Western State 33-6.

Varsity Basketball Candidates to Report On Oct. 17 at Cossitt

Coach Jerry Carle's C.C. varsity basketball candidates are requested to report for the first practice of the season Monday evening at 7:45 at Cossitt gym. Coach Carle urges all prospective candidates to report at this time.

C.C. has a tough 23 game schedule to face this season with the first tilt slated for November 28 with the A.A.U. Denver Crevrolets at the Colorado Springs City Aud.

Lettermen from last season's squad who are expected to report are as follows: Dwight Hamilton, Ed Scott, Jack Pfeiffer, Jack Quamme, Will Perkins, Marv Powell, Jim Caywood, Dwight Brotbers, Rolly Rogers, and Bob Brugger.

Candidates up from last year's freshmen aggregation are John Schefelbein, Mel Kensinger, Guy Gibbs, Willie Burger, Dave Hendee, Bob Cass, and Bill Perkins. Three transfer students who should provide some added material to this year's varsity cage squad are Tony Esposito, a transfer from Morgan Park Junior College; Ron Bonkowski, from Eveleth Junior College and Jack Sweeney from Trinidad Junior College.

Bengal Cubs Trek to Western State Sat.

With one victory and one defeat under their belts the C.C. Freshmen eleven will journey to Gunnison Saturday to meet the Western State freshmen gridders. The Tiger yearlings were defeated in their opening game by La Junta Junior College 18-6 but last week the first year men came back to roll over the heavy but slow Camp Carson eleven 50-6 on Washburn field.

Freshmen coaches Ron Ivan and Dale Drummond were extremely pleased with the showing the yearlings displayed against Carson and the Frosh tutors seem to believe that the Cubs will come up with another win at Gunnison Saturday afternoon.

The standout play of Dave Fletcher and Wes Boucher indicated that the C.C. varsity will be receiving two outstanding backs come next September.

A none too prosperous London clergyman reluctantly accepted the offer of a commercial firm to supply his congregation with free books containing the standard hymns, with the stipulation that a little advertising might be injected. When the books arrived the minister was overjoyed to find the books contained no advertising matter at all. But on the following Sunday he was horrified to hear the following:

Hark! The herald angels sing.
Murphy's pills are just the thing.
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
Two for man and one for child.

• Tigers Ready for Invasion of Greeley—

Can the Tigers defeat Greeley? This is one of the questions that has been asked and will be answered Saturday afternoon when the high geared Bengal eleven take on the defending champion Colorado State aggregation at Greeley. Coach Al Binns and the entire C.C. grid squad have eagerly awaited for this game and this is the contest that C.C. is gunning for. Coach Binns termed this season as our "comeback year" and what better comeback could the Tigers receive than to defeat Colorado State on their home field. The Bears have suffered three consecutive losses thus far this season, one of them a 12-0 setback to Colorado Mines. However, this the Bears' Homecoming game and without a doubt Greeley will be well primed for this one so our Tigers can be expecting a tough battle.

• C.C. and Denver U. to Meet on Ice This Winter—

Recent speedy developments at Hilltop's new field house indicate that Denver University's hockey team and ice rink may be ready in time to tangle with Colorado College and other top national ranking hockey aggregations.

At a recent meeting of C.C. and D.U. officials it was agreed that should the D.U. plant be ready, as planned, by December, the Tigers and the Pioneers will meet in four games this year—two at Broadmoor Ice Palace and two at the new rink in the D.U. fieldhouse. The Denver rink is so built that a basketball floor can be placed atop the ice, ready for play within only a few hours.

Vern Turner, former manager of the Broadmoor Ice Palace and longtime friend of C.C. teams, is superintendent of the capitol city rink and will assist in rounding up and coaching the D.U. team. Johnny Baker, D.U. football coach, may be the first coach of the Pioneer sextet.

• C.C. Leads in Grid Series with Greeley—

When the Tigers clash with Colorado State at Greeley Saturday afternoon it will be the fifteenth meeting between these two schools. C.C. has annexed seven wins while State has carded six with one contest ending up in a tie. The Tigers have only scored one win in the last eight games with the Bears. Last year State trounced the Bengals 34-7 and in 1947 the Bears rolled up 24-7 win while in 1946 Greeley copped a 19-12 verdict. C.C. took the Bears 47-12 in 1945 which was the last victory for the black and gold charges.

Phi Delts & Kappa Sigs Tie for I-M Football

This afternoon at 4:05 p. m. on Perkins field the Phi Delts and the Kappa Sigs will battle it out for the sunberth in the hot intramural touch football race. Both teams have carded two wins and no losses.

Last week the Phi Delts rolled over the Sigma Chis 30-0 behind the excellent passing and running of Stan Brenton and Dale Arie. The Kappa Sigs trounced the Independents 25-6 with Bill Harley and Bill MacDonald sharing the scoring honors. In another game played the Betas tied the Phi Gams 6-6 which proved to be the deciding point of the current league race.

Games this week are:

THURS., OCT. 13—
Phi Delts vs. Kappa Sigs at Perkins field.

FRI., OCT. 14—
Betas vs. Sigma Chis at Perkins field.

I-M Cross Country to Be Held at Half of Home-Coming Game Oct. 22

The traditional Colorado College Cross Country run will be held at the half of the Fort Hays-Colorado College game, ctober 22nd.

Each man is required to work out four time previous to the race, and he should run over the course at least once.

Each organization is allowed only six men on their respective teams, but only the first four finishers counting as point makers.

A list of the entries must be in by Wednesday, Oct. 19. Hand them in to Mike Yalich or the Athletic Office.

A medal will be given to the first three places, and a cup to the winning team.

It must be clearly understood that the Department of Physical Education will not be responsible for any accident or illnesses as a result of the above race. The intramural office is assuming that all competitors have been declared physically fit for intramural sports by the college physician. If there is any doubt about a competitor's physical condition, he should be checked by Dr. Whitney at the College Informary.

will bring much pleasure and happiness to us here at the college, and to our neighbors, friends, and visitors in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Dickson Leavens, chairman of the Project Committee, reporting on the work done in renovating the auditorium, reminded the group that a year ago the association voted to modernize the auditorium, for it presented one of the greatest needs of the college. There is urgent need for such a room, seating about 430 people; Shove Chapel is the only other place on the campus where more than 175 can gather, and that building is not appropriate for all types of meetings."

Miss Agnes Donaldson introduced Miss Gurda Unger, of Vienna, Austria, now a student at Colorado College. Miss Unger's being at the college was made possible by the scholarship she was awarded by the Women's Educational Society. Miss Unger is specializing in languages and literature. An attractive girl, she studied in Austria and traveled in Europe before coming to Colorado College. She speakes several European languages and English fluently; she is also interested in philosophy.

The Women's Educational Society has awarded about $60,000 in scholarships and loans to students.

The following officers of the society were elected: Miss Margaret Cook, president; Mrs. William Gill, first vice president; Miss May Howbert, second vice president; Mrs. Dickson Leavens, third vice president; Mrs. Louise Fauteaux, recording secretary; Mrs. Lewis Abbott, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles Carey, treasurer.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF AN OPEN HOUSE HOSTESS

I stood in the center of the smoky room, talking to no one. People were crowding around me, passing little cakes and glasses of punch, and kept chattering in bright, flat voices. My head swirled slightly as a hard heel crushed my toes, and I quickly grasped a near-by table to steady myself.

I spied a comfortable chair, and after much manuevering through the many couples around me, I managed to ease myself into it. I never before realized how comfortable an armchair could be. Some one sat next to me and started to point out the facinating architectural designs of the room while I politely excused myself.

How much longer would I have to stand all by myself staring off into space as though I had never known anyone? I decided to think of some subject, some subject such as poetry. I found myself reciting the old familiar lines, "Vinegar, Vinegar, Vinegar Man . . ." over and over again, until I realized my mind had wandered to the lines on the tweed jacket and grey flannel pants several feet from me. I pulled myself together and placed a tight smile on my face. Leaning slightly forward with sparkling eyes, I asked him if he would like some punch, whereupon he quickly informed me he was holding a full glass, and turned away with a half smile on his lips. A dull red crept over my face and perspiration covered my forehead.

I suddenly wished for a black abyss in which to hide. The room and the noise must have been too much for me, for I seemed to see a myriad of paper masks flying around me from suspended wires, and radio commentators hurling their advertisements at me. However, within a moment, the haze cleared, and I knew then that the masks and voices were only people trying to get acquainted. I leaned weakly against the wall and knew that my first open house had come to an end.

off to store a grand piano; a proscenium arch has been built. A new maple floor, steps, front grills and louvre have been built for the stage.

The auditorium and stage have been completely rewired to make them thoroughly modern and to serve adequately the many needs of a theatre. There is an entirely new switchboard. In the the balconly, are two circuits for use either with spotlights or motion picture apparatus. The auditorium has been wired for sound and a radio plug installed; new exist lights have been added. For the greater convenience of audiences, four ventilating ducts have been installed.

Woodson Tyree and Ralph Giddings have given their valuable advice to make Perkins auditorium both beautiful and usable.

An illuminated plaque commemorating Miss Marie Sahm, in whose memory some of the money making possible the modernization was given, has been placed in the auditorium. Miss Sahm was an admired and capable professor of art at Colorado College for many years.

Other funds to make possible this modernization have come from many gifts to the Women's Educational Society, the proceeds from the recent benefit performance of "Arms and the Man," and a benefit bridge party.

To Hold Chuck-Wagon Dinner at Garden of Gods Tomorrow Night

The big, new event of this year's Homecoming will be the Chuck-Wagon dinner, this Friday at 6:00 p. m. in the Garden of the Gods (exact location will be directly east of the Kissing Camels). There will be busses in front of Cossitt which will leave at 5:30 p. m. to provide transportation for those who do not have cars. All students, faculty, alumni and friends of the college, are invited to attend. The cost of the delicious, western-style dinner will be $1.50 a plate. Entertainment will be provided by the well-known "Round-up" boys of Colorado Springs. Also, at this time, the Queen will be crowned in her cowgirl attire. A student pep rally will be held after the dinner. In case of snow (and keep your fingers crossed and pray that there will not be any), the affair will be held in Cossitt bowl and gym. An additional point of interest is that the men's organiaztions house decorations, which are to be judged at 7:00 p. m., while the dinner is going on, will be announced during the celebration in the Garden of the Gods. There will be a lot going on! Not one of us will want to miss any part of the Friday night fun.

CHUCKWAGON DINNER

In case of very bad weather on Friday evening, October 21, the chuckwagon dinner will be held in Cossitt Hall bowl, where pep rally and crowning of Homecoming queen will take place after dinner.

After game on Saturday, Independent Women and Crown & Lance (Independent Men) Open House will be held in Lennox House.

Wednesday evening, October 26, 1949, at eight o'clock, the Reverend Daniel Day Williams, Ph.D., former Dean of Shove Memorial Chapel, and presently Associate Professor of Theology in the Federated Theological Faculty of the University of Chicago will lecture in Shove Memorial Chapel on the subject, "Faith and Freedom in American Higher Education." One is Homecoming Queen

Soon you will see one of these five cowgirls as your Homecoming Queen. She will be crowned Friday night after the Chuck-Wagon Dinner in the Garden of the Gods, and recrowned at the dance Saturday night in the Crystal Room of the Alamo hotel. The girls in western attire (courtesy Lorig's), ready for the big night, are, left to right — Carol Weigen, Rosalie Johnson, Joyce Matthews, Jackie van Valin and Anne McCune.

Homecoming Change

Another change in the Homecoming program will be that all College floats will parade at the half of the football game. It was previously announced that only the winning floats would be parading at the half.

CLASS OFFICERS NAMED THURSDAY

Elections for C. C. class commissions were held last Thursday in the halls of Palmer. Results of these elections are as follows.

The top spot for the senior class was taken over by Wilfred Perkins. Bud Parlapiano and Liz Van Rensselaer fill out the class commission.

The juniors now have Ed Dworak for their president with Anne McCune and Barbara Brandenburg as the other two officers.

Mark Kochevar is the new sophomore class president and Pat Gormley as vice president. The result of a tie between Marty Healey and Mary Lou Kekeisen gave both a berth on the commission.

With practically all the freshmen voting, Dune Stevens captured the presidency. Emily Howe and Alky Maloney also won to make complete the class officers.

Form Committee to Raise Dr. Lewis Abbott Memorial Fund

Colorado College lost one of its outstanding faculty members when Dr. W. Lewis Abbott was killed in an automobile accident last spring. Because of his exceptional leadership both as a teacher and as Chairman of the School of Social Science, many people have expressed an interest in establishing a memorial fund in his honor. As a result of this interest the Colorado College chapter of the American Association of University Professors established a special committee to raise a fund for the endowment of a professorship in his memory, as this seemed to be the most fitting tribute to a man who gave so much to this particular field.

A committee was formed, not only of members of the University Professors, but including some of the Trustees of the College's former students of Dr. Abbott, and friends. About a month ago, letters were sent to all students who majored under Dr. Abbott, 738 in all, and already their response has been gratifying. To date 49 people have contributed a total of over $2500. Plans are now under way to ask for donations in a much larger field, and the committee hopes that evidence of wide and representative interest will bring support from some Educational or Social Science Foundation.

If any of you who read this would like to share in this memorial,, you are urged to send your contributions to Doctor T. R. Rawles, College Treasurer.

An honorary committee of 45 distinguished friends of Dr. Abbott has been established. The executive committee consists of the following members: Agnes Donaldson, chairman; Mr. Willis Armstrong, C.C. trustee; Dr. Edith Bramhall, Mrs. Alfred Heinike, attorney and C.C. alumnus; Mr. Howard Olsen, secretary of the A.A.U.P.; Miss Martha Skifodohl, alumna; Miss Dorothy Trotter, who was Dr. Abbott's assistant, and Miss Alice van Diest.

Proclamation

No letter or numeral sweater not earned at Colorado College will be worn by any student of CC after noon Friday the 21st.

No CC letter jackets are to be worn by any person other than the person earning the letter at CC.

The Varsity "C" Club will take any measure they deem advisable to enforce this ruling.

Eight Elected To Serve on Chapel Board

The student council has elected eight members to the Chapel Board, a man and a woman from each class. Freshmen representatives are Dune Stevens and Emily Howe, Sophomores; Pat Cormley and Mary Lou Kekeison. From the Junior class are Ed Dworak and Ann McCune, and seniors, Bud Parlipiano and Liz Van Renselaer, In addition to these, N. S. A. will send a member, and each of the four religious groups on campus will be represented.

The Chapel Board, which has been reactivated this year, is for the purpose of acting between the students and the Dean of the Chapel. It will provide an opportunity for the expression of ideas and suggestions as to what kind of service the students want and any individual complaint will also be considered.

Next Wednesday the other members will be elected and final plans for the year made. The board will probably meet once a month with Dean Broome, and discuss the various aspects of the service to determine exactly what the students would consider most satisfactory.

Welcome Alumni—The Tiger wants to know what you (the returning Alumni) think of Colorado College today. We want a comparison of the College as to when you attended here, whether you graduated in 1948 or in 1900, and the present day college.

Homecoming may not be the best time to get a good picture of CC, but it is the only time available that many of you have the opportunity to make your impressions. Write the TIGER a letter and we will reprint it as soon as we have available space, and send you a copy of the paper in which your letter appears. We aren't looking for compliments, we are looking for the truth.

———— : : ————

CC today—The football team is making great strides, although Coach Allison Binns is looking to next years team to be outstanding, the team this year is not one to overlook. Losing two and winning two of their games the team has been fighting from the starting kickoff to the final second of play. CC is not ashamed of losing those two games, for they were against two outstanding teams. Saturday's game will be a good one.

———— : : ————

Since many of you graduated from CC, the Honor system has made its bid. In the Spring of 1948, 12 classes took up an experiment to see if the system would work here. The experiment worked, but it was felt that 12 classes were not enough for a fair trial. More classes were added to the system until at the present time a total of 134 classes fall under the system. It is still on a trial basis here but it is believed that the entire college will come under it by the opening of school in the fall of 1950. The students want it, and will probably get it.

This year the Associated Students of Colorado College, are sponsoring a years education for five foreign students; providing scholarship, board and room for two full semesters. CC students accepted this plan with enthusiasm and are now enjoying the relationship that these students bring to their college life. We are happy they are with us.

———— : : ————

The Nugget has plans for a better yearbook that will be of benefit to both the students and the advertisers during the current year. The first section of the book will be ready for distribution sometime in December. The students may then use this for reference during the remaining part of the school year. At the end of the semester the book will be bound, making one complete book.

These are a few of the improvements that I think CC is making. Send us your opinions and ideas, and we will be glad to print them. Let's work together for a better CC.

Bigger and Better Homecoming

The homecoming of 1949 has a fine possibility of being the greatest in the college's history. The parade is going to be bigger and better; everyone has a chance to vote for his selection of queen; the football team is on the move; the all-school, all-alumni dance is an added feature, so this week-end can be successful. The homecoming of last year was very fine, but through the cooperation of every individual on the campus the homecoming of 1949 can be much better.

This year the students and alumni will be linked as one. The program is planned so the students and alumni can get to know each other. We feel the alumni will get a much better outlook on Colorado College if they come into direct contact with the students. I urge the student body to lead the way and bring the alumni into our student life, for the coming week-end. The Alumni would like to get back to their school days for a couple of days, so lets all pitch in and make the coming occasion a huge success for all.

JACK PFEIFFER,
Homecoming Chairman.

By WALT SWEET

Ever since the day that man evolved from his tail-swinging ancestors, there has been an almost premeditated effort on his part to deceive his neighbors. Every time I pick up one of the problem books so popular with my professors, I am convinced of his outstanding success in this line. Behind the innocent covers of these collections of problematical bilge lurk some of the neatest jobs of camouflage I have ever discovered. It becomes too easy for the author to present straight-forward problems dealing with the material covered in the preceding pages, so he does a quick about-face, and attacks from the rear. In these so-called "practical" problems, all practicality is usually submerged, and the writer's fiendish desire to present the unworkable, unreadable monument to confusion is forcefully brought into the limelight.

The popular mathematics texts are notoriously perfect in this respect. Each author, having probably failed grammar school algebra, devises his own system of mathematical presentation. He'd be considered second-rate among the members of his profession if his text presented the methods of the science in anywhere near the logical order or readable sequence. His first, and probably his most important consideration, then, is to be sure, absolutely sure, that his statement of the problems will make them appear to have no part in the work outlined in the chapter. This will be his first mark of success! A few "intuitive" problems are then included just to make the chapter complete. These preclude a thorough knowledge of the material to be presented twelve chapters from now, and are evidently given to satisfy the students who may have taken the course before. Having written his numerous sections, he then shuffles them like a deck of cards, and has them printed in this order. After all, if his book were logical, simple, and in the proper order, many long-bearded professors would immediately join the breadlines for lack of anything to untangle. Viewed in this light, of course, it becomes almost an economic necessity to write impossible stuff.

If there are any of you who are seriously considering the writing of a book of this sort, and planning to become an eminent success in the doing of it, I cast the warning that the road will not be an easy one. The simple ways of stating a problem were all exhausted by the cavemen in their wall-written heiroglyphics, and a work of this kind is possible today only to one who is, himself, totally confused about the subject in hand.

TIGER Announces Contest for Best Article on U. N.

In order to bring before the students of Colorado College a good picture of what the United Nations is doing, and has done in the past, the Tiger is announcing a contest which will be completed within the week.

The Tiger will reprint the three best articles submitted on the United Nations in the issue of October 27. The deadline for these articles will be Thursday afternoon at 1:00 p. m. Any student may write as many articles as he desires, as long as each article is not more than two typewritten pages in length, double spaced.

Three faculty members will be the judge as to the best three articles submitted, and the three chosen will be reprinted, with a byline of the composer.

The United Nations will celebrate its founding on Monday, October 24. On Monday beginning at 10:00 a. m. a ceremony will be held on the steps of the city hall where addresses will be made by outstanding men of the Community such as the Mayor of Colorado Springs. The Camp Carson band will play several numbers, and the Colorado College Choir will be on hand to lead the singing, several Veteran organizations will be present and the United Nations flag will be displayed with the American flag.

Wednesday evening, beginning at 8:15 p. m. another assembly will be held in the High School Auditorium. Five leading organizations will be present to participate in the founding of the United Nations assembly, included are The United World Federalists, UNESCO, and other well known organizations. Dr. Joseph Korbel, former representative of Checkoslovakia to the U. N. will speay during the Wednesday evening performance.

All students and interested persons are urged to attend both of these celebrations, in honor of founding the United Nations.

Since the founding of both the college and church occured in the same year, both are celebrating their 75th anniversary this year. Jacques Abram to Appear in First CC-Fine Arts Concert

Featuring pianist Jacques Abrams, the first concert in the winter seriessponsored by the Fine Arts Center and Colorado College will be presented October 25 at 8:30 p. m. Students will get a reduced price for seats in this series and subscription tickets are still available at the F.A.C. Jacques Abram, after an unusually promising start before the war, returned to the concert world on January 7, 1946 after three and a half years with the Army. His first appearance at Carnegie Hall was the most stirring concert of the season, and prompted the New York Times critic to say, "Jacques Abram has phenominal pianistic gifts and his playing was truly amazing, remarkable for tonal charm, power and fire. Even more extraordinary was the ease, naturalness and spotentaneity that marked it."

About twenty years ago, when Paderewski appeared in Houston, Tex., a ten year old pianist was introduced to him. Like most great musicians, Paderewski was simple, warm and friendly and direct. He examined the hands of the young artist with interest, and exclaimed, "They are truly wonderful hands. They are the hands of an artist." That youngster was young Abram, and he has never forgotten the image of his meeting with the greatest man who ever sat down before a piano.

Most musicians who are busy making music are too busy to have time for other hobbies, and this is true of Abram. Asked what his outside interests are, he will answer, "Music". That is the whole story. When he isn't busy making music, he is listening to it, and when he isn't listening to it, he is talking about it.

When he first appeared in the concert world before the war, Ed Sullivan in "Liberty" said, "He is a four-star comer." After his 1946 debut, Louis Biancolli, of the World-Telegram exclaimed, "Tha rising star has risen and the glow is steady."

Following concerts will be given after the first of the year by Rosalind Nadell, mezzo-soprano, and the French team of Pierre Bernac, baritone and Francis Poulene, composer-pianist.

By this time the whole C.C. campus is in a flurry of preparation for the Homecoming weekend. Excitement is in the air as our thoughts turn to the game, the crowning of the queen, and that big dance. Secrecy runs a close second as the floats are given the final touches.

Autumn is in the air, too, and that makes everything just perfect. For these chilly days—and that Homecoming—Perkins-Shearer Town and Country has just the thing for you gals in a fall, fur-lined topper, bright in color and very smart looking. You will be the envy of every girl on the campus. I might also suggest a nicely tailored suit with the right accessories to complete the ensemble. Remember, if you want to be a queen all year round shop at Perkins-Shearer.

"Tavern" Opens at Perkins Tomorrow

The bands and the bunting will be frosting the grand! gala! glittering! homecoming opening of "The Tavern" this Friday when its swinging doors open wide to all of you, to the more mellowed vintages of C.C. graduates, to the townspeople, and to all friends, relations and mother-in-laws who happened to turn up at the last moment.

No cover charge! No minimum! Only fun, free fun, all for the price of turning in to "The Tavern" under the swinging sign on Perkins (on route Cache la Poudre between the campus and Jays) at 2:30 p. m. or 9:00 p. m. tomorrow (Friday) or at 9:30 on Saturday.

The show is on the house and what a show it is, for it was written by none other than George M. "I'm-a-Yankee-Doodle-Boy" Cohan and you just can't lose with a guy like that.

Most of the cast that will be whooping things up this Friday and Saturday are veterans of this top-notch hell-za-poppin having been either in the first show given to a pen-packed High School auditorium two summers ago, or among those who, downtown this summer, snapped this crackling melodrama at delighted townspeople, tourists and J. C.'s some of whom came back for more punishment six and seven times.

Now, by popular request, you too can get a chance to see "The Tavern" this Friday afternoon at 2:30 and at 9:00 in the evening—a perfect follow-up of the chuck wagon dinner and you can see it again Saturday at 9:30. How about a pre-dance date at the theatre — Perkins theatre that is—

Successful Year Ahead For CC German Club

"This can well be the most successful year in the history of the C. C. German club, if the present attendance and enthusiasm continue to grow."

This was the statement made last night by Dr. T. O. Brandt, head of the C. C. German department and sponsor of the German club. The optimism was based largely on the fine showing at last night's meeting, when over 40 interested persons, both students and townfolk, attended. Chas. McKinley, new assistant in the department, says that one of the most remarkable things about the recent sessions is that the attendance of townspeople and students not enrolled in German classes. The attendance has grown steadily in the past few weeks.

Last night's meeting featured films taken last summer by Fred Kirby in a trip throughout Europe. They were devoted to slides taken in Germany and Austria. Folk singing and refreshments were included.

Plans for the next meeting—November 2nd—have not been completed at this time.

Dworak Elected to Head Fiji Chapter

Ed Dworak, a junior from Longmont, Colorado, was named President of the Chi Sigma Chapter of Phi Camma Delta in an election held on Monday night, October 17. He succeeds Chuck Smeeth who resigned his post after successfully steering the Fijis for almost a year. Dworak will take over the duties of President next week.

Her Majesty of '49 Crowned In Garden of the Gods Friday

An impressive background, the West at its best, the Garden of the Gods will serve as a stage for the crowning of this year's homecoming queen tomorrow night after the chuck wagon dinner for all college students and alumni, firing the gun to begin the biggest weekend of the year, HOMECOMING! Balloting took place yesterday, October 19, and will continue today, October 20, in Palmer Hall on the C.C. campus. This change in voting procedure will enable the entire student body to participate in the election.

With the following girls on list as candidates, it has been (for those who voted yesterday) and is (for those voting today) a difficult choice to make, as all girls are equally attractive, equally versatile and equally popular with all of the students on campus:

Rosalie Johnson, "Rosie", age 20, a lovely, blond junior, member of Kappa Kappa Gamma from Glenwood Springs, Colorado, (near Aspen) is a great ski enthusiast. She is active in A. W. S. and claims sports such as swimming and tennis (and skiing) as her favorite extra-curricular activities.

Anne McCune, known to all by her pleasant personality and charming smile, is a junior from La Junta, Colorado; vice president of Delta Gamma, a member of the Tiger Club and a newly elected junior class commissioner. Anne is 20 years old and president of Ticknor Hall.

Joyce Matthews, 19 year old sophomore from Chicago, Illinois, is the Kappa Alpha Theta candidate. Vivacious, peppy, she has helped the students cheer the team onto victory in many a match thru her cheerleading. She is in charge of the Theta homecoming float and "There is never a dull moment at the Canterbury Club meetings," is the general opinion of those who attended last Sunday evening's meeting. Starting off with a buffet supper, the group soon found themselves in the midst of square dancing.

There will be another meeting of the club this Sunday evening, at 6:30, at Grace Church. Again, the session will begin with a buffet supper to which some interesting local citizen will be invited. The social period will be equally as interesting as last week, although it will not be announced in advance. All Episcopal students and unaffiliated students of the college are invited to attend these meetings.

By MARY RUBLE

It's finally arrived—homecoming weekend that is. Everywhere you look you see moon, rabbits, plaid ribbons and poster after poster of smiling faces all telling you exactly who is the people's choice for homecoming queen. Fingers have that crepe paper stain, eyes droop from loss of sleep and float chairmen have that I may die attitude. Yes, it's homecoming weekend that great occasion of festivity.

The parade promises to be a great event. Just talk to anyone and they will be glad to tell you how their organization is sure to win the float competeion. The Hells Bells organization has been reactivated and will participate by entering a float in the parade. Watch for it, it promises to be stupendous.

And there was the volleyball tournament last weekend. The last few games resembled a wrestling match more than a volleyball game with people falling to the floor whenever the ball approached. Jane Pollack demonstrated the proper way to fall face first under the net after returning the ball. Never have you seen such gracefulness in missing a ball.

Nominations for heroes of the week go to Lyn Aldrich and Kris Sinding for putting out the fire in Bemis. Aftr seeing an ironing board go up in flame they heroicly reached for the fire extinguisher and quickly put out the flame. They should be given honorary firemen badges.

To judge by the bruises and limping of the music department students the game Sunday afternoon was a roaring success. It seems a little difficult to determine exactly who won as everyone changed sides at such frequent intervals that no one knew which side was the Neo-Classists and which was the Neo-Romantists.

Pledge Trainor Prudie Boutin spoiled the soleminity of the Gamma Phi's formal pledging by falling down the stairs during the ceremony. It should be pointed out Prudie, that this is not exactly the function of the pledge trainer.

It was old home week at Greeley Saturday at least for the C. C. students. We had possibly more alums present than had Greeley. The spirit was definitely one of gaiety which even included the singing of Happy Homecoming Dear Greeley to the tune of Happy Birthday.

Monday night was prevelant with serenades. The Sigs were greeted with a variety of responses as they visited the various dorms. Gregg House showed it's appreciation by singing to them with the accompaniment of Liz Van Rensselaer and her ukelele. Unfortunately, the residents of Gregg seemed to have a little difficulty deceiding upon which song to sing so sang several at once. At McGregor the reception was a bit different for in preparation for the seranade of LaVon Rouse and Van Allen several large Welcome Fiji's signs had been placed on the porch of McGregor. However, the Sigs simply removed the signs, sang their songs and replaced them as they left.

Connie Koehler reports the unusual distinction of being pinned to Roy Rogers with three hairs from the tail of Trigger. She is definitely to be congratulated.

Gamma Phis Win Volley Tournament

Boasting a record of four wins and no losses the Gamma Phis emerged as victors in the WAA volleyball tournament. Second with three wins and one loss were the Kappas while the D. G.'s came in third. The next WAA tournament will be ice skating to be held December 3. Watch for more announcements about requirements for entering it.

rates ice skating as her favorite sport.

Jackie van Valin, I.W.A.'s candidate, Jackie, or "Rabbit" as she is more commonly referred to, (as exemplified by her campaign posters), hails from San Antonio, Tex., is 21 years old and a music major, excelling in the voice division, and the most petite of them all.

Carol Weigen, another Chicago girl and a member of Gamma Phi Beta, (of which she is treasurer). This 21 year old senior is secretary of Howbert House, a member of the Tiger Club, and favors skiing, next to Rolly. This sweet, smiling candidate is a zoology major.

Immediately following the announcement of the winning house decorations, the new homecoming queen will be presented with a cup. Bengals Go After 3rd Win Saturday at 2:00

A satisfied band of CC Tigers took the practice field this week to forget their pleasant victory over the defending conference champions, Colorado State last Saturday and begin preparations for the invasion of another band of Tigers—the big and fast crew from Fort Hays Kansas State College, which comes here for CC's Homecoming, Saturday afternoon, at 2:00 p. m.

Saturday's 39-13 win over Colorado State at Greeley may have been impressive and may have boosted the Tigers' seasonal record to an even .500—two won and two lost—but the victory was costly.

Coach Allison Binns returned to practice Monday to find only one left halfback in shape to play ball—Emil Voelz, a former third stringer. Lost for the season is Glenn Scarcia, the pint-sized scatback who had been setting a torrid ground-gaining pace. Scarcia received two torn ligaments in his left knee and will be in a cast for two weeks and out for the remainder of the season. Still hobbling is the other left half Dwight Brothers, who added a sprained ankle to an already twisted knee. Mark Kochevar, the leading CC ground gainer of the year, played the last half of Saturday's win with a badly bruised muscle, and by the time the injury took hold Kochevar was confined to the training room for at least two days. Last Tuesday quarterback Bob Jones suffered a dislocated shoulder and will be lots for the season also.

CC's line fared somewhat luckier. Only cripples Monday were guard, Jack Purcell and tackle Chuck French. Purcell entered the Greeley game with a bruised hip and came out with little added pain, while French was nursing a bad knee, the victim of an opposing blocker's clip.

Jerry Carle, assistant coach, who has scouted the Fort Hays club this season, reports that CC will probably have to score at least four touchdowns to down the offensive-minded visitors. The Hays aggregation bas a record of three wins and two losses in this season's play.

To add to the Tiger's scoring punch CC coaches shoved Pat "Plunger" Killen into the depleted left halfback position. Killen, who had failed to show his 1948 rushing power in this year's work, went in at right halfback Saturday and was tabbed the outstanding back on the field as he carried for an average of better than 10 yards per try.

Saturday's Homecoming game at Washburn Field will be the first home encounter since September 24 and will be the last until November 5 and the Bengal crew is anxious to go ahead in the percentage column with a victory for the expected crowd of 7,000 fans.

In the first set of statistics released by the NCAA one week ago Colorado College achieved mild recolleges and universities. Due to hit the statistical column nationally this week is John Crumley, CC quarterback, who has punted this season for an average of 47 yards per try.

The big Fort Hays eleven will enter Saturday's game with a record of 3 wins and 2 losses. Hays suffered a 55-0 setback at the hands of Kansas State of the Big Seven Conference and also lost a 26-7 verdict to the Pittsburg, Kansas Teachers. They hold victories over Kansas Wesleyan, 34-0; Southwestern Kansas, 14-0; and St. Benedicts 33-20.

Is Football Ruined 2 Top Coaches Debate Free Substitution Issue

Free substitution is destroying collegiate football!

So says Harvey Harman, coach of Rutgers, in November Esquire. But in the same article, "The Platoon System: Is It Ruining Football?" Earl "Red" Blaik of Army defends specialization.

These two top coaches face off and punt the most controversial subject in collegiate football back and forth across Esquire's pages.

Harman, past president of the American Football Coaches Association, maintains that free substitution is destroying the personal advantages of the game. "I want to be a coach, not a traffic cop," declares Harman. One of his players after shuttling on and off the field all afternoon, remarked, "Hell, this isn't a football team, it's an

Tigers Roll Over Colorado State 39-13 For First R.M.C. Win of Season at Greeley

By JOE HOLMES

A fighting Colorado College football team finally overcame the Greeley jinx last Saturday as they handed the Bears their fourth straight defeat of the year 39-13 before a Homecoming crowd of about 6,000 some 500 of which were loyal CC supporters. The Tigers came from behind in the second quarter after spotting the Bears touchdown and showed the crowd that Colorado College was not going to be beaten by the Bears this year.

We are reminded of a certain article which appeared in last year's Colorado State newspaper It seems that our linemen were compared to ostriches who would stick their heads in the ground while the opposing "all conference" backs would trample over them for tremendous gains. We won't make any remarks here about this year's team up in Greeley but it is nice to see them eat the words of their sharp-tongued reporter.

To get to the highlights of the game, it looked in the first quarter as though the Greeley jinx was atill with us. The Bears took the opening kick-off and could get nowhere against a tough CC defense. On the second Tiger offensive play a Grumley pass was deflected into the hands of Joe Augustyn, Greeley half-back. Three plays later Coston Cerise went over from the three yard line. Frank Burke kicked the extra point and the bewildered Tigers trailed 7-0. The Bengals were not to be denied, however, and on the first play of the second period John Crumley faded back and let go with a long arial to end Bill Perkins and the first CC score. Ed. Kohlmeier missed the extra point and the Tigers stilled 7-6.

CC held after the kick-off and the Bears punted out on their own 40-yard line. After Kochevar made a first down Dwight Brothers hobbled around right end, bad knee and all, cut back through the C. S. E. secondary for 30 yards and the touchdown. Kohlmeier's kick was good and CC led 19-7

The Bengals again held after the kick-off and came very near blocking the Bear's fourth down punt. Pat Killen, Dwight Brotheetrs and Andy Gambucci moved the ball to the Colorado State ten, from where Crumley sneaked around end for CC's third tally of the period. Kohlmeier's placement was wide.

The Bears made it interesting after recovering a fumble on the Tiger 20 near the end of the first stanza. Seven plays later the Bears went over from the one yard line with 30 seconds remaining in the half. The placement was blocked and the halftime score stood at 19-13 in favor of CC.

The second half turned it into a rout as the Tigers scored three times, almost at will and completely smashing the Greeley ground attack.

Colorado State kicked off and the Tigers marched down the field picking up one first down after another untill Mark Kochear plunged over from the one. Killen made good the extra point and the score stood at 26-13.

CC's fifth touchdown was identical with the first as Crumley passed 45 yards to Bill Perkins who raced into the end-zone. Another drive in the final frame was climaxed by a ten yard scoring run by Junior Voelz, who along with Killen sparked the offense with their hard running.

Next week is Homecoming and the Tigers draw a toughie in the form of a hustling team from Fort Hays Kansas, featuring a "little all-American" halfback. CC will be hampered by the loss of Glenn "Socko" Scarcia who is out for the season with a broken bone in his knee. Dwight Brothers also will miss the game this Saturday on account of a sprained ankle on top of his already injured knee. With spirit like there was at Greeley last week, however, the Tigers are sure to triumph.

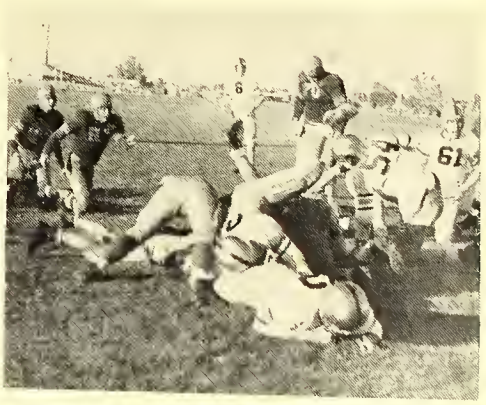
Tiger Cubs Victorious Defeat Western State

The Colorado College Freshmen continued on their winning ways last Saturday as they defeated the Western State Freshmen in a well-fought game at Gunnison. Sparked by quarterback Dave Fletcher and halfbacks Wes Boucher and Chuck Mollin the Tiger Cubs raced to an 18-7 victory.

Chuck Mollin scored the first touchdown on a nice 20 yard run and Wes tallied the next one on a brilliant 60 yard gallop through the whole Western State team. These two scores came in the first half and at the end of the half CC led 12-0.

Wes Boucher also fashioned CC's last touchdown as he hit off tackle for 20 yards and the score. Western State's only score came in the closing minutes of the final period.

Dave Fletcher kept up his superlative passing average as he completed five out of eleven for a total of ninety-five yards. But Fletcher's freshmen season was ended prematurely as he suffered a broken leg midway through the final period which necessitated the moving of Trevithick from a halfback position to quarter. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of a quarterback please report same to Freshmen coaches John Duggan and Ron Ivan.



TIGERS HIT PAY DIRT—Fullback Mark Kochevar goes over right tackle for the fourth C.C. touchdown against Colorado State last Saturday afternoon as the Bengals emerge victorious 39-13.

Annual I-M Cross Country Run to Be Held Saturday

The annual Colorado College intramural cross country run will be held between the half of the CC-Fort Hays homecoming game Saturday afternoon on Washburn Field. 30 runners will participate in the annual 2 1/2 mile jaunt this year.

Dick Pfeiffer of the Phi Delts holds the intramural record for this run which was set last year at a time of 14.58.9. The Phi Delts placed the first three men in last year's race to cop top honors.

The five Greek fraternities and the Independent Men will enter six men each with four from each organization eligible to place.

Kappa Sigs Set Pace In I-M Football Race

The scrappy Kappa Sigs took over the top berth of the intramural touch football league last week by downing a powerful Phi Delt seven 26-14 in a well played contest on Perkins Field. Bill Harley's passing and the excellent receiving of Bill MacDonald and Marv Powell proving to be the deciding factor of the Kappa Sig victory.

The Phi Gams kept on their winning way by trouncing the Independents 30-6 with Chuck Smeeth and Bill Bailey receiving top honors for the winners.

Last Friday the Betas and Sigma Chis fought to a 13-13 tie in a roughly played contest. John Litt paced the Betas attack with Guy Gibbs doing the passing for the Sigma Chis.

army. Th's isn't a game, it's maneuvers."

Blaik, standing up for the platoon system, states it brings the fan better, faster games and gives more boys a chance to play. "It is a simple matter of efficiency," exclaims Blaik. "Even the die-hards who cling to old-fashioned techniques and customs will have to admit, sooner or later, that platoon play gives more athletes a chance to play better football. And if that isn't an achievement that's eminently worth-while, we might as well turn in our uniforms."

"The Platoon System: Is It Ruining Football?" Its second year as a major factor in the Saturday afternoon sport should provide an answer.

Student Opinion Wanted Before Any Decision Will Be Made in Regard to R. O. T. C. Unit Here

Do the student of Colorado College want an R.O.T.C. Unit on this campus? That question was asked by Dean Adams to several leading men on the campus, at an informal meeting Tuesday evening. Dean Adams stated that, "In 1941, Colorado College applied to the War Department for a Reserve Officers' Training Corps Unit. Since the War Department was being inundated with such requests at that time and its resources were then being taxed to the utmost in building up the active elements of the army, no action was taken upon the request. Recently, it was announced to President Gill that the Department of the Army ha approved the college for an Infantry R.O.T.C. Unit if it is still the colleges' wish to introduce the course."

While President Gill as a former commanding officer of an R.O.T.C. Unit believes that the R.O.T.C. has distinct values, he is anxious that the college not give its assent unless there is a genuine feeling on the part of both the faculty and the student body that the introduction of R.O.T.C. would be in the best interest of the college.

In a letter sent to the Executive Comittee of the Schools of Colorado College, Dean Adams broadly outlined the facts of the proposal of such a unit on the Colorado College campus.

The R.O.T.C. Unit is divided into two courses called "basic" and "advanced." The "basic" course consists of approximately three hours per week of which about two hours are devoted to the academic study of military subjects, and one hour to physical and military drills and exercises. The "advanced" course consists of approximately four hours per week of which three hours are devoted to the more advanced military subjects, studied in the classroom, and one hour to military drills and exercises.

Students who take the "advanced" course will be required to

N. S. A. Leadership Conference; Discuss Cut and Honor Systems

On Sunday, October 16, the second annual leadership conference took place at the Y.W.C.A. Among the invited guests were sorority and fraternity presidents, honorary clubs, religious groups, business clubs and pep organizations. The meeting was an outstanding success. The discussions brought up many interesting and vital questions and suggestions.

The Committee on undergraduate life made this meeting possible under the supervision of the National Students Association, The Students had a good time while still constructively presenting ideas to their respective groups. Faculty heads of departments snd trustees of the College joined the discussions. It was estimated that about 60 or 75 people attended the session.

The groups were filled and some of the groups had more people than 15 participating in them. The group considering the Cut and Honor system was the largest.

The Cut and Honor system Group under the leadership of Dr. Worner discussed the cut system very thoroughly. It was decided after considering the other systems that ths Cut system should not hs condemned without careful study to he absolutely sure ths other system is really better.

A suggestion that was rsised in ons of ths groups will be very intsresting to everybody on the campus. It wss the question of sxaminations and the time alloted to them. In the short amount of time given to ths final exams many students havs had to take 2 or 3 a day or in some cases hsd to meet at an odd time when ths whols class could be together. It was proposed by this group that a committee should be appointed to bring this matter to every class. If longer examination time is accepted by the student he will be given a chance to sign a petition. A majority will be needed to send this petition to the Committee on Education.

Also brought to view was the subject of Chapel. Suggestions were hesrd on the possibility of obtaining more hymnals. It wss brought out in the discussion that at times students could not find enough Hymnsls.

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

Just about once a year our little "home away from home" turns itself inside out with a frantic effort to welcome back a fistfull of aging greybeards. The main event, according to all the slogans and mottos, is the coming game with some other school (just about any school, it seems, will do!) This, of course, becomes submerged in the traditional back-slapping reminiscing cocktail parties, which usually leave the returning alumni in poor shape to even appreciate the gridiron classic to be played in the process of events.

About a week before the great days arrive the many social and service organizations about campus (with some notable exceptions) give a tired sigh and start in to build the floats, house decorations, and necessary props traditionally required of them in celebration of the occasion. In general, things begin to roll in super-high gear!

Having been warned that my services were in order to see this yearly ordeal through, I sought out a cold, unlit hanger in the suburbs of Denver where I had been told our float was being built. Secrecy, of course, made this remote spot necessary! After a brief, but well-meant plea to the Almighty for strength, I rolled up my sleeves, and began the task ahead. I as sure that my dreams for weeks to come will be of small bexagonal holes and streamers of crepepaper. Days stretched into aucceeding days, and the giant form began to take shape. Paper mache, cardboard, paint, and more crepe paper were added by muscles that threatened no longer to be muscles. Aching heads and tired feet were soothed by gallons of coffee and other stimulants. At last, the job was done, and I feebly made my way home into the well-padded arms of Morpheus, my patron saint!

After forty-five minutes of restful slumber, I was roused (to the tune of a glass of ice-water in the face) to see the long-awaited parade. The parade committee had done themselves up brown (perhaps black and gold would be better). Tanks, horses, many marching bands, battalions of parading Tigers, Freshmen, and Growlers, and the devices of the Sororities and Fraternities moved through town. All passed in review before the plainly marked car of the Judges (not everyone can have a red convertible) and parked on the corner of Pikes Peak and Tejon (the street designations were changed for the event).

During the half-time of the football fray, the parade-winners were announced, accompanied by shouts, screams, oaths, and dead-tired sighs. Little white wagons appeared on the scene to carry away those who had worked without sleep for days composing mottos, drawing plans, and poking little strips of paper through small holes. For many, the festivities ended right there. Following the game, the score of which is still a mystery, no doubt, to the many grads who were slightly confused about who was who, the multitude of aching bodies adjourned to the various open-houses where they made a feeble, but nostalgic attempt to relive days gone by. I, however, found the first soft spot I could that had a dictionary handy, and through bloodshot eyes ran down a few definitions. The fruits of my tired labor were somewhat different than what I expected to find, but perhaps enlightening to some of you. Webster, with a burst of the old college try, defines "Float" as "A flat-topped vehicle for mounting a display in a procession." I find it somewhat harder than that to boil down, but, as my own definition contains several unprintable words, I will let you substitute one of your own. I'm going home and soak my bleeding fingers and tired bones in something Granny recommended long ago . . . . gin! !

An Open Letter to the Colorodo College Family

"The most we give is the least we need."

Here at C.C. we often think of ourselves only as individuals. The truth of the matter is that all of our various organizations serve to make up one body—that of the Campus Community.

This community has accomplished much in the last year through many varied efforts, one exemplary achievment being the foreign student program. Now again we are confronted with the opportunity to show our community spirit by all joining ranks, on a competitive basis, to put over the annual Campus Chest drive.

In the past it seems that the disinterested attitude of many people was due to the fact that we were unable to grasp the immediate necessity of the drive. Believe me, this year we all can be conscious of the needs we may aid by this campaign. If we could realize that this program is not one that helps only those on another continent, but one that will give a boost to our own next-door neighbors and possibly someone in our own families, it seems we would approach the drive with a greater feeling of immediacy.

This is the case this year. For our benefit the Campus Chest Drive will combine all campaigns that we would ordinarily be confronted with. This year the total sum will be divided so as to aid the March of Dimes, CARE, the Community Chest, the World Student Service Fund, the Foster Parent Plan, the Foreign Student Fund, and the Tuberculosis Foundation.

The Campaign Committee will offer a prize of one cup each for the mens and womens divisions. These will be comprized of the sororities and Independent Womens organizations and the fraternities and Crown and Lance. The two organizations in these classes with the greatest contributions will win the new Campus Chest Drive Achievement Cups. Rest assured these cups will be a compliment to anyone's trophy case.

The drive begins on November 7th and runs through November 21st. We of the Chest Drive committee would like to ask for a minimum of $2.00 contribution from each person. Remember, if you care, then you will share these dollars for destiny.

Max Lanner To Start Off Concert Series

Max Lanner, one of the region's most famous pianists, will be the first public soloist in the series of Sunday afternoon concerts presented to the public at no extra cost by Colorado College. The opening concert will be held at 4:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, October 30.

This year the concerts will be given in the new auditorium at Perkins Hall, instead of Shove Chapel as before. The Women's Educational Society has spent a great deal of time and money redecorating the theater in Perkins Hall. The concerts are about an hour in length and start at 4:30 o'clock each Sunday afternoon for the last three Sundays in each month. The first Sunday in eahc month. The first Sunday in each for Vesper services in Shove Memorial Chapel at the same hour.

Artists on the series include members of the Colorado College faculty and advanced students. Talent from Colorado Springs and from the region assist from time to time. It is also a policy of the music department to engage visiting artists who are on tour thru this region.

Lanner, who will give the entire concert on the program Sunday afternoon, October 30, needs no introduction to this region as a concert pianist. He has performed in summer and winter concerts here, in Denver and in tours thru the southwest. Dr. Lanner will be leaving here next week to tour the middle west as a solo pianist.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Sunday afternoon concerts at Perkins Hall, all presented at no charge.

Tavern Hits Again

By BILL MOERY

Everybody concerned was beaucuop surprised to find that the 43rd 44th, and 45th productions of the George M. Cohan melodrama, "The Tavern" turned out to be one of the biggest attractions of the 1949 homecoming weekend. Presented by the Pic and Pan dramatic group as a sort of alternative to bars and partying, the three presentations played to capacity audiences.

How the Pic and Pan packed them in when so many other things were going on is hard to say. It might have been their tally-ho—with the entire cast in costume—in the homecoming parade. It might have been the fact Perkins was converted recently by the Women's Educational Society into a top notch little theatre, or even the fact that the group flew John Reeds—long-time main stay of the C.C. drama dept. — all the way from his new post at University of Washington to play the lead.

Whatever the reason, it proved that "The Tavern," hit of the turn-of-the-century type still packs a terrific wallop. If you get a chance to see it(and it might well be produced again) don't miss it.

Music Workshop Inaugurates Winter Series of Kecord Programs, November 11

Two collectors items will be featured on Friday, November 11, when Music Workshop inaugurates its winter series of weekly record programs in the Carnegie room of Perkins hall. Music Workshop is a student-directed organization formed with the purpose of making sure that music has a vital place in campus life. It's most active branch to date is the Workshop Singers, but it is hoped that the Friday evening programs of record listening will become important to a large number of the students, faculty and townspeople. In line with this objective, only good music with a wide appeal to those who like to relax and enjoy listening to music will dominate the programs.

On the "opening night" program, several well-recorded and historically important records made by Enrico Caruso will be featured. A portion of the remainder of the program will be devoted to excerpts from outstanding ballet scores including Swan Lake, Scheherazade, Les Sylphides and other favorites. These excerpts are from an irreplaceable ablum recorded in France.

Remember that everyone is invited at 8:00 p. m., November 11, for an evening of enjoyable music that can't be duplicated elsewhere.

Homecoming weekend was great, this no one could deny. The only dismal thing about the whole affair was the tired treck to Monday morning eight o'clocks and the dreamy faces of those who had to face the elements at that time of day.

There was the homecoming parade with the assortment of mice, horses, worms and all sorts of wild life in human and animal form. The Kappas still have that greenish tinge and a stoop shouldered appearance from providing the motivation for the worm. Perhaps the most to suffer was Dortie Rawlings who got a horse voice as the result of yelling whoa to those who were serving as the feet of the worm. Her order to stop was not always obeyed and quite frequently the worm gave that stepped on appearance as the segments came crashing together.

The game was a joy to those who had the pleasure of having C. C. win their homecoming game —an experience that is new to many. The Growlers took advantage of this uniqueness by allowing every freshmen to ring Cutler Bell for at least half an hour apiece. C. C. isn't one to cheat anyone out a such a thrill even if it entails 12 hours of uninterrupted ringing.

People are wondering what would have happened had Jack Pfeiffer had to walk across the narrow rim of rock to crown Carol Weigen at the Chuck Wagon dinner. It might have been necessary to swing by a rope to reach the queen. This might have proved to be a new approach to the crowning method.

Then there was the Helles Belles float which presented a new approach to the welcome alumni feeling by gently squirting all bystanders with their squirt gun. This is not exactly the best method of public relations.

Many were the familiar faces to return to the C. C. campus and all were greeted royally. Perhaps the most unique welcome home was the large sign hung in front of Ticknor saying "Welcome Home Stroop."

Carol Weigen Elected Homecoming Queen

As the five candidates for homecoming queen stepped up on the natural platform, formed by the red sandstone rocks of the Garden of the Gods, at the chuck wagon dinner last Friday night, Carol Weigen, in all of the regal glory so deserving a true queen was crowned by Jack Pfeiffer and presented with a gold trophey.

Carol was elected by the campus vote for her beauty, personality and popularity. Her friendliness is known campus-wide and with a smile such as here it is impossible for her to pass unnoticed.

The Gamma Phis claim her as treasurer of their organization; she is a member of Tiger Club; secretary of Howbert House and a Biology major.

IWA Favors Honor System Unamiously

Realizing that this is a very important year in the trial period of the honor system, the Independent Women's Association of C. C. again voted to go on record as unanimously favoring the Honor System and to follow it in all their classes, whether the class was on the Honor System or not. It is hoped that other organizations on the campus may also decide to go on record as favoring the Honor System, as it is felt that this would be an immense boost to the futhering of the System.

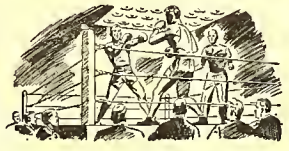
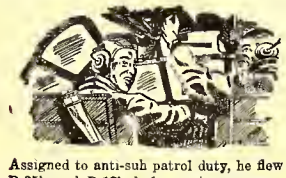
Major Ed Wall, Harvard '40
-Flying Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Newark, N. J., he moved to Boston at an early age, graduated from the public Latin high school in 1936, entered Harvard the same year, where he majored in economics and government.



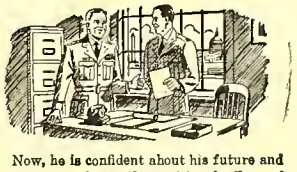
"Active on the campus" — he played football, earned his letter on the boxing team. He worked part-time in a variety of jobs from bouncer to baby sitter, received his AB degree in 1940.

He enrolled in Harvard Law School, left at the beginning of the war to become an Aviation Cadet. In December, 1942, he won his pilot's wings, received a Reserve commission as Second Lieutenant.

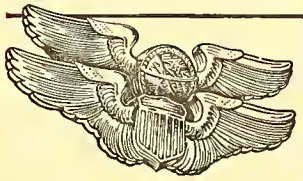


Assigned to anti-sub patrol duty, he flew B-25's and B-17's before going overseas in 1944, where he flew 30 missions as a B-24 pilot. Shot down over Germany, he was a prisoner of war for 3 months.

Back in the States with his English wife, he earned his Regular commission. Then he returned to Harvard under the Air Force college training program, receiving his LLB degree in 1949.



Now, he is confident about his future and security. As a pilot and legal officer of Bolling Air Force Base, D. C., Major Ed Wall is a typical U. S. Air Force flying executive . . . with a challenging career.



If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider a flying career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to meet the high physical and moral requirements and be selected for training as an Aviation Cadet. If you do not complete Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life or have opportunity to train at Officer Candidate School for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival—or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. CRUMLEY PASSES TIGERS TO 19-7 WIN OVER FORT HAYS IN GRAND HOMECOMING VICTORY

The Colorado College Tigers enjoyed a happy Homecoming last Saturday by romping over the Bengals from Fort Hays, Kansas, 19-7. It was C.C.'s third victory of the season as they downed a hustling Kansas State team. Although the Tigers couldn't seem to get rolling on offense, the game exhibited probably the best defensive play shown by a C.C. team in several years. The offense, marred by frequent fumbles, lacked the fine edge shown in previous games this year. It was, however, good for three touchdowns.

The first score came on the second play of the second quarter after Doug Van Metre recovered a Fort Hays fumble on the visitors 30 yard line. Three running plays netted 22 yards. John Crumley, on his famous boot leg play carried the pigskin to the one foot line, as the quarter ended, a quarterback sneak failed before Mark Kochevar drove over his own right tackle for the score. Glen Blagg made good the extra point.

The second C.C. touchdown came early in the third quarter. The drive was climaxed by a five yard toss to Bill Perkins in the end zone. Blagg's placement was wide and the score stood at C.C., 13; Fort Hays 0.

The final Tiger tally also came in the third period. Fort Hays quick-kicked to the C.C. 18 yard line on the longest gaining play of the afternon. After a succession of first downs the Tigers moved the ball to the Fort Hays 45. There "Moose" Van Metre Took a quick pass from Crumley and outran the Kansas secondary to score the final C.C. tally. Ed Kohlmeir's placement was wide.

The lone Fort Hays score came early in the final stanza. Capitalizing on their recovery of a Tiger fumble on the home club's 18, a pass from Marion Schmidt to Don Leaszler was stopped one yard short of the goal. Rex McConnell plowed over on the next play. The placement was good and the score stood at 19-7.

Gary Lewis played a rough great game at linebacker as he got in the Kansas hair (and backfield) all afternoon. Also looking good on defense were Chuck French, Doug Van Metre, Jim Cox and Bruce Carson. Carson shone on pass defense as well as in his ability to stop end sweeps.

The C.C. gridders leave Thursday for St. Louis and a tough game with Washington University who is supposed to be on about the same caliber as Colorado Aggies.

Frosh Eleven Entertain Colo. State Saturday

Having had last Saturday off, the Tiger Cubs went back to work on Monday still without the services of Dave Fletcher and with Wes Boucher having trouble with his knee. Putting these worries aside the coaches have gone to work and they now have the squad ready and waiting for the Greeley Bears Freshmen this Saturday. The Freshmen are now on the right side of the ledger with two wins and one loss and they will seek to improve on this on Saturday. Last year the Freshmen defeated the Greeley Frosh 26-0 at Greeley and it may be remembered that this was tbe game in which Len Maccini broke his leg. Enough damage bas been done so far this year so lets hope for a safe victorious game this week.

C.C. Homecoming Proves Successful

The Colorado College 1949 Homecoming celebration that opened in the Garden of the Gods with a chuck wagon dinner on Friday night and continued through Saturday with a parade, football game in the afternoon, open houses, the "C" club stag dinner, and the big all-college-all-alumni dance, was proclaimed a success.

Although the cold evening kept many away from the chuck wagon dinner it was still a festive occasion. After the dinner, entertainment was provided by the Round-Up Boys of Colorado Springs and Miss Carol Weigen was crowned as 1949 Homecoming Queen. Attending Miss Weigen were Ann McCune, Joyce Mathews, Rosalie Johnson, and Jackie van Valin. The queen was presented with a gold cup by Jack Pfeiffer, Homecoming chairman.

Also at this time the winning house decorations were announced to be the Kappa Sigma's tiger circus. Second place was awarded to the Sigma Chi fraternity with their steamboat, the SS Victory Belle. Honorable mention went to the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity with their barber shop.

Tiger Gridders Meet W.U. at St. Louis Saturday

Big Bear Eleven Hold Edge Over Visiting C.C.

Supporting a seasonal recrd of three wins and two losses the high geared Colorado College Tigers will depart from Colorado Springs by train today to meet a classy Washington University gridiron eleven at St. Louis Saturday afternoon.

This Saturday's game with Washington University is one of the toughest the Bengals have slated for this season and head Coach Al Binns has great hopes that the Tiger line san hold back the strong W. U. backs who have racked up 4 wins in five starts this season. The St. Louis eleven have defeated Western Michigan, Missouri Mines, Illinois Wesleyan and Butler University, their only setback was Memphis State College 34-0. The Bears handed CC a 40-7 trouncing last year on Washburn Field.

Coach Binns was well pleased with the defensive work the Tigers staged in their 19-7 win over Fort Hays last Saturday. However the CC mentor is somewhat optomistic in regards to his backfield since several sensational backs have been sidelined due to seroius injuries suffered during the past few weeks. Two outstanding backs lost for the season are halfback Glenn Scarcia and quarterback Bob Jones.

In spite of the various injuries on the Bengal squad Coach Binns held several lengthy scrimages this past week working against W. U. plays which Assistant Coach Jerry Carle brought from his scouting duties.

With no more injuries expected between now and game time the following men will probably be in the starting line up at St Louis Saturday afternoon: Doug VanMetre and Hal Beile are slated to get the nod for the end positions. Glenn Blagg and Chuck French at the guard slots. Rangy Gary Lewis is tabbed for the pivot post. Reliable John Crumley will operate from the quarterback spot, Dwight Brothers and Bruce Carson at the halfbacks with Mark Kochevar expected to start at fullback.

• C.C.'s Homecoming

Colorado Springs witnessed one of the best homecoming parades ever held in the vicinity. The long parade of colorful floats, bands, cars of all makes and years, army and Colorado Guard, and many local organizations wound slowly from the Pearl Laundry past the judges, circling the main business section and back towards the campus.

The half time was made more exciting due to the parade of the floats and the finish of the cross country race. Winning the floats in the womens division was Kappa Kappa Gamma with their original and cinderella theme, and Kappa Alpha Gamma with their original worm, the theme being "make 'em squirm." In the men's division the Phi Gamma Delta, "Back to Kansas" theme won first place with the Kappa Sigma fraternity and Beta Theta Pi fraternity tying for second place with duplicate awards being presented. Phi Delta Theta received honorable mention.

Ending the two-day celebration was the all-college-all-alumni dance held in the Alamo hotel Saturday evening.

The student council wishes to thank Jack Pfeffer for his good job of organization, and the student body in general for their grand participation and cooperation in making the weekend a big success.

tend a military summer camp, ordinarily between the junior and senior years. Those men who complete the "advanced" course become second lieutenants upon graduation from college.

Those students who complete the "basic" and go on into the "advanced" course receive an officer-type uniform and receive commutation of rations in the amount of 90 cents per day for a total of 570 days. While attending the summer camp, the students are paid $75.00 a month and furnished quarters and rations in kind. They also receive 5 cents a mile travel money for travel to and from the camp.

Members of the R.O.T.C. are not subject to the draft. They cannot be called into active duty with the army without their consent unless a state of emergency exists.

The propopsed R.O.T.C. Unit for C.C. would be entirely VOLUNTARY. A requirement exists that a unit must maintain a minimum of 100 men if it is to be continued, but it is believed that a reasonable period for getting the Unit under way will be allowed before the figure of 100 is made.

Students now have the opportunity of taking into consideration all of the facts concerning the R.O.T.C. Unit here and stating, after giving the idea careful thought, exactly how they feel about the situation.

It was stressed at the meeting Tuesday evening by Dean Adams that a unit is not being forced upon the college, but that C.C. has the opportunity to maintain an R.O.T.C. Unit here if everyone concerned so desires.

For further information consult Dean Adams in Cutler hall.

"Colorado Skis," Technicolor Movie To Be Shown Fri.

The Ptarmigan Ski club in collaboration with Crown and Lance, the active Independent Mens' organization on campus is presenting the movie "Colorado Skis" at Perkins hall, 8:00 p. m., Friday, November 4. Admission is 60c. All proceeds are to go to the Seeond Annual Colorado College Winter Carnival.

The movie is in Kodachrome color and is narrated with a musical baekground. It covers the skiing year in Colorado from September through June. Six areas are filmed to show pleasure skiing, races, jumping and touring.

First of the six areas is filmed St. Mary's Glacier in September. Early fall snows and the colorful autumn eolors make a brilliant showing.

Berthoud Pass is seen at Thanksgiving. Many of us are aequainted with the beauties of Berthoud ski area atop the Continental Divide.

A weekend in midwinter is spent in Aspen. First a ride on the world's longest ehairlift, then the skiers speed down Ruthie's Run on Aspen Mountain. Luncheon is spent at the Sundeck. Afterwards it's an afternoon run down Bell Mountain, famous for deep powder snow. Also in this seetion of the film are the nation's top skiers and the French team raeing on Aspen mountain in the North Ameriean Championships.

Next we see the Steamboat Springs Winter Carnival with its eolorful ski races, ski jumping and street events.

In April we are taken on a ski tour of the Montezuma Basin. With the help of a husky dog sled team, a tour of the slopes is taken. The slopes are rated by experts as the best in the world and the surrounding mountains are unsurpassed for ruggedness.

The last of the six areas is the Grand Lake sunrise Slalom in in June. It's a race near Trail Ridge Road in Rocky Mountain National Park. In the afternoon there is water skiing on Grand Lake.

Steve Koch of Denver has taken these films. Three seasons were spent in their making. There is a variety of locale, time of year and type of skiing making a full hour and a half of entertainment not only to the ski enthusiast but to the non-skier as well. "Colorado Skis" is being brought to Colorado College through the efforts of Dave Schultz, president of the Ptamigan Ski club.

Tickets are on sale at Blick's Sporting Goods, Lucas Sporting Goods, Cutler hall and Palmer hall. Tickets will also be sold at Perkins hall on Friday before the showing.

Lennax Hause Has Improvements Made

Winter has already shown its effects around campus and one of the most obvious places is Lennox House. The old apple tree on the south side gave in to the wintery blasts just a few weeks ago and the early frosts have postponed the planting of the new front lawn until spring.

The dirt had been turned and the area raked but seeding was put off until after Homecoming but now Jack Frost has taken over and the members of Grown and Lance must bow to him and do the job again come warmer weather next year.

Chapel Board Discusses P. A. System, Policy on Speakers

The first meeting of the Chapel Board was held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 25, at the Chapel. After a few remarks by the Dean, the meeting was thrown open for discussion. Various matters regarding the Chapel program were raised and discussed at length. Among these was the problem of hearing, and the P. A. system. It was felt that the P. A. difficulties were somewhat exaggerated, and that those who wished to hear could do so. The Dean indicated, however, that electricians were still at work on the P. A. system, and that a careful study was being made to explore various possibilities for improvment.

The Board then discussed the question of speakers during Chapel, and after various opinions were expressed, it made the following recommendation: "The Chapel Board approves the present policy of seeking to compromise between a purely religious and a purely secular type of Chapel serviee, but indieates its concern that outside speakers be of such a type and ealibre that they will interest the majority of the student body."

The Board also felt that it would be helpful to have speakers representing different religious points-of-view invited to speak at the Chapel Service, and plans for this are already under way.

The Chapel Board stressed the fact that recommendations and suggestions should be channelled through the Chapel Board representatives, since this board has been appointed by the Student Council, and was specifically established for that purpose.

A second recommendation consisted of a request to the Dean of Chapel that the College's policy regarding Chapel be clarified, but it was emphasized that this request was in no sense a move or preparatory to a move to request any amendments to the policy at this time. (Note: this will be the subject of the Chapel talk on November 22nd; an earlier date cannot be fixed, since plans for the week of November 8 and 15th have been made.)

The Board agreed that it should

Former C.C. Instructor Writes Books That Is Favorably Reviewed

A new book has just been published by the Alfred Knopf Publishing Company of New York. The book carrying the title of "John Quincy Adams and the Foundations of American Foreign Policy" was written by Samuel Flagg Bemis, an instructor in French History at Colorado College from 1917 till 1920. The History Book Club has selected it as the Book of the Month and it has been favorably reviewed.

As the title indicates it is a biography of America's greatest diplomat concerning itself with the Life of John Quincy Adams until his election as president of the United States. It is an authoritative account of the guiding principles of the nation's foreign policy.

Samuel Bemis was born in Worcester, Massachusetts in 1891. He studied in the public schools of the city and at Clark University where he received his A.B. in 1912, his A.M. in 1913 and an Honorary D.H.L. in 1937. He received his A.M. in 1915 and his Ph. D. in 1916 at Harvard. During 1915 and 1916 he spent much of his time in graduate studies in England and France. He has also taught at Whitman College, George Washington University, and Yale.

Among the other books he has written are "Jay's Treaty, A Study in Commerce and Diplomacy," which was awarded the Knights of Columbus prize; Pinkney's Treaty, a study of America's advantages from Europe's Distress, which was awarded the Pulitzer prize in Letters for 1926; Diplomatic History of the United States and more recently The Latin American Policy of the United States.

A.W.S. Forms New Service Committee

The Service Committee of the Associated Women Students of Colorado College has undertaken a new project this year. In previous years the work of this organization has been concerned with sending CARE packages to needy families abroad. But this year the Service Committee, composed of a representative from the Independent Women and each of the sororities has decided that instead of money donations from each of these groups, service will be concentrated on volunteer work in community organizations.

For the past weeks, members of this committee have been interviewing different social agencies in the community. Organizations such as the Y. W. C. A., Girl Scouts, Day Nursery and U. S. O. urgently need volunteer workers. The Y-Teens need college girls as advisors for their clubs, the Girl Scouts need troop leaders, the Day Nursery needs supervisors to work with children, and the U. S. O. needs volunteers to organize parties and participate in entertainment programs. To make a success of this new project, the Service Committee needs many volunteers. For jobs in group leadership it should be remembered that this valuable experience can be used as reference in obtaining aummer recreation jobs. Any girl interested

Music Workshop Record Concerts Start Next Fri.

If there is some favorite piece of music that you want to hear in the near future, be sure and come to the "opening night" record concert presented by Music Workshop a week from this Friday night Those attending will be asked to indicate what recordings they would like to hear played during the year, and the committee will attempt to make up interesting and enjoyable programs from the choices indicated.

There has already been sufficient interest to make it necessary to plan the programs for the first four evenings. The committee in charge of the first four concerts is made up of David Crabb, chairman; Mary Stilson and Jack Fitzgerald. It has taken several committee meetings to choose the first programs from the wealth of music available.

The first four programs are as follows:

Friday, November 11
Selections from Ballet Scores
Three recordings made by Enrico Caruso
"Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" Mozart

Friday, November 18
"Arioso" ..... Bach-Stokowski
"Sunrise Symphony" ..... Haydn
Rossini Overtures conducted by Toscanini

Friday, December 2
"Moonlight Sonata" ..... Beethoven
Overture and Venusburg Music from Tannheuser ..... Wagner

Friday, December 9
Symphony No. 9 ..... Beethoven

These concerts are held at 8 o'clock in the Carnegie Room of Perkins Hall. Students, Faculty, and townspeople are invited.

Campus Chest Drive To Start November 7

The Colorado College Chest Drive will officially get under way November 7. As the various social organizations will compete with each other for the trophies for collecting the largest amount per capita, all details of this phase of the campaign will be given at the organizational meetings Monday night. There will be two trophies offered, one each for the men's and women's divisions and would be a valuable addition to any trophy case.

To facilitate collections a special drum will be placed in the various meeting places and houses on campus. Should your drum be filled before the time limit it could be easily emptied and refilled. The contents of each drum will be accrediated to the proper organization in competing for the two cups.

To supplement the contributions a variety show will be held as well as the Sadie Hawkins dance. Let's not forget these two items when planning the week's festivities. Further particulars of these wil appear later.

But the important thing is that we all realize the importance of this drive and the many organizations which it will cover. March of Dimes, CARE, the World Student Service Fund, the Foster Parent Plan, the Community Chest, the Colorado College Foreign Student Fund and the Tuberculosis Foundation will all receive contributions from the College Chest. All these are worth while organizations and this is our chance to help them all during one, single campaign.

So let's really give, let's fill and refill those drums and make this College Chest Drive the most successful event ever held. Let's really throw our money on the drum and put C. C. on the map.

Drum Up Your Money

Time marches on and so do the preparations for the Colorado College Campus Chest Drive. November 7 will mark the formal opening of the drive and will find small drums being placed in the various fraternity houses on campus and other strategic locations. These are for the purpose of collecting donations and it is strongly hoped that they can be emptied and refilled many times during the two-week period.

Remember when you throw your money on the drum you are helping those in your community, in the United States and throughout the world. This is not a single purpose drive but will cover all the causes that will come up through the year. This is your chance to dig deep once with the assurance that you will not be asked again.

So let's keep that in mind when you're asked to put your money on the drum. It is your opportunity to show that Colorado College as a group is conscious of what is going on around them; not only conscious but willing and able to help.

So in this short two weeks—November 7 to November 19—let's make the campus ring with the sound of nickels, quarters, dollars and even five dollars falling on the drum. Let's drum up your money.

The Students Speak, ond They Should

The voice of the student at Colorado College, although some may think it doesn't mean anything seems to be making its appearance on the campus.

The first is in regard to the Chapel. Several weeks ago the Chapel Board was reactivated whereby the students would have a free channel to voice their opinions in regard to the chapel service.

Last week the students were asked how they felt in regard to establishing an R.O.T.C. Unit on Campus. Plainly if the students don't want it, and don't think incoming freshmen will want it, then we just won't have it. It sounds to me like a good deal. Added hours to graduation credits and the opportunity to receive approximately $500.00 during the last two years of college. A reserve commission in the Infantry to me would be better than a private in the front ranks. Others feel differently, however, and those that do, need only to express their feelings to Dean Adams, in Cutler hall.

The N.S.A. meetings provide another good channel for expression in regard to the Cut System. The Student Council is also willing to listen to any complaints.

If you don't like what you read in the TIGER, or any policies, in regard to the TIGER, take your complaints to the Publications Board, or turn them in to Jim Caywood, chairman of the Publications Board. We may have a reason and we may not. At any rate you will have a voice in what is going on at the college. However if you don't make an effort, don't criticize the policies.

Understanding Other Point of View is Picture in America

By GERDA UNGER

It's rather difficult for me to write this article now after nearly all of my fellow foreign students have expressed the feelings and impressions which I partly share and partly don't.

I know that you are interested in hearing my impression too, but I am afraid you would think I lack judgement if I started out saying: America is the most wonderful country in the world, American people are terrific, the American way of living is the best you can imagine. You want us foreign students to get a properly developed and well balanced idea of what we have seen, to get a picture as complete as it can be; you hardly can develop such a picture after having been three or four weeks in a country without using prejudice or generalization. Since I dislike nothing more than that I'll probably have to keep you waiting until my 10 months stay here is over and I—at least hope—have seen more of your country and people.

I think that after this long introduction I must not be afraid of being misunderstood.

I like the life I am living now, I am happy and contented. Perhaps you will better understand what I mean, when I compare my life in C. C. to my life back home in Vienna, Austria. I studied languages at the Viennese University. In my free hours at noon I worked in an office and in the evening I tutored—so, I would say, my life was rather busy. In the morning, the noise of the street cars or my neighbor's radio awakened me. Breakfast was taken in a hurry. I rushed out of my house and jumped in a street car which brought me downtown to the University and usually hurried into my lecture room. As soon as the morning lectures were over I went to the office I was working in. In the afternoon either lectures or library; tutoring in the evening. Meals as I found time for them. I won't say that all my days were like this one I described now but this is about what I consider to be an average day for me in Vienna.

My life over here is entirely different: my friend's gentle knock on the door in the morning announces that it is time to get up. I know that there is no hurry at breakfast. I know I have plenty of time to go in my lecture room. Walking over the well kept lawns of the campus and coming in the lecture room I enjoy the friendly "Hi's" and "Hellos" given by caretakers and students who come my way as well as by the professors.

In the afternoon I enjoy the quietness of the library or just sitting with a group of students in the lawn before the library watching the setting sun sending his last beams through the trees in their autumn colors, hearing Pat saying to Larry, both former G. I.'s: "You remember the hotel in Shangai? What a funny place it was . . ." Or, taking a quick coffee over in Murray's and last not least J's where you usually can meet exactly the same people you met a few hours ago in Murray's.

I was glad to find a great number of students really interested in serious discussions and even when the discussion got heated everybody would try to understand the other person's point of view, not showing bad feelings but trying to learn by the other person's opinion very different from the way discussions over in Europe usually end. It's the atmosphere of friendliness, of tranquillity, the day's orderliness I enjoy so much.

Once more I want to take the opportunity for thanking the Women's Educational Society of Colorado Springs for having given me the possibility to experience all this.

You want to know what I think about American Girls? Ask the five foreign students, they'll tell you.

My idea about politics, the world situation and a better future? A world government. A dream? Let's see.

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

Probably the most cherished dream of those fortunate enough to nurture the hope of going to college is that of learning to live . . . to "grow up", as it were. How disappointing it must be to the select few that enter these pearly gates of knowledge to find out that their growing-up processes are not entirely allowable, even at this advanced stage of the game. The general concepts of our educational systems beyond the levels of grammar school and high school don't seem to include the vital courses in how to develop self-government . . . the regulations, rules, and enforcing bodies are there to see to it that such preparation is unnecessary.

Picture with me, if you will, the sad story of a college man of my acquaintance. Having spent some three years of the war on the high seas with the Navy, earned his own keep for some additional five years, and attained, through it all, the ripe old age of 24, my friend sought permission of the Dean to be excused from the opening ten minutes of his eight o'clock class. He worked all night, and was unable to make said course any sooner. Imagine his surprise when he was informed by this august person that he must bring a note from his Mother certifying that such an absence (or tardiness) was proper and necessary. Now this is but a small case, but is typical of the refusal of our educators to release their strangle-hold on the development of maturity in advanced students.

Walter Pitkin, in his immortal work, "Life Begins at Forty", bewails the fact that our schooling system fails to realize the necessity, on their part, to let the student learn the hard way. This writer also feels that it is oftentimes the easiest things about this life of ours that are the hardest to learn. Most of us are still human enough to profit little from anything but a self-induced kick in the teeth, and certainly, all of us are wiser after learning about the individual living processes in this way. I have learned the hard way that cutting classes is not conducive to good marks, so do not

Also as a service project, these different organizations are making plans on parties for underprivileged children. This week at the Service Committee meeting on Tuesday, Mrs. Howard from the Day Nursery in Colorado Springs was a guest speaker. She spoke about the work involved and expressed the need for volunteer supervisors. At various times speakers from community organizations will be invited to these meetings to explain the work involved for volunteer helpers.

There is now in the A. W. S. room in Ticknor Hall, on file, containing lists of these jobs, which will also be helpful for Sociology and Psychology majors in obtaining their outside hours in group leadership. It is hoped that soon the fraternities and Independent Men will fom a Service Committee and work in connection with the A. W. S. Service Committee to promote useful service to needy organizations in the community.

Under the leadership of Miss Morgan, the Assistant Dean or Women, vocational guidance tests, as a branch service work will be given this year. These vocational interest tests are to be givenmainly to seniors this semester, but anyone interested should contact Miss Morgan.

regard any enforced cut-system a necessary thing to my school life. One learns that fire is hot, not by believing what he hears about it, but by getting burned in his own experiments with it. One learns, too, that classes are important, not by being forced to go to them, but by missing a few and paying the penalty of reduced value for his hard-earned shekels. After wrestling with this problem as an individual, it seems only reasonable to believe that the sane student . . . the one that is after all he can get out of his education . . . will not enjoy burning his own fingers again.

More and more, it seems to me, we are letting others do our thinking and experimenting for us. Someone else always seems to be telling us what the best solution to our pattern of growing-up is. Usually they are right enough, but are shortsighted in believing that they are promoting our mature development. I've been wrong before, I could be again!

Hi Gals. Well, it seems that wintry days are here again. The weather will be getting colder as time goes on, and this calls for warmer clothing. Nice, warm sweaters and skirts are now in order. From the fashion standpoint this is a pleasure for me and should be for you too, as Perkins-Shearer displays nylo-fleece sweaters in a beautiful array of colors and styles suitable for any skirt or suit in your wardrobe. These sweaters are part nylon and part virgin wool, wonderfully soft and cozy, and right in keeping with your budget. Set your sweater off with a pretty plaid or nicely tailored wool gabardine skirt.

These items are definitely a must in your winter wardrobe for protection against the winter's blast as well as smart and what every well-dressed co-ed should wear.

Hallowe'en found the campus coeds out celebrating in the proper style. Joy Pederson and Ruth Seritz had an enjoyable time leaving their mark on various structures on their way to J's. The festivity was interrupted by the appearance of one of the law enforcers of our fair city who quietly removed their instrument of art. Then there was M. A. Hodge, Deedee Beekley, Sue Schlessman, Jane Little and Barbie Clark who were apprehended behind the Kappa Sig house and well branded with lipstick to mark them as young vandals. Crime does not pay!

Jimmy Erb while screaming "charge" to the milling hoarde outside the doors to Bemis dining room was practically pulverized by some young freshman who was leading the Notre Dame flying wedge approach to the evening meal. Watch it Jimmy, a woman is not to be denied while fighting her way to a meal. The Oklahoma land rush had nothing on this year's freshmen class.

Winged Victory or "windbeaten but ascending," the famous statue in the library was the proud owner of a head for a few short hours. Unfortunately decapitation soon took place and now Winged Victory is her former beadless self. Even an idiot mask, a Tiger Club beanie and ascot was an improvement to the vacum which now exists.

Carol Fisher and Jeanie Kearns have a new method for letting out their pent up emotions on the evils of society. During the recent snow they built a snowman on the fire escape on third floor Hershey and by naming it after various disliked people—managed to shoot all such individuals in effigy.

Those at odds with these two had better watch it as someday the watergun may be replaced by a weapon of killing nature.

Len Maccini spent an enjoyable evening trying to put Susan Weary through the electric dishwasher. Somehow, one fails to see the resemblence between Susan and, say, a load of glasses. Such

The Kappa Sigma house was the scene of the annual Skunk Hollow Dance Saturday evening. Doors being out of style, the Skunk Hollowites entered the house through a rather unique "hole" in the rear of the building. Once inside they found several good orchestras waiting for them, via recordings. The decorations were in the dogpatch manner and an old keg provided the refreshment — cider. Chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Hagen, and Mother Haugh.

Fancy Plowin' at Sig Harvest Moon Dance Last Saturday

Last Saturday proved to be a farmer's holiday when the Sigma Chi Fraternity held their annual Harvest Moon Dance. At 2:30 all good farmers and farmer's daughters gathered at the Sig House in good hayseed spirit and left the plowing for the young 'uns.

Promptly at three, work shoes clattered and overalls russled as all hands started out to obtain the first of many interesting items, such as red lanterns, turtles, and straw hats, for the scavenger hunt. After each group has successfully gathered all of the required things, they were given a poem which contained directions hidden in its lines to the treasure. The treasure was not gold, but it was of the same color and, like gold, provided good spirits.

After several hours of merriment and cheer in the mountains, all good yokels returned to the Sig House to put on the feed bag. Immediately after chow was chowed, hilarious entertainment was provided by Jim Cheek, Tom Seymour, Mitch Mann, Henry Royer, Tony Kimball, Ron Schoenpflin, Chuck Moroni, Stu Coit, Bob Belt, Howard Farrell, Howard Kellogg, and Jack Westrich.

The Floyd Frame Four provided sweet and mellow music for the remainder of the night and there were no empty arms under that old yellow moon.

Beta Theta Pi's Pajama Dance Sat. Is Huge Success

The Beta's Pajama Dance of last Saturday night went over with a big bang according to the general consensus of all concerned. The evening was set-off by a short get together party at the home of Bob Humphries, one of the pledges, where refreshments and song were plentiful. After mixing together here for awhile, the party moved to the Betat House where all those clad in nities and nightshirts had to enter the house by crawling through a large tractor tire.

Upon entering the house all shoes were checked at the door to prevent the marking of mattresses and beds that lined the walls of the living room. Scattered throughout the room were red and green lights to guide the hungry ones to the doughnuts and cider.

The lullabys were furnished by wax discs and the whole affair was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Stabler and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Werner.

Sigs, Thetas Give Party for Springs Negro Children

Last Sunday afternoon the Sigs and the Kappa Alpha Thetas played host to 50 to 60 underprivileged negro children at the Sig house. These children who all live in Colorado Springs were participants in many games which were the main events of the afternoon. Bobbing for apples and a potato race were the feature attractions of the party. They all received as many apples, popcorn balls, candy, and cake as their tummys could hold. Mrs. Roosevelt Collins was the chief sponsor for arranging this little party for these children, and the Sigs and Thetas deserve a great deal of praise also for devoting their time for such a noteworthy occasion.

New "She Delts" Survive Initiation At Phi Delt House

The She Delta Theta Dance was in full swing at the Phi Delt house last Saturday night with the initiation of all the "She Delts". The girls were sent through the pace of mock initiation with a wire recording taking in all that was said or bowled.

Climbing over tables and chairs and through makeshift windows blindfolded was nothing compared with trying to get up mattress covered stairs and avoiding the paper "paddle wheel." Those She Delts who made the grade are now the proud wearers of paddles which must be worn by them for a week or else they will suffer the "grip."

All this was climaxed with refreshments of doughnuts and cider and dance music by records. Dr. and Mrs. Fox along with Dr. and Mrs. Blakely chaperoned the whole festivities.

Tigers Meet Western State in Crucial R.M.C. Tilt

CC Frosh Down Greeley For Third Straight Win

By JOHN STEWART

The Colorado College Freshmen breezed to their third straight win of the season last Saturday as they downed a stubborn Colorado State yearling team 19-7 at Washburn field. The game was closer than the score indicates as the Tiger Cubs did not get the deciding touchdown until the final minutes of play.

The C.C. Frosh scored in the first period on a one-yard plunge by Chuck Mollin after Marion Young had set up the score on a 49-yard gallop. Alky Maloney place-kicked the extra point. This was the only score in the first half and Colorado State controlled the ball during most of the second period although they were unable to do much with it.

The third period was also scoreless although the Bears pushed the ball well down into C.C. territory as the period ended. Two quick first downs took the ball to the one yard line from where Jim DiTolla bulled his way through the center of the line and the score. Bill Trump tied the score with a perfect placement.

The Tigers roared back as Bob Trevithick, former Pueblo star, took the ensuing kickoff on his own 12-yard line and raced 57 yards down the sidelines, to the C. S. 31 before being hauled down from behind. Five running plays carried to the Creeley one and one play later Young raced into the end zone for the score. The try-for-extra-point was no good and C.C. was back in the lead for good 13-7. The Bears filled the air with desperation passes the last few minutes but all to no avail. C. C. finally held for downs and took over on their own 43-yard line with about two minutes to play. Marion Young again took the ball and raced 30 yards to the C.S. 27-yard line. Chuck Mollin gained ten yards and then Wes Boucher, who played a good share of the ball game with bad knee and all, ripped off-tackle for 17 yards and the third and final score. The extra point was no good and the game ended with the Tiger Cubs on the long end of a 19-7 score.

C.C. Bows to Wash. U. 27-0 for Third Loss

Washington university won their third straight game last Saturday and C.C. lost its third game of the year as the Bears tripped the Tigers 27-0. Washington struck like lightning and before the first quarter was thirteen minutes old they had twenty points and C.C. hadn't penetrated inside of their 35-yard line.

Buddy Wiederholdt garnered the first WU touchdown scampering 23 yards off-tackle for the first score. The attempted conversion was no good. Less than four minutes later Charley Wadsack recovered Mark Kochevar's fumble on the C.C. 34-yard line. Seven plays later Les Schamel, a thorn in the side of the Binnsmen all afternoon, plunged over from the one-yard line. Don Belt converted and the score stood 13-0. C.C. still couldn't get their attack going and were forced to kick. Washington then proceeded to put on a sustained march of 54 yards, a pass from Ralph Stocker to Voltava covering the last four yards. Belt again converted and WU led 20-0. C.C. entered Washington territory for the first time early in the second period as "Spider" Kensinger, defensive halfback, intercepted a pass and ran it back 27 yards before being hauled down on the Bear 39-yard line.

C.C.'s only other serious threat came at the beginning of the second salf as Mark Kochevar took the kick-off on his own 25 and raced down the sidelines all the way to the Washington 25-yard line before being caught by the safetyman. Fate stepped in here as Andy Gambucci, the outstanding C.C. back of the afternoon, drove to the 8-yard line only to have the play nullified by a penalty. Voelz then ripped off a nice gain, only to have it nullified by a penalty. C.C. finally lost possession of the ball on the WU 27-yard line.

Washington scored their last touchdown in the final period as Charles Danna recovered a C.C. fumble. Two plays later Les Schamel scored his second touchdown of the afternoon and the Bears fourth. Belt again converted and that was the way it ended, WU 27-CC 0.

Tigers to Be Guests at Another Homecoming

For the third time this season the C.C. Tiger gridders will be guests at a Homecoming, this time its Western State at Gunnison this Saturday afternoon. Previously this season the Bengal eleven provided the opposition for Homecomings at Idaho State and Colorado State. I certainly believe that this is a definite handicap for the visiting team, for at a homecoming game the home team usually possess some added inspiration or incentive which provides them with an extra spirited feeling to win. Although this was not true a few weeks ago when C.C. spoiled Greeley's homecoming by trouncing the Bears 39-13.

C.C. Pucksters Skate Out Monday Afternoon

Coach Cheddy Thompson and the 1949-50 edition of the Tiger hockey team will hold their initial drill of the season Monday afternoon at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Facing one of the toughest schedules in years the Tiger sextet have only four weeks to prime up for their opening game with the star-studded Wichita All-Stars at Albuquerque, N. M., on Dec. 9. The Wichita skaters will be at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on Dec. 16 for C.C.'s first home tilt of the season.

Bengals Bid for Conference Title Saturday

When Coach Al Binns' C.C. gridders take to the field against Western State at Gunnison Saturday afternoon, the Tigers will be aiming for their second R.M.C. win and a crucial one at that. C.C. must down Western State to be considered top contenders for the conference crown. In the event the Tigers should emerge victorious, the conference title will be decided on Washburn field on Nov. 19 whn C.C. plays host to the vastly improved Colorado Mines eleven who already hold conference wins over Colorado State and Western State. In comparing seasonal games with Western State, C.C. holds the edge over the Mountaineers with 14 wins, while the Mountaineers hold only three victories over the Tigers with one game ending in a tie.

Seattle Sports Editor Relates Grid Formula

Last spring, Royal Brougham, sports editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer set down his success formula for the 1949 football season: (1) Don't play Notre Dame, (2) don't play Army, (3) don't play Michigan. The first two rules certainly held true and at this stage of the campaign we would replace Michigan with Oklahoma or California.

I-M Grid Title

The I-M football league came to a successful close this week as the Kappa Sigs won the coveted title by winning the championship from the Phi Gams.

In other games played last week the Phi Delts concluded a fairly good season as they defeated an in-and-out Beta team 19-7. The Independents clinched sole possession of last place as they forfeited their game to the Sigma Chis. The Phi Cams won their way into the championship game by defeating the Phi Delts 13-7.

The final standings:

Team	W.	L.	T.
Phi Gams	3	1	1
Phi Delts	3	2	0
Betas	1	2	2
Sigma Chis	1	3	1

Victory at Gunnison Will Put C.C. on Top of Hot Conference Race

Disappointed with the score but not dissatisfied with their showing against a vastly superior team, the Colorado College Tigers returned to the practice field Monday afternoon in top physical condition, already setting their sights on this Saturday's foe, tradltional tough Western State.

The Mountaineers from Gunnison make no secret of the fact that a win over C.C. means more than 50 per cent of their season, and this week-end at Gunnison they will have the spirit of Homecoming to back them up. Saturday's battle will make the third game of the season in which C.C. has been the visiting school in a Homecoming fray.

Coach Vince Gavre's crew have won four and lost two in the current season, compared to the Bengals' record of three and three. Altho whitewashed, 25-0, by Idaho State last Saturday while the Tigers were taking a 27-0 drubbing from Washington University, the Mountaineers boast wins over Arizona State, Southern Idaho and Southwestern Tech. Fourth win came over a conference foe, Colorado State, 34-26, which railbirds will attempt to compare with C.C.'s 39-13 score over the Staters. Western State dropped its other conference outing, 19-7 to the league leading Colorado Miners.

"Saturday's game at Gunnison is the pay-off battle for us now," Coach Allison Binns of C. C. said Monday upon his return from St. Louis. "Now that we've dumped Creeley, it's a must that we get by Western State to make the game with Colorado Mines here November 19 mean the conference title."

Only bright side to Saturday's loss in St. Louis was the fact that the locals left the field with nary an injury. To C.C. coaches this physical condition means that for the first time in three weeks the Tigers backfield which started the season will be ready for the Gunnison tilt. Dwight Brothers, who has been nursing a twisted knee and a sprained ankle while operating only occasionally at quarterback, is slated to return to his regular left half berth. Bruce Carson, right half, has been troubled for two weeks hy a twisted knee, but came out of the Washington tussle unscathed and in top shape. Mark Kochevar, sophomore fullback, has been spelled a great deal lately by hard-running Andre Cambucci on offense, to rest a charlie horse received in the Greeley game, but like the others he alighted from the St. Louis train in pre-season shape. Continuing in top form at the quarterback slot will be another sophomore, John Crumley.

Council Notes

It was reported at the meeting Monday that all of the organizations on the campus were in favor of the proposed N.S.A. Cut policy that was presented the week of October 24. It was decided to delay any action on the part of the students until the N.S.A. held their meeting last night, for the purpose of discussing the cut policy in general.

The council discussed at length the proposal of an R.O.T.C. Unit on the campus and each organization was to vote on the proposed plan at their organization meeting on Monday, and report to the student council the following week. each member of the freshman class Questionaires have been sent to in regard to having a unit on this campus. Just the freshmen received this questionaire since it was felt they would be a better judge as to the opinions of incoming freshmen.

It was decided to sponsor a tea on December 3 in Bemis Hall for the members of other schools attending the C.C. debate conference. The Debate team asked the council for a budget to begin next year. The money would be used for the team in making trips to other schools in the vicinity. The council took no action.

Tennyson, Too, Expressed Idea Of Federation, Voiced by U. N.

ED NOTE—This article was written by Van Allen and was selected as the best article submitted on the United Nations.

Men, my brothers, the men workers,
Ever reaping something new;
That which they have done but earnest
Of the things that they shall do.
For I diped into the future,
Far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world,
And all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens fill with commerce,
Argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight,
Dropping down with costly bales;
Heard the heavens fill with shouting,
And there rain'd a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies
Grappling in the central blue;
Far along the world-wide whisper
Of the south-wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples
Plunging thro' the thunder storm,
Till the ward-drum throbb'd no longer,
And the battle-flags were furl'd
In the Parliament of man,
The Federation of the world.

Alfred Tennyson wrote these words in 1842, but even then he and many others had the foresight to realize that the only way this great universe would be free from the horrors of war was by the formation of a Federation, a Parliament of man.

The United Nations Conference on International Organization met in San Francisco on the 25th day of April, 1945. The conference was not a peacetime conference summoned to debate the theory of international cooperation, nor was it a post-war conference convened to agree upon a treaty. It was a war-time conference. Every nation represented at San Francisco was in a state of war when the conference began.

The most important step accomplished during that conference was the official establishment of the United Nations Organization and the drafting of a charter for the organization. An effective organization was drawn up consisting of a General Assembly, Security Council, Economics and Social council, Trusteeship council, International Court of Justice, and Secretariat.

The opening words of the preamble, and therefore of the Charter, are modeled upon the opening words of the Constitution of the United States—"We the people of the United Nations'.' The delegation of the United States proposed these words which in our history express the democratic basis on which government is founded.

The total military casualties of the nations which had fought the European war were estimated at some fourteen million dead and forty-five million wounded or captured, without count of the civilian dead, mained and missing.

It was to prevent a recurrence of this great disaster that the conference of the United Nations was called in San Francisco, according to the plans which Mr. Cordell Hull as Secretary of State had nurtered to fruitation. The conference had one purpose and one purpose only: to draft the charter of an international organization thru which the nations of the world might work together in their com-

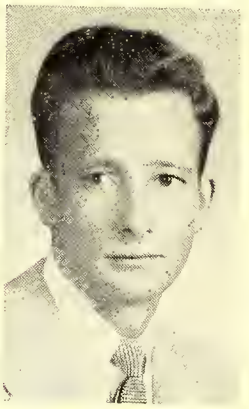
College Chest Variety Show To Be Oooo-h

Do you like "atmosphere?" How about an exclusive, sophisticated night-club filled with a smoke-haze, the sound of clinking glasses, a good orchestra in the background . . . and, later on of course, a floor-show. Swell! We can fill the bill with the new Soviet night-club, starring the Babushka Bums (Did I say sophisticated?) plus the the inimitable dancing of none other than CC's own talented Bud Parlipiano. Or maybe you prefer just plain boogie. The old team of Bayliss and Westerfield will be on hand at the piano.

Straight from the Orient comes the exotic dancing of Claire Morris and Nancy Wilson, while New York city is the scene for a musical, "Harlem Wedding" (courtesy of Marty Healy and gang.) We're really covering ground—Loren Driscoll singing some ballads from old Ireland. A Spanish theme runs through the next number, Verdi's story of the notorious gypsy, Carmen. (Rumor has it the Kappa pledges are involved.) Speaking of singing, you may recognize the Sig quartet there, adding to the fun. There's lots more entertainment ready for you too, and all for only 65 cents! You guessed it, it's the CC Vaudeville Revue, 7:30 next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights at Perkins Hall.

P. S. How about some shoot 'em up melodrams?, or a chorus line or a juggling routine? Know anyone who can make like Houdini? It's still not too late to see Helen Van Dusen or Howard Farrell and join the show. We can always use more acts.



DICK PFEIFFER

Dick Pfeiffer Chosen To Represent State at Meeting in New York

President William H. Gill recently announced that Dick Pfeiffer has been chosen to represent C.C. and the state of Colorado at the December meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City. Each state will be represented by a student from one school.

Earl Bunting, managing director of the N.A.M., requested the C.C. administration to choose one outstanding student who was also a resident of Colorado to represent the state at the meeting. Those who are invited to be the guests of the Association will go to New York City, expense free. Dick will attend all sessions of the congress, including the luncheons and the banquet, and will participate officially in at least one session. The three-day meeting will be known as the "Congress of American Industry," and will have as its theme, "New Strength for America." Meetings will be held December 7, 8, and 9.

Following the congress each student who attended will be given the opportunity of submitting an essay in appraisal of the significance of the convention. The essay is not sought in commendation of the program, but as an objective appraisal of the program and the fundamental objectives of the N. A. M. Leading educators and industrialists will judge the essays and prizes of $1,000, $500, $250, $100 and two of $50 will be awarded to the six students whose appraisals are best in the opinion of the committee.

Dick, who comes from Durango, was business manager of the Nugget last year, and is managing editoritor this year. A track letterman and regular Tiger cheerleader, Dick has been active in all school activities, clubs, and fraternity. He will graduate in June as an economics major.

Fourteen Schools in the Rocky Mountain Region are Strongly Against Racial Discrimination

By BILL MURRAY

With fourteen schools represented at the fall convention of the Rocky Mountain Region of the N.S.A. at Boulder, Oct. 21-22, main emphasis was on the Student Bill of Rights and a stand strongly against racial discrimination on campus. The Student Bill of Rights has long been discussed as a problem of N.S.A. since its conception. The R.M.R. has a subcommission on this bill and hopes to arrive at a solution that will be acceptable to the national group. One representative from each regional school will meet Nov. 25 or 26 at Loretto Heights College in Denver to set up a framework questionnaire to be sent to all member colleges and universities for their suggestions.

Discrimination was defined as "the exclusion of an individual or a group of individuals from a society because of reasons not inherent in the nature of the organization." Along with this recommendation the assembly also accepted several recommendations of the panel regarding discrimination.

One of the seven recommendations to campuses of the region was that; "Question concerning race, religion and nationality be eliminated from dormitory application due to the fact that roommates should be chosen as individual to individual instead of as a member of a group."

Four commissions were divided into panels under discussion leaders to crystalize the issues of each commission. Resolutions or recommendations passed at commission meetings were received by the as-

Former CC Prof Writes Citizen's Peace Guide

Hans Rosenhaupt, a former professor here at C. C., has written "How to Wage Peace," a citizen's handbook for peace action.

Mr. Rosenhaupt is an American citizen who was educated in Europe and came to this country where he was a professor of German, French, education, and psychology. He taught at Colorado College from 1938 to 1947 including three years as a U. S. Army Intelligence officer. He is now an instructor and assistant director of admisseions at Columbia University.

"How to Wage Peace" grew out of a lecture tour two years ago, sponsored by the Rotary International.

In this age of atom bombs and rockets, we must not have another war. This book is based on the belief that the average private citizen wants to be active for peace. It is a practical guide for everyone who asks: "What can I do?" It lists what you can do and how to do it, in other words: specific information for peace action.

There is a list of the most important peace organizations, advice for making your influence felt in Congress and the United Nations.

mon hope for peace.

It was not a new or an untried endeavor. Again and again in the course of history, men who have suffered war have tried to make an end of war. Twenty-six years before the San Francisco Conference met, the conference at Paris, under the inspired and courageous leadership of Woodrow Wilson, wrote the covenant of a League of Nations which many believed would serve to keep peace. That labor did not gain the wide support it needed to succeed.

The failure of the League of Nations in itself brought about unrest and distrust of one another. We cannot let this happen again, and thus help to provide a third World War.

There can be no debate as occurred in 1918, over which country won the war. World War II was won not by any one country, but by the combined efforts of the United Nations, and particularly by the brilliant coordinated strategy of the great powers. So striking has been the lesson taught that the people of all nations have altered their conception of national security. We must understand that in the world of today a unilateral national policy of security is as outmoded as the planes of 1918 in comparison with the B-36's of 1949 or the rocket planes of 1970. We know that for the United States—and for other great powers—there can be no humanly devised methods of defining precisely the geographic areas in which their security interests begin or cease to exist. We must realize, in short, that peace is a world-wide problem and that the maintenance of peace, and not merely its restoration, depends primarily upon the unity of the great powers.

The dropping of atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki was a fearful business, but it may be that never in all the long history of human slaughter have lives been lost to greater purpose. For now it is evident that every human being has a stake in the conduct, not only of national affairs, but of world affairs.

Physicists have explained that Atomic Bomb is created by the release of a chain of reactions. One atom is split, the released energy splits other atoms and so on until the whole force is expended by one mighty impact.

From the creation of the mighty atomic force we learn the lesson of how best to accomplish the objective of world peace. The movement to create world government must come from many lands. Like the splitting of the smallest atom, we first must have one nation willing and eager to undertake the burden of the many. They first must decide they want peace, then expend the full force of their national energy towards uniting with other nations seeking a like objective. The citizens of those nations desiring peace, must persuade the citizens of other nations of the same belief, and they in turn must urge their objective on all others adhering to the principle that democracy will pevail, only when the individual citizens of all nations accept the medium of world government as the foundation to universal understanding.

The objective must be gained by the formulation of a small number of fundamental principles, in much the same manner as the founders of our Constitution created a legal entity by the federation of what had previously existed as several separate states. History proves beyond a doubt that the real danger to world peace has always emerged from one or more nations in their attempt to force their will by military might on the rest of the world. Such an attempt was made by Germany and the Central Powers in 1914 and again by Germany and Japan in the recent conflict. Atomic bombs and weapons of destruction are not dangerous in themselves. They become dangerous only when wielded by militant nations, adhering to the principle that might — their might — must prevail.

Security against destruction by such outlaw nations can only be achieved by a common soverignty of law and order, formulated by the citizens of all nations, and dedicated to the principle that the will of the many must be paramount to the greed of the few.

Peace between human beings has been possible only when regulated by law—a single system of law. Peace between nations will be possible only when regulated by law—a single system of law. Such will not be until the war drums throb no longer, and the battle flags are furled in the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the the World.

He: "Will you marry me?"

She: "No, but I'll always admire your good taste."

Cardinal Spellman Interview

ED NOTE—This article was written by Karel Westerling who is a Netherlands student attending Colorado College this fall with the aid of the student council, American Field Service and other organizations on the campus.

Sometime ago I read in a Dutch newspaper an interview that some Dutch economist, who had been visiting the United States, had with Cardinal Spellman. This Dutchman asked Cardinal Spellman the following questions:

"When I was traveling through the United States I was time and again impressed by the great activity of your countrymen. Occasionally, however, I also had the impression —and other foreigners with me—that many Americans are not happy and wonder what will eventually be the use for man of all this material progress and the tremendous, hurried train of life. Often it seems to us as if the American is escaping quietness: he has to be busy all of the time. If he does not work either he has to get into his car or he has to be kept busy again by dancing, movies, radio or television. Sometimes that gives us the impression that he does not have time for meditation or that he does not want to have it and that he has very little inner peace. It often seems to us as if with all this feverish activity he is escaping from something as though he were afraid to sit down and think. Is this impression right and, if so, is the American more superficial than the European or is there something wrong with the American way of life?"

Apart from the question whether this is true or not, it is an interesting observation insofar that it is so frequently made by Europeans and that it is so important. Cardinal Spellman answered it in a somewhat negative way by admitting that this is unfortunately true of a great many Americans but saying that on the other hand there are millions of Americans who do think, are concerned about world affairs and are interested in culture. Everybody will, of course, realize this, since there live about 140 million people in the United States. We have to generalize in this case. Then I think that this observation is true of a far greater percentage of people in the United States than it is of Europeans.

However unfortunate this may be, we must realize that the positions of Europe and America have been and are somewhat different. Up until the First World War the United States carried on an isolationist policy, which continued to a lesser degree through the period between the two world wars. Americans did not come in close contact with other countries and consequently did not bother to worry about them. The United States did not suffer from the last world war, and except for those who were actually fighting in it, people did not feel the impact of the war. Even right now that the world is divided in two camps the danger seems remote to Americans and they do no seriously concern themselves with it. However, the danger is far more imminent and people have lived through the first world war only to see the second one destroy everything they had built up again. The people have suffered so much that even the lower class is very much concerned with world affairs.

To Europeans it seems as though the American is escaping reality, is avoiding the depressing influence of thinking about the future. Cars, radios, movies, television etc., all serve as a sort of drug. The American lives in a turmoil of conflicting emotions and ideals and he no longer knows where to go. We are another "lost generation" and much more so than the "lost generation" of Hemingway, Fitzgerald, Cummings and Dos Passos.

More or less the opposite of this is true of Europe. Two world wars have effectively crushed all idealistic concepts and hopes. The people constantly worry about the future but thei do not see any solution any longer. What is the use of building up if the next war will doubtless destroy it again? The result is apathy, destructive pessimism and cynicism.

The effects of both of these attitudes are very dangerous. We just cannot allow ourselves not to think and to escape reality nor to fall into apathy and cyicism. If democracy is to survive then we have to fight for it. That does not necessarily mean that we have to wage another war but we must resist the temptation of the easy, but very dangerous and negative way out by either cyicism or escaping reality. We must try to be constructive, however difficult that may be.

By WALT SWEET

It's a strange thing that a man feels good when his opinion is asked on matters that concern his general welfare and happiness. One of the best ways to make a person feel important is to seek advice, and then use the counsel he has given in formulating the plans and policies about which he was questioned.

While I have spent the majority of my space patting our administration in the lower regions of the back (and not too gently), I feel that it is only fair to transfer the blows to a higher spot. Within the past few weeks we have seen a concerted effort on the part of the faculty and higher-ups to poll student opinion, and integrate that opinion into the policies of the various phases of college life. They have evidently discovered that a good deal more interest is aroused, even in the minor decisions of planning, by use of this approach.

The reactivation of the Chapel Board provides the student with a powerful tool which he can use to release some of the pent up emotions he may have concerning the Tuesday morning class we all so cheerfully attend. While it may take some time to acquaint many of us with the proper procedure of attack, we are at least provided with the implement.

The president's extreme good sense in referring the matter of an R.O.T.C. unit to a popular vote will certainly eliminate the chance for headaches that might have been caused had the subject been treated differently. All of us have some feeling in matters as important as this one, and it is fine to be given the chance to express those views in a manner that counts. Certainly, those of us who fail to register our thoughts have no gripe coming when a final decision is made.

It quite naturally follows that if we fail to "get into the act" and make our opinions known, future determinations will be made without tour advice. Ne now have our chance to put in our two-bits worth and have it count. We have the opportunity to put into action some of the things we have thought about and hoped for. Use these opportunities or they may "fold up their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away!"

Lynn Aldrich Chosen Independent of Month

At the last meeting of the Independent Women's Association, Lynn Aldrich, a nineteen year olld sophomore from Cambridge, Mass. was chosen Independent of the Month.

Lynn has been an active member of the IWA, the French club and the Ski club. Last year she was business manager for the show 'Four comments on Love and Hate" in addition to working on the business end of many other plays given during the year. As Social Chairman for IWA she had charge of last semester's Symphony of Spring Dance, and this year's Homecoming float. You may remember her on the float, (the girl with the scissors.)

When asked what she liked to do most, Lynn most emphatically said "ski." She is getting wonderful experience doing volunteer work at the Child Care Center here in Colorado Springs. She plans to go into social work after graduating.

We can hardly forgive her for saying that she prefers the New Hampshire hills to our own mountains. However, it seems that there is a certain attraction back East for her. As a matter of fact he goes to Brown University.

It is her interest in school activities, as well as the success she has had in all her undertakings which makes Lynn Aldrich Independent of the Month.

Church Club Spends Weekend at Ranch

With mid-terms in the all too recent past, the Canterbury group "took to the hills" last Saturday for a complete collapse.

Leaving Bemis Hall at 1 p. m. forty, Episcopaly and unaffiliated students drove to the Grace Church Thunderbird camp, at Woodland Park. Once there, they turned to touchball, hiking, bull sessions and plain rest, climaxing the evening with a Compline service in St. Mart'n's chapel, at the ranch. The next day, Sunday, the same routine followed, this time including morning prayer in the chapel.

The newly-elected chairman of Canterbury. Serving on the vestry of the group are: Judy Dunbar, Ward Gongoll, Martha Healey, Harry Halstead, Kay Kidder, Hawk Mills, Saad Sahawneh, and Pat Telich, with Kale Wing serving as publicity agent.

This Sunday the meeting of the group will be held at Grace Church, where a buffet supper, evening prayer, and an informal discussion, featuring a visiting local citizen, will be the routine. As at last week-end's "collapse," all Episcopal students and other unaffiliated students are invited.

Pledges Win Battle In Final Quarter

Last Sunday on Perkins Field the "game of the year" was played between the actives and pledges with the loser to pay for refreshments. The pledges won 13-7 in a hard fought game. With eight minutes to go in the fourth quarter and the pledge class ahead 6-0, a sustained "active" drive paid off and they took the lead 7-6. In the closing two minutes, however, the pledge class bounded back for their second and winning tally.

Student Council Notes

At the Monday afternoon meeting the student council recommended to the College administration that C.C. students favor a Voluntary R.O.T.C. unit on this campus. Since a minimum of 100 men would be necessary to maintain a unit on this campus, and it was felt by the council that a much larger number than just 100 men favored the plan, they made the recommendation to the college officials.

It was stressed that the students should get behind the College in giving as much as possible to the drums for drumming up money, which would go to the college chest. CARE, the March of Dimes, the World Student Service fund, the Foster Parent Plan, the Community Chest, the Colorado College foreign Student fund, and the Tuberculosis Foundation, would all receive contributions from the College Chest. Two years ago the student was contacted for individual contributions to all of the different funds, while this year only once will the student be asked to contribute. Only $2.00 a person is the goal, which should hurt only a few if they give that much .The organization making the largest contribution to the chest will receive a cup for their noteworthy contribution.

It was urged that as many students as possible attend the N.S.A. meetings on Wednesday, of which every student enrolled in Colorado College is a member.

All students who had individual pictures taken for the year book and have not yet received proofs of the pictures, may see them and make their choice today beginning at 10 a. m. and up until 9 p. m. this evening. All freshmen who ordered additional pictures may also pick them up at that time.

Discussion was held in regard to the eligibility of one of the A.S.C.C. presidential candidates. He will lack three hours of meeting the requirements as specified by the constitution but will have gained the hours by the time he would take over the position if he were elected. The council refered the matter to the executive committee of the council to interpret the meaning of the constitution.

SADIE HAWKINS' DAY PROCLAMATION

Campus Clippings

If good grades are what you're looking for when you come to C.C., you'd do well to jot down these sure-fire steps that lead to a successful college career:

1. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. (If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievingly and shake it.)

2. Take newspaper clippings to class that deal with the professors' subject. (This demonstrates fiery interest and gives the professor timely items to mention to the class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, take any old clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.)

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" (To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.)

4. Sit in front near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.)

5. Laugh at his jokes. (You CAN tell when he cracks one. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.)

6. Ask for outside reading. (You don't have to read it. Just ask.)

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. (It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.)

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. (If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match the books for size and color.)

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. (Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he could not answer, and in your younger brother's second-grade reader at that.)

Paste these study aids inside your hat. Abide by them and you'll be one of the best students in the school.

Whether you want to do any work in addition to the nine rules is strictly optional.

Thar's Gold in Them Thar Hills or Nugget, Nugget Whar is You

Last week three "unemployed C.C. alums" left Colorado Springs for a venture into the deep southwest in search of gold. The three prospectors left last Tuesday for Superstition Mountain in Arizona to seek out the "Lost Dutchman Cold Mine" in which there is believed to be more than $20 million in gold nuggets buried. The TIGER is in receipt of frequent messages from these men and will inform the student body of their progress each week. We are witholding the names of these men due to the fact that should they find this treasure, this sudden wealth will not go to the heads of their many, many friends who are wishing them every possibility of good hunting.

In the event that should these men find gold, and it is reported by some other news agency, remember you read it HERE first. Watch for further developments of this venture in next week's TIGER.

History Club Travels Old Ute Pass Trail

The History Club held its third meeting of the year last Sunday afternoon. The members went by automobile up the old Ute Pass Indian Trail, which lies to the south of the present highway, stopping on the way for a picnic. This trail was used for centuries by the Indians of the region as a route from the plains to the South Park area.

The next History Club meeting will be early in December. Watch for the exact time and place, which will be announced later.

I think that its true that all of us find it difficult to save much money at one designated time or other. In my particular case, it seems that when I do get some cash it is very easy to run right through it without having much to show for it. With Christmas drawing near, one of those periods of necessary expense comes upon us without much warning and I would like to make a suggestion to ease the financial pain.

Make out your list and each week buy your gift for one or two of these people. This way you will enjoy doing your Christmas shopping and the present will reflect your care and thoughtfullness.

We, at Perkins-Shearer, will be glad to help you select the gift that is suitable for all of those you care for. Stop in and see us soon.

Frosh-Soph Battle To Rage Tomorrow

There comes a time in every frosh's existence when he has to fight for his rights. Through long C.C. tradition, this chance has arisen again.

Tradition has it that for ten minutes there shall rage a furious battle between the frosh, those people wearing that peculiar college wear, and the sophs, the second year 'students.' To make everything fa'r an' squar', the sophomores grease a pole to make simpler the descent of any ambitious frosh. Atop this glorious shaft flaps a flag. If the gauntlet of tomatoes, sophs grease and slivers can be overcome and the flag hauled down and held for the ten minute period, the frosh and their uniforms can immediately part company. If the flag isn't hauled down, the uniforms will be worn until Christmas vacation. How about it sophs? What are thte chances for a repeat?

Friday is a holiday, so at nine o'clock everyone ought to be down on Stewart field to witness the annual Fresh-Soph fight. What say freshmen? Do you want liberty? To you sophs, I say, let's see the yellow and black around campus until Christmas vacation.

Tigers Oppose Adams State Here Friday, 2:00

CC to Seek Fifth Win in Non-Conference Game

Breathing a sigh of relief after squeeking by Western State College last week-end, 12-7, to remain undefeated in conference play, the Colorado College Tigers will face the mental battle this Friday at 2:00 p. m. by putting their sights on an underdog Adams State eleven and not looking ahead to the conference championship battle here against Colorado Mines November 19.

Despite the favorite's role imposed on the Bengals this week after the 26-7 victory Mines registered over the Alamosa crew last Saturday, CC scouts have assured the locals of a real test. In six games to date the Adams State aggregation have dropped only one encounter, or wining over Highlands University, Lowry Field, East New Mexico, Panhandle A. & M. and New Mexico Military Institute.

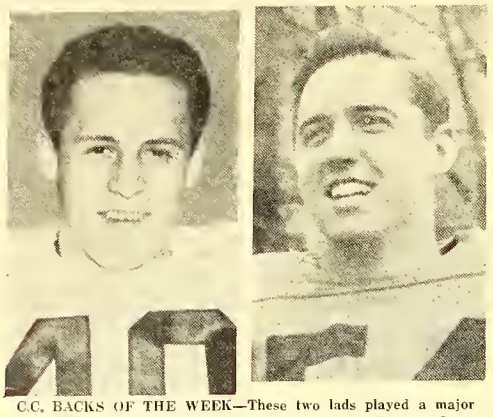
Friday's battle will be the second meeting of the CC eleven and the southeastern Coloradoans. The locals humiliated a vastly undermanned team in 1942, the first year of the war-time football, 53-0, on Washburn Field, and Adams State is in no mood or shape for such reckoning this season.

Coaches Allison Binns and Jerry Carle were greatly pleased with the showing of the Bengals at Gunnison last Saturday, despite the anxiety which prevailed while they trailed, 7-6, for more than three quarters of play, before slapping over the winning T. D.

After putting in the hardest and roughest week of drills since the opening of the season, drills which stressed only offense, Binns stated that his backfield fakes were "most satisfying" to the coaching staff. And despite the week-long emphasis on offense, the defensive was more than pleasing, as the Bengals made three gallant goal-line stands and turned back two more Gunnison threats within the CC 20-yardline.

Again the pre-season and season-long conditioning tactics of the Bengals paid off as they came through another game without a serious injury. Only two players, tackle Ed Kohlmeier and guard Dick Perse, missed the Western State battle and they appear to be ready to go against Adame State.

Only "problem" this week in the Bengals offense is what to do with the two best backs on the team-they both play the same position. Mark Kochevar, starting fullback and leading ground-gainer for CC, alternating at the fullback spot with the speediest and most improved back on the squad, Andre Gambuhdi, and it's too late in the season to change one of them to another slot. CC will go with Crumley at quarterpack, dancing Dwight Brothers at left half and Bruce Carson at right half, a back who picked up 97 yards in 15 attempts last weekend to almost match Gambucci's 95 yards in 12 attempts.



C.C. BACKS OF THE WEEK—These two lads played a major role in the decisive victory the Tigers pinned over Western State last week. Left Andre Gambucci fleet footed fullback galloped 40 yards for one C.C. TD while (right) Mark Kochevar another fullback hit pay dirt for the first C.C. score. Both boys will be seeing plenty of action against Adams State tomorrow afternoon.

Frosh Seek Win in Final Tilt at Golden

The Colorado College Freshmen football team journeys to Golden this week-end to play the Colorado Mines Freshmen in the final game of the season for both clubs. The CC Frosh go into the game at full strength, at least as near full strength as possible, and what with no game last week the Cubs should be raring to go. An indication of what there is to come might be shown by comparative scores. Colorado State defeated Mines 52-0 and CC defeated Colorado State 19-7. This should make CC the definite favoroite but look what happened to Minnesota and Purdue, so anything may happen.

The Freshmen will probably line up with Craig Richardson and either George Wurtz or Wally Urebis at the ends, Nels Sampson and Ned Mann at the tackles, George Holm and Don Linger at the guards and Jack Sweeney at center. In the backfield will be Norm Tuftedal, doing a great job in place of the injured Dave Fletcher, Wes Boucher, all recovered from his bad knee and Marion Young and Bob Trevithick. Willing and able to spell these men are George Hamada, Chuck Mollin, and Alky Maloney.

Kappa Sigs Down Fijis for I-M Title

By JIM PETERSON

The climax of this seasons intramural football race came last week when the powerful Kappa Sigs remained undefeated for the season by downing the Fijis 6-0 in what proved to be the game of the year. The Kappa Sigs had won four and lost none before the encounter, while the Phi Gams record was three wins one tie and no losses. The hopes of both teams rested in the play off game. The losers used a platoon system with a new team coming in on the offense and defense. The Kappa Sigma seven replaced the line offense and defense but kept their alert backfield on the field the entire game. Marv Powell was busy during the game, snagging Bill Harley's passes which were a deciding factor in the tussel. Tex Ritcher took a spot pass from Harley in the first half to mark the only and winning touchdown of the battle. Len Maccini was the spark on the Phi Gam offensive.

According to statistics compiled from the game the Kappa Sigs pushed by the losers for 10 first downs while the Fijis drove for only two during the game. Nearly three hundred turned out for this exciting last intramural game of the season on Washburn field.

BENGAL ELEVEN TOP WESTERN STATE 12-7 TO GAIN TIE IN CLOSE R.M.C. RACE

By JOE HOLMES

The Bengal Gridders made a successful journey to Gunnison last Saturday as they came out victorious over Western State 12-7, for their second Conference victory. A game with Colorado Mines at Washburn field on Saturday, November 19, will decide the Conference Champion as Mines also holds victories over Colorado State and Western State and they are pointing for the CC game a week from Saturday. CC took the opening kick-off and Mark Kochevar climaxed a sustained drive with his forty yard scoring run through left guard. The extra point was blocked and the Tigers went out in front 6-0.

From this point on it it appeared as though CC was going to score at will but on the next kickoff quarterback Earl Binford took the kick and raced down the sidelines to CC's 12 before he was stopped by Jim Cox and John Crumley. The Tigers defensive line held on for three downs, but on the fourth down Western State quarterback Fran Sisconti threw a short aerial to end Lew Mikkelsen in the end zone for a Mountaineer touchdown. Hanawalt's place kick was good and Western State led 7-6.

During the remainder of the first half the Bengals were plagued by blocked kicks and bad breaks while the Mountaineers constantly started downfield drives to the CC goal. However CC played the role of the unmovable object and the irresistable forces on defense and Western State could not gain another touchdown.

Going into the fourth period CC's offense began to roll as Andy Gambucci, who will be heard of plenty when the Tiger's hockey team takes to the ice, took off on several long break away runs to pace the Tiger attack. Gambucci cracked the Mountaineer line and ran through the Western State secondary at a rate of speed that no one was able to lay a hand on the Eveleth, Minn. flash who scored the winning CC TD. Crumley's attempt to run the extra point failed and the Tigers went out front 12-7.

Western State attempted to set up several long drives during the latter part of the final stanza but CC's defensive line held on until the final gun when the Mountaineers had possession of the ball in mid-field.

This win was sweet for the Tigers after the severe trouncing they received from Western State last season. This victory enabled CC to tie Colorado Mines in the close race for the Rocky Mountain Conference title. The championship will be decided here on Washburn Field Nov. 19 when CC and Mines clash in what should be the game of the year.

Western State Proved to Be Tough Foe—

Coach Al Binns' C.C. Tigers spoiled another homecoming celebration last week, this time it was Western State at Gunnison. C.C. expected a rugged battle at Gunnison and the Mountaineers provided just that. C.C. took a slim 12-7 win over a stubborn bunch of Mountaineers who wouldn't say die. Western State was up for this game, for the lads from Gunnison would rather defeat the Tigers than any other team in the conference. Eyeing the conference title plus having on hand a pair of fullbacks who couldn't be stopped the Tigers returned home with a well-deserved win.

Gambucci Most Improved Gridder—

When the time comes to cast ballots for the most improved player on this year's C.C. grid team I would certainly cast my vote for Andre Gambucci, speedy fullback from Eveleth, Minn. Although this lad is not playing regular, Gambucci has by far developed into the best running back on the Tiger eleven. This Eveleth flash ran 40 yards for the winning C.C. touchdown against Western State last Saturday afternoon. Gambucci is also rated as a stand out hockey player, so we should see more of this lad on the ice in the near future.

"C" Club Developing Into Fine Organization—

The Varsity "C" club which was recently reactivated is at present developing to be one of the strongest organizations on the campus. The lettermen club is holding a campus wide membership drive and they hope to have at least 60 members before the end of this semester. The club room at Cossitt hall has just been remodeled and several amusement pieces have also been installed to the room. Plans are underway for a big social gathering to be held in the near future. Hats off to the lettermen who are making this organiaztion possible.

25 Seek Births on Bengal Hockey Team

Coach Cheddy Thompson's Colorado College hockey aggregation commenced their first practice of the season last Monday evening at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Approximately 25 candidates were on hand to seek positions on this year's Tiger puck squad.

With seven lettermen returning and the addition of several junior college transfers reporting plus an abundance of material up from last season's undefeated junior varsity sextet Coach Thompson hopes to mold together a strong team which face a rugged 24 game schedule. The Tigers will open with the Wichita All-Stars at Albuquerque, N. M., on Dec. 9 and 10. Ten All-Stars will also provide opposition for CC's first home tilt at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on Dec. 16.

Lettermen returning from last season are Harry Whitworth, Chris Ray, Jim Starrak, Mike Yalich, Roy Ikola, and Clark Wilder. Outstanding prospects coming up from the junior varsity are Ron Harwell, Bill Dwire, John Scheicher, Bill MacDonald, Cam Berry and Bill Bradley.

Tiger Cagers Drilling For Opener Nov. 28

The Varsity Basketball team is beginning to take shape under the careful eye of Coach Jerry Carle, who has been holding nightly drills for the last few weeks. Returning lettermen include Captain-elect Jack Quamme, Wilfred Perkins, Ed Scott, Dwight Hamilton, seniors, Marv Powell, Jack Pfeiffer, and Bob Brugger, juniors, Wayne Roper and John Bauerline, sophomores. Up from a good Freshmen team last year are Guy Gibbs, John Schefelbein, Bill Perkins and "Spider" Kensinger. Others who are trying out for the team are Tony Esposito, George Sweeney, Jack Orsborn, Ronnie Bonkosky and Daryl Engebregson.

A twenty-three game schedule has been lined up including two trips to the Middle West and CC has opponents this year as Iowa University, Caterpiller Diesal of Peoria, and St. Thomas of Minnesota. They open the season against the Denver Chevrolets in the City Auditorium on November 28, a team which last year defeated CC 69-39. Conference play does not start until after the Christmas recess and Colorado State may have trouble defending their Conference Championship that they won last year after a hard-fought race with CC.

Rugged Training Set For U. S. Skiers in Aspen World Races

United States ski teams, entered in the 1950 World Ski Championships which are being held for the first time in this country, will receive the same intensive work-out European ski teams get, according to the training schedule for the U. S. Men's and Women's Alpine teams announced today by Cortlandt T. Hill, general chairman of the Teams Committee of the National Ski Association of America.

The U. S. men's and women's downhill-slalom squads, which will race in the Alpine events of the 1950 World Ski Championships at Aspen, Colo., Feb. 13 to 18, will begin snow-training Jan. 15 under Coaches Barney McLean of Denver and Friedl Pfeiffer of Aspen right on the Aspen courses to be used in the Championship races. The U. S. squads will also have a few days at Sun Valley . . . changing mountains keeps a skier from "going stale" . . . and then the champions will return to Aspen on Feb. 5 for a final week of strenuous skiing before the international races begin Monday, Feb. 13.

Since many of the 31 nations of the Federation Internationalo do Ski (FIS), sponsor of the Championships, intend to send their teams to Aspen for early training on the FIS courses designed by Dick Durrance, world-famous ski champion, Colorado's most famous ski resort will take on the appearance of the "Unit deNations of skiing" during the month of January. As a result, Aspen will attract almost as many American ski enthusiasts as World Ski Championship Week itself! Countries which have officially accepted invitations to participate are, thus far: Norway, Sweden, Canada, Jugoslavia, Israel and Austria.

He knocked at the door of my room. "May I come in? It's the room I had went I went to college in'09," he said.

I invited him in.

"Yes sir," he said, lost in reverie. 'Same old room. Same old windows. Same old furniture. Same old view of the campus. Same old closet." He opened the door. There stood a girl, terrified.

"This is my sister," I said.

"Yes, sir. Same old story."

Local Radio Guild Broadcasts Poe Drama Over KRDO

Hitting the airways for the second time, the Radio Guild fed its listeners fifteen minutes of true suspense n the form of Edgar Allen Poe's "Cask of Amontillado" last Monday.

Featuring a radio adaptation by Lauren Driscoll and Eleanor Walker of the famous spine-chiller, the program brought to the microphone for the first time Jack Fitzgerald, supported by Larry Wells, with the over-all production directed by Kale Kling.

Word from the University of Colorado shows that the problems of discrimination are being met there by the students themselves. Last week the "student government passed a recommendation whereby all social organiaztions would be allowed three years to remove discriminatory clauses from their charters or come before a receiving board. The regents must approve this before it becomes final, however."

COLORADO COLLEGE — November 17, 1949 — NUMBER X

All's Peace and Quiet Until Frosh and Sophs Sound Off

(Reprinted from Gazette-Telegraph, Nov. 12, 1949)

Silent night. Oh quiet night with gentle snores. Pillowy clohds across star-filled skies. That is until 3 a. m.

Bang, zowie! crackle, backle! "Out of bed, you sons of the illiterate. To the ramparts, the sophs are coming. Belay and begorra, and may be the finest shiners decorate the bloody maps of the foul fiends."

Rockets burst in air, peaceful citizens tore their hair. It was a rough night from 3 a. m. on this day for everyone living within a couple of miles of the Colorado College campus.

In things collegiate the schedule called for a gang fight at 9 a. m. today between the frosh and the sophs. The issue was to be whether the frosh should continue in humiliation or throw off the yolk of sophomore tyranny. The canny sophs feared strength in numbers would be too much for them when the battle for the flag atop the greased pole began.

Soph's Strategy

Ignites Rumpus

So shortly after 3 a. m. the sophs went around waking up freshmen, the sophs vowing to haul enough freshmen up into the hills so that superiority in numbers would be lost. But freshmen came out of beds faster than CI's at reviille, massed themselves against the indignites being perpetrated by the sophs.

Artillery, in the form of aerial bombs; incendiaries, in the form of a bonfire in Cossitt bowl; hell raising, in the form of several hundred boys and gals. Yipee! The old campus resounded with the first signs of life since back in 1932 when the lads tried to carry a street car off its tracks and up on the dean's porch.

Irate Citizens

Call Out Cops

Police headquarters was swamped with calls.

'What is Armistice Day? Are the vets celebrating V-J day? I am unable to sleep from such racket as is going on." Such were the comments voiced by people on the telephone in cop headquarters.

Most numerous complaints were from persons who said they were unable to get their beauty sleep. In many of these cases such complaints were quite serious, the complainers being in need of all the beauty aids they could get.

The policemen sped into the night to see what the trouble was, but everywhere they sped there was a great absence of anyone. Capt. Cecil Caldwell and Sgt. Homer Beattie went to one place where an attempt was being made to place a small-sized automobile up on a porch. When the captain and the sergeant got there the front porch was bare.

The officers still filled with a lot of "speed," next sped over to Cossitt bowl where a bonfire of proportions comparable to the conflagration started by Mrs. O'Leary's cow on the Lake Michigan waterfront. But the great fire burned all to itself; not anyone could be found, not even a freshman was hanging around.

Boom! Up into the air went the

Dean Broome Shows Need Of Chapel

In Tuesday's Chapel message Dean Broome gave consideration to the subject of the importance of the Chapel Service to all attending school. He called attention to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and its recent discovery that science alone did not fit their students for a better career, but that ethics had to be an important part of studying and of practice. Chapel will not hurt anyone and the least a person can do is to endure it.

It was reported that as high as 50 cents had been paid for every student attending chapel. He stated that this story was at best only a myth, and that a fund of that sort does not and never did exist.

In 1920 the compulsory Chapel was changed to a voluntary chapel for two years during which time it failed miserably. In 1931 the chapel was set to 10 o'clock every Tuesday morning.

The philosophy of the present chapel, he indicated, had undergone considerable thought and that it was decided that it should provide a more complete education of character which could be put to good use instead of a system of assimilating ideas.

He appealed to the audience for courteous treatment of guest speakers; and not a sea of newspapers. Chapel will also have more value and meaning if more courtesy will be practised. In conclusion he compared religion with a jewel of many facets. The facet that may strike one person will not necessarily be of the same brilliance to another person. All chapel needs is a chance.

Chapel Board Makes Room for Visitors At Tuesday Service

At the second Chapel board meeting held, by the recently reactivated board, on Tuesday night in Shove Memorial Chapel it was brought to the attention of the board that visitors had no place to sit when attending the Tuesday morning chapel service.

It was decided that the front row will be set aside each week for any visitors to the service. Students who wisb to sit with their parents may do so in the front row but must hand a written note to the usher to assure the student he will gain credit for his attendance.

It was announced that John Nickols had been elected to the chapel board to represent the N. S. A. and Dorothy Fabian was elected to represent Jonathon Edwards.

The Board asked to remind students to be certain to sit in the correct seat ,since that is bow the attendance is taken.

N.S.A. Discusses Phases of College Wednesday Night

At the NSA meeting held Wednesday, November 9, several phases of college life were brought up for discussion which will affect every student on the CC campus. A summary of the meeting appears below.

The fact that the honor system is still not fully understood by all the students was given serious consideration. Apparently the college as a whole is behind the system, but not everyone is sufficiently familiar with it to make it a real success. Dr. Worner, Dr. Knapp, and Mr. Krutzke have offered to help acquaint the students with the plan and have contributed their Monday evenings to discussions with the fraternities and sororitics. However, without the cooperation of all of us, they can do very little. It was suggested that each student become acquainted with the constitution, a complete copy of which appears in this issue of the TICER. CC is one of the few colleges in the country with such a progressive system, and its importance can not be too strongly emphasized.

Another matter brought up at the meeting was the installation of Student Purchase Cards, which Peg O' My Heart Will Be Given by CC Players in Dec.

By DAVID BERC

The Colorado College Players, under the energetic supervision of Woodson Tyree, is out in front this year with three plays in preparation, the first of which is to be "Peg O' My Heart." And as the college community has been conditioned to expect, by the imposing array of previous play productions, this season shall continue the tradition of fine plays, inspired casts of student actors, superb direction, stage sets of artistic "sweat, blood, and tears," craftsmanship, and all the beauty, glamour, and perspiration that belongs to our theater on the campus.

But, Ah, reluctant a truculent Thursday afternoon Tiger grind "this is nothing more than a plug for the Colorado College Players." Where do money, gadgets, and women enter into the picture?

Money, gadgets, and women are the ingredients that have gone into the 20th century restoration of Perkins hall auditorium, the new mecca for lovers of drama, music, and dance. With the money raised and execellently utilized by the Women's Educational Society, Perkins hall has emerged considerably strengthened in character, appearance, utility, and outlook. The present lovely stage, the luxurious curtains, the necessary gadgets of the modern theater, the lighting and acuostics, assure us of an adequate and brighter campus life.

"Peg O' My Heart" will be presented December 7, 8, and 9 at 8:15 p. m. Admission is by presentation of your student activities ticket.

Honor System Constitution and Regulations in Complete Form Presented to Clear Up Doubts

PLEDGE: The pledge, " have neither given nor received aid on this examination," should be on each examination paper —either mimeographed and then signed, or written in full on each examination by the student. In case of the presentation of a paper without the signed "pledge," the instructor shall notify the student, who shall then sign the paper.

WHERE APPLIED: The provisions of this plan shall apply to all work done in the classes under the Honor System. All tests given in these classes shall be given in such a manner as to promote the Honor System. Students taking examinations under the Honor System will be allowed freedom of movement within the building where the examination is being given. Because of the problem of classroom space, West Hall; East Hall; and Tenney Hall will be considered as wings of Palmer Hall, and free movement within these areas is acceptable.

EXPLANATION IN EACH COURSE: Aside from the fixed principles that are inherent in the Honor System, each professor should explain clearly just how it will be applied in his particular course. The professor may apply the system to the preparation of term papers, laboratory problems, research work, etc. as he sees fit. For example, a math professor might wish for each individual student to work out assigned problems alone—or he might have no objection if the students wanted to work together on the problems. But in this and all similar cases the professor should make clear the procedure he wants followed.

The presence of proctors in examinations given in courses under the Honor System is discontinued.

Depending on the nature of the course and on the nature of the examinations, the professor may be present in the examination room after issueing the examination questions to answer questions. If present he will be there solcy to answer questions and to receive the examination papers at the end of the alloted time.

REPORT OF VIOLATIONS: Any violation of the Honor System should be dealt with in the following manner:

(1). Warning—The individual who observes a violation should first directly approach the person concerned and warn the person that if they again see the person violate the Honor System, their name will be submitted to the Honor Council for appropriate action.

(2). If a second violation is observed, it is the duty of the observer to submit a short written report of the incident to the chairman or to any member of the Honor Council.

HONOR COUNCIL: The Honor Council, consisting of 12 members, shall elect a chairman from their number. The Honor Council shall not be considered to be sitting officially unless all members are present. In the event of a prolonged absence of an Honor Council member, the class that he was elected from shall select an alternate.

The Honor Council shall appoint a recording secretary, not a member, and having no vote, who will record, in shorthand, all proceedings before it.

The Honor Council shall exercise a dual function; it shall administer the Honor System, revising its rules as the need for revision presents itself, and it shall hear and consider all

It's Not So Tough

The Honor system code is reprinted in its entirety in this issue. My suggestion would be that every student read it carefully, then clip it out and save it for future reference. It is a simple thing to do and may aid you in the future.

Why there should be so much commotion in regard to the honor system seems strange to me. I feel that the Honor System is a system whereby a student does his own work and only his own work. He does not borrow from a neighbor, the author of the text, or from his class notes. He is on his honor to do his own work, both in and out of class. In some courses he may work with other students. He does his own homework and outside assignments. During a test the student has the freedom to take his test in Palmer, East, West, or Tenney halls. No instructor to distract. Maybe I'm the one to be corrected but if you see anything so difficult in this system please let me know.

Seven Events for the Price of One

By Mary Ruble

Yes, seven events for the price of one—that's what the College Chest is offering you. As many of you no doubt remember before the era of the College Chest many separate drives were held with great regularity. Now through the chest all the drives have been combined intto one. All seven, count them, CARE, Community Chest, Foreign Students Fund, Foster Parent Plan, World Student Fund, Tuberculosis Foundation and the March of Dimes, are worthwhile projects and if presented separately wiuld be worthy of anyone's complete support. Now in this drive, lasting through Tuesday, money is being collected to be distributed to all these organizations. If you give a dollar that means that if the drives were being held separately you would be giving 13c to each organization. Surely, each of these is worth more than this. So when the drums are passed around, throw your money on them, not just a nickel or a dime but really big.

If you stop to think about it you are not giving your money away but investing it in a worthy cause. We've all seen the results of the March of Dimes. Surely everyone knows someone who has benefited from this organization.

And what about the Foreign Student Fund. This, surely, is an organization that we all know about. The benefits to Colorado College and each of us individually are great as a result of having the foreign students on our campus this year.

The World Student Service Fund is a group that affects us directly. This is our opportunity as students to help foreign students abroad by furnishing them books, equipment, food, a place to sleep and the necessary medical care to carry on with their education. This is our chance to help the various dents of today who will be leaders of tomorrow in the various countries that we in the United States will be forced to deal with directly. Surely anyone can see that this is benefiting us directly.

So you see by throwing our money on the drum we are not throwing it away but investing it in seven different places where it will bring worthwhile results. So let's get behind this drive, not merely by talking about it but by doing something. Let's give and really give and make this drive a success.

History of Honor System Here ot CC

In the spring of 1948 President Gill suggested to a number of faculty members who had previous experience with an Honor System that a similar system be proposed to the students in their classes. 12 classes voted to start this experiment. Each class elected one representative to a body designated as the Honor Council. The following students were the original members of the Honor Council Robert Udick, Dougles Gregory, Dwight Brother, Stanley Boucher, Helen Stevenson, Clyde Dillehay, Mary Daehler, Don Bogren, Elizabeth Van Rensseler, William Barton, Betty Braham and William Funk. Bob Udick was selected as temporary chairman, and later William Barton became permanent chairman of the Honor Council. The Honor Council then proceeded to draft the plan, later strengthened by several ammendments, under which the Honor System is currently in operation.

It has been the feeling of President Gill and of the students and faculty members who have participated in the experiment that the Honor System will make a vital contribution to the program of Colorado College. Although present participation has been limited, it is the hope of the college that the Honor System will ultimately be extended to all classes.

Each semester an inviation to the faculty at large to participate in the system was issued. Each semester the number of courses operating under the Honor System has been gradually extended. This fall 134 courses are now operating under the Honor System, out of 218 courses scheduled for the fall semester.

This year will be the critical year for the Honor System. That the Honor System may be a working reality and not a mere pretense, it is essential that the administration, faculty, and students give it their whole hearted support, and that they accept willingly and courageously its heavy responsibilities.

By WALT SWEET

Every semester, along about this time, the academic boom is lowered in the form of midterm grades. The basic purpose of these biannual tidings of doom is, as I get it, to sharpen up the ones whose wits are dragging, and encourage those who have been successful so far in the battle for an education. Every now and then this idea sneaks through, and an honest expression of how well (or how poorly) you are doing in your respective classes reflects in these grades. More than usual, however, Professors find it so much easier to just assign a certain average grade to the entire class, thus escaping the tedium of figuring up the necessary percentages. Thus, instead of being at all indicative of your shortcomings, these grades are likely to be no good at all.

In the course of two different years of college education, I was blessed with courses from the same Professor. Wearily, I trudged to his eight o'clock class three times a week, missing none of these delightful and inspiring sessions. Faithfully, I handed in all of the assigned homework and received for it the highest grades. So, feeling that I could do no better, I confidently expected to receive, as reward for my efforts, an ace in the course as a midterm grade. My bubble burst, however, when I found a neatly-turned three nestled in among the other grades on my midterm report. Inquiring of him somewhat later as to how he computed his grades, I wasn't too surprised to learn that he had joined the ranks of the "lazier-than-thou", and had given the whole class this medium-sized grade. Since midterms aren't recorded, he had decided that it wasn't necessary to go to the extra trouble of figuring up the grades due for that period. If this had been an isolated case, I could have

It was brought up Monday afternoon that the College Chest drive is not going as well as it should, and that students were reluctant to contribute to the drums. The Council decided to extend the drive until Tuesday, November 22 at which time the drums would be collected. The Variety show began last night and will continue tonight and tomorrow night beginning at 8 p. m. in Perkins hall theater. What a show.

Dick McCleery was elected to the election committee by the council to replace Bob Bruger who resigned his position two weeks ago as a council representative.

The question of vandalism was discussed, pointing out that several reports had been made to the officials. The council representatives were reminded of the vandalism code of the constitution which they were to remind their respective organizations. No action was taken in regard to any punishment.

The council was also reminded of the "conference agreement" in regard to any students being caught on another campus within the conference. The authorities of the college which the student is from have the power to dismiss that student from school.

cases arising from an alleged infraction of the system.

TRIAL—Trial proceedings shall take place as soon as possible after the filing of a report of violation. The chairman shall notify the accused and the accusor to be present; and in addition any witness which any of the three parties— the person accused, the person filing the accusation, and the Honor Council—wishes to call. The proceedings of the trial shall be secret. A unanimous vote of the 12 Honor Council members shall be necessary for a guilty verdict.

The accused shall inform the council when it renders its decision, or within five hours therafter, whether or not he cares to exercise his option of appeal.

VERDICT: In the event that a guilty verdict is returned against the accused, the Honor Council shall report its decision to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, with such recommendation as they see fit to submit.

Eventually, when the Honor System becomes more widely established at Colorado College, the power to dismiss a student for an infraction of that system will rest entirely with the Honor Council.

The Honor Council requests that if the person dismissed from Colorado College asks that a transcript of his college record be forwarded to another institution for the purpose of gaining admission there, the administrative office involved at Colorado College shall take into consideration the recommendations of the Honor Council as to the presence or absence of any extenuating factors.

APPEAL: Any student who believes that the Honor Council has acted contrary to justice or has erred in considering his case shall have an unqualified right of appeal. For purposes of hearing appeal cases the following provisions and procedures shall apply:

(1). The Honor Council shall designate a member of the faculty, preferably one with legal training, and occupying a disinterested position, to preside over the appeal court.

(2). A jury, chosen by lot, from the classes under the Honor System, shall hear the evidence on the appealed case. The jury shall consist of twelve members. No member of the Honor Council may serve on the jury. A unanimous vote of the jury shall be required for a verdict of guilty. In case the jury fails to reach an agreement, the accused shall be declared innocent of any charges brought against him, and the records of the case will be destroyed.

(3). The accused shall have the right of counsel. Any member of the faculty, administration, or student body may serve as counsel with the exception of members of the Honor Council, who may not serve.

(4). The Honor Council shall designate one of their members to serve as the prosecutor.

(5). Both counsel for the accused and the prosecution shall present a written statement of their respective cases at the commencement of the trial. The respective statments shall be read aloud by the presiding officer.

(6). Both counsel for the accused and the prosecution shall have the right to question jury members and move for their dismissal for bias or prejudice.

(7). The Honor Council shall be responsible for the preparation of the prosecutions statement.

(8). Witnesses may be called, and a refusal to testify shall be considered a violation of the Honor System.

(9). The jury's finding of fact shall be final, but any recommendation the jury chooses to make as to the penalty affixed to a verdict of guilty shall be advisory in nature, and shall be forwarded to the Honor Council for due consideration.

(10). The presiding officer shall have no vote in the determination of the verdict. His position is to rule on the admissability of evidence, using his own discretion as to what

Jewelry! Yes, it is right in style! In days of old Cleopatra, Marie Antoinette, Queen Elizabeth, all the famous women in history bedecked themselves with jewelry too. Their purpose was to be fashionable, to add the finishing touches to beautiful gowns and beautiful faces, and to be part of the glitter and splendar of a royal court.

Today we find ourselves in the twentieth century without the glitter of a royal court, but with the same desires toward fashion and beauty. When you add a piece of jewelry to your best party dress, and a casual frock, you add the final degree of perfection.

If you have noticed, jewelry designs of today are adhering to many centuries back, as well as to a very modern trend. Perkins-Shearer is right on its toes too, for they can show you the latest in exquisite pieces of jewelry. Remember too, that it will soon be time to start counting those shopping days before Christmas. Jewelry always makes a lovely gift.

Lost Dutchman Mine Still Lost, Say CC Fortune Hunters

Last week your TIGER reported that it was in touch with three CC alums who went to Superstition Mountain, Arizona, to seek out the "Lost Dutchman Gold Mine". Due to unforseen circumstances the expedition returned to Colorado Springs last Thursday morning after reaching the conclusion that the mine was still lost.

The competition with Mother Nature was too great. The last message that we received from the hunters was from Mesa, Arizona.

"This is it," was the report. "Somehow we made it thru the roughest country any of us have ever seen. Our goal is now in sight and with provisions for four days we are going in, come what may. From the looks of things, it is going to be tough getting water and it's plenty hot! This will be the last word until we come out, with or without the gold."

It wasn't until the morning of November 10th, that we heard from them again, and this was when they returned here. The expedition was a failure because of the lack of water. Though they were in a stone's throw of The Mountain, the trio were unable to venture to it because of this lacking. The country surrounding Superstition Mountain is very rough and rugged, and at this time of the year, it is very dry. It would involve a great deal of expense and trouble to transport water into the region, so it was decided that the idea should be discarded.

There is hope that possibly the trip might be tried again in the Spring, but as this is too far in the future to decide on anything, no definite plans are being made.

Bach and Bartok Featured in First Sunday Concert, Nov. 29

The college music department is having its regular Sunday program this year in the new Perkins Hall auditorium. There is a concert every Sunday afternoon except the first Sunday of the month, which is a Vespers service in Shove. Concerts are discontinued during vacation periods. The public, the student body, and the faculty are urged to attend all of the concerts at no cost.

The program for the concert on Sunday, November 20, presented by the music department of Colorado College, will consist of two major works. First, Bach's Sonata No. 3 in G minor originally writen for viola. Da Gamba will be performed by Peter Kamnitzer, violist, and John White pianist. The second work for the program is the Sixth String Quartet of Bartok performed by the LaSalle String Quartet of Colorado College.

Peter Kamnitzer, who is a member of the LaSalle Quartet and on the faculty of Colorado College, graduated from the Manhattan School of Music in New York City. He was then for three years the first violist and a member of the string quartet of the San Antonio Symphony. He played with the Metropolitan Opera orchestra in New York City. Kamnitzer toured the country as first violist with the Robert Shaw Chorale. John White, who will play the viola sonata with Kamnitzer is well known in Colorado Springs as a pianist. He has accompanied Carroll Glenn, violinist, and Gerbousova, cellist, recently in concerts. White is on the faculty of the music department at Colorado College.

The LaSalle Quartet of Colorado College is playing the Bartok because of all of the requests which followed their concert in the Fine Arts Center last week. This quartet has never been heard in the region before and met with instantaneous success. The members of the LaSalle Quartet are Walter Levine, first violin; Henry Meyer, second violin; Peter Kamnitzer, viola, and Jackson Wiley, cello.

ATTENTION!

At the Sadie Hawkins day dance, the big picture posters of Lil' Abner, Daisy Mae, Mammy Yokum and Pappy Yokum and Hairless Joe were taken by students. These posters are the property of the Student Council and we would appreciate it if the students who took them would return them to the A.S.C.C. room in Lennox.

Alpha Kappa Psi Takes Great Strides

The professional business fraternity of Colorado College, seeking a bigger and better representation, announces success in attaining their goal. President Kent Roberts said "formal notice will appear in the next issue of the TIGER of the many new pledges."

Alpha Kappa Psi hold their meetings in their club room in Lennox house, twice monthly throughout the school year. A typical meeting is designed to permit members and pledges to interview professional speakers between 7:30 to 8:30, at which time coffee is served permitting more informal discussion between members and the speakers. At 9:00 p. m. active members and pledges adjourn to separate rooms and conduct their respective meetings.

Vice president Frank Downey reported that the chapter's professional program has gotten off to a good start. At the Tuesday, Nov. 8th meeting, the local and national advertising managers of the Free Press newspaper spoke on "the inside picture of their business."

On Friday, Nov. 18th, Alpha Kappa Psi is to proceed from Lennox House at 2:15 to the Gagnon Plating Co., for the first of a series of field trips.

Pledging into the fraternity has been extended to the last meeting before Christmas vacation. If you are interested in becoming an Alpha Kappa Psi, please come to the next meeting, Tuesday.

Fijis Preparing for Annual Barn Dance

This Saturday the Fijis are presenting their annual "Barn Dance" to be held in the Cascade Castle. A unique entrance is in the making with the whole house done over to look like a barn. The music will be furnished by the Bill Cerif Combo and all the hicks and their gals will be served the usual refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taitt, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Werner, will act as chaperones.

'Kabaret' Atmosphere For Kappa Pledges

In honor of their new pledges, the Kappas held their annual "Kabaret" dance last Thursday night at the lodge. The dance floor was encircled by ringside tables topped with red-checked table cloths and wax-dripped bottles of sorts. On the mirror was painted a large replica of the pledge pin with the names of each pledge radiating from the center. Tantalizing refreshments of sandwiches, cokes and hors-d'ouevers were served later in the evening. Dancing was to records played on the new victrola, donated by Mrs. Prechtel of Denver.

Chaperoning were Mr. and Mrs. Cheddy Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. H. Richard Van Saun.

Dance at Lennox by Crown and Lance to Honor Football Team

In honor of our Tigers who stand at this time as potential victors of the RMC championship, the Crown and Lance extend an open invitation to the CC campus for an informal dance at Lennox House, Saturday night, November 19, from 8:30 to 12:00. There will be no admission charged and refreshments will be served.

The dance, in celebration of the Tigers' victory over Mines Saturday afternoon will also be held in the event that the Mines team comes out on top. Win or lose it will be a great dance. Let's get behind our Tigers for a final fling in appreciation of the great honor they have brought to us this year. It's up to you as an individual to show them how we really feel about the fine work they have done.

Pan-hel Tea Combines Previously Separate Parties Into One

It has been traditional in the past for each of the Women's Greek letter organizations to hold a party at their respective lodges for all new pledges. This year Panhellenic voted to combine the four parties into one big affair, which was held last Sunday at the Delta Gamma lodge from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock.

In the receiving line were executive members of the Panhellenic Council and Dean Fauteaux. Each pledge class presented a skit which was announced by Helen Stevenson, president of Panhellenic.

Station DG, sponsored by Plunkett's Pink Pills for Pale People, presented a radio program starring Miss Vera Cheere in an early morning broadcast of helpful hints and daily scandal.

Jeannie Roberts, in the KKG variety show told the audience of a day at the ball park and how she misunderstood all of the baseball terminology; Rosie Musgrave sang a Wetsern ballad, "Streets of Laredo" and "Drop-Seat" Eccles sang a song of her own composition entitled, "Underwear".

"Babushka" Breland introduced the Don Cossack chorus, otherwise known as the Gamma Phi Beta pledge class, which sang several Russian selections. Two of the more "highly heducated" pasants dedicated a song to their alma mater in Moscow.

The "Oysterman's Dream" was presented by Kappa Alpha Theta, with Barbara Harvey doing the narrating and Judy Roddewig playing the melancholy fisherman in love with a dream on the opposite shore, portrayed by Janet Adams.

The tea was a moreorless experiment since it is the first time all of the parties have been combined. It was met with such enthusiasm and approval that it will undoubtedly be an annual affair.

Novel Dance Aboard G-Phi Pirate Ship

The G-Phi pirate ship docked long enough last Thursday night to permit a dance in honor of her new crew members to be held on its deck. New mates and dates each received a program in the shape of a pirate's head containing the pledge list. Treasure chests were thrown open in several of the cabins displaying jewels from many lands. The galley sent forth an endless supply of refreshments to those attending. Captains of the day were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hart and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Fox.

The fight is over, the victory has been celebrated and the freshmen are no longer wearing their cords, dinks, ribbons or paddles. The victory was not an easy one however as shown by the torn shirts, the greasy faces and the toothless grins. Proving that this is a women's world too, the freshmen girls entered the fray with great enthusiasm and vigor and added to the glorious cause by preventing many a sophomore from returning to the battle by not only holding them down but in many cases carefully grinding their faces in the mud. But now the battle is over, the freshmen can again dress like humans, the sophomores no longer need to fear kidnapping and the people living close to Tejon Tech can once again hope to sleep thru the early morning hours.

Speaking of sleeping it certainly wasn't possible early Friday morning. Hoping to arouse enthusiasm for the Adams State game, get everyone up in time for the fight, or perhaps to let Colorado Springs know we have an active group up here, an early morning pep rally was held. So that no one would sleep through the 4 a. m. festivities the quad was aroused at 3:00 to give everyone a chance to thoroughly wake up after their two hours of luxurious sleep. Believing in the theory that if one bomb is good, ten are even better, the quad echoed with explosions, bugle calls, honking of horns, singing (we use the term lightly) and general greeting of wake up. At four the doors to the great out-of-doors were thrown open and the festivities truly started. A pep rally, dance, coffee and doughnuts all followed. 'Twas truly a grand and glorious occasion and one that no one in a six miles radius will forget.

In keeping with the theme of an explanation of the Chapel policy several dogs made their weekly visit to the Chapel. Demonstrating the poor manner that too often exemplifies chapel they proceed to fight and growl under the seats.

To make matters worse ..they chose as their place of battle a section of chapel where several girls were sitting who seemed to resent this intrusion upon their privacy. This resulted in several screams, much growling and general confusion. This is hardly in keeping with the purpose of Chapel.

A great deal of confusion has been caused in the life of the residents of Slocum by one Dortie Rawlings. In an exhibition of clumsiness she dropped a jug of cider in one of the sinks spilling the contents all over it. As if this wasn't bad enough a large section of the marble sink fell out. As a result of this calamity the residents of Slocum are now forced to brush their teeth in the bath tub. Think what would have happened had they drunk the wicked stuff.

The social life at Tejon Tech has not been neglected as shown by Mary Allerton wearing Bob Jones Sigma Chi pin. Beryl Barr is now wearing Jim Smith's pin while Ginger Servatius is sporting a diamond from Rod Marion. All things considered its been a busy week.

Dogpatch Celebration Aids Community Chest

The Saturday night Sadie Hawkins dance, held in good old-fashioned Dogpatch style has been proclaimed a stompin' success. Clever costumes, kickapoo joy juice and John Hubby's music provided an abundance of atmosphere,, as seen both by the Dogpatch characters attending the dance and those looking down on the crowd from the murals.

This annual affair is held each year to further the campus Community Chest drive. Next on the agenda of events contributing to the success of the Chest drive is the CC Variety Show, which began last evening in Perkins Hall and will be presented nightly up to and including Friday night.

just shrugged it off by saying, "Oh, well, poor addled Dr. Schmaltz just doesn't understand", however it seems to be a pretty wide-spread characteristic and worthy of condemnation.

Recently, rumor has it, one of the enlightened few announced to his classes that he would just turn in "Incomplete" as a final grade for those members of his classes who were taking a certain course in lieu of a term paper which would be due second semester. Now this would just be peachy for thte seniors who might have to have their transcripts sent elsewhere at the end of first semester. To a prospective employer, the Incomplete might not have the same connotation that it would in the learned circles about campus.

Now it seems to me that if we are to continue the system of midterm reports on academic progress, it would be a justifiable duty of the administrative whip-crackers to see to it that the various instructors did a conscientious job of turning in grades that reflect as much as possible the student's actual progress in the course. The way things stand now, there's only a 50-50 chance that the grades one receives at Midterms are at all indicative of his success or failure. What a blow it is to get a deuce for a midsemester grade and later find out that you'd really been doing five work in the class. The system should either accomplish its purpose, or be thrown out.

give the students discounts at a number of stores. There are about forty other colleges in the U. S. with this S. P. C. system, and our cards willl be good in all those cities.

A project undertaken by the N.S.A. is the collection and publication of requirements necessary for a B.S. or B.A. in all the various fields. It seems there are quite a few students on the campus who aren't familiar with the requirements.

A request was made that tbe students be permitted to express their opinions of professors and courses more frequently. A committee will consider the revision of questionnaires filled out at the end of last semester.

N. S .A. elected John Nickols as representative to the chapel board.

A proposal was discussed to better entertainment facilities for CC students. Plans to obtain transportation and reduced rates for shows in Denver are now in progress.

In closing, may we remind you that every student is a member of N. S. A. with the right to participate in all discussions. After attending two consecutive meetings, anyone has the privilege of voting. It is hoped that all those students having problems concerning college life will bring them before the N. S. A. The more students who participate in the Wednesday meetings the greater the validity of NSA's opinion will be.

Build the World of Tomorrow By Saving the Child of Today

The Mayor of Meudon, France, has just honored members of an American women's fraternity for the help they are giving needy children of that Paris suburb. The Paris office of the Save the Children Federation reported that the Mayor was host at an official luncheon to express the gratitude of Meudon's children on the third anniversary of the French relief project of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity in America.

Since 1946 the Kappas have worked through the Save the Children Federation, a child service organization with national headquarters in New York City, sponsoring individual children and groups of school children in Meudon. At present they are helping more than 600 children.

The importance of the work, which commemorates the services performed in France after the first World War by Dorothy Canfield Fisher, noted American author and member of the fraternity, was recognized recently when the French consul in Boston, Massachusetts, presented Miss Woodman with the Foreign Ministry's Gold Medal of Honor.

CC Battles Mines Saturday for RMC Grid Title

Cagers Open Against Denver Chevs Nov. 28

With concentrated drills going on for the past two weeks Coach Carle and his highly touted CC cagers seem about ready for their opening game with Denver Chevrolets to be held at the City Aud on Monday night November 28th. This is a highly improved club over last year's team and with every returning letterman it promises to be a great year.

Working together on the first team have been Ed Scott and Captain Jack Quamme at the guards, Marv Powell and Ronnie Bonkosky at the forwards and George Sweeney at center. On the so-called second group are Will Perkins and Tony Esposito at the forwards, Jack Pfeiffer and Dwight Hamilton at the guards and John Schefelbein at center.

With a rugged 23 game schedule starring him in the face Coach Carle is looking for the best combination that will carry him thru the season, especially a combination that will win in tha RMC race and bring the championship back to Colorado College after a three year sojourn at Greeley.

CC Cubs Down Miners 26-6 for Final Win

The Colorado College Freshmen Football team rang down the curtain on a very successful seasan last Saturday as they defeated Colorado School of Mines 26-6 at Golden. This gives them the mythical Rocky Mountain Conference championship as they hold victories over all conference teeams.

Wes Boucher, injury-free at last scored CC's first touchdown as he raced off tackle for twenty-four yards and the first score of the game befora the first period was ten minutes old. Chuck Mollin garnered the first of his two scores midway through the second period on a nice eight yard run. Neither of the attempted placements were good and the Tiger Cubs left tha field at half time sporting a 12-0 lead.

It was the same old story in tha second half. Mollin got his second score of the afternoon on a short plunge after a sustained drive that started on the CC 34 yard line. The extra point was good. Tha final Freshmen score came late in the fourth period on a 28 yard pass from quarterback Norm Tuftedall to end Craig Richardson and the extra point was again good. Mines only score came in the fourth period on a short run that climaxed a drive of some sixty yards. Final score CC 26, Mines 6.

Opposing Quarterbacks — When C.C. and Mines meet Sat. afternoon to decide the R.M.C. championship these two boys will be depended on to carry their respective team to the conference title. On the left is John Crumley, standout quarterback for the C.C. Tigers who will be pacing the Bengal passing attack. Right, is Jack Earle, outstanding Mines quarterback who completed 22 out of 35 aerials against Idaho State last week. Saturday's game may turn out to be a passing dual between these two boys.

C.C. Seeks First R.M.C. Crown Since 1942

Eyeing their first conference title since 1942 the C.C. Tigers are ready and awaiting the invasion of the Miners from Golden in a game that will decide the 1949 Rocky Mountain Conference championship. A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand to witness these two evenly matched elevens fight it out for the the title. Both the Tigers and the Miners have a conference record of two wins and no losses. Although this may be a tough one to pick I like the Binnsmen by one touchdown.

Binns Praises Mines Eleven

C.C. Coach Al Binns had much praise for the Colorado Mines gridders in his weekly talk to the Downtown Quarterback club this week. 'Mines is a fine young ball club, full of zip and desire," Binns commented. "This boy Jack Earl is a terrific passer who can pitch like anything. Coach Fritz Brennecke has developed a fine club that certainly will be our big test." Insofar as to what type of game the Tigers will play Saturday the Bengal mentor went on to say "We've declared an open season on pass receivers, and fans ca nlook forward to a wide-open game against Mines."

Frosh Mentors Deserve Consideration

The C.C. Freshmen gridders completed another successful season last week by trouncing the Colorado Mines yearlings 26-6. The C.C. first year men completed their season with four wins and one loss. So its hats off to Coaches John Duggan, Ron Ivan and Dale Drummond for piloting the Tiger yearlings through another successful season on the gridiron.

Pucksters Shaping Up for Opening Tilt

We took in a practice at Coach Cheddy Thompson's C.C. hockey sessions out at the Broadmoor Ice Palace this week and from all indications the Tigers will ice a club with plenty of speed on skates and a desire to give all out in the puck chasing game. There is plenty of new blood on the Bengal roster this season and these lads should provide C.C. with one of the best balanced clubs in years. With several lettermen back to form a good nucleus the Tigers should win their share of games this season.

Tigers & Orediggers to Vie for Crown at 2 p. m. On Washburn Field

In the 51st meeting of what is the oldest football rivalry west of the Mississippi, Colorado College and Colorado School of Mines will meet here Sat. at 2 p.m. on Washburn Field to settle the championship of the Rocky Mountain Conference—an honor which was awarded by all pre season dopesters to last-place Colorado State.

A win for the CC Tigers would be the local's first title since tha consecutive pair they took in 1940 and 1941, while an Orediggers win would be their first since the great Golden teams also doubled in 1938 and 1939. Both CC and Mines figured in the Little Five's 1937 breakaway from the old powerhouse Rocky Mountain Conferenca, which included such schools as Denver, Wyoming and Utah.

Dating back to 1889, when Mines won the opener, 16-6 and the 50 meetings show Colorado College holding 27 victories, Mines 19 and four games ending in a tie. CC has won tho last two encounters, 35-12 on Washburn Field in 1947 and 12-7 in a driving snowstorm at Golden in the last game of the two schools' 1948 season.

Regarding the all-important tilt this Saturday, Coach Allison Binns of CC said today that he felt it was a great tribute to the spirit and determination of the younger Mines and CC teams that they should come out on top, undefeated in conference play against favored teams. "Coach Fritz Brennecke of Mines has plenty to be proud of," Binns said after having seen tha Orediggers in action several times this season. "By the same token it is the aggressiveness of our young players and tho example which they have set to our veterans that has given CC its finest record since the undefeated - untied Navy - Marina team of 1943."

The visiting Miners, who hava won four, lost three and tied ona as compared to the Tigers' record of five won and three lost, established themselves as favorites in the coming championship game by forcing a top-notch Idaho State aggregation to come from behind Armistice day for a 27-27 tie. Tha Pocatello, Idaho, crew had previously swept aside all Rocky Mountain competition handily, with the exception of Montana State, and was counted to do the sama against Mines. Idaho State dumped CC earlier in the season 28-6.

Seven seniors will take the field Saturday in their last appearance for Colorado College. Kolemelar, who has already earned three letters here, may not be ready, but the following will definitely appear: Hal Beile, end; Glenn Blagg and Chuck French, tackles; Jim Cox, center; Jack Purcell and Bud Parlapiano, guards, all lettermen except French.

aerial bombs. Ker-bang! Went the aerial bombs. "Blinkety-blankety, blink, blink," went the people who lost all their college spirit back when Sherman was marching on Geogria Tech. Howl. Went the police siren as the paddies scurried about looking for people causing the racket. But only shadowy sprites could be seen sprinting under the trees and around building corners.

Also, it was said that the students, their impending battle forgotten for the moment, had a dance for themselves.

Sophs Routed In Annual Battle

All this before the sun came up.

But then came 9 a. m. Lads with bags under their eyes big enough to bandle their laundry, lasses with mascara so awry that they looked like Halloween all over again. Came 9 a. m. and time for the famous freshmen-sophomore fight.

Came the "over the top" signal. Crash, slug punch. Meeling youths butted and slugged. Up went a frosh toward the greased pole. Down he came, up he went, higher, higher — he grabbed at the flag.

The already outnumbered sophomores were further demoralized when the more husky of the freshmen gals joined in the fracas. The gals threw tackles which Coach Allison Binns could use; threw haymakers that Joe Louis could use; threw weight around that the sophs could have used.

Between the frosh he-men and the frosh she-men, the sophs were routed in exactly two and one-half minutes.

But tonight? Then silent night. Oh quiet night with gentle snores. Pillowy clouds across star-filled skies. All night long.

TIGERS OVERPOWER ADAMS STATE 25-0 AS CRUMLEY-PERKINS LEAD AERIAL DUEL

By JOE HOLMES

A cold, windy afternoon slowed the Tigers offensive attack against Adams State on Armistice Day, but the Binnsmen managed to rack up 25 points to none for the Alamosans. The First quarter was marked by a great many fumbles as both teams seemed to find grease on th ball. Consequently neither team held on to the pigskin long enough to launch a sustained drive. The Tigers with the mighty wind at their faces, did not attempt a pass in the opening stanza and were held scoreless for the first eighteen minutes.

Shortly after the teams exchanged goals, however, the Tigers struck hard and fast for their initial tally. A long pass from Crumley to end Bill Perkins covered more than sixty yards and Perk sailed over the goal line untouched. This was undoubtedly one of the finest plays seen on Washburn Field for many a year. The ball traveled better than fifty yards in the air and Perk took it over his shoulder on the dead run to score. Hal Beile converted the extrapoint and the Bengals took the lead, 7-0.

Several plays later the same combination again clicked as Perkins stole a Crumley aerial from several Adams State defensemen and outran them to the goal line. "Moose" Van Metre threw the key blocks enabling Perkins to cover the final twenty yards after grabbing the pass. Beile's placement was wide and the Tigers had 13 as the half ended.

The third period found the Bengals again fighting the wind and the quarter went scoreless, a march began late in the third, however, was cultivated early in the final stanza as Bruce Carson skirted his right end for a yard and the third Tiger touchdown. Beile's placement was low as C. C. led Adams State, 19-0.

Emile Voelz made the Tigers fourth and final touchdown as he ran 68 yards down the sidelines. This was another beautiful play to wach as Emile was threatened not only by opposing tacklers, but by a sideline which kept closing in on him. Junior looked like a tightrope walker as he stepped on the line, but never out of bounds. Blagg missed the placement and CC's scoring was over for the day.

Gary Lewis played a great game at center as he fought it out with Adams State Captain who had to leave the game three times. George Wester, Chuck French, Dave Oatman, Don Lasswell, Rolly Rogers and all the other linemen played fine games. Bruce Carson and Mark Kochevar led the running attack and paired with Crumley's passing to complete the offensive threat.

Next week its CC and Mines for the RMC Championship. Let's all get behind the guys and bring the crown to the Springs this year.

TIGER END MAKES SENSATIONAL CATCH—Bill Perkins, C.C. end made one of the most sensational catches ever witnessed on Washburn field last Friday against Adams State. Perkins took a long aerial from Crumley and the C.C. end is shown going high in the air after the ball with two Adams State defensemen going up with him. This pass was good for a touchdown.

COLORADO COLLEGE | December 1, 1949 | NUMBER XI

CC Invited to Compete in National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament

Colorado College is one of the more than 300 invited to compete in the 1950 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. Invitations and entry blanks were received last week by college officials from Kenney L. Ford of Kansas State College, chairman of the Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament Committee. Only undergraduates are eligible to play in the duplicate Contract Bridge event for the title and trophy. A preliminary round will be played by mail in February, and the sixteen highest ranking pairs will meet for the face-to-face finals at the Blackstone Hotel in Chigago on April 21 and 22, with their expenses paid by the tournement Committee.

In last year's Intercollegiate tournament, which was won by the team from Wayne University, 1306 students representing 163 colleges in 45 states played in the round-by-mail. To insure representation of all parts of the country in the finals, the country is divided into eight zones with two pairs from each zone qualifying for the finals.

Anyone who is interested in playing in the tournament should contact Bill Schoof before Dec. 10, since the applications are due on December 15.

Assembly Council Puts New Life Into Programs

The recently formed assembly council is anxious to promote and present good assemblies for the student body this year, and have planned three assemblies for December.

On December 1, there will be a debate by the C.C. debate team concerning the nationalization of our basic industries.

The second, on December 8, will be an award assembly in honor of our football team, the new Rocky Mountain Conference champions. Perkins hall should be filled that morning to honor those men who represented our school so well on the gridiron this past season.

On December 15, there will be a Christmas program of special entertainment and each Fraternal organization will participate by singing some carol or other song of the group's choice. The organizations wishing to participate in this program should contact Dwight Hamilton and let him know the selection the group wishes to present. This step should be taken as soon as possible in order to eliminate any duplication.

Student Council Notes

The final vote on the proposed amendment to the ASCG constitution was turned in with a large majority favoring the amendment. A report of the College Chest drive found the fund nearly $1,600 short of the goal. All of the contributions had not been turned in however.

It was announced that any student desiring a set of pictures of all the acts in the variety show may obtain them for $2.00 a set. $1.00 will go to the campus chest drive and the other dollar will take care of the expense of printing the extra pictures. See any member of the student council after Monday.

Debate Team Successful in First Contest

C.C.'s debate team scored quite a success at their first meet of the year. The occasion was the Colorado University Invitational Forensic Meet, November 18 and 19, at Boulder. Fourteen schools from the midwest and Rocky Mountain regions competed.

The subject, which will be the subject for all meets this year, was "Resolved that the United States should nationalize basic non-agricultural industries." Our negative side made a clean sweep, winning all six of their debates. The affirmative side won two out of six. In one debate our team got a rating of all-around excellence in discussion, which was given to only four teams at the meet.

C.C. sent two teams up; Ed Benton, Byron Crane, Bob York, and Jim Caywood formed one team; Hawk Mills, Harvey Hamilton, Bill Barton, and Bill Grote formed the other.

Bill Grote was C.C.'s entry in the extemporaneous contest.

Dave Hart, a speech instructer, coaches the debate team, and was on the critics' panel at Boulder C.C. will hold an invitational meet this Saturday in Palmer hall, at which there will be several other regional schools participating.

Chest Show Brings Out College Talent

Climaxing a two-week drive for funds to be distributed to welfare organizations the C.C. Vaudeville Revue opened a three-day run at Perkins hall with 13 acts and a cast of 146 students. It was the first major production presented in the newly renovated campus auditorium.

The show, under the capable direction of Howard Farrell, got underway with a crash provided by 75 boistrous Phi Gamma Delta's in "It Can't Happen Here," a take-off of the Olson-Johnson comedy team. More hilarity was provided by Beta Theta Pi's presentation of "Babushka Bums," a satire with a strickly Soviet atmosphere. Of show stopping proportions was Dick Donahue - Tony Smith-Henry Royer pantomine of the Mills Brothers trio. And the Kappa Kappa Gamma pledges held their own with a "scene" from Verdi's Carmen.

In contrast with the excellent comedy skits provided by the show were some outstanding bits of art. Nancy Wilson and Claire Morris

Rehearsals for "Peg O' My Heart" Getting Final Polish

The Colorado College Players are now galloping along the homestretch with nightly thoroughgoing rehearsals of "Peg O' My Heart." The members of the cast are as keyed up and eager for the finish line as a gallant thoroughbred with a winning streak. The pace is set by Woodson Tyree, fabulous jockey of the play, whose mastery of the turf is well known to the college drama fans on and off the campus.

"Peg O' My Heart" is to be performed on December 6, 7, and 8 at 8:15 o'clock each evening. The play has that ineffable something which reaches out to the hearts of even the most hardened theater goers. Each member of the cast has been selected with the sensitivity and intuition of a gourmet's touch. Prepared and done to a turn by Chef Tyree, the play, the cast, and the stage setting in Perkins Hall are offered to the most discriminating palates.

"Peg O' My Heart" deals with an English middle class family, the Chichesters, who have been living luxuriously, and quite snobbishly, in what is known as sophisticated idleness. At the opening curtain Mrs. Chichester is discovered in quite a dither over the closing of the bank where the family finances are deposited. The need to seek ordinary employment is the catastrophic reality that now faces the younger set. Into this distressing but still snobbish situation enters our heroine, Peg. What happens to the disposition and daily life of the "local royalty" when Peg begins to sweep the atmosphere clean will be remembered and chuckled over for a long time.

The cast of characters in order of appearance is as follows:

Mrs. Chichester played by Karyl Spiegel; Butler, Al Dargel; Alaric, Jerald Ketchum; Ethel, Peggy Merle-Smith; Brent, Kale King; Peg, Joyce Matthews; Hawkes, Howard Farrell; Maid, Kirstine Sinding; Jerry, Loren Driscoll.

Student activities tickets will admit all students to any of the performances.

Dorothy Sands Gives Concert of American Theater Highlights

Dorothy Sands, sponsored by the Woman's Educational Society, presented "American Theatre Highlights" last Friday evening in the Perkins hall Little Theatre. Gladys Bueler provided the musical accompaniment for Miss Sands. Lightings and settings were by Woodson Tyree and Ralph Giddings.

Miss Sands divided her history of the American theatre into seven parts which formed a complete picture of the colonial stage to the present motion picture productions.

In "The Contrast" by Royall Tyler she took the part of a colonial woman, who after completing her education in England returned to the colonies. In contrast to her rival she is very coquettish and is constantly surrounded by admirers. The rival, pictured as a plain woman, marries and lives happily ever after, while she continues her life in unhappiness.

Music Workshop to Give Concert Dec. 11

On December 11 at 4:30 p. m. in Perkins auditorium, the Music Workshop Singers, an all student group directed by Jim Erb, will give their first concert of the year. The program will consist of Christmas carols, both traditional and some that are not quite so well known, works of Bach, Brahms, Zenfl, and one work by the contemporary composer, Charles Ives. Also included in the program will be one movement from a Mozart Quartet and one movement from a Mozart trio performed by a group of chamber music students.

Last year the singers gave two concerts at Shove Chapel, a spring concert at Colorado University and a production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury."

The coming Christmas program is going to be both an interesting and varied one, so if you want to spend an interesting Sunday afternoon, come to Perkins auditorium on December 11.

Fifteen Seniors Chosen for Who's Who in Colleges

Fifteen Colorado College seniors have recently been named to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," the public relations department announced Tuesday. Students are selected for this yearly publication on the basis of activities they have participated in since their arrival at CC four years ago as freshmen.

Selection was made this year by recommendations from the different organizations. A committee of the Student Council then screened the applicants and the council passed on the committees choices. The faculty and administration then went over the applicants and further screened the list and the final selection was made by the Who's Who Board in Tuscalossa, Alabama.

The seniors who were selected from CC are, William Barton, Rosemary Fuller, Gale George, Marjorie Gilliland, Clarice Hads, James Kinder, William Murray, James Parlapiano, Wilfred Perkins, Richard Pfeiffer, Clarence Raines, Mary Ruble, Patricia Starrels, Helen Stevenson and Charles Stoddard.

A list of the individual activities will be published next week.

Sophomore Tea

President and Mrs. William H. Gill have issued invitations to all sophomores to attend a tea in honor of members of their class one week from today, Thursday, Dec. 8, at Bemis hall, from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock.

This is the second of the series of four class teas given annually by the President and Mrs. Gill, affording them an opportunity to meet the members of the different classes, and each entire class a chance to get together socially.

The sophomore class officers, Mark Kochevar, Pat Gormley, Marty Healey, and Mary Lou Kenisen, will receive with President and Mrs. Gill.

Poor Taste for Money

The Community Chest drum which was assigned to Lennox house was broken into last week. An undertermined amount was taken but it is known that more than one bill and some change disappeared from the drum.

Two questions arise: Who and why? It is, of course, useless to speculate on who took the money and why. However it is not useless to bring this out so all may know.

The act is deplorable, in every sense of the word. But no amount of ranting and raving will bring the lost contributions back.

The question has been raised: Was the pilferer a college student or an outsider who just walked in and helped himself? This, too, cannot be answered in facts. The only fact is, that that money which was contributed for charitable purposes has been stolen. Really, now, doesn't it make you wonder?

Also on the missing list is a blue covered amplifier and record player. This was taken from Lennox house a couple of weeks ago. It was in a cabinet on the main floor and was obviously taken by someone who knows our Student Union.

If anyone knows of its whereabouts either tell Miss Fowler or return it to its properp lace. No questions asked, just want to get the record player back.

We're Great or Are We?

By MARY RUBLE

We're a great bunch here at C.C. If you don't believe it just ask us and we'll tell you how we really back any school project. We're the group that has a winning football team, a top ski organization and a truely representative student government. Yet we're the same group that demonstrated so vividly that we were unwilling to back a project that involved a little personal effort on our part, the giving up of a few personal pleasures and that would really do something to help others besides ourselves. Yes, its the Campus Chest Drive I'm refering to, our one opportunity of the year to really show that we know that other things are going on in the world than those that directly affect the happenings in the two block radius around Tejon Tech. After a great deal of effort on the part of those planning the campaign each and every student was asked to dig into their pocket and give to the seven different causes to help others and indirectly help others and indirectly help ourselves. And what was the result of this request to our great student body. We managed as a group to raise the whole sum of $604.23, which means about fifty cents apiece, which if divided equally among the seven organizations included in the chest drive equals 7c per group. Seven cents as your share to help the Foster Parent Plan, seven cents for the Community Chest and seven cents for the World Student Service Fund.

Not only is this ridiculous—it is more than that. It represents that something is wrong here. Don't we care about others than ourselves? Can't we see that all these organizations benefit us or are we so wrapped up in our own affairs that we can't spare the time, energy or money to realize that Colorado College is a small insignificant speck in the whole world that we live in.

Oh yes, we've got a great bunch of students up here, really enthusiastic and willing to give their whole hearted support to college functions. We're really a top group—or are we? What do you think?

By WALT SWEET

There are, in this old world of ours, a bunch of so called "necessary evils" . . . only a few are really necessary, but all are certainly evil! Not the least of these are the periodic examinations, quizzes, and just plain tests that seem to be especially coincident with our search after truth, and plague the student from kindergarten to sheepskin. Certain types of testing, of course, are easier than other types, but few of these tests actually reflect ability in processes other than rote learning. This depends, usually, on whether the instructor is really interested in teaching his pupils to think, or whether he is actually more concerned with the immediate cramming of large quantities of timeless bilge to be quickly memorized and then never used.

The writers of the Cynic's Calendar have corned an old truism by phrasing it thus: "You can lead a fool to knowledge, but you cannot make him think!" Certainly our educators can't expect to make the masses think, or expect any such idealistic results without first insisting that an adequate background and training in the use of the thinking processes be given. And yet, it seems, they blindly plunge ahead with their willy-nilly shoveling of academic facts and figures down untrained throats and expect to find well-developed mental-digestive systems waiting to interpret and assimilate the stuff. Whoa!

While in High School, I was blessed with a mathematics teacher who insisted that we train our thinking and reasoning powers at the expense of all else. The formulae, equations, facts, and figures were only the grist for tbe mill, and without the mill, they could not be properly refined into any sort of useful result. His battle cry was, in effect, "Have you got the trained mental stuff to get the things you need?" and not, "You must memorize these things to pass." It seems to me that if more of our so-called teachers took this common sense viewpoint, they would be responsible for the training of a good deal better crop of truly educated men.

Perhaps this whole discussion boils down to a definition of purposes. Early in their professional lives, our educators should make a choice between delivering, as finished products, to this society of ours, individuals trained in the capable and efficient use of their God-given intellects, or persons loaded to the guards with a jumbled mass of useless facts, figures, and formulae. To the man who has early been trained to reason and think his way through situations of importance, the assimiliation of the quantity of academic tripe to which he is exposed is easy an productive. To the one who has never been made to think and use these facts and figures only as tools to implement his mental processes, the world is likely to be a very frustrating and confusing place. Where better can our faculty impress the value of such implementation than in the examinations they give? Where better can they show that, in the final analysis, the equations, the lists, and all the unrelated bits of factual stuff are no good at all unless there has been first an adequate machinery developed within the individual for the correlation of these scraps into something really usefull and productive?

Science Department Discussed by Four College Professors

On Wednesday, Nov. 16, Professors Fox, Stabler, Michael, and Barnes were invited to dinner at the Beta house. After the meal, each professor gave a short talk to the underclassmen about the general qualifications of the science department and outlined the courses of study most helpful for a science major. For many of the men it was the first official word they had heard of the specific qualifications of the science department since the administration does not deem it necessary to give out any such important information. A short informal "smoker" followed the talks.

Kappas Making Many Plans for Christmas

After many varied and eventful Thanksgiving vacations, the Kappas are now planning for the rapidly approaching Christmas season. This Saturday, from 2:30 'till 4 o'clock, the lodge will take on a yuletide atmosphere. At this time there will be a Christmas party for twenty or twenty-five underprivileged Mexican children, with small gifts and refreshments for each of the youngsters.

The alumnae chapter will hold its annual pre-holiday dinner for the active chapter next Tuesday, Dec. 6. Closely following these activities will be the Christmas formal, on Dec. 10, when the Kappas and their dates will give old St. Nick a sneak preview of holiday fun.

Thanksgiving was great, trips home, Thanksgiving dinners, party times at C.C. and fun and frolicking for all. Bill Shepard made the vacation a special one for Mary Lou Kekeisen by giving her his Phi Delt pin. Lorie Wilkening is now wearing Joe Holmes' pin while Karyl Speigel is wearing a diamond from Jerry Cole. Vacations are definitely here to stay.

Dean Broome surprised his 8:00 religion class by playing "Don't Fence Me In" on the chapel organ while the class filed in for their morning's activities. Such talent as we have in this school. Some one should have realized his abilities before the variety show.

Miss Jakimowitz has an interesting Greek class composed of several of the professors on campus including Scott, Cooke, McCue and Krutzke. Mr. Krutzke fills the role of the class bright boy by telling the others they are dumbies when they don't know the answers and disturbing the intellectual tranquility of the class by answering out of turn. To those wondering about the progress of the class it should be noted that no grades or tests are given. Could this be discrimination or professional ethics.

Billy Westerfield, Jerry Bayless, Loren Driscoll, Harold Lyn, Ward Gongol and Dick Donahue all had an enjoyable weekend at the Broadmoor following the variety show. They appeared on a Columbine broadcast of local talent Saturday night and as a reward for their efforts received a free weekend of room, food and liquid refreshments. 'Twould be nice to be so talented.

Loren Driscoll and Harold Lyn had such a fine time at the Broadmoor their first time there that they went back a second weekend to again appear on the radio broadcast. Proving that all things come to those that are persistent Loren won the amateur crown and now will again appear in other broadcasts in the spring. This sort of thing could get to be a habit.

Oefinitely missing from this week's chapel service was the music of the choir. Things seemed to be running along smoothly, the choir rose to sing, the organ played the introduction, Carol Fisher signaled to begin to sing and Dean Broome started to talk.

Several weeks ago, I threw out a few words of warning about the unseasonable weather and how, all of a sudden we might be swept off our feet by wintery blasts. It looks as if I may have to eat my words—or will I? Instead of sticking my neck out, I would like to point out a few facts and then let you decide for yourself.

Take a look at the date at the top of this paper, and then keep in mind that college vacation starts at noon Saturday the 17th; not much time before Christmas vacation, is there. Here is a suggestion that may help to get your gift problems cleared up: drop into Perkins-Shearer this weekend or early next week and look around—you will be amazed to find that we have gifts for the entire family. Mother, Dad, Sis and Brother will be pleased with a gift from Perkins-Shearer; a gift that reflects good taste always.

Dad would like a Van Hausen shirt—ask to see the Century series.

FROSH CAGERS OPEN WITH 43-37 WIN

By JOHN STEWART

The Freshmen basketball team opened its season last Monday night with a victory over Lorigs, of the local Industrial League, 43-37. Considering that the Freshmen have only been practicing for a week they did very well and with a lettle more work they should develop into a good team.

Led by Dunc Stephens, a towering 6ft. 6 in. center from Stamford, Conn., the Tiger Cubs jumped into an early lead and held it, leaving the floor at half time leading by the score of 26-19. Roylance stole the show in the second half as he dumped in shot after shot from all possible angles. Stephens fouled out midway through the second half and his loss was felt although Jack Stiegelmeier tried to shoulder most of the load. The final whistle found the Cubs still out in front 43-37. High man for the Tigers was Stephens with 12 points, while Roylance was high for Lorigs, and for the game, with 27 points.

Denver Chevs Edge Tigers

Sweeney, Quamme and Scott Pace Bengals To Near Win in Opener

The CC Tigers tore off the lid on their 1949-50 basketball season last Monday night as they lost a heart-breaker to the AAU Denver Chevrolets 60-57 in a five minute overtime peroid.

In and out of the lead several times and never behind by more than five points, CC went into the final minute of play trailing by four points 49-45 but Ed Scott and George Sweeney each dropped in a two-pointer and the score at the end of regulation time was all tied up at 49-49. Scott put CC out in front with two quick baskets but Harold Howey, former All-American at Kansas State, sunk a basket and a free throw and Cordon "Shorty" Carpenter edded another bucket and the Chevrolets went into the lead 54-53. For the next two minutes the teams fought up and down the court but Howey again proved to be the diffirence as he sank two pretty shots, one from way out end the other one from right around the keyhole. Trailing 58-55, Sweeney sank a long shot but it proved to be in a losing cause as Gordon Carpenter came right back with another basket and the game ended with the Denver Chevrolets out in front 60-57.

The first half was a real thriller-diller as CC, paced by Captain Jack Quamme and Ed Scott went into the lead 13-11 with eight minutes left in the half. Shots by George Sweeney and Jack Quamme and two foul shots by John Schefelbein sent the Tigers into a commanding 23-16 lead but a slight let up at the end enabled the Chevrolets to get moving and the half ended with CC out in front 25-23.

The work of Marv Powell, Ed Scott and John Schefelbein under the boards is well worth mentioning as time and again they went up to grab a rebound out of the outstretched hands of one of the Denver giants. Add to this the great floor play of Jack Quamme and George Sweeney and you have the makings of what proved to be one of the best basketball games seen in this city in many yeers. Gordon Carpenter and Harold Howey dumped in 41 points, the former getting 19 and Howey getting 22. Sweeney was high for CC with 15 points followed closely by Scott and Quamme with 13 each.

C.C. Pucksters Very Impressive in Preparing for Opener

Having three weeks of daily practice tucked under their belt the Colorado College hockey team is showing up remarkably well as they make final preparations for their opening two game series with Wichita All-Stars at Albuquergue, N. M., on Dec. 9 and 10.

Coach Cheddy Thompson has an abundance of material on hand this season including six returning lettermen and 13 newcomers some who have come up from last year's undefeated junior varsity team and the remainder are transfers from various junior colleges.

Returning lettermen are forwards Chris Ray from Belmont, Mass, and Harry Whitworth from Belleville, Ontario, defensemen, Mike Yalich, Eveleth, Minn. and Jim Starrak, Moose Jaw, Sask., goalies, Roy Ikola, Eveleth, Minn., Clark Wilder, Rochester, Minn.

Coach Thompson has Ray, Whitworth, and Ron Hartwell from Swan Lake, Manitoba on one line with a second line made up of three sophomores. Handy Andy Gambucci, a CC grid star of the past season, Bus Eastwood a product of Saskatoon and Tony Frasca a center from Cambridge, Mass.

Another line moved up from last year's Jayvee team includes Bill MacDonald, Hamden, Conn; John Schlicher, New Haven, Conn,; and Cam Berry, New Westminster.

On defense the Tigers will ice one combination of veteran Mike Yalich and Jim Starrak with Len Maccini another New England boy and Carl Lawrence a newcomer from Waterloo, Ont. forming a second line. Don Robertson, a capable defenseman from Edmonton suffered a dislocated shoulder in a recent practice and will be out indefinitely.

The net tending chores will be in the hands of the following three men, Roy Ikola, Clark Wilder or Bill Dwire a product of Cambridge, Mass. who also is rated a top notch diamond star for the Tigers.

CC will play 16 home games this season with the first two slated with the Wichita All-Stars on Dec. 16, 17 at the Broadmoor Ice Palace.

Defenseman Mike Yalich has been elected to captain the Tigers on the ice this season.

C.C. TRIPS COLO. MINES 13-12 TO ANNEX 1949 ROCKY MOUNTAIN CONFERENCE TITLE

By BOB LEAVITT

Coach Allison Binns' C.C. Tigers completed one of their most successful seasons in years as they edged out a 13-12 victory over the highly rated Colorado School of Mines eleven to cop the 1949 Rocky Mountain Conference crown and climaxed the seaseon with a record of six wins and three losses. Over 6,000 thrilled spectators were on hand to witness the Bengal gridders take their first conference title since the undefeated team of 1941. The deciding point of the game came in the first quarter when reserve halfback Emil Voelz came in following the first CC touchdown and kicked the first extra point of his career which spelled victory and a championship for the CC'ers.

The heartbreaking point of the game for the Miners occured in the fourth stanza when halfback Dick Bench fumbled on the 1½ yard line with the ball falling in the end zone as CC's Mel Kensinger fell on it for a touchback.

The Orediggers tallied the first TD in the opening period when CC quarterback John Crumley attempted a lateral to Dwight Brothers from his own 14. The ball went high and wide into the end zone with Mines Jay Naugle falling on it for the tally. This gifted score was a definite break for the inspirated Orediggers. Bethurum's extra point went wide and Mines led 6-0.

Following the next kickoff, CC traveled from their own 34 to the Miners' 43 on six consecutive running plays with fullback Mark Kochevar breaking thru tackle behind some beautiful blocking to go down field for the first CC tally. Voelz then came in to boot the game winning extra point.

The famous old Statue of Liberty play paid off to set up the stage for the second Tiger TD in the second quarter, Kochevar carried on this play to the Mines 27. The hard running CC fullback picked up 13 more yards while Dwight Brothers hit pay dirt on two more running plays.

Early in the third quarter Mines picked up several yards on various short gains with Jack Earl finally tossing a short pass to Dick Bench who went over standing up. Again Bethurum's attempted extra point failed.

It might be well to mention that CC dominated the play thruout the first half while the Miners definitely had a big edge in the second half both offensively and defensively.

The Tigers outplayed the Orediggers on the ground, annexing 14 first downs to eight for Mines. CC chalked up a net yardage from rushing 312 to 169. The Miners held the edge in passing as Earl completed 12 for 22 for total net yards gained passing of 77 while CC tallied 15 yards in passing.

Although it is rather difficult to bring out any outstanding individual performer for the championship C.C. eleven, word of praise must be given to fullback Mark Kochevar who carried the ball 17 times for a total of 150 yards gained. Earl Kingry and Jack Earl each turned in a great performance for the losing Miners.

Bengal Hoopsters to Meet Tough Opponents On Weekend Road Trip

The high geared CC Tiger cagers who lost a close 60-57 decision to the starstudded AAU Denver Chevrolets this week will take to the road this weekend to meet three worthy opponents in three consecutive days.

Coach Jerry Carle's quintet will oppose the high scoring and rangy University of Iowa "Hawkeyes" at Iowa City tonight. The Hawkeyes trounced CC 77-44 last season but the Bengal cagers hope to keep the score a little closer this time. Friday night the CC'ers return to Omaha to meet a good Creighton University cage crew which ended their season with a very impressive record last season. Saturday evening the Carle coached five remain in Omaha to lock horns with Omaha University who also are highly rated in the Nebraska basketball circuit.

If Coach Carle's hopefuls keep up the type of play they performed against the Denver Chevs last Monday night night they may come home with a string of wins.

The final four tables will be judged by a professional bridge player to choose eight players who will play by mail with other players in the region.

Only Culbertson rules for bidding will be used with no secret bidding allowed. Black Wood convention for Aces will be used for bidding.

The hands of the finals will be sent to Chicago who will judge whether or not the players have qualified to compete in the national bridge tournament to be held in Chicago sometime in March.

It is hoped that many students will compete in this year's tournament to enable C.C. to have a better chance to compete in the national tournament.

At the Chapel board meeting held Tuesday evening November 29, the board recommended to the ushers of the Chapel that they do not give credit for attendance to any person who arrives to the service after it has begun. The ushers have been instructed to indicate to the students when the service is about to begin.

It was also suggested that the members of the student body remain in their places until the members of the faculty and visitors have left the Chapel. Arrangements have been made for the faculty and visitors to leave by the side entrances.

Joe Creager Talks On CC's Cut Policy

Speaking under the auspices of the National Student Association, Joe Creager talked on the cut policy last week in chapel. This was an attempt to clear up the matter of the cut policy and to eliminate confusion of it with the Honor System.

Pointing out the difference between the old and the new systems, Joe said, "Back in the dark ages when the members of the class of '50 were freshmen the school was under a very hap-hazard system of cuts. The entire policy was left up to the individual professors. Any number of cuts might not mean a thing in one class, whereas in another class one cut would lower your average one point and two would give you a 7.

"The students were the first to protest this lack of uniformity. And so, in the spring of 1947 a committee of students and faculty was formed to study the problem. After examining the policies at other schools, the present policy was proposed except for one point on which the students and faculty disagreed. The faculty wanted each course to have cuts equal to the hour value of that course and the students wanted to take their cuts as they saw fit. A compromise was reached whereby the students won their point on this issue and the faculty was permitted to give double cuts before and after holidays. Double cuts were necessary because too many students were leaving school as far as two weeks before a designated holiday.

"The policy as it stands now states that any person carrying 15 hours will receive 15 cuts before being penalized. If he wishes he may take all of them in one course. One hour is added to his graduation requirements for the first overcut; he shall have 2 hours added to his requirements if he has twenty-one absences; 3 hours for 26 absences, etc. For the period extend-

Why Back Them—Lets back Us!

I seem to have a little difficulty in figuring out a few things that go on here at Colorado College. To begin with several weeks ago the C-Club asked permission to sell tickets for the down town Notre-Dame supporters in selling tickets to the Notre Dame - S.M.U. football game held last Saturday. Part of the money from the sale of tickets would go into the C-Club fund which in turn would benefit members of Colorado College. Permission was not granted to this organization. During the half at the last C.C. football game I remember hearing over the loud speaker that a drawing was taking place for this same game by members of the Notre Dame backers. The money that they made from the sale of these tickets would be turned over to Notre Dame to build a new scientific laboratory or something of the sort.

It appeared to me that by having the drawing at the half of a C.C. football game indicated that C.C. was backing this worth while project on behalf of the Notre Dame supporters. However they weren't backing it or the C-Club would have been allowed to sell the tickets and get a little of the money that would otherwise leave the city. I am not complaining about the fact that Notre Dame has supporters in Colorado Springs but I am wondering why C.C. would need to act as if they were in favor of the plan and aiding Notre Dame to build something that they no doubt need very badly—However I feel that an announcement in regard to our endowment campaign, the Lewis Abbott Memorial fund, or that C.C. is starting a drive to build a couple of new buildings on the campus here in Colorado Springs, would have been a much more appropriate halftime activity.

Magazine Theft — Again

Many of you are probably unaware that Lennox House subscribes regularly to several national magazines, and that tbey are supposedly, available as soon as they are received. In view of this you would, and should expect to see the latest editions of such magazines as Collier's, Time, Esquire, Life, Reader's Digest and others on the tables at Lennox. Unfortunately you are apt to find a few copies of something that looks like the discard of last year's Salvation Army drive.

The reason behind this problem, which is an old one, is that a few students seem to be under the misguided notion that Lennox House is buying these magazines for their exclusive use. While we admire their thirst for knowledge, it does seem that they migbt keep in mind that others, too, may share their enjoyment of these magazines, and that they are for the use of the whole student body.

Until now we have kept hoping that the students in question would, by some miracle, become more considerate, but our faith in human nature is becoming somewhat threadbare. The use of a twenty-four hour armed guard in the magazine room seems rather impractical, so if this theft is not discontinued, the magazines will have to be. If you want them to remain it will be to your advantage to leave them, and warn others to do likewise.

—The Lennox House Board.

By WALT SWEET

"The old man thinks the young man has no distinct purpose, for he could never get anything intelligible and earnest out of him. Perhaps the young man does not think it worth his while to explain himself to so hard and inapprehensive a confessor. Let him be led up with a long-sighted forbearance, and let not the sallies of his petulance or folly be checked with disgust or indignation or despair."—Emerson (Education).

It's an invariable characteristic of most men to fight, in one way or another, for the things that they think are right and proper. Some of us make mistakes in the choice of methods, others in their choice of arms. Each of us, however, at some time during his formative years, seeks to right the wrongs of the world in one sweep of reform, only to find that he is not only stepping on other people's toes, but oftentimes their whole foot as well. The constant probing, griping, and expostulating that many of us do to some extent or another during our student years is usually occasioned by the need for an explanation only, and not by any primitive nasty urge to be vindictive or sarcastic. While it is oftentimes construed to be such, were the explanations forthcoming, such probing would be unoccasioned.

Many have, evidently, considered the prattling of this column to be underlaid by a notion of cynicism. The writer's objects have not been this at all. In his educational procedure, as in that of most of his associates, the need for an adequate explanation and discussion of the complex problems caught up in his educational and social life has been foremost. The writer is proud of the school he is associated with, as he is of the country in which he lives. Both of which, however, seem to present, at times, situations whose solution is beyond the scope of his undeveloped powers of reason, hence need a logical unveiling. Perhaps it is a characteristic peculiar to young men to see room for improvement in nearly all of their activities and surroundings, but I doubt it. Pointing out the puzzling things is not necessarily condemning them, nor is it a demand for their immediate revision. It is usually, and has been in this space, only a desire to improve and explain the conditions under which we all live. If the space devoted to this questioning has been interpreted in any other light than that of a search for explanation, the writer will tend to his lights and phrasing and mend his ways. "Let him be led up with a long-sighted forbearance, and let not the sallies of his petulance or folly be checked with disgust or indignation or despair."

Dorothy Sands Concert Clears $2,000 for WES, Perkins Hall Theater

Miss Amanda M. Ellis told a meeting of the board of the Woman's Educational Society Thursday morning that the payments on the modernization of Perkins Hall Little Theatre were increased to over $2,000 by the Dorothy Sands benefit performance.

Miss Ellis explained that the contract with Miss Sands called for a set sum and expenses and she believed that the ticket sale would take care of all of these expenses, and that the $1,000 received from patrons and the $1,050 from advertising would be clear profit.

Last year the Woman's Educational Society set out to modernize the Perkins Hall Little Theatre at a total cost of $24,500 and since that time has paid bills totaling $19,500. Miss Ellis said that a complete statement of the sum raised by this benefit will be made as soon as all bills have been submitted.

Christmas vacation is rapidly approaching. If you don't think so just ask the numerous freshmen who have had their suit ...cases packed since Thanksgiving and can now tell you the number of hours till the Rocket arrives in Chicago. Others thinking of the ride home have begun to lay in a supply of food and other necessary articles in preparation for a long train ride. It should be an exciting:if not joyous train ride.

Believing that Christmas means joy and festivity the freshmen have begun to manifest this spirit by rioting, throwing water and just generally showing the exuberance of youth in the early morning hours in some of the various dorms on campus. Unfortunately this same spirit of the yuletide has not infested anyone and retributions are in order.

Following the Christmas spirit of giving, Pat Patterson is now wearing a diamond, the gift of Jim Harrison. Carol Gaebel and Wes Bradley are planning an after Christmas wedding.

Feeling that something must be done about this dull Sunday situation Duck Nichol and Cynthia Milton have several plans to offer in their "Let's Abolish Sunday" campaign. It is boped that everyone will seriously consider these various solutions and notify the heads of this group should they have any other ideas to offer. The first plan calls for a six day week with 28 hours in every day. In this manner it is hoped that more could be accomplished during these six days. So that everyone will have adequate holidays they propose to have every other Monday a holiday. For those disapproving of this idea they offer the suggestion that we could have two Saturdays. Realizing that this proposal might meet with disapproval of the conservative element of the population they offer yet a third plan. It has been suggested that everyone could sleep all day Sunday and hence would need very little sleep during the week. In this manner it would not be necessary to do away with Sunday but it could be kept as a day for sleeping. It is hoped that everyone will give this their attention so that some sort of suitable action can be taken at an early date.

Congratulations are in order to Dr. Stabler for his excellent acting job in the recent play presented by the Civic Players. However, Dr. Stabler is not only apt in heavy drama but will show his ability to play all types of roles by appearing

Represent Yaurself

Perhaps you've notice the absence of pictures from the many dances this year. The TIGER is only too glad to be able to print them, thus representing your fraternity, sorority or any other organization you may wish recognized. The policy has been to have each organization pay for the cut of their respective dance or party. We have a plan by which all may be represented at a lower cost. The TIGER will pay half the cost of the cut, the organization, the other half, whittling it down to only $2.00 per picture.

If you so desire to have your parties pictured, arrange with the photographer at your dance to show you the choices on Monday so the selection may be turned in Tuesday noon, in time for the regular Thursday edition of the TIGER. Any news pertaining to the event must be turned in not later than 1:30 p. m. each Tuesday.

Iowa and Creighton Defeat C.C. on Road

CC's Varsity basketball team, after losing its first game of the season, took to the road last week, losing to the University of Iowa on Thursday night 76-54, and to Creighton University in Omaha on Friday night 58-51.

Before a pleased crowd of some 9,000 people Thursday night, Iowa rolled to its 41st straight non-conference victory at the Iowa City fieldhouse as they defeated CC 76-54. Paced by Frank Calsbeek, who dumped in 12 points in the first half, Iowa got away to a fast lead and were never headed as they led 44-26 at the half. CC's fire and determination kept them in the ball game for most of the way but they were unable to overcome the Iowa lead. With the Iowa reserves playing the latter part of the game CC was able to cut down the lead but time ran out before they were able to overcome it. High scorer for Iowa was Calsbeek as he dumped in 17 points, Bob Vollers scored 12 and Erv Cochrane 11. For CC George Sweeney garnered 15 and Jack Quamme was next with 10.

Moving into Omaha Friday night, CC was unable to get going and Creighton jumped into an early lead and holding it until half-time when they left the court with a 28-19 advantage. Creighton's edge was never seriously threatened although they did close up a 14-point deficit toward the end. Earl McLelland was high point man for Creighton with 15 points followed by Miller with 11 and Gilchrist with 10. For CC, Sweeney was again high man with 14 points followed by Jack Quamme with 10, and John Schefelbein, a very promising sophomore, with 8.

CC Tank Team Begins Practice at YMCA

C.C. swimmers are now practicing on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:30 at the Y.M.C.A. Although two days practice a week is insufficient to get the team in shape, Juan Reid is making arrangements for additional pool hours on Mondays and Wednesdays.

The team's first meet will be with the University of Denver, at Denver, on January 13. A home meet with Colorado Mines is scheduled for February 11. Other competition with these two schools and also with Colorado State and University of Colorado is being arranged.

All C.C. men interested in competitive swimming (including freshmen)are urged to be at the Y.M.C.A. pool today at 4:30, or to call Dave Schultz at 8057-NW.

HOOPSTERS TO SEEK FIRST TWO WINS OF SEASON AGAINST KANSAS COURT MEN

Colorado College's hot and cold basketball team returns to play on home court this weekend in a pair of encounters with Fort Hays Kansas State, far from satisfied with its performance against Iowa University and Creighton University. After opening the season at home against Denver Chevrolet's crack A.A.U. quintet, and losing in a brilliant display of C.C. power and hustle by only three points, the Tigers failed to find this same hustle and were knocked off by favorite Iowa and by mediocre Creighton.

Granting that his club was at least 10 points under the experienced Iowa quintet, Coach Jerry Carle of C.C. was disappointed at the 76-54 Iowa victory. "We were definitely not the same team that played at home one week ago. And to top it off we lost the next night to Creighton, 58-51, a team we should have beaten handily."

Fort Hays will bring an unknown quantity to Colorado Springs as far as the Bengals are concerned. C.C. and the Kansas club have not met since the Tigers dropped a close encounter in a Fort Hays tournament two years ago.

On the prowl for more offensive strength, Carle predicted more action this Friday and Saturday for Tony Esposito and John Schefelbein in the forward slots. Esposito is a 5-10, 22-year-old transfer from Morgan Park Jr. College, Chicago, and is one of the smoothest and lightning-like ball-handlers to perform here. Schefelbein, a 6-2 sophomore from Peoria, Ill., continues to improve with every moment of experience. Coach Carle was not sure who these two would replace nor would he name a definite starting lineup, but they will see plenty of action along with George Sweeney, center and present high scorer, letterman Jack Quamme, Marvin Powell and Ed Scott and transfer Ron Bonkosky.

KRDO TO AIR HOCKEY GAMES

Radio station KRDO will give a play by play broadcast of the C.C.-Wichita All-Stars hockey games from Albuquerque this Friday and Saturday. Broadcast time each night will 8:15.

"I shall put you fellows in this room,' said the host. "You'll have a comfortable night since it has a feather bed."

At 2:00 o'clock in the morning one of the guests awoke his companion. "Change places with me, Dick," he groaned. "It's my time to be on the feather."

SPORTS TRAIL

Former C.C. Stars Performing for Wichita—

When the C.C. hockey team clashes with the Wichita All-Stars in the season opener at Albuquerque this weekend they will be meeting six former Tiger puck chasers. Included on the Wichita roster are: Dick Rowell, captain of last year's C.C. hockey team, Bruce Stewart, a four-year hockey letterman at C.C.; Lew Meier, a sensational defenseman on last season's aggregation; Red Season's and Howie Hushion, two top forwards who also carned three varsity hockey letters while attending C.C. Another former Tiger puckster situated at Wichita is Len Gagnon a forward who had one year's hockey service at C.C. Iceing such a star-studded sextet as the above the Wichita skaters should provide plenty of opposition for our Tigers at Albuquerque.

Cagers Aiming for Double Win This Weekend—

Winless in their first three games this season the C.C. basketeers of Coach Jerry Carle will attempt to hit the win trail this Friday and Saturday when they play host to a Fort Hays (Kansas State) five in a two game series at the city aud. Coach Carle was somewhat dissatisfied with the results of the two games the Tigers dropped on their recent trip to the Mid-West. C.C. lost a 76-54 decision to Iowa University and then bowed to Creighton University 58-51 in a game that the Tigers were a sure bet to win. Carle plans to juggle the lineup this weekend in an effort to seek more scoring power against Fort Hays.

Varsity Wrestling Should Be Resumed at C.C.—

From the appearance of the turn outs at the intramural wrestling and boxing matches being held at Cossitt gym it is quite obvious that varsity wrestling should be added to the athletic program here at C.C. This sport was dropped from the athletic program last year due to lack of interest. With the exception of C.C. every school in the conference is planning to floor a wrestling team this year. Without a doubt there is plenty of talent available on the campus and there is no reason why wrestling can not make a comeback at C.C. So to the big wigs in the athletic department, I say let's bring the mat sport back to C.C.

I-M Wrestling and Boxing Provides Thrills and Spills

The annual intramural wrestling and boxing tournament got under way last Tuesday evening before a capacity crowd at Cossitt gym as the jam packed audience witnessed some outstanding bouts both in wrestling and boxing. The feature fight of the evening brought together two top notch C.C. gridders in Mark Kochevar and Don Laswell as these two lads paired off in a 165 pound slugging match with Laswell gaining a decision over Kochevar in a closely fought battle.

BENGAL SEXTET OPEN WITH WICHITA TEAM IN NEW MEXICO SAT.

The Colorado College hockey team will pry open the lid on their 1949-50 schedule this weekend at Albuquerque, N. M., when they meet the experienced Wichita All-Stars in a two game series.

Coach Cheddy Thompson's skaters defeated the junior varsity puck crew 4-0 in a regulation game at the Broadmoor Ice Palace last Monday evening. Although the Tigers looked a little ragged at times it was quite evident that C.C. will ice a fast group of puck chasers this season and these boys possess a great desire to play the game.

With the exception of wingman Chris Ray the C.C. aggregation is well intact for the weekend games. Ray has been layed up with a severe cold all week but the Belmont, Mass., lad may see action against Wichita.

Depending whether or not Ray is available come game time Coach Thompson will counter with Ray and Ron Hartwell and Harry Whitworth at one forward line with Andre Gambucci, Tony Frasca, and Bub Eastwood forming another line. The third line will consists of Cam Berry, Bill MacDonald and John Schlicher.

At defense C.C. will have Capt. Mike Yalich and Carl Lawrence forming one blue line with Lee Maccini and Jim Star making up another blue line. Clark Wilder will get the nod at the goal tending chores for the Fidgets one tender with both Wilder and Bill Fowler available for the Saturday game.

The Tiger squad will leave for Albuquerque Thursday morning by bus with a 16-man traveling team.

Although the Wichita All-Stars have not seen action this season from all previous reports the Kansas sextet will ice one of their strongest teams in years. The squad is made up of several former C.C. puck stars.

ing from 3 days before to 3 days after a holiday double cuts will be given. As for illness the policy is supposed to cover slight cases and extended sickness is to be excused. Those students with a 2.0 average or better are given unlimited cuts.

"Before this policy was instated the students realized that something was lacking and thru a little effort were able to remedy part of it. Once again there is something wrong with our policy. Such things as an inadequate illness clause and the fact that a professor may count a tardy as a cut. Or is it fair to give double cuts to a person that is absent the first day of the three day period but is present the two days just before the holiday?

"The only way to put any changes across is thru one concerted effort so if you have any legitimate gripes or recommendations the place to take them is to one of the NSA meetings on Wednesday nights at 7:30 in the Student Council Room."

Foreign Students Completing Plans for Christmas Holiday

The six foreign students who are attending Colorado College with the aid of the Student Council, W. E. S., Ralph Giddings, and the American Field service are completing their holiday plans this week. Hans Bunch, Denmark student, will leave by train Friday evening for Independence, Missouri, where he will leisurely spend most of his holiday at Glendale Farm as a guest of Blevin Davis, a friend whom he met in Neatherland last year. It is reported that he will meet President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman during the holiday season while in Independence.

Karel Westerling, who is spending his vacation with friends in San Francisco needs transportation to and from California, and Gerda Unger, plans to spend part of her vacation in Aspen if she can find transportation. Gerda will remain in Colorado.

Phil Hersent and Karl Klemm are spending their vacations with friends in the Chicago area and Gottfried Frienbichler will spend his vacation as a guest of Joseph Uihleiss in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Helen Root, Pat Starrels on Mlle. College Board

Two Colorado College undergraduates, Patsy Starrels and Helen Root, have been appointed to Mademoiselle magazine's 1949-50 College Board. They are among 850 appointments from colleges and universities all over the country. Almost four thousand students competed this year to join the College Board nationally, Mademoiselle reveals.

They will report campus news, fads and fashions, in addition to completing three magazine assignments during the college year. The assignments will include a critique of the 1949 August College issue, a personal autobiography and a project for one of Mademoiselle's feature departments.

In addition, they will be competing for one of twenty Guest Editorships to be awarded by the magazine next June.

The Guest Editors, who are chosen from the College Board only, on the basis of the year's three assignments, will be brought to New York City for four weeks in June to help write and edit Mademoiselle's 1950 August College issue. They will be paid round-trip transportation plus a regular salary for their work.

While in New York City, each Guest Editor will take part in a full calendar of activities designed to give her a head start in her career. She will take a battery of

Forty French Prints Will Be for Rent When School Resumes

Soon after the resumption of classes following Christmas vacation forty excellent prints will adorn the walls of Montgomery and Slocum Halls. These pictures, a few fine prints by Audobon and the rest by the well known French artists, Cezanne, Van Gogh, Picasso, Matisse, Gauguin, Degas, and Renoir, will be placed there so that anyone desiring to rent one or more may do so.

This opportunity is open to all organizations and residence halls. Each organization will be asked to send a committee to view these pictures and if a picture is desired it may be secured by the payment of $2.00 and may be kept for the rest of the year. If after that time anyone wishes to keep a print it may be purchased.

These pictures, framed and ready to hang, are large enough so that they will fit well in any of the campus residences. Absolutely no pressure will be used to sell them, but it is certain that many will desire these prints so it would be worth your while to view them as soon as possible.

The prints will be submitted through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. George Nix of the Nix Art Gallery, 11 E. Bijou St. It was hoped that they would be ready before the holiday but due to unfortunate circumstanees this was not possible. When the date of their arrival is known a mimeographed notice will be sent to the president of each organization.

PTARMIGANS

Ptarmigans Don't despair! If the snowfall and cold weather last over Christmas vacation, have your skis waxed and ready upon your return. We'll probably take a trip.

Since there will be no issue of the TIGER on the week of our return from vacation, a HUGE sign will be posted in Palmer if a trip for the weekend after vacation can be arranged.

So, keep your bloodshot eyes open for this notice, the first ski trip of 1950.

James Doherty Appointed to Aid Dean Mathias

James A. Doherty, who received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from Colorado College in June of 1949, has been appointed assistant to the Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences and assistant director of admissions at Colorado College. President William H. Gill, announced December 3 that Doherty will assist Dean H. E. Mathias, director of admissions, with the office and contact work at home, allowing Dean Mathias more time for contacting prospective out of state students.

The new assistant dean served one year at Colorado College as Editor of the TIGER, the student newspaper, and another year in an advisory capacity. He was president of the Newman Club, chairman of the National Student Committee, and in 1948 was Regional Relations Director for the National Students Association. NSA Planning Low Cost Summer European Tours for Students

Madison, Wis.—Travel programs of the U. S. National Student Association will provide a summer of education and adventure for more than 800 students in 1950. Tentative prices for tours range from $340 to $625 for nine travel programs, six workcamps, and two foreign study programs. Transportation will be by sea and air. "However, all facts and figures are not final," Erskine Childers, NSA vice president for international affairs explained. Childers office is 18 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

He said that final plans would be set in January, 1950, and that full particulars and application forms would be available then.

(NSA's collegiate best seller, "Work, Study, Travel Abroad, 1950," will also be off the presses in January. Advance orders are being taken through the Publications Bureau, National Student Association, 304 N. Park Street, Madison 5, Wis.)

High Schools Participate in Speech Contest

Topping the list of winners in both the poetry and prose reading in last Saturday's high school radio speech contest, to which C.C. played host, was Dale Cunningham, one of the team from Centennial High School, Pueblo.

Emerging from a field of twelve contestants from Centennial, and Central High Schools, Pueblo, and Colorado Springs High, Cunningham was the unanimous choice of the four judges of the contest-conference. Close on his heels in the prose reading was Tom Tarter, of Central, second and Norman Chichester, of Colorado Springs, third. In the poetry reading, second place went to Norman Chichester, while third place went to Eugene Pepper, of Centennial.

For over four hours the four judges, Thurman Dillard, well-known campus artist-composer-artist, Nancy Jones, talented campus radio actress, Kale King, one of the Radio Guild directors, and Bob Smith, campus and KVOR announcer, listened to five minute readings of both poetry and prose, judging and criticising every word and phrase. Having made their individual critieisms for the contestants following the readings, they announced the winners soon after five o'clock, agreeing that nearly every one of the contestants had proved their abilities in reading.

Other contestants attending included: From Centennial, John Criswell, and Darrell Essex; from Central, Jerry Helm, Carman Palmer and Lorraine Zayae; and from Colorado Springs, Betty Day, Frances Hunt, and Shirley Nix.

'Twas the night before Christmas...

T'was the night before Christmas and what do you think?
Old Santa Claus had been put in the clink!
He'd broken the speed laws while driving his sleigh—
The only way out was a fortune to pay.

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
All the Mothers and Fathers were tearing their hair.
The brats were all nestled so snug in their beds,
While visions of dollar bills danced in their heads.
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter—
I grabbed my gun, yelling, "Now what's the matter?"

There on the ground was a group of small elves,
Laughing and screaming—making fools of themselves!

"Two bucks apiece," they called to each house,
"C'mon now, pay up—you a man or a mouse?"
In this way they passed to each house in the dale,
Collecting the coins to get Sant out of jail.

At the end of the line they had twenty-two fifty,
Which they agreed to themselves was nothing but nifty!

Away to the clink they then flew with a dash
And presented the judge with all of the cash.

Old Sant was released and began on his way—
(he hitched up a plane to his tiny red sleigh).
He made all the rounds leaving candy and toys,
Not one of the smallfry was gypped out of joys.

And now all is calm in the old U. S. A.,
Sant has dumped all his junk and has hung up his sleigh.

But next this time when the brats raise a stink,
He won't sled gifts—he'll mail 'em and keep out of the clink!

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

In 1897, a little girl by the name of Virginia O'Hanlon wrote to the Editor of the New York Sun asking him if there was a Santa Claus. The reply he gave her has become classic, and, even though written more than a half-century ago, is as true today as it was then. To her query, the Editor, Francis P. Church, replied:

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth, and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith, then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! . . . The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. . . . Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world . . . Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view the picture of supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times then thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

It's all to simple in this pseudo-maturity of ours to quickly shed our childhood faiths and beliefs. Sure, we've seen Santa Claus in a thousand different store windows . . . we've seen him visit a hundred different towns . . . by parachute, by plane, and on foot. And yet, we lose one of the finest symbols of our faith if we discard Santa Claus in search of a more realistic purpose to our Christmas celebration. He stands, as did the child in the manger some nineteen hundred years ago, for all the things that are fine and good. He represents to us all the intangible things about our Christmas fellowship and Christian celebration. He

India in work-camp and seminar, South Africa study-tour, Latin-American Tours—none above $800 at most.

Study-tours provide acquaintance with the political, social, economic, and cultural aspects of countries.

WORK-CAMPS

NSA plans two types of work-camps for 1950: programs where the student works in one camp, then travels on study-tour to another camp in another country; and programs where the student stays in one camp with free time following work:

England, Finland, Norway, Sweden on work and travel, for 30 students, at $375.

British International Summer School for one week, British Harvest Camp, Norwegian then Swedish students, at $375.

British Summer School and Harvest Camp, one week in Paris, workcamp in Yugoslavia with study-tour, back to Holland, for 30 students, at $400.

Danish Work Camp, Poland for workcamp and tour, Finland for workcamp and tour, then back to Paris, for 50 students at $450.

Holland, Danish Workcamp, German workcamp, and Paris, for workcamp and study-tour, for 30 to 50 students, at $380.

Workcamps in Germany, Czechoslovakia, Holland and Denmark, for $340 to $375 each.

STUDY PROGRAMS

Study at the International Cours de Civilization Francaise, Sorbonne, Paris; International Summer School in England, attendance at Edinburg drama and music festival, for 30 students, at $440.

British International Summer School, London; Summer School of European studies at Zurich, Switzerland; Lucerne Music Festival; for 30 students, at $540.

Low cost transportation will be by sea and air, if current plans work out, Childers announced.

Only regular airlines will be used if air travel is undertaken; surface transportation should again be by student ship.

Final details on all programs, with actual costs and dates of departure and arrival will be completed at a technical conference of cooperating student organizations, scheduled for December 18 in London. Childers will fly to this meeting, and will bring back programs ready for full publicity in the first week of January.

Childers stressed that programs in Eastern Europe were entirely tentative, because there had been no Eastern representatives at the Copenhagen meeting in September, when proposals for programs were made by European student organizations.

AWS Includes Total Women in Enrollment

The purpose of AWS is to help bind the women students into a more unified group, regulate life in the halls, and initiate social and service activities on the campus. Every woman student is automatically a member and has the right to attend all meetings. However, only the regular members—representatives from all the women's organizations at C.C.—may vote. With the allowance from ASCC, thet service committee has accomplished quite a bit. In years past it has donated a large sum to CARE, and this year has helped with the foreign student fund. Also individual girls have given their time to various organizations in town—Y-Teens, the day nursery and others.

Under Miss Morgan's direction a bureau has been set up to supply vocational guidance tests so that each student will not have to pay. Miss Morgan has had a great deal of experience in this field at Bernard College.

AWS officials for this year are, Gail George, president; Connie Koehler, vice-president; Barbara Prechtel, secretary, and Barbara Clark, treasurer.

'Twas the night before Christmas and through C. C.
The lights were all burning
As bright as could be.

With overloaded suiteases
Filling each room,
For vacation is here
And not a moment too soon.

To sit through those last classes
An agony supreme,
Each class lasted six hours
Or so did it seem.

And now the time's come
And soon we'll all go,
But even with parties
That train does go slow.

For Christmas at home
With times festive and gay,
For this Christmas spirit
We'd go a long way.

But the days of freedom
How fast they will go past,
Until again school
We knew it couldn't last.

But let's not think about this
As the dorm lights burn bright,
And the packing and frolicking
Goes on into the night.

For in the idea of Christmas
And Santa Claus too,
To end this poem, we'll say
A Merry Christmas to You.

Slim Chimney Prevents Old St. Nick's Arrival

Holiday fun held full reign Saturday night when Kappas and their dates welcomed the Yuletide season at the annual Christmas formal. Surprise guest of the evening was jolly old St. Nick himself, but it seems that the venerable old gentleman's very rotund middle got stuck in the chimney so that only his black boots and crimson trousers were visible entering the fireplace. He apparently made a successful visit, tho, for under the gay Christmas tree were found small packages of matches monogrammed with KKG which were presented to chaperones and dates. The house was decorated by the pledges with winter greens, gaily wrapped presents, stockings by the fireplace, and a note to Santa. John Hubby's band furnished the very danceable music, and chaperones were Dean and Mrs. Edwin C. Broome Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taitt.

A woman was driving her car along an Airline Highway at 60 miles per hour when she noticed a motorcycle cop following her. She pushed the car up to 70 and then noticed two cops trailing her. Not to get caught she upped the speedometer reading to 80, and this time there were three bike cops trying to catch her. Suddenly she spied a gas station so she pulled up in front of it and dashed into the ladies room.

Ten minutes later she ventured out and there were the three cops waiting for her. Without batting an eyelash, she said coyly, "I'll bet you thought I wouldn't make it."

Tigers Meet Wichita In First Home Series at B-Moor Fri. & Sat.

Colorado College opens its home hockey season here this Friday and Saturday at the Broadmoor Ice Palace in an attempt to duplicate the double victory scored over the Wichita All-Stars the past weekend at Albuquerque. C.C. dropped the Kansas sextet, 5-4 and 10-1, and is slated to meet the same group of former C.C. collegians in the pair of battles this week.

Brightest spot in the C. C. attack during the opening games was the work of one of the Tigers' two all-sophomore lines — center Tony Frasca, right wing Andy Gambucci and left wing Bud Eastwood. This rugged trio displayed a speedy brand of defensive hockey and a lightning-like passing attack which netted nine of the Bengals' 15 goals made against Wichita. Not to take any credit away from Gambucci, who scored seven goals over the weekend, it should be pointed out that it was the teamwork of the entire trio and the playmaking of center Frasca which made the torrential scoring possible.

Coach Cheddy Thompson of C.C. was quick to praise his entire team following the Wichita series. "We used 16 men—only five of them lettermen," Thompson pointed out, "and still every combination looked good. While Jim Starrak's ability and experience make him our outstanding defenseman, it is the continued improvement of our inexperienced players which is encouraging."

Wichita showed in the opening game at Albuquerque that they are not to be handled lightly this season. Trailing, 4-1, going into the final period of the first game, the All-Stars completely confused the Bengals by scoring three times to give C. C. a hard-earned 5-4 win. And in the words of the C.C. coach, "C.C. just couldn't miss the second game."

All indications point to a similar goalie assignment this week—with Clark Wilder working the first night and Bill Dewire in the nets Saturday at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Both turned in outstanding games at Albuquerque, with many of their saves bordering on the sensational.

Wichita will take the ice this weekend in Colorado Springs with the same lineups which opened the season in the New Mexico arena. Former C.C. players include playing-coach Bruce Stewart, all-Americans Dick Rowell and Joe Slattery, Lew Meier and Len Gagnon—all from the 1948-49 squad — plus Howie Hushion of the 1947-48 C.C. team. Five more of the top players from the organized league in Wichita make the All-Stars a formidable aggregation.

The famous C.C. hockey holiday week will commence on December 22 when the University of Saskatchewan pucksters invade the Broadmoor Ice Palace for a two game series with the Tigers. Two years ago C.C. split a two game series with Saskatchewan here on the home ice. This Canadian university is one of the two Canadian schools C.C. will meet this season. The second series of the hockey holiday week on Dec. 29 & 30 will bring forth a highly rated Brown University sextet from Providence, R. I. Reports from the East indicate that Brown is loaded with talent this season. The Rhode Island puck crew just recently lost a close game to Boston College last year's NCAA champs.

C.C. will close their holiday games at the Broadmoor Ice Palace by playing host to the newly organized Denver University skaters on Jan. 6 and 7. From out of the mile high city comes word that DU will ice a strong aggregation in their first year of collegiate hockey.

BENGAL PACE SETTERS—Chris Ray and Harry Whitworth, two veteran C.C. pucksters will set the pace as the Tigers make their initial home appearance against the Wichita All-Stars at the Broadmoor Ice Palace this Friday and Saturday evenings.

BENGALS ROUTE WICHITA ALL-STARS 5-4; 10-1 IN TWO GAME SERIES AT ALBUQUERQUE

A highly spirited Colorado College hockey team returned from Albuquerque Sunday evening supporting two well earned opening victories over the Wichita All-Stars to mark the official opener of the 1949-50 puck season.

CC carded a 5-4 win in the Friday encounter while on Saturday night the Tigers put on a terrific scoring spree to annex a 10-1 verdict.

The Wichita sextet composed mainly of former CC hockey stars put on a great display of power in the first game to almost upset the young Bengals as the All-Stars came fighting back in the third period to tally three goals.

Handy Andy Gambucci opened the scoring for the Tigers in the first period with an assist from Tony Frasca. Bob Rosborough then followed for Wichita with an unassisted goal. At 15:45 Ron Hartwell took a neat pass from Harry Whitworth to tally the second C.C. goal with the period ending and the Tigers out front 2-1.

In the second stanza C.C.'s third forward line led by John Schleicher with an assist from Cam Berry tallied the nets at 15:00. Chris Ray followed with a sensational shot with an assist from Ron Hartwell at 16:40. Gambucci sent the puck sailing in the nets at 19:40 for the final C.C. tally of the game.

The third period was all Wichita as Stewart scored unassisted followed by Cox with an assist from Howie Hushion. Dick Rowell former C. C. captain, tallied the final goal at 11:40 of the final frame as the Tigers came thru with a 5-4 win.

Bengal Quintet Depart on Five Game Road Trip

Winless Cage Crew Head East to Meet Five Tough Foes

Coach Jerry Carle of Colorado Colfilege was in a quandry as he opened practice this week with five defeats chalked up in five starts, three of which were contemplated against favored teams and two of the disappointing variety.

The Tigers dropped the first three openers against Denver Chevrolet's AAU team, Iowa University and Creighton University, but were never embarrassed at their performances. At home the past week end, however, the coach, the players and the fans alike were more than critical of the C.C. showing in two resounding victories by Fort Hays Kansas State. Carle tried all possible combinations in Friday and Saturday's losses and, while impressed with the showing of his second and third teams, found that they were as lacking in accuracy as were the first stringers.

C.C.'s cagers hit the road again this week for a rugged schedule of five games in five nights—beginning with Nebraska Wesleyan at Omaha, December 16. The Tigers then take on Drake University, the AAU Caterpillar Diesel quintet, St. Thomas College and Gustavus Adolphus College.

After a look at this schedule Carle was forced to predict five more losses for his charges, and added in his dilemna that he was not even certain who would make the trip. The Bengal's high scorer and center, George Sweeney, missed the Fort Hays losses due to an infected knee, but appeared to be the only one certain of a starting berth this week. "Our traveling squad and our starters will be determined by this week's performances on the practice floor " Carle said today.

Carle's cagers wilt return to their home court on Dec. 30 and 31 when they oppose Colorado A. & M. in a two game series at the Colorado Springs City Auditorium. C.C. dropped two close games to the Aggies last season at Fort Collins.

TIGER HOOPSTERS TOPPLED BY FORT HAYS 65-44; CC 39 FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT DEFEAT

By JOHN STEWART

Deep in the slump of a five game losing streak, Coach Jerry Carle will attempt to get a few things straightened out this week before the team takes off on its road trip to the Middle West. Last weekend, Fort Hays visited the city and for a two game series and ran off with both games. Friday night before a good-sized crowd, C. C. was never able to get going and lost 65-44. Saturday night wasn't much better as the visitors from Kansas walked off with a 66-39 victory.

Friday night C.C. never got started and trailed at the end of the first five minutes 8-3. Fort Hays continued to build on this lead, and with Glenn Conner pumping in shots from the side, left the floor at half time leading 29-20. Bad passes and sloppy ball handling led to C.C.'s downfall in the second half. Two quick buckets at the beginning of the third period appeared to put C.C. back in the ball game but it only gave Ft. Hays added incentive to pour on the coal which they did in short order and at the ten minute mark in the second half the Tigers from Kansas had built up a formidable twenty point lead. They coasted through the last quarter, letting the reserves finish out the game. High scorer for the evening was Glen Conner of Fort Hays, whose one-handed shots from the side amazed the crowd, with 11 points. For C.C. Will Perkins was high with nine points.

Saturday night, Coach Carle countered with a whole new lineup, starting Jack Osborn, Jack Pfeiffer, Bob Brugger, Tony Esposito and Dwight Hamilton. They worked well for the first ten minutes of play but then Fort Hays commenced to roll and with every player hitting the twines from all angles ,they moved into a 30-20 lead at half time. The visitors started the third period where they had left off and not even the first team, which was inserted after three minutes of play had gone by in this period, could do anything about it. Statistically Fort Hays hit on better than forty per cent of their shots and when a team is this hot there is nothing you can do about it. Again the reserves played the last few minutes and they seemed to get more than their share of the points. The game ended with Fort Hays on the winning end of a 66-39 score. High scorer for C.C. was Scott with seven points followed by Hamilton and Schefelbein with five points each. For Fort Hays, Guy Conner and Al Billinger were high men with nine points apiece. Sadly missed by the C.C. team was their tall center and leading scorer so far, George Sweeney who was in the Infirmary with a badly infected foot.

C.C. HOCKEY CLUB IMPRESSIVE IN OPENING WINS—

Paced by three well-balanced forward lines and two strong defensive units the Colorado College puck crew returned home from Albuquerque with two well earned victories over the much more experienced Wichita All-Stars. C.C. carded a 5-4 win in the opener and rolled up a 10-1 verict in the second game. Coach Cheddy Thompson's sextet displayed plenty of scoring power in both games. C.C.'s defensive blue dive with the aid of goalies Clark Wilder and Bill Dewire managed to halt a Wichita scoring spree in the Friday contest for a close win. On the following night C.C.'s sophomore line composed of Andy Gambucci, Tony Frasca, and Bud Eastwood went on a wild scoring spree to pave the way for a second win.

BENGAL CAGERS OUTHUSTLED BY FORT HAYS—

Many of the C.C. fans who were on hand to see C.C. put up such a terrific battle before losing a close overtime period decision to the Denver Chevs a few weeks ago were some what disappointed in the performance staged by the same Tiger club as they dropped two games to a sharp shooting Fort Hays quintet last weekend. From all indications C.C. was not playing the type of ball they are capable of playing. Competing without the services of their ace pivot man and high scorer George Sweeney, certainly hampered the Tigers but this does not account for the lack of hustle and desire to play which the Tigers did not have last weekend. Riding a five game losing streak C.C. will have to snap out of it if they hope to return home with a string of victories from their five game road trip in the next week. Coach Carle's aggregation will face Nebraska Wesleyan, Drake University, Caterpillar Diesels, St. Thomas College, and Gustavus Adolphus College on five consecutive nights.

IDAHO STATE ADMITTED TO R.M.C.—

With the recent addition of Idaho State College of Pocatello, Idaho to the Rocky Mountain Conference, the Little Five is now known as the Little Six. Idaho State is the sixth member of the R.M.C., the other five schools are Colorado College, Colorado Mines, Colorado State, Western State and Montnana State. Idaho State was admitted upon the approval of officials from the other five conference schools in a two day meeting held in Denver last weekend. Idaho State will compete for this season's conference basketball title since they have two games scheduled with every conference school except C.C. and it is hoped that a two game series can be arranged between the two schools after March 1.

Little five-year-old Billy learned to swear and couldn't be broken of the habit. In despair, his mother tried this cure:

"Billy, I'm going to give you your lunch and send you away. Now don't come back until you can speak without swearing."

So Billy took his lunch and went and sat on a little hill in the park across the street. He sat there all afternoon, and about dusk when his mother could stand it no longer she went out and found him feeding his lunch to the sparrows.

"I thought I told you to go away," his mother said. "Have you quit swearing, or why didn't you go?"

"I'd have gone," said Billy wistfully, "if I knew where in the hell to go."

She: "If wishes came true, what would you wish for?"

He: "Gosh I'm afraid to tell you."

She: "Go ahead, you sap, what do you think I brought up this wishing business for?"

C.C. FROSH DEFEAT WRIGHT GLASS 33-29

The Freshmen Basketball team continued on its winning ways last Saturday night as Coach Rex Hester's charges came up with a 33-29 win over Wright Glass of the local Industrial League. The Tiger Cubs jumped into an early lead and at one point mid-way through the first half led 13-4. The Frosh then slacked off a little but left the floor at half time with a comfortable 16-8 lead. Wright Glass played inspired ball in the second half and with five minutes to go in the ball game they had narrowed the score down to 28-25 in favor of the Frosh. The last five minutes were not too exciting and the game ended with the Freshmen on the long end of a 33-29 score. For the Freshmen, Vine was high scorer with thirteen points followed by Stephens and Wilson with seven each. For Wright Glass, Smith was high man with six points.

saves for his evening's work. In the Saturday contest C.C. just had too much power for the tired Wichita aggregation as the Bengals rolled up a 10-1 decision for their second straight win.

Speedy Andy Gambucci led the C.C. attack with five goals scoring two in the first stanza, one in the second, and two in the final period. Center Tony Frasca assisted Gambucci on three of his five tallies as the C.C. second line staged a brilliant performance in the Tigers one sided victory.

Wichita goalie Bill Coons stopped a puck with his forehead in the second period and was removed from the game with C.C.'s Clark Wilder moving into the nets for Wichita the remainder of the game.

Former Tiger star, Joe Slattery tallied the only Wichita score of the evening at 15:00 of the third period.

COLORADO COLLEGE | January 12, 1950 | NUMBER XIV

CC APPLICATION FOR VOLUNTARY ROTC NOW UNDER CONSIDERATION BY HEADQUARTERS OF FIFTH ARMY

Colorado College's official application for a voluntary Reserve Officers Training Corps has been received by the Department of the Army and is now under consideration by the Headquarters Fifth Army, it was announced by President William H. Gill, upon receipt of this information from Headquarters Fifth Army in Chicago. The Fifth Army notice sent to Pres. Gill indicated that several new units were being contemplated for the 1950 fiscal year, with Colorado College high on the list for consideration.

First inquiry regarding the establishment of an ROTC was made by Colorado College in 1941, when Thurston J. Davies was president of the college. Due to emphasis on war activities the application was tabled by the army until October, 1949, when it was acknowledged with the request that the college now determine whether it wished to make formal application for the establishment of such ROTC unit.

President Gill and Dr. George W. Adams, dean of Colorado College, began a survey in October of the student body, the faculty and the administration, hoping to get a definite concensus of opinion regarding a voluntary ROTC unit on the campus. The recent poll of opinion brought a favorable reaction from the entire college family. Following recommendations of the administration, the CC Board of Trustees approved the formal application to the Department of the Army.

While college officials hoped to see the unit established at CC for the September term of 1950, there was no indication from Fifth Army Headquarters whether or not the unit might be formally approved and established by that time.

It was also pointed out by President Gill that establishment of new reserve units by the Department of the Army may in large part depend on the forthcoming Congressional appropriations.

ATTITUDE IMPROVED

The announcement made by Dean Broome in Chapel on Tuesday that there would be no chapel service next week was received with much enthusiasm. Certainly everyone in school was happy to hear that during the first part of final week no chapel would be held.

I would like to bring out something that I heard by the grape vine in regard to next week's vacation from chapel. A reliable Tiger reporter informed me that the reason for no chapel next week was the great improvement in the attitude on the part of the students toward the chapel service. One could dream that some day with the present attitude improving even more, that no chapel service would ever be compulsary and students would attend on the same basis that they attend classes—or if that is too far to the extreme, a system whereby the students would be required to attend only a certain number of times during the semester.

Lennox house has received a wonderful Christmas present over vacation. In the lounge on the first floor a combination radio-phonograph has been installed for the enjoyment of CC students. It is hoped that it will be treated as all good radio-phonographs should be treated.

The members of the student council are to be guests at the student faculty tea totmorrow afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock. Next week another group will be honored. It seems that this is a good opportunity to take advantage of the good faculty-student relationship that is ever present at Colorado College.

If the faculty can take time off to hold informal gatherings with the students it should be even easier for the students to take a break in what ever they happen to be doing to get better acquainted with their instructors. It could also be a good opportunity to find the answers to a few questions that might not be clear to some students.

This is to be one of the last issues of the Tiger that will be edited by the present editor, since a new editor and business manager will be appointed next week to take the office at the beginning of the new semester. Let me urge anyone who is interested and who meets the qualifications to turn in an application.

The new editor will need all the help he can get in putting out the paper. Several sub-editorships will be available when the new editor takes over and I would like to urge any student who has had any experience at all to get in touch with the new editor.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has worked on the staff with me for all of the aid they have given since I have been editor. Special thanks go to Bob Leavitt, Ann Schultz and Kay Swanson for the time and effort they have given as sub-editors.

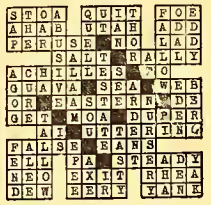
Answer to LAST WEEK'S Puzzle:



WALT'S FAULT
By WALT SWEET

During the final stanzas of the last school year, a particularly touchy problem arose, and was dealt with with a finality and surprising suddenness that left those close to it gasping for breath. Although there hasn't been a situation similar to it presented this year, there has been nothing done, as far as I can tell ,to remedy the untidy aspects of the case. I refer, of course, to the unconditional termination of studies for a student accused of plagiarizing the material for his term paper.

While none of us interested in the case held any sympathy for the accused student, and agreed that punishment was in order, we were aroused to considerable indignation by the unprecedented verdict handed down by the Committee on Undergraduate Life . . . one of immediate and complete expulsion from school.

In an institution of this type and, surely, in society in general a code of decency must be enforced. Cheating most certainly cannot and should not be tolerated, but more than that, it must be defined. The term "cheating" itself covers more than a multitude of sins, and it's hard for me to believe that every form is as serious an offense as every other form. It is deserving of a thorough breakdown, and a set of punishments to match. This is not the case at Colorado College!

This problem becomes even more serious since we are operating on a duality of systems in testing and homework. It is certainly not just to punish more severely under one system than under the other, and it is even less just to operate under the individual-case-treatment method. At no time has the administration announced a definite, cut and dried policy concerning the punishment it will mete out for the many different types of cheating that may fall within this broad category. If one "cheats" on his homework (i. e. term papers, individual problems, etc.) he should know that he is liable to a semester's loss of credit or similar penalty. If he cheats on an examination (under either system), he should be aware that, if caught, he will suffer a definite punishment. The Committee on Undergraduate Life should devote considerable time and thought to a breakdown of the general term "cheating," and should establish a definite written code by which to treat cases falling within the various subdivisions. If they decide

A professor of biology was explaining to his class about the spawning of fish. "So you see," he concluded, "the female fish deposits her eggs, the male fish comes along and fertilizes them, and later the little fish are hatched." One of the girls held up her hand. "You mean, Professor, that the father and mother fish—that they —that before that nothing happens?"

"Nothing," said the professor, "which doubtless explains the expression, 'Poor fish.'"

LaSalle Quartet To Perform Sunday

Colorado College will present a program of Chamber Music in the regular Sunday afternoon concert at Perkins Hall auditorium on January 15, 1950, at 4:30 p. m.

Students of the LaSalle Quartet will be heard in various chamber combinations performing a program of music from the 18th century. This is the second appearance of student chamber groups this year and reflects the lively interest in this form occasioned by the new resident quartet.

The program will open with a trio sonata by Johann Sebastian Bach for flute, violin and figured bass. Harvey Boatright, flutist and pupil of Ferderick Baker of the Denver Symphony, and Phyllis Rich, member of the Colorado Springs Symphony and pupil of Henry Meyer, will be heard in the two solo parts. Evi Levin will perform the realized figured bass at the piano.

Betty Fisher, soprano, and Juanita Enix, violinist, will perform the solo parts of a little known aria by the 18th century and German opera composer, Schuermann. They will be accompanied by the La Salle Quartet and Mrs. Levin. The performance of this work is the result of research done in a class on the history of opera taught by Messers. Levin and Wiley. Miss Fisher is a student of Eugene Casselman and has been heard in solo roles several times this year. Mrs. Enix studies with Walter Levin.

The concert will close with a performance of the little heard Trio in D Major by Franz Josef Haydn. Betty Schade, pianist; Suzanne Peterson, violinist, and Paul Enix, cellist, will be heard in this work by the great 18th Century Austrian pioneer.

By MARY RUBLE

Ghristmas vacation was great but now all have returned to the it's time to rally and must write three term papers in one night routine. Loud but somehow unrealistic are the cries of "next time I'll keep up from day to day and next time I'll write that term paper on the first day it is assigned."

The rollicking Rocky Mountain Rocket showed remarkable consistency by again pulling into Colorado Springs late. But somehow everyone managed to drag their tired and weary bodies back to tbeir bome away from home and prepare for the ordeal of final week.

Many were those that returned from the vacation married, engaged or pinned. Clare Morris was married to Bill Peckham and is now living in Pennsylvania. Jane Ochsner made this vacation extra special by marrying Jay Stone.

In the engaged classification we find Carol Grismer engaged to Stan Deffenbaugh, Alice Norton to Dick Matzen and Patty Fisher to Stew Gooding. Eddy Rose is sporting a ring from Harry Owens, B. J. Hanger has one from Dutch Van Schooneveld while Archie Borman is wearing a ring, the gift of Walt Rebmann. Kay Lindstrom returned from vacation engaged to Earl Robbins.

The Crown and Lance received their new pins and in a short time they began to fall. Bill Murray gave his to June McCarty while Renee Ramond is wearing one from Mark Orton. Doug Gregory gave his Phi Delt pin to Trudy Gress and C. T. Raines gave his to Barbara Brandenburg. Jentra Jarvis is now wearing Bob James Sigma Chi pin.

The vacation was not only marked by the appearance of rings and pins but by the disappearance of an age old symbol of Colorado College. During the vacation Windbeaten but Ascending left the library to take up new residence in some unknown locality. It has been suggested that a small plaque be put up in tbe library to take her place. It might be inscribed something like "We shall meet but we shall miss her," there will be tbree brand new cbairs.

First Phi Gam Party Of New Year Tonight

Organizational News Approaches New Low

Some weeks ago there was an article in the Tiger concerning a reduced rate for cuts (pictures) of and about the various campus organizations. To date, no form of response has been received. Is it that you don't like yourselves—or are you broke? Many of the critical remarks about your TIGER and from the students center around the fact that there aren't enough pictures on the pages. Did the organizations forget to budget for publicity this year?

If you do have something you want the campus to know about, do not hesitate to turn it into the TIGER, either in picture or copy form. The amount of the latter item has decreased immensely in the past few weeks. Even at Ghristmastime, with plenty of dances and exciting occasions, there was little or no news of it turned in.

Once again might we urge each organization to assign a reliable TIGER reporter to take care of all desired information and publicity. Articles must be brougbt to the office in Lennox on or before 1:30 Tuesday of each week.

Please realize that it isn't just a few people who put out the TIGER each week. It is the cooperation of the entire student body—so remember, next time you rant and rave about the lousy edition of the newspaper, you got what you gave. If there's nothing to work with you'll have to be satisfied with an abundance of ads and corny jokes.

Question to Dean Broome—If 1950 is the second half of the 20th. century then what century had only 99 years. It's worth thinking about.

In the search of truth and enlightenment a discrimination survey of library attendance was recently made. From November 20 to December 13 a poll was taken of library attendance of various departmental majors. The results of this poll show a serious discrepency between the library attendance of sociology majors versus English majors. Except for December 6 the English majors greatly outnumbered the sociology majors in regular library attendence. On this day the groups were practically tied with the English majors having eight members present to seven for the sociology students. One explanation might be that English majors do not pay their room rent and hence have no heat in their rooms. It gets cold you know.

CC Sextet Host to British Columbia in 2 Games

—Cut Courtesy Gazette-Telegraph

"BOOM-BOOM" LINE TALLIES AGAINST D.U.—CC's "boom boom" line composed of Chris Ray (background), Harry Whitworth (No.9) and Ron Hartwell (No. 7) combine to net a score as the Tigers trounced Denver University 16-0 in last Friday's contest at the Broadmoor Ice Palace.

Tiger Skaters Hope To Extend Win Streak Against Canadians

Riding quite high on a ten-game winning streak with no losses and with no crippling injuries, the Colorado College hockey sextet faces the task this week of preparing mentally for the invasion of the powerful aggregation from the University of British Columbia. CC meets the Vancouver crew this Fday and Saturday at 8:15 p. m. in the Broadmoor Ice Palace.

CC recorded its first collegiate shut-out since 1941 the past weekend, dumping a first-year Denver University team, 16-0 and 10-0, but question remains whether victories nine and ten hurt the Tigers or helped them. The local sextet was determined to give both goalies, Clark Wilfer and Bill Dewire, a shutout in the two-game series, and played excellent defensiveh ockey in completing the task. With this emphasis, however, Coach Cheddy Thompson is worried that the slick offense of the Tigers may have lost some of its polish.

Brightest spot in the colorless victories was the work of the sophomore "kid line," composed of center John Schleicher, left wing Bill MacDonald and right flanker Cam Berry. Their first full-time performance under fire since the Wichita series proved that Thompson does have a third front unit which he can use to back up the first two high scoring trios.

This week, however, against British Columbia, which plays in the fast company of a Canadian amateur and collegiate league, the CC mentor will have to count on two lines. The "boom-boom" line of center Harry Whitworth, Ron Hartwell, left wing, and Chris Ray, right wing, now boast the commendable feat of a hat-trick from each man, with Hartwell notching his first "three-goals-in-one game" against Denver . The "sophomore slashers," who continue to amaze fans with their teamworkwork in their first year together, will help to pace the attack with Tony Frasca at center, Andy Gambucci at right wing and Bud Eastwood at left wing.

Defensively speaking, the Tigers boast one of the outstanding defensemen in collegiate hockey in Jim Starrak, a Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, product who is as tough offensively as he is on his own blue line. aPired with Captain Mike Yalish, burly senior who continues to shine in CC's defensive work, and Len Maccini, Starrak gives the Tigers a formidable defense this week to put in front of regular goalie Clark Wilder, who is slated to work both games.

If the third line does get on the ice, it will "brother versus brother." Cam Berry, sophomore right wing for CC, points to two relatives on the invader's crew—Hugh Berry, a brother whop lays left wing, and Terry Nelford, a brother-in-law dorking at defense for the Canadian aggregation.

OLSON AND FREYSCHLAG TO REPRESENT CC AT ANNUAL NCAA MEETING IN NEW YORK

Colorado College will send two men to New York City this week to attend the annual meetings of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and sports publicity directors of the nation's colleges and universities. Official CC delegates to the NCAA will be Prof. Howard M. Olson, Rocky Mountain conference faculty advisor at the college and regional representative for the NCAA on the small colleges committee.

Olson, who is associate professor of physics, has been faculty advisor at CC for many years and last year served as secretary of the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Meetings of the anticipated "red hot" NCAA meetings will be in the Hotel Commodore, January 13 and 14.

Accompanying Olson will be K. G. Freyschlag, director of public relations at CC, who will attend the meetings of the nation's sports publicity directors in the Hotel Biltmore, aJnuary 12 and 13, and will go as the school's alternate NCAA delegate.

The journey will be "dual-purpose" for the two CC men, with a pair of important alumni meetings slated in the East at the time of the trip. Olson and Freyschlag will meet with 10 key New York alumni at a luncheon in the Tudor Room of the Hotel Commodre, January 13, with Edward Pelz, '38, president of the New York chapter, in charge of arrangements.

Friday evening, January 13, Freyschlag will journey to Boston where he will meet with the large alumni delegation there for dinner and will show the recently-completed CC film, "Colorado College Football Highlights of 1949." Mrs. Bobbee Freeman, '43, 123 Longwood Ave., Brookline 46, Mass,. is in charge of arrangements.

In the crowded bus a lanky Kentuckian sat opposite a young woman whose skimpy skirt kept creeping up over her knees. She fought a constant battle with it, pulling it down, but as soon as she released her hold, up it crept.

After one hard yank, she looked up and met the gaze of her traveling companion.

"Don't stretch your calico, sister," he advised her. "My weakness is liquor.'

I-M Basketball to Commence January 31

Intramural manager Mike Yalich announced this week that the campus intramural basketball league will get underway on January 31st. The Phi Delta Theta fraternity will be defending their 1949 championship against the other league teams which include Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Gamma Delta, Independent Men, and the Faculty.

I-M league schedules will be forwarded to all intramural managers next week.

BENGAL HOOPSTERS MEET MONTANA STATE IN TWO CONFERENCE TILTS AT BOZEMAN

Colorado College's cage crew, which has had the roughest sledding in a decade, this week faces the rocky road to Bozeman, Mont., where the Tigers will clash with the Montana State Bobcats in a pair of conference encounters Friday and Saturday. With the tallest man in the line-up standing 6-4 and working regulrly as a reserve, the Tigers have been undermanned throughout the season's contests. Opening the conference slate here the past Saturday night, they turned the battle with defending champion Colorado State into an unexpected close game, dropping the opener, 55-49.

Coach Jerry Carle, in his second year at the helm, was not disappointed in the showing of his charges, however, and feels tbat the Bengals will continue to improve in conference play. Captain Jack Quamme, slow to start in the early-season games against vastly superior teams, has begun to hit his stride. In tallying 16 points against Colorado State Saturday he again showed tbe scoring ability and play-making technique whicb made him the league's 'most valuable" in the 1948-49 campaign.

In their second and third conference clashes, the Tigers will have to be doubly tough if they expect to finish as bigh as last year, wben they completed conference play second to Colorado State, just one game ahead of the Montna State aggregation. The Bobcats have a crew practically intact from last year, with one sophomore forward combining with one outstanding veteran to pace the team's scoring.

All-onference Les Curry, the high scorer of the Cat squad, contiznes to score witb an average nearing 17 points per game, while the pace is helped by the work of Joe McKethen, bespectacled spohomore speedster.

Tiger Cubs Drop 58-43 Verdict to State Frosh

After a two week lay off the CC Freshman Basketball team opened the 1950 half of the current season last Saturday night as they met the Colorado State Freshmen at the City Auditorium in the first balf of a doubleheader tbat saw tbe Varsity teams of these two scbools square off in the second game. The CC Cubs came out on the short end of 58-43 score.

Greeley started off with a bang and ran the score up to 8-0 before tbe Freshman were able to score. The baby Bears stretched this lead to 14-6 at the ten minute mark in the first half and to 30-11 as the two teams left the floor at half-time. In the opening of the second half CC, evidently profiting from their half-time rest and some advice from Coach Rex Hester, took off and scored three quick buckets before CS netted one, but from there on out the two teams just exchanged points as they both garnered 26 points in the last twelve minutes. The score might have been a little different if Dave Vine, one of the CC high scorers hadn't fouled out witb only five minutes gone in the second half. High scorer for Creeley was Brotherton with 14 points while Dunc Stephens was high point man for CC witb 17 points.

The summary:

Bengal Cagers Return From Holiday Road Trip With Win and 4 Losses

Opening up their 1949 Christmas trip in Lincoln, Nebraska, CC lost to Nebraska Wesleyan, 73-57. Moving on to Des Moines, Iowa, CC lost to Drake 75-60, the following night. Next on the agenda was the Catterpillar Diesels or Peoria, Ill., and CC again went down to defeat this time by the score of 66-48. Saint Paul, Minn., was the next stop as CC met St. Thomas and again came out on the short end of a 65-53 score. Final stop on this hectic trip, that saw the CC cagers play five games in five nights, was St. Peter, Minn., as CC met and defeated Gustavus Adolphus, 65-56.

Paced by Del Miller who hit for 27 points Nebraska Wesleyan defeated CC in their opening game on the trip, Nehraska led all the way and had a balf-time lead of 42-32. High scorer for CC was captain Jack Quamme with 16 points followed by Ed Scott with 12. An interesting note on the game was that Nebraska took only 39 shots but hit on 22 of them for an average of 56 per cent.

Against Drake CC blew hot and cold but were never able to overcome an early Drake lead. John Rennicke led the Bulldog scoring attack with 24 points while George Sweeney and Jack Quamme botn had 18 for CC. Drake led at halftime 34-26.

Nevt stop was ePoria, Ill., and although CC went down to defeat they looked pretty good. High scorer for the Diesels was Reeser with 20 points followed by Haarlowwith ten points. Wilfred Perkins was high man for CC with 15 points with George Sweeney next with ten points.

Journeying on to Saint Paul CC met a good St. Thomas team and lost out 65-53. Led by Bury who had 18 points, pumped into an early lead and held it throughout the first half leading 30-27. They stepped up in the second half and began to pull away in the last ten minutes of the game. High scorer for CC was George Sweeney with 15 points followed closely by Jack Quamme with 14 points.

Last stop on the trip was St. Peter, Minn., and CC salvaged their only win as they defeated Gustavus Adolphus, 65-56. Jack Quamme really bit his stride in this game as he dumped in 25 points. CC led all the way and had a half-time lead of 32-23. For Custavus Werness was high scorer with ten points.

Bengal Quintet Spilt Two Game Series With Colorado A&M Cagers

CC's Varsity Basketball team closed out the 1949 half of the current season with a two game series against Colorado A&M. They dropped the first game 53-33 but came back the next night to cop their second win in twelve games, 47-44.

The story of the first game can be told in the simple statement that Aggies were hitting on their shots and CC was not. Aggies led 23-12 at the end of the first half and they increased this to 36-22 with ten minutes left in the ball game. CC continued to miss on their shots and no amount of body-English would make them go in. High scorer for Aggies was Ranson with 11 points followed by O'Boyle with 10. For CC Captain Jack Quamme was high man with 9 points.

The second night A&M took off again as if to make it a repeat performance but CC came back strong in the second period, after being down 6 points at the end of the first quarter, and led at half time 24-22. CC continued to hold onto this lead although it was close all the way, CC ending up on top 47-44. Wayne Roper, although not high scorer was one of the stars of the game. He did a beautiful job of rebounding and he held Ranson, high scorer the night before, to six points. High scorers for CC were Jack Quamme with 15 points followed by John Schefelbein with 11. Aggies, Anderson was high scorer with 14 points.

CC HOCKEY TEAM TO FACE SEVERE TEST—

Inspite of the fact our Tiger pucksters are currently riding the crest of a ten-game undefeated string and being one of the few unbeaten sextets in the country it might be well to mention that CC has not yet met up with any real top notch competition that is with the exception of Brown University and University of Saskatchewan which the Tigers downed without too much trouble. The two Wichita series and the DU encounters cannot be considered excellent collegiate competition and there is no doubt that Wichita and DU did not belong on the same ice with our high flying Tigers. CC will face some of the top collegiate hockey teams in the nation in the next two months and these games will determine whether or not our Tigers will represent the Far West in the NCAA playoffs to be held here in March. At present the team spirit is good and I don't believe the team is over-confident but nevertheless we have some tough games to face and some are on the road so let's not start any destructive criticism if our Tigers do drop a few games in the next month or so. This weekend we like CC over British Columbia in two close ones.

POOR ATTENDANCE AT HOOP CAMES HAMPERING TEAM—

Well it looks like the same old story with the Tiger basketball team again this season. The number of losses suffered by the team has discouraged attendance at the home games, and a lack of like spirit and fire among the players and spectators has taken hold. It's happened before—as we all know. Lack of support—the feeling that winning is the only way fans are going to attend — the result — players nobody really cares. What's the cure? It maybe that CC is playing too tough a schedule early in the season and obtaining a bad record which results in a defeatist's attitude which we are unable to shake off thru the remainder of the season. Perhaps this is the answer—maybe not. But whatever the answer the fact must be faced that if basketball is to actually compete with hockey here at CC and if the cagers are to receive the support it warrants, then we should have a team that attracts; a team with a decent record—a record at least that can make people want to attend the games — whatever it maybe. I'm not sure of, are you?

CC Pucksters Cop Wins Over Wichita, Saskatchewan, Brown and DU to Extend Win Streak to 10 in Hockey Holiday Series

By BOB LEAVITT

Holding an impressive ten game win streak and remaining on top of the list with the few undefeated sextets in the country the highly touted Colorado College Tigers successfully brought to a close their Hockey Holiday Week by annexing wins over the Wichita All-Stars, University of Saskatchewan, Brown University and the newly formed Denver University ice crews. Coach Cheddy Thompson's pucksters made their first home debut of the season by setting back the Wichita All-Stars 9-0 and 13-3, CC followed with a pair of 9-6 aid 6-3 victories over Saskatchewan the Bengals continued their hockey holiday triumphs by downing Brown University 12-7 and 8-5. Last weekend the Thompsonmen trounced the DU Pioneers 16-0 and 10-0 in two games which CC toyed around just to please the spirited fans.

Paced by the offensive stickwork of Andy Gambucci and defensive play of goalie Clark Wilder the Tigers shutout Wichita 9-0 in the first home tilt of the season. Gambucci turned the hat trick with three goals for his evening's work while Ron Hartwell tallied twice, Chris Ray once, Tony Frasca, Mike Yalich, and Jim Starrak garnered one apiece.

In the second Wichita encounter at the Broadmoor Ice Palace CC trounced the All-Stars 13-3 with Gambucci and Whitworth annexing the hat trick while Bud Eastwood tallied twice and Chris Ray, Ron Hartwell, Len Maccini, Jim Starrak, and Tony Frasca plunked the net once each.

In the first tilt of the hockey holiday series CC rolled over the University of Saskatchewan 6-3 as the sophomore line of Andy Gambucci, Tony Frasca, and Bud Eastwood accounted for three of the six goals scored. Capt. Mike Yalich hit the net in the third stanza for one tally, while Jim Starrak and Ron Hartwell scored unassisted in the second period for the other two tallies. Right Wing Chris Ray led theTiger attack in the second Saskatchewan contest as CC dumped the Canadians 9-6. Ray topped the Bengal scoring with the hat trick while Whitworth, Berry, Gambucci, Frasa, Yalich and Hartwell, chalked up one each in the CC scoring parade.

The toughest series of the holidays brought to town Brown University from Providence, R. I. Brown is rated as one of the top sextets in East and the CC'ers had to go all the way in both games to halt the visitors from Rhode Island. In the first tilt of the series, two members of the boom-boom line, Chris Ray and Harry Whitworth came up with three goals each to turn the hat trick as CC setback Brown 12-7. The defensive work of Jim Starrak and Mike Yalich with little Bill Dewire in the nets was the big factor in the CC victory. Dewire received a total of 33 saves some of them were spectacular and were stopped at a crucial point in the game. CC earned a 8-5 verdict over the Brown skaters in the second game with Ray coming up with his second consecutive hat trick as the Tigers came from behind again to annex their eighth straight win of the season.

Last week CC made it victory nine and ten as they turned back Denver University 16-0 and 10-0 in two shutouts. Goalie Clark Wilder had a shut out with only six saves and his first in intercollegiate competition. Twelve of the fifteen CC players who entered the game took part in the scoring with Ron Hartwell tallying his first hat trick (3 goals) of the season. The Tigers blanked Denver University 10-0 Saturday night in a contest which provided the fans with a little more thrills and spills as several penalties were dished out thruout the evening. Whitworth, Starrak, and Yalich tallied two goals each to set the pace in the Bengal scoring spree. Goalie Bill Dewire had an easy evening with only 11 saves to complete the second straight shut out by the Tigers.

COLORADO STATE DUMPS CC 55-49 IN RMC OPENER

By JOHN STEWART

CC opened Conference play last Saturday night at the City Auditorium facing defending chsmpions, Colorado State and came out on the short end of the 55-49 score. CC got the first basket on a lay-up by Wilfred Perkins and from there the lead see-sawed back and forth and at the fifteen minute mark the score was tied at 17-17. Greeley then took off on a 10-point splurge and lead at half-time 34-21. CC picked up in the third period and with big Wayne Roper covering Cal Cordes, Greeley's 6'5" center, they entered the final ten minutes of play trailing by ten points 40-30. Play began to get a little rough and Ben Dreith's, CS's ace baseball pitcher, fouled out with about five minutes to go. Next to go was John Schefelbein, sensational CC sophomore forward with less than four minutes remaining, and in the last minute CC center George Sweeney and CS guard Frank Sajevic retired. There were 47 fouls called during the contest. CC made 15 out of 27 free throws while Colorado State was making 17 out of 32.

High scorer for the evening was Cal Cordes for Greeley with 25 points followed by Jack Quamme for CC with- 16. Behind Cordes came Wright with 9 and Wise and Dreith with 8 apiece. For CC Will Perkins, John Schefelbein and George Sweeney all had 7 points.

By BOB BLACKBURN

With the New Year comes always, a list of resolutions and general ideas as to how we can better ourselves. Not only do we strive to achieve goals that will give us personally, greater satisfaction, but we seek to reflect this feeling in others. The problem then is, how to build a plan to reach such an end. Perhaps one answer is to use clear thinking on all issues. As for reflecting our ideas we must first command the attention of those whom we wish to impress. One of the attention getting devices is a well groomed appearance. Most college people are conscious of the fact that good clothes, reflect the personality of the wearer. Perkins-Shearer has always strived to give its patrons the type clothing that reflects a well groomed appearence. Come in and let us make some suggestions that will help you to reach this goal.

that a student should be immediately and finally expelled from school for any violation of the "cheating code," well and good, but they must publish the fact in such a manner that all (repeat ALL) students are aware of their regulations, and must act within the bounds of their decisions on all cases. A manual available to all students at registration time which states clearly and concisely the regulations governing the moral violations which the committee has power to punish and the punishment that will be imposed in case of such violations would seem to be a satisfactory explanation. Nothing has been done about this so far, and probably nothing will be done until another cheating case is tried by the committee. During this lax spell in student orneriness, the members of the committe should get their house in order so that the next case may be tried under conditions of greater justice.

Rooms Available

There will be several rooms available in Jackson House for the second semester. Applications must be filed at the Dean of Men's office.

Crown and Lance

Crown and Lance will hold its semi-annual elections at its next meeting, Monday, January 16, 7:00 p.m., Lennox House.

LOST

A clarinet was left by Bill Geisler at the Phi Delta Theta Christmas formal. Some obscure female left her fur coat there also. Sometime later the coat was claimed by this girl and at the same time she took the clarinet. It would be greatly appreciated if the present possessor of the clarinet would call Bill Westerfield at the Phi Delta Theta house.

COLORADO COLLEGE | January 19, 1950 | NUMBER XV

Change Proposed For Upper Classes In CC Cut System

The possibility of acquiring unlimited cuts for juniors and seniors who have been admitted to an upper school may become a reality if the Committee on Instruction at Colorado College agrees with the recommendations of the Committe on Undergraduate Life.

The student council sent two amendments, proposed by the N.S.A. students of Colorado College, to the committee on Undergraduate Life, for their consideration. The committee made several amendments to the N.S.A. plan, making it possible for juniors and seniors who have been admitted to an upper school to get unlimited cuts. This is only a possibility however since the Committe on Instruction must pass on the amendments before any action is taken.

No information was received in regard to the other amendment proposed by the N.S.A. students.

Carnival Postponed Ptarmigans Skiing

The C.C. Winter Carnival scheduled for between semesters has been postponed to a future date due to the lack of snow at Tenderfoot Hill. The date will be announced as soon as the white stuff comes.

In its place, the Ptarmigans will take a ski trip. Because of the short vacation, the trip will be to Climax, where we can get two FULL days of skiing on Wednesday and Thursday and possibly a few runs on Hoosier Pass Tuesday afternoon.

The busses will leave from Cutler at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday. We will stay at Fairplay Tuesday and Wednesday nights and return to C.C. by 9:30 Thursday night. Round trip tickets are available at the treasurer's office and are priced at $3.00. Tow fees at Climax are $1.25 per day. Rooms at the Fairplay hotel are about $1.75 per day. Plan on at least $10 expenses (including bus fare, room, food and ski tows).

Ptarmigans, the only thing that's more fun than a bus full of monkeys is a bus full of skiers. Let's all go on the bus; it's always a small riot—no fooling!

Anyone requesting further information, please call Dave Schultz at 8057-M.

"Glass Menagerie" Now in Rehearsal

The "Glass Menagerie," Tennessee Williams' Broadway hit will be presented by the C.C. Workshop Players in Perkins Hall on Jan. 31, and Feb. 1 and 2. The play is under the direction of Woodson Tyree.

Peggy Merle-Smith will have the part which Laurette Taylor played on Broadway, that of the mother, a great but confused vitality. Nancy Jones portrays her crippled daughter who is like a piece of her own glass collection, too exquisitely fragile to move herself. Tom Wingfield, her son is played by Don Cooper; and Jim O'Connor, a gentleman caller is played by Kale King.

Tickets for students can be obtained by showing activity books at Cutler Hall, also.

C.C. FIGHTS FIRE 100 PER CENT—Turning out en masse to battle the vicious wind-swept fire in the Cheyenne Mountain-Camp Carson area, C.C. students received great commendation for their work. The above picture, taken of a group which began working at Camp Carson at dawn, shows the beaten faces and weariness which had to fight the wind as much as as the fire. More than 500 student actually fought the fire with hundreds of C.C. coeds and many of the administration and faculty manning the food and first aid stations.

That Ole' Bengal Pride

By K. FREYSCHLAG

Simply had to sit down and write a few impressions of the big blaze—strictly from the Colorado College angle—and proud impressions these are. From Dean Adams, Dr. Rawles and other members of the administration who were on the detail, thru the fire-fighting men students to the girls who tended the coffee urns long into the night should come a source of pride for the entire CC family. Coming down the mountain a few minutes ago to try and meet the Tiger's Tuesday night deadline, many pleasant thoughts ran thru our heads as we recounted the job done by members of the college since dawn today.

It is with a feeling of near fear that we relay some of these impressions to you—certain fear that many important and colorful incidents and personages will be omitted—but such is the case when so many people participate.

While the fire was spotted about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, it should be pointed out that many CC students were among the first fire-fighters, turning to the blaze at 6 a.m. Ralph Stacey, Stan Defenbaugh et company weilded shovels and sacks along the Camp Carson highway even before the Carson soldiers turned out. When we spotted them at 9 a.m. they were more than eager for a quick ride into town to pick up a cigarette and a cup of coffee—both of which had been lacking since shortly after dawn.

Visits to the several areas of the fire followed, with many bloodshot eyes making their appearance after the 60-90 mile per hour winds had been fought with as much vigor as the fire. On our second trip to the inferno area in and around the Star Ranch, we spotted Dean Adams and Dr. Rawles taking part in the shift of 30 gallons of soup, Cokes, coffee and doughnuts from the CC bus to the lunch room. Acting in President Gill's absence, it was these two men who sparked the campus to action as emergency calls came in from 7 a. m. to 9 .am.

It was here at the Star Ranch that Steve Head and Chubby Gill and others began to fear that one another had been trapped in the Ranch building which suddenly went up in flames. This was the nearest to complete disaster that any Tiger came, with all men escaping there.

PREXY PRAISES ENTIRE COLO. COLLEGE FAMILY

Returning to Colorado College yesterday afternoon and hearing about the fire, President Gill called the TIGER to express his appreciation to the entire Colorado College family in volunteering their services when the call for volunteers was sounded.

President Gill stated that he was very proud of the work of the student body, administration and faculty in aiding the community when it needed help and that his greatest regret was that he was not here to lend a hand himself. "It was real C.C. spirit," Gill said.

Still another oddity popped up on Cheyenne Mountain when it was learned that the local police department had sent its fur-lined paddy wagon to some of the fraternity houses for a load of would-be fighters. Testimony indicated that this ride to the blaze was more pleasant than that taken by more than 50 CC students in the open, wind-blown army trucks.

Real fear struck a large group of the early birds who were tackling the canyon fires on Cheyenne Mountain when the unpredictable winds caused many of the trees to literally "blow up." Bob Mann, who spent Tuesday night in the infirmary, and Ted Cordoza, sporting bandages, were among those who were unable to outrun some of these outbursts. Dick Pfeiffer is typical of those who now know what a barber means by a "hair singe."

A quick tour "with" shovel and wet gunny sack in hand" to the quickly-disposed Black Forest area was followed by a jaunt to the fire threatening Fountain, Colo., and then back to Cheyenne Mountain. Here the boys were still thanking the Salvation Army, which had come into the fire areas early with food, and to the Red Cross. The Red Cross canteens, manned in large part by the tired CC girls, had by this time supplied most of the black-faced crew with sustainance.

Many stayed on during the night—others returned to the pre-exam study—to all our hats off for the 100 per cent job offered by the entire CC fire department.

By MARY RUBLE

"Hello Joe?" "I can't read you." The wind blew and the fire raged and KRDO continued to call for Joe. The halls of Palmer were empty, the sky was black with smoke and the halls of Bemis were full of milling students. Thus it went on Tuesday, the day of the great fire. The reports continued to come in for more volunteers and confusion reigned. The famale part of the student body in a valiant effort to assit joined the sandwich detail. Never has any group sandwiches been so well packed; no less than six girls per sandwich. Everyone that had even had a radio report had a new version to disclose. Thus went the great day of the fire—the Fall of Pompeii as it happened in Colorado Springs.

The students at Tejon Tech seem to feel that the KRDO presentation every Monday to Friday night is strictly for their benefit. Everyone may be so honored by having a number dedicated to them—in fact it isn't even necessary to know the person you are dedicating a song. Nor is it necessary to make the phone call yourself dedicating a song. Surprises are great.

Phi Delt Officers

The election of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity officers for the coming semester was held last Monday. Some of the new officers are: President, Stan Brenton; Secretary, Jerry Bayless; Social chairman, Dino Theodonan; I. F. C. representative, Jack Pfeiffer; and Intramural manager, Chuck Bouchard.

No Tiger

There will be no TIGER next week because of the short between semester vacation. On February 2, the new editor and business manager of the TIGER will take over their new duties to put out the first issue of the new semester.

Crown and Lance Elects Officers

At the last meeting of Crown and Lance, Don Manzelli, from Watertown, Mass., was elected president of the group for the spring semester.

Manzelli is new to the local school, having transferred to C.C. from Brown University this fall. He is president of the Canterbury club and youth director at Grace Episcopal church.

Bill Smith, student council representative for C&L, from Wheaton, Ill., was elected vice president. Ed Spann, Mt. Vernon, New York and Winton Sweitzer, LaGrange, Ill., were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Due to the withdrawal of Harry Kurachi from college Al Schoenfield, Colorado Springs, was elected to fill the vacancy as alternate students council member.

Retiring offers are: Al Allured, president; Al Schoenfeld, vice president; Gerry Swanson, secretary and Walker Wheeler, treasurer.

Montana State Downs CC Twice at Bozeman

The CC varsity basketball team went down to defeat twice over the weekend, this time at the hands of Montana State. The first game, played Friday night, saw Montana State come out on top 73-65, despite the fact that CC center George Sweeney scored 28 points. The Tigers fared no better the second night as the Bobcats came out on top again this time by the score of 63-54.

The first night the game was lost at the free throw line as CC committed 39 personal fouls and Montana State made good on 31 free shots. C.C. hit for 39 percent of her shots while Montana was hitting only 34 percent of her shots but still the Tigers were not quite able to pull out of the fire. C.C. led at the half 37-33 but they were unable to hold on to it. High scorer for the game and for C.C. was center George Sweeney with 28 points followed by Jack Quamme with 10 points. For Montana State, McKethen was high scorer with 20 points followed by Miller with 11.

Again the second night the score was close right down to the end before Montana State was able to pull it out. Montana led at the half 34-30 but C.C. edged ahead 39-38 with five minutes gone in the third period but they were not able to hang onto this small lead and thus went down to their third straight Conference defeat. High scorer for the game and for Montana State was Les Curry with 25 points followed by Don McKethen with 21. For C.C. Jack Quamme was high man with 20 countres followed by George Sweeney with 13.

"I thought this was a respectable hotel," said the irate lady to the manager.

"And what makes you think it isn't?" inquired the managed.

"I saw a man chasing a nude woman down the hall," stated the woman.

"Did he catch her?"

"No," she replied.

"Then," squelched the pleased manager, "this remains a respectable hotel."

RECEIVES PRO BID — Wilfred Perkins, sensational baseball and basketball star here at C.C. will leave Jan. 30 for a pro baseball tryout with the New York Giants at Sanford, Florida.

CC Athlete to Report To New York Giants Baseball Camp Jan. 31

Wilfred Perkins, a twenty-one-year-old senior from Colorado Springs and one of the top stars on the CC baseball and basketball team's for the past three years, has been asked to report to the New York Giants training camp at Sanford, Florida on Jan. 31.

Perkins will leave CC at the end of the semester to join the Giants forces in an effort to land a position in pro baseball. The CC athlete was first approached by the Giants last summer when New York scout George "Mickey" Shader held a tryout camp here.

Perkins has been holding down a second baseman berth on the Tiger diamond team for three seasons and also performed with the Elks Demons a local semi-pro team in 1947-48. Last summer he played second base on a top semi-pro team in Maine along with another CC athlete, Cchuck Bouchard who holds down short stop berth on Coach Jerry Carle's diamond club.

In 1948 Perkins was voted the most valuable player in the state semi-pro tournament held here. He was then performing for the Elks Demons and battered an even .500 in the tourney games.

In Maine last summer Perkins won a great deal of praise as a result of his sensational fielding and batting. He ended the season with a batting mark of .390 and on his last day of play, was honored with a special day, by the citizens of the town.

He has been performing with the CC basketball team during the past few months and ended his college play last weekend against Montana State at Bozeman, Mont.

C.C. HOCKEY CREW MEET D.U. SATURDAY

One of the top collegiate hockey clubs in all of the United States and Canada came to Colorado Springs last weekend with the flashiest goalie seen on local rinks in many years, and therein lay the story of the end of Colorado College's winning streak.

Rudely dumped by tbe superior University of British Columbia sextet, 8-4 and 5-3, the Tiger ice sextet now settles down to a remaining 12-game schedule which includes only N.C.A.A. foes. On the Tigers showing in these games will depend their chances for selection as on of two Western teams in the national hockey tournament, slated for the local Broadmoor Ice Palace, March 16, 17 and 18.

Tiger Jayvee Pucksters Open With Two Wins Over Wyoming University

Coach Don Bates Colorado College jayvee hockey club opened their season in grand fashion by annexing two well earned victories over the University of Wyoming Cowpokes at Laramie last weekend. CC took an 8-6 decision in the first game and a 10-6 verdict in the second encounter. The Tiger juniors were slow in getting underway in the opening tilt and the score was tied up four times thruout the close game but CC put on the pressure in the third period as Jim Cubbins, Omart Brandt, and Tom Kelley combined to eke out an 8-6 margin.

The junior Bengals led 2-1 at the completion of the first period as Brandt and Don Crouse tallied to put the jayvee outfront. Allen scored for Wyoming in the second stanza to tie it up, Pete Alexander took an assist from Brandt to pull CC out front again at 7:00 but Wyoming knotted the score when Fleichman hit the net at 12:20. Bill Thompson then flashed the red light to put the Tigers out front again at 16:10 but Allen tallied for Wyoming and another tie score. Jack Reidhead on an assist from Thompson came thru with a nice shot to the net and CC went out front again as the second period ended.

Cubbins and Brandt led the CC scoring with two goals apiece.

The Tiger jayvees started out slow again in the second afternoon contest but unleashed a five-goal rally in the final period to down the Cowpokes 10-6. Alexander opened the Bengal scoring by plunking the net twice in the first stanza as Crouse and Brandt followed as CC led 4-2 at the close of the period.

Thompson tallied on an assist from Brandt to score the lone Tiger goal in the second period while Wyoming flashed the red light twice on goals by White and Schultz.

The third period found the Bengal juniors enjoying a wild scoring spree as Brandt tallied two more goals for his "hat trick" for the evening while Stevens, Crouse and Gubbins garnered one each to pace the Bengal attack.

Coalie Paul Faneuf who was in the nets for the second consecutive night had a total of 30 saves.

British Columbia Take Pair of Wins to Halt C.C. Unbeaten String

By BOB LEAVITT

A fast skating and hard shooting University of British Columbia puck aggregation arrived in town last weekend and halted a 10-game Colorado College win streak at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. The Canadians took both games of the two-game series from the Tigers. B.C. skated to an 8-4 win the opener and registered a 5-3 verdict in the second encounter with a capacity crowd of 2,500 on hand each night for the two game series.

Paced by a fast group of more experienced pucksters and backed up by one of the most outstanding goalies ever to enter the Broadmoor Ice Palace the B.C. sextet got off to a fast start in the opening game by netting three quick goals while Bud Eastwood tallied the lone C.C. score in the first period as the visitors led 3-1. Ron Hartwell flashed the red light on an assist from Chris Ray to open up the second stanza but B.C. came flying back on a goal from Porteous. Koch and Drake followed for B.C. with two unassisted goals an dRay netted one unassisted to end the period. C.C. trailed 6-3.

Just for good margin the Thunderbirds came thru with two more tallies early in the third stanza when Baily and Wagner both plunked the net unassisted. Hartwell scored the final C.C. goal on an assist from Ray. The contest ended with C.C. on the short end of an 8-4 decision. Clark Wilder had a total of 33 saves while tending the C.C. goal while Adams who made some sensational saves thruout the evening had a total of 36 for B.C.

In Saturday's game CC permitted B.C. to get the jump again and they were never headed in the roughly played contest which ended 5-3 for B.C. Several penalties were wished out in the roughly playedfray with C.C. having two men in the cooler at one time in the game.

The Thunderbirds started out fast as Hugh Berry, Bailey and Andrews flashed the red light in that order with Chris Ray netting a goal at 14:02 for the lone Tiger first period score. The visitors tallied twice on successive goals by Koch and Bailey in the second stanza while C.C. failed to score.

The Bengals held the Canadians scoreless in the final period as Yalich and Cambucci hit tbe net for one goal each as CC put on last desperate rally but time ran out before the Tigers could quite match the B.C. margin. Wilder handled the net tending chores for the second straight night and was credited with 33 saves while Adams received 25 for the winners.

Although C.C. lost both games to the British Columbia skaters the Tigers suffered the losses only in respect to their record for it is quite certain that C.C. will not meet up with a tougher hockey club for quite some time and it certainly is no disgrace to lose to such a highly touted team as the Canadians iced last weekend.

Pete's Barber Shop in Sloppy Win Over Frosh Basketball Team 42-48

In a slow sloppy basketball game last Friday, the CC Freshmen lost to Pete's Barber Shop, one of the local industrial League teams, in Cossitt gym, 42-48.

The Freshmen jumped into an early 4-0 lead but before they scored again Pete's had scored 13 13 points. Pete's held on to this lead and left the court at half time leading 21-10. In the second half Pete's started to roll again and piled up a 39-19 lead before Frosh Coach Rex Hester was able to find the right combination. Then the Tiger Cubs started to move and hit for eight straight points. The last few minutes were played very sloppily and Pete's finally came out on top 42-38. High scorer for Pete's was Gary Lewis with 11 points followed by Rolly Rogers with 8 points. For the freshmen, Dunc Stephens was high scorer with 8 points followed by Dave Vine and Wally Prebis with 5 points each.

C.C. was hurt by more than just the score in the British Columbia series. The Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, junior will miss the Denver series, but Thompson is hoping for his services in the important tussles with the Nodaks. Except for other minor bruises and bumps, the remained of the C.C. roster is intact.

COLORADO COLLEGE | February 2, 1950 | NUMBER XVI

Thanks to CC Students For Fire-Fighting Efforts

Major General W. H. Gill
President, Colorado College
Colorado Springs, Colorado
Dear General Gill,

You, who have spent your life in the services of your country, are well acquainted with the bravery, selflessness, and generosity of our American people. These qualities were fully displayed by many splendid young men and women of Colorado College, 17 January 1950 when they promptly volunteered their services to assist and support the personnel of Camp Carson in fighting the fire and wind which so nearly destroyed the reservation on that date.

Men students of Colorado College risked their lives to help our soldiers put out the blaze and save lives and property; women students generously supplied needed food and encouragement to the fire fighters, all in the face of extremely bad conditions of weather, smoke and confusion. This they did with no thought of their own safety or comfort.

May I congratulate you on your association with such a splendid group of citizens. Unfortunately we have no record of the individuals from Colorado College who so willingly helped us; I cannot, therefore, thank each one individually for his contribution, as I would like.

Would you please assist me, therefore, in conveying the gratitude and appreciation of all the personnel of Camp Carson, as well as my personal thanks, to those splendid students of Colorado College who helped us on that unfortunate day.

Most sincerely yours,
A. T. McAnsh
Colonel, Infantry
Commanding.

Student Composers Present Own Work At Recent Concert

Several outstanding works of great merit written by student composers were presented in a concert by the student and faculty of the music school Sunday, Jan. 22.

Harvey Boatright, flutist, and Betty Schade, pianist, played the English folk song "Tomorrow Is My Dancing Day" arranged by Louis Patrick. Boatright and Miss Schade were joined by Elaine Steele in a performance of "Interplay for Two Flutes and Piano" by Richard Powell. Powell was also represented on the program by his "Allegro for Violin and Piano."

The "Allegro" was played by Henry Meyer, violin, with Miss Schade at the piano. Meyer and Miss Schade also played a "Song for Violin and Piano" by Richard Schuman.

Ted Coons played his own "Tocata for Piano" with a clean and impressive technique that showed the brilliant passages off to their best advantage.

The last number of the program was a group of two works for string quartet that were written especially for the La Salle String Quartet and played by them. The

Colorado College Players Present "Glass Menagerie"; Last Performance Tonight

The Glass Menagerie, which began Tuesday night and will continue its run in Perkins Hall until tonight, at 8:30 p.m. has taxed the emotional resources and artistic insight of each individual called upon to participate in the production. Under the superb direction of Woodson Tyree the cast and stage crew have transformed the ache of an author's language into the poetry, motion, and despair of flesh and blood. In this fragile menagerie of life depicted by Tennessee Williams with explosive force, we are brought face to face with the currents of disaster of the people who live between illusion and bewildered reality; illusion and reality which drain from them the characteristics of human worth, affection and strength of purpose. The author compares the mental image of the charcters in the play to a piece of delicately spun glass that is so beautiful and yet the slightest tremor causes it to shatter.

The mother, Peggy Merle-Smith, is dramatized as a woman from a prominent Southern family. She marries into a shiftless family and they are finally reduced to living in a tenement house. The mother with her son, Donald Cooper, and daughter, Nancy Jones, live in a dream world. They are unable to adjust themselves to the existence they must lead. The daughter bases her entire world upon her glass menagerie and a few phonograph records. Her mother seeks only to marry her to a gentleman caller, Kale King, that she has skillfully manuevered her son to invite for dinner. The impact of the ending of the story surprises and gives the powerful story the flavoring of a truly great drama.

This will be first time before the footlights for Nancy Jones. Peggy Merle-Smith, Kale King and Donald Cooper have already delighted us by previous performances. "The Class Menagerie" will give their talent a challenge in all of the thrilling emotions and moving story behind the thin outer shell of "The Class Menagerie."

Student activity tickets will admit all Colorado College Students FREE.

Local Red Cross Expresses Thanks

The Pikes Peak Chapter of the American Red Cross extends sincere thanks to all the volunteers who helped its operations during the Cheyenne mountain fire. We should like to extend an individual "thank you" to each person; but things happened so rapidly and gifts were sent from so many sources (some anonymous) without going thru the Red Cross house, that we were unable to keep complete or accurate lists. Therefore, we take this means of thanking the entire county for its good will and assistance, and especially Camp Carson; the hospitals, doctors, nurses, first aiders and the ambulance company; the business men and individuals who loaned or donated equipment and trucks and cars; the volunteers who drove the cars many hours between our headquarters and the fire areas; the hotels and families who offered housing; the merchants and restaurants preparing and donating food and coffee; and many who gave candy, cigarets, chewing gum, drugs, clothing, goggles and flashlights; the countless groups of men and women who bought or made sandwiches and other foods; Colorado College and other schools for equipment and personnel; the newspapers and radio stations and the telephone company, the florists who gave flowers and magazine stores who supplied books for the injured in the Camp Carson hospital; and finally to those volunteers who helped in many small ways to make the effort a success.

The Red Cross can only be as big or as good as the community in which it operates.

Ehrmann to Address CWA on Western European Federation

Can there be a Western European Federation? This is a question that has been asked time and time again. It has always been the hope of statesman that the culture, linguistic, religious, political, social, and economic differences between western nations could be settled peaceably; and that out of the stifling nationalism could emerge a truly Western European society ready to take its place again as a leader among organized societies.

This problem of Western European Federation is of importanee to Americans because Marshall Plan Aid is connected very closely to it. With Congress debating reductions in ERP funds, the situation becomes very clear, can Europe survive divided as it is.

Dr. Henry W. Ehrmann, author and lecturer on international relations, will speak on "Western European Federation: Possibilities and Limitations," Wednesday evening, February 8, at 8 in Perkins Hall. The Council of World Affairs is presenting Dr. Ehrmann at this time because it believes that this subject should be brought to the attention of the American people.

Dr. Ehrmann was a German citizen. He was arrested by the Gestapo in 1933 for political activities. He was thrown into a concentration camp, escaped to France, and became a free lance writer. Later he joined the French Army. He fled France, after her fall, to escape from the Cestapo. He came to the United States and taught at the New School for Social Research. He wrote many articles during this period.

During the war he was employed by the State Department in its attempts to de-nazify and re-educate German prisoners of war to the concepts of democracy. Dr. Ehrman has been on the faculty of the University of Colorado since 1947.

FAREWELL

By Chuck Stoddard

Bob Leavitt, the new editor of the Tiger has asked me to write an editorial for this week. Perhaps he asked me, not because he likes what I write but simply out of the kindness of his heart. Anyway he asked me to write a farewell editorial, so here goes.

I have a gripe, perhaps not one to beef about to anyone but myself, but a gripe about the TIGER. My first complaint is one of importance to any person who happens to hold the position as editor of the TIGER. The only gripes that I as Editor would usually get would be second or third hand. A friend of a friend told me that the right material never got into the Tiger, no controversial issues, nothing to read that was worth while. I can disagree with that person, perhaps in defense for myself, in thinking that that student must have been reading the Tiger or he couldn't say there was nothing worthwhile to read. And if he continued to waste his time in reading something that was not worthwhile to read he is not the person who should be in the position to criticize—of course that's only my opinion. On the other hand that student couldn't have been too sincere in his complaint since he seemed too lazy to bring it to the editor personally. I have no respect for any person who will complain about something and then do nothing about it, especialy if he complained only to a friend.

What I am advocating is that if any person ever has a gripe, about anything concerned with Colorado College in its publications, faculty members, policies of the College, administrative members, athletic events or anything else, each and every student take it to the top man who could have it corrected. If the gripe is about the paper, take it to the editor, if it is about the faculty, talk to Dean Adams, if it is about the Administration, take it to President Gill, if it is about Chapel, talk to Dean Broom, or the Chapel committee, and policies of the College, one of several places. Don't be two-faced, if you think you have a valid gripe then make it too the right person and not to a friend who will report it for you.

I personally feel that anyone of the persons mentioned above will take a few minutes to listen to what you have to say. If they don't they may have a reason. If upon continued attempts to have your gripes heard and they continually fail, try someone else. Someone of authority is bound to listen if you are sincere.

It is a shame that Colorado College cannot have mature individuals who have learned to control their tempers. For a person of that caliber to be in an important position on either administration or faculty, to lead the students of Colorado College is in my way of thinking a disgrace to the sincere members of any of these groups. If two individuals cannot discuss something of importance and retain control within themselves, then I would suggest that the person who is continually complained about would be replaced with a more mature individual who can work with all groups concerned.

Farewell and thanks again to the sincere individuals of Colorado College.

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

This week in chapel, Dean Broome hit on a good word . . . apathy! It seems to me that this single six-letter word explains more about our campus life than any high-powered sixty-word phrase could ever do. It answers more of the common questions than just about anything else can.

What explains the notorious lack of enthusiasm about our college . . . you guessed it, APATHY! What explains the mediocrity of our college newspaper . . . the same story, APATHY! The Student Council has always evidenced its share of the same stigma . . . APATHY! The same six-letter word has its place in answering the question about our academic lethargy. It's a common partner in all of our social and school activities.

Why don't we have a high-powered fraternity and sorority system on the campus? Probably it's because there's so little ethusiasm or purpose in setting our sights high enough to make that kind of a system work. To be good . . . yes, to be the best . . . you don't have to be very good in this respect. The Intrafraternity Council is apathetic . . . it's weak, and it's no privilege or honor to be a member of said organization. You know, it's a funny trait of human beings to evidence an interest only in going organizations . . . and there are so few people who can get into a stagnant organization and make it go! Prof. Fundingsland can't get in and make the band go by himself, nor can just a handful of talented students. The editor of the TIGER can't get in and make the paper go without support . . . regardless of his talents or lack of same. The president of the Student Council can't make a powerful organization out of it unless real student activity indicates that he should make the attempt. And, along the same line, the IFC will remain weak and unimportant as a governing body until the Greeks themselves give it power and make it a respectable campus organization.

The inertia around campus is really surprising. There's lots of dissatisfaction, but little real attempt to provide the push necessary to bring about any change. It's too easy for all of us to find fault, but not so easy to get in and work out the necessary solutions. There are lots of people with considerably more talent than they're using, who refuse to have anything to do with the majority of the campus organizations simply because they don't want to be connected with a weak, down-and-out outfit. There are, evidently, too few of these talented people who have the guts to get into the swing of things and make something out of these organizations that we could all be proud of.

The solution isn't in sight . . . this strengthening program isn't something that can happen overnight like a Toni wave . . . but it has to start somewhere. Why not get into one of the groups . . . help make some of them go . . bring your candle out from under your apathetic bushel and I think you'll find it a lot of fun!

THE EDITOR SPEAKS

By Bob Leavitt

It has always been a custom or tradition for the newly elected "Tiger" editor to outline his great big policies and ideas to the student body as he commences his term in office. I may be breaking a famous tradition here at CC but at present time I am not going to relate to you any of my so-called policies. Having had considerable experience in the newspaper field I am quite aware of the thankless job ahead. Although many of you do not realize it, there are many difficult problems to confront when editing a college newspaper. But, on the other hand it can create a great deal of enjoyable fun and will undoubtedly provide the editor with much satisfaction. Applying myself to the best of my ability and using my better judgement whenever possible I will attempt to give you the type of paper you desire. My major aim is to represent you, the student body here at CC. The Tiger is your paper and it is directed toward your interest.

The major aim of every college paper should be to stimulate and inspire creative thinking among the rank and file of the college and we of the "Tiger" will attempt to carry out that aim.

As I take over my new duties as Editor of "The Tiger," I ask each and everyone of you for your fullest cooperation. The entire staff and myself will be open to any suggestions and constructive criticism you have to offer. If you have any personal gripe, or disagreeable feeling on your mind let's hear from you. Letters to the editor are more than welcome.

There are several important positions opened on the staff so if there are any prospective writers who posses the ability and desire to write, please come up to the "Tiger" office and see me.

A WORD OF EXPLANATION

By Mary Ruble

After having narrowly survived a final week and realizing that a new semester has started, it would seem wise to point out a simple and apparently unrealized fact. Way back, when Mr. Coburn founded the library he undoubtedly intended it as a place of study not a social club. While I realize that sometimes a passage in a chemistry book or a simple algebra problem contains something of great mirth and worthy of sharing with those six tables away, yet when foot races are held in the main reading room, water fights in the stacks of free-for-alls in the reserve room one begins to wonder if perhaps the purpose of the library has been forgotten.

It is certainly not necessary to require everyone to enter the library barefooted or to refrain from turning pages. Yet there is a definite difference between a library and a social club—a difference that is sometimes unnoticable. It is sometimes, though perhaps unfortunately, so necessary to drop in at the library to gather gems of knowledge and this could be done with much greater ease if all meetings of the South Side Clam Bake were held elsewhere. Think it over, it might be a point.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Grades were released at registration on Friday and Saturday, and in most cases everyone feels as though they have "had it." Less than one quarter of the fraternity pledges, all five groups being combined, made the required grade average for initiation. Sororities have found an amazing drop in the averages of their pledges. Very few of them as found in the fraternities, made their grades.

Is it possible that this particular batch of students has an abnormally low mentality? No it is not, for in spite of the fact that the frosh averages are most conspicuous in the tabulation of prospective active members of the organizations, many 1 and 2 average upperclassmen were also astounded at their own marks. A rumored explanation of this phenomenal occurance at Colorado College is that the administration, striving for nationwide recognition, asked the faculty members to be "just a little rougher" in their grading proceedure. It seems an extremely negative approach (by rumor of course) the school average is too high, thus Colorado College is typed as an easy school. What school or group has the ability to decide what is high and what is low, with the countless variations in grading systems throughout the country? A 2.5 at CC, for example would mean about a B in a simplified interpretation of this particular system, whereas it might mean a failing or probationary grade in another school, grading from 1 to 10 or 10 to 1.

Why then, this sudden change in a previoiusly fair grading system? When a student works for a grade he expects and he deserves to receive it. Supposedly, when parents are considering sending their offspring to this school, it is very highly recognized, among other things for its Graduate Records and Senior Comprehensives—something or a rarity in many other universities and colleges. Is there an explanation on hand?

Irate Student.

WEE TIGER'S PAWS

By Bob Humphreys

New feature of The Tiger, "Wee Tiger's Paws" is dedicated to the students who pause, as we do, to think upon the reflections from the eyes of the Tiger, symbol of our school spirit. It is the desire of the writer to pass on to his readers some of these reflections—those of our social life, the academic facet, the humorous happenings, the serious, in essence the life at Colorado College.

As is usual in any college around the semester's end, the seniors and juniors—yes, even the sophomore students—are busying themselves with convincing their younger colleagues that "this" freshmen class is, by all means, the stupidist class ever to enter the school. This may well be true; however, we would advise restraint from such well-meant advice as that of sending psychological questionaires to all applicants for admission, at least until the Registrar's office has compiled and released the necessary statistics. A phychologist in the administration might create a serious mental hazard—to the administration, of course.

Speaking of serious mental problems, one of the greatest seems to be passing out of our lives. We're referring to that Poe-ish biennial occurence, registration. The infirmary reports fewer cases of nervous prostration, blistered feet, and crushed bones than in any previous year (as well as the medics can remember, the files not being too clear on the matter). We know some students who crossed the barrier in as little time as an hour (check the sports pages

By MARY RUBLE

It's that time of year again; the time for resolutions, promises and carefully drawn out study schedules. This seems to always follow the passing out of grades; a custom that is always followed by a a careful discussion of the life and various bits of the professors involved. It's amazing how one teacher can be regarded as both the best professor at any university and the lowest dog that ever lived depending entirely upon a simple mark on a card.

The semester began in the cold grey dawn of a Monday morning with the usual confusion as to location of classes and the complete surprise of some of our scholars in realizing that they had very carefully enrolled in a course which they had sat through two years ago. It's somehow fortunate that the American education system is arranged so that one may change his direction in his search for the truth by regularly changing courses. A new start is great; at least for the first few days.

Speaking of education, some of our about to graduate seniors, having carefully gathered a liberal education, are now taking courses in typing and shorthand at night school. There comes a time in everyone's life when the necessity for three meals begins to be dominant in one's mind.

Those few days of most welcome vacation and freedom were spent in a variety of ways. Dick Matzen took the opportunity to marry Alice Norton while Renee Ramond became Mrs. Maak Orton.

Then there were those who took to the hills—skiing that is. The various gentle and the not so gentle slopes in Colorado were covered with CC students who glided their way with varying regularity down the hill. Those who doubt the popularity of skiing at Tejon Tech have only to look around them at the beet-red faces (not to be confused with bloodshot eyes), the cast covered legs and the assorted limps to realize that skiing is here to stay!

It should be mentioned that talent among the Colorado College family is certainly present. Loren Driscoll has combined an education with entertainment of the great American public and now has a weekly program over KRDO @ Wednesday evenings at 7:15. Ain't education wonderful?

CC Debaters Have Impressive Record

Two weeks ago, Jan. 20, 21—the CC debate team traveled to Loretta Heights College for a debate tournament. Debaters from Wyoming, New Mexico, Colorado A&M, Colorado State, Colorado U, Denver U, Regis, Loretto Heights, Pueblo and Colorado College participated in this two day event CC can well be proud of the two teams which represented her, for these men came back with fine 15 won, 5 lost record. It was one of, if not the best records compiled. In addition the negative side of Bill Barton and Bill Grote won five and lost none—the only one to accomplish this feat.

One of the teams is composed of Harvey Hamilton and Hawk Mills, affirmative and Bill Barton, Bill Grote, negative. The other has Byron Crain and Ed Banton on the affirmative and Bob York and Jim Caywood, negative. All ranked quite high in the tournament. A tournament, it might be added enjoyed by all.

Special thanks to Mr. David C. Hart, coach of the group, for his untiring efforts to make this team successful.

CC Plays Need Your Support

By Nancy Jones

The generous efforts of the Women's Educational Society have provided Colorado College with a versitile and attractive theatre for the staging of student productions and, in the person of Woodson Tyree, we have a most capable director, whose tireless work has produced plays of exceptionaly high charact er. Certainly, we do not lack willing and talented student actors, people who uncomplainingly make endless sacrifices so that a finished and worthy production may be staged. All this is fine, but is it all in vain?

Can we expect these efforts to continue in the face of apparent disinterest on the part of those for whom they are made? How can it be anything but discouraging to the director and the actors when they are forced to play to an empty house on opening night; who can find inspiration in a sea of empty seats?

This week the Colorado College Players are presenting their most serious offering of theseason, "The Glass Managerie," by Tennessee Williams. Here's our chance to show some appreciation for both past and present and future productions. Support your student drama group by attending tbe college plays.

It won't cost you a cent if you are the possessor of a student activity book which will be bonored at the door. Curtain time: 8:30.

Second Rush Period For Greeks Begins

The second rush week of the school year began last Sunday with each of the four sororities holding open house for all new or unaffiliated women. This week marks the anniversary of a previously experimental method of rushing involving non-silence silence which was proposed last February to promote a more normal relationship between both organized women and those tthat are not.

Each sorority will have one informal party during the week. The Kappas, on Monday, had a pajama party at their lodge with suitable entertainment; on Tuesday the Gamma Phis, in keeping with the current major interest, had a ski party; last night was the Theta party, with much hilarious entertainment and hot chocolate to combat the cold, and tonight will be the Delta Gamma party, a dessert at the lodge.

Girl will receive their bids on Friday and will to their respective lodges at 5:30 for an informal "welcoming supper."

tone control has four distinct positions to take care of the conditions which will be encountered at Lennox. Full bass for back ground music at teas and meetings, speech for listening to sports broadcasts, a brilliant position for music at dances, and finally, a high fidelity for record lovers. The record changer is of the latest design and will play all three sizes and all three speeds. The changer will intermix 10 and 12 inch records and does shut off after playing the last record. Two General Electric heads are provided, one for the slow playing records and one for the old standard size. Miss Fowler has the centers for the odd 45 rpm size and the extra head for the slow records. The General Electric pickup heads are excellant for both quality and wear.

The Speaker enclosure is unique in that there are probably not more than three in the entire city. It is called the corner reflector and uses the sides of the room to give a rich full bass, not obtainable before with this small an enclosure. The speaker itself is a 12 inch electro dynamic Jensen Concert. This rugged a speaker was chosen so the system could give a large amount of volume for adance without overloading.

It was a pleasure to build this custom unit knowing that the college was not sparing any expense. Therefore the finest equipment that could be obtained was used. Mike Dillion built the cabinet and Mr. Rhodes made the recess cutout in the wall.

Graduate Business School At Harvard Gives Scholarships

The second annual offering of scholarships under the nation-wide Regional Scholarship program of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration was announced last night by Dean Donald K. David.

Providing $50,000 in awards to a maximum of 55 men entering the school in September, the Regional Scholarship program is designed to insure "that well-qualified students without sufficient financial resources will be able to continue their education in the graduate field of business administration."

Each region of the country is allotted its own scholarships under the plan and recipients are selected by competition on a regional basis.

Dean David explained: "The Graduate School of Business Administration has always prided itself on keeping its doors open to men from all economic levels and from all parts of the country. If the School is to continue to serve the nation in the development of leaders to carry business responsibility, this policy must continue."

Under the Regional Scholarship program, the actual amount of the award to each scholar will depend directly on individual financial need. Selection of men to receive the scholarship will be made on a basis of aptitude for business training, without regard to financial need. In extreme cases, the scholarship may cover the entire cost of a man's training for business administration.

The Harvard Graduate School of Administration has as its primary objective the training of men to become responsible businessmen: not students of business nor specialists who know about business, but men able to work in business and capable of developing into responsible executives.

Teaching is based on the "case method" in which the problems of business are attacked in terms of actual business cases, and the student is repeatedly placed in situations where as an administrator he must not only evaluate evidence but also act with responsibility.

Applicants should write to the Committee on Scholarships, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, Soldiers Field, Boston 63, Massachusetts for application forms and detailed information. The deadline for applications will be April 1, 1950.

More than 10,000,000 World War II veterans have applied for education and training under the GI Bill since that law went into effect in June, 1944. This total—as of October 1, 1949 — represents two-thirds of all World War II veterans.

Tigers Host to Nodaks Friday and Saturday

Powerful North Dakota Sextet to Test Bengals

Feeling quite smug with 12 victories under their belts, compared to only two losses, the Colorado College Tigers face the identically undesirable situation this weekend which confronted them two weeks ago. After coasting past the first-year Denver University sextet in the last pair of games, the Tigers must now rise up against the strong University of North Dakota team this Friday and Saturday in the Broadmoor Ice Palace.

It was the let-down received from the first pair of victories over Denver early in January which the Tigers feel was partially responsible for their only two losses of the season. Fans will remember how the veteran group of skaters from the University of British Columbia caught the Tigers napping for the only two losses of the current CC season.

Now Coach Cheddy Thompson and his skaters face strictly American competition — all of which counts toward determining the two Western berths in the National Hockey Tournament here March 16, 17 and 18. And first on the list of contenders for the Western NCAA title spots to meet CC will be North Dakota, giving added highlight to this weekend's series.

Two names standout in the North Dakota lineup as scoring threats to any team—Prince Johnson and Russ Johnson. This brother duet was responsible for stopping the incredible 13-game winning streak by CC in the 1947-48 campaign. After laying out of school for a year they have returned to harass Nodak opponents. They will perform with many veteran names, including Jim Medved, John Noah, Ginny Christian and Bob Krumholz in the front lines, Dan and Paul McKinnon, Cal Marvin and Joe Silovich at defense and Bob Murray at goal. New coach of the Sioux pucksters is Cliff Purpur.

The Bengals will be out to avenge the two defeats suffered on North Dakota ice last season. After dumping the Sioux, 12-4 in both games at the Broadmoor Ice Palace, the Bengals were trimmed 5-3 and 6-3 in Grand Fork during the 1948-49 season. Thompson's local club will be at top strength for the encounter, with Jim Starrak returning to his regular defense position after sitting out the only major injury incurred by CC this year.

Junior: "Mamma, Pappa wouldn't murder anybody, would he?"

Mother: "Gracious, no. What made you ask?'

Junior: "Well, I heard him down in the basement last night saying: "Let's kill the other two, Joe."

CC Swimming Team in Victory Over Greeley

Last Saturday the Colorado College Tigers splasbed over Greeley to win their first swimming meet of the season, 38-37.

Although the tankmen were greatly handicapped by the lack of swimmers, they managed to pull themselves out of the underdog position to win the meet by one point. The deciding factor of the meet was not displayed until the last event which was the 400 yard relay. Swimming for the Tigers in this event were: Carky Rubens, Bob Wilkens, Warren Arter, and Dave Schultz. From the start of the gun until the last stroke was taken, the CC boys gained and held a steady lead.

Other interesting events of the day included the 300 yard medley relay in which Bob Wilkens, Bob Rosberg and Dave Schultz participated. This crew won the race in a time of 1:29.2, just 1.2 seconds behind the old conference record which was set by CC last year.

Doug Gregory, veteran diver for the mermen, eased by to win the one meter diving event while Wilkens took top bonors in the 140 yard backstroke.

Warren Arter and Hans Bunch placed two thirds respectfully in the 220 and 440 yard freestyle adding two more valuable points to the CC score.

On top of winning the meet the Tigers can be credited by placing six out of nine firsts.

The next meet of the season will be on Feb. 4, at the YMCA. Everyone is urged to be on hand at 4:30 p. m. to see Colorado College vs. Colorado Mines.

Bengal Pucksters Rip DU Twice 14-1, 10-3

Colorado College's vaunted hockey machine went into action twice over the last two weeks and each time they came up with a victory and each time it was over an almost hapless Denver University team. On Saturday, Jan. 21 CC made its debut in the new DU arena and skated off witb a 14-1 win, both Ron Hartwell and Bill MacDonald getting the hat trick and last Monday night CC defeated Denver again on their home ice 10-3, with Jim Starrak getting the hat trick.

The first game, witnessed by the largest number of people ever to see a hockey game in the state of Colorado, 5,232, saw CC skate off with a 14-1 verdict. Rough play was the feature of the evening although no actual fighting broke out. The only incident to marr play was a shot by Captain Mike Yalich which caught DU goalie Harvey Moran unaware and hit him just above the eye, a cut which required six stitches to close and necessitated his removal from the game. DeLange was then given the task of trying to stop the CC onslaught. Despite the roughness of the game, only six penalties were handed out and none of these were major penalties.

CC goalie Bill Dewire was robbed of a shut-out when Timmons dented the twines on an assist from Talarico at 8:07 of the third period. Moran, while he was in there had 15 saves while DeLange was credited with 19. DeWire also was credited with 19 saves.

Last Monday night CC again visited Denver, this time coming out on tbe top side of a 10-3 score. It was another tough game, interspersed with a fist fight between Len Maccini and John Timmons, which saw them both draw major penalties. With Starrak leading the way CC raced to a 5-0 lead at the end of the first period, but Du fans were given something to cheer about when Denver whipped two goals by Clark Wilder within a period of 65 seconds early in the second period.

Brandt Hits Five Goals CC Jayvees Defeat CU

Led by Omer Brandt, center of the first line, the CC Jayvees skated to an 8 to 3 triumph over Colorado University. The junior Bengals scored five times in the first period, three more in the second period and then held on as the CU Buffs garnered three goals in the third period and threatened to get several more. Outstanding for Colorado University were Stu Black and John Miller. Black snared two goals and Miller got the other one. These two players dominated the play of tbe third period and along with Brandt were the stars of the game.

The first period was all Brandt as he scored four of the five goals, all of them unassisted, and he stood head and shoulders over the rest of the players. Gerry Stevens, a sophomore from Hamden, Conn., got the other goal. In the second period Brandt got his fifth goal and Don Crouse and Bill Reinfeld got the other two. CU came without its regular goalie so Paul Faneuf, CC JV goalie filled in for tbe Buffs. He had a total of 21 saves in the last two periods, after CU defenseman, Pete Creighton, who had six saves in the first period, had been lifted. Al Flynn, CC goalie had a total of 22 saves.

The summary.

CC Encounters Miners In RMC Tilt at Golden

Fresh from two straight vicies over St. Michael's, the CC basketball team will seek to keep its latest string of wins in tact as they meet the Colorado School of Mines in a Rocky Mountain Conference game at Golden tomorrow night. Coach Jerry Carle is expected to take hia whole squad of thirteen players to Golden and he will probably start Captain Jack Quamme and Marv Powell at the guards and Tony Esposito, George Sweeney and Wayne Roper up front. Others expected to see a lot of action are Jack Pfeiffer, Bill Perkins and Dwight Hamilton. Mines is tied with the Tigers in the RMC standings both having won none and lost three. Accompanying the varsity will be the freshmen squad coached by Rex Hester. The freshmen so far have won four games and lost three.

Sports Shorts

Here are a few sidelights into the world of sports here at CC. Two hockey players, Bill Dewire and Johnny Schleicher, were dismissed from the hockey squad at the end of the semester. No reason was given for their dismissal. John Schefelbein, promising basketball player has also left the team. He dropped out of school to enter Bradley University located in his home town of Peoria, Illinois.

Also of local interest was the report last week that Sammy Esposito, younger brother of Tony Esposito, Bengal basketball star, had scored 81 points in a high school basketball game in Chicago. Besides being a captain of the basketball team, Sammy was also captain of the football team and captain of the baseball team. Last fall he made the Illinois All-State team and at the conclusion of last years baseball aeason he received several offers from Major League scouts. All in all Sammy doesn't sound like a bad athlete to have around.

CC Frosh Hoopsters Take Two Decisions

The CC Freshmen basketball team had a busy time last week as they played three games in four nights, winning two of them. On Wednesday night they dropped a 72-49 decision to Blair's Business College but they came back strong to knock off Garrett's Sporting Goods and Farmer's Implements, Garretts by the score of 45-30 and Farmer's Implements, 54-29.

In the game against Blair's, the Frosh couldn't seem to get moving and the Business College jumped into an early lead, 23-10. They continued to hold onto this lead, having the court at halftime in front by a 35-16. Outstanding in this game was Dave Vine, Tiger cub forward, as he threw 26 points to lead the scoring for both teams.

Friday night, Garrets scored the first basket but before they could score again the Freshmen had scored eight points and were well on their way to a comfortable lead. The Frosh dumped in ten more points in the second period and led at the half 18-13. In the third period they increased their lead and with seven minutes left to go in the game they were out in front 35-21 and for the rest of the game the two teams just traded off points, the Freshmen coming out on top by the score of 45-30. High scorer for the Cubs was Dunc Stephens with 14 points while Bartlett was high man for Garrett's with 12.

It was the same old story Saturday night as the Freshmen scored early and caught Farmers' Implements in a cold streak. The Frosh led 25-10 at the half and then coasted home on their lead. In fact the Cubs were out in front as much as 42-19 when Coach Rex Hester started pouring in his reserves and they added to the score keeping Farmer's Implements from scoring often and the clock ran out with the Freshmen on a long end of a 54-29 score. High acorer for the Freshmen and for the game was Dave Vine as he hit for 22 points. For the FI team Tamlin was high man with 11 points. An interesting aidelight on these three games waa that Dave Vine, a forward from Rochester, Minn., averaged 18.6 points a game.

Bridge Club Formed; Meets Each Week at Acacia Hotel, 7:15

An invitation has been extended to all students and faculty members to attend the weekly sessions of the Colorado Springs Bridge club which conducts duplicate tournament every Friday night at 7:30 p. m. in the Acacia hotel. A fee of 60 cents is charged and players should be there by 7:15 to be assigned their places.

"The club is affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League and rating points and cash prizes are given each week to the winners. On the first Friday of each month a Master Point tournament is conducted, and it is possible for those in first place to win one Master Point which is equivalent to 100 rating points. On Master Point night all other winners receive double the number of rating points they would receive in ordinary tournament plays. On Master Point Night the fee is one dollar.

Monday afternoon the Colorado Springs Auxiliary conducts a duplicate session at the Acacia hotel at 1:15 p. m. A fee of 50 cents is charged for this session and rating and cash prizes are given to the winners."

The above information has been given to us by Mrs. W. M. Godfrey, secretary of the Colorado Springs Bridge club, and it is hoped that some students will participate in these weekly tournaments.

"Glass Menagerie" Huge Success; Tops Previous Attendance Records

With a crowd of over a thousand spectators, the Glass Menagerie has been acclaimed the most successful in recent years for Director Woodson Tyree and the CC Players. The play itself in its reviews as well as in audience appeal, in spite of the fact that it was undertaken against the advice of many local critics as being "too deep" for a college presentation. A drama of the disaster of people who live between illusion and reality, it taxed the emotional resources and artistic insight of every member of the cast. Also of great importance were the stage-effects. Changes in lighting and music created appropriate atmospheres and made a tremendous impression on the audience.

"There was little doubt in the minds of the audience that the cast had done an excellent piece of work. There was little doubt in the minds of the cast that the "crew" had done equally as well." Dick Conrad, publicity manager of the show, said.

The "entire cast" included Peggy Merle-Smith, as the mother; Don Cooper, the son; Nancy Jones, the daughter; Kale King, the gentleman caller; Bud Edmonds, sound; Joe Price and "Sid" Levno lights; Lynn Jones, property and sound; Barbara Anson, property and lights; and Shirley Pearson, prompting.

Chicago Professor Chapel Speaker

Dr. Hans J. Morgenthau, associate professor in political science at the University of Chicago, will speak in chapel on Tuesday, Feb. 21 on "The American Century," and on the same day at 4 p. m. in Perkins Hall on "Russia and the Future." Arrangements have been made by the Public Lectures Committee of Colorado College to secure this outstanding speaker in the important field of International Relations through the Adult Education Council of Chicago. The Chapel Board is cooperating with the committee in making this program available to CC students. Dr. Morgenthau's book, "Politics Among Nations" was used last semester as a text in political science 310. Although arranged primarily for students of the college, these meetings are open to the public as well.

NSA Committee Meets Here; Plan National Convention, Discuss Regional Conclave

The National Students Association executive committee met on the campus of Colorado College last Saturday. The meeting was very important for the region because of the discussion of plans for the national meeting which will be held on the University of Michigan campus this summer on August 23-31.

Frank Krasovec, from the University of Colorado, president of the Rocky Mountain region, attended the meeting along with Ollie Holtzman, vice president of student life and government for this region. Other members of the regional executive committee also attended.

Plans were launched for the national meeting in which two delegates and two alternates will be sent from each school. The planning also included the regional meeting which is to be held in Greeley March 10. The regional assembly will also take under discussion proposed changes in the regional constitution. March 10 will also see the competition and awards for the best skit presented at Greeley. All schools in the region will be able to able to enter. The winner will be presented with a trophy.

In this part of the region a few changes have taken place within the organization. Pete Buekstaff has resigned from the chairmanship of the campus committee. Clarice Hads was appointed to his position in addition to the regional secretaryship which she already holds. The meeting was nlso informed of the resignation of Bill Murray as regional publicity chairman. Betty Riley, from Colorado Women's College, has taken Bill's place as the publicity chairman.

Trinidad Junior College was officially made a member of this region in last Saturday's meeting.

The director of publications for the association announced also that the student governments will probably pay less next year for membership in the U. S. National Students Association. N.S.A. President Robert A. Kelly said that member dues will be reduced because of lower operational costs and strict economy in 1950. Kelly explained that no exact reduction has been worked out on paper; however the cut shall release additional money for local and student government activities. Kelly pointed out that the increasing numbers of new N.S.A. member schools are providing an increasing revenue while the expense of servicing additional requests for in formation and aid remains relatively stable.

Including the sum just turned over to the Society, the organization during the year has paid bills totaling $22,484.65 for the Perkins Hall auditorium. There remains a balance of $1,898.65 yet to be raised; this sum has been lent by one of the society's members.

In addition to the money given the college for Perkins Hall, the women have given $610.33 for the improvements in the college some years ago. Other gifts to the college and students include: a microfilm for the library,$100 for the Lewis Abbott memorial, $180 to send a student to the Girl Scout national conference, $2,946.45 for scholarships and many others.

Sportsmanship and Cooperation Urged at all Hockey Games

By Nancy Jones

Since hockey has become our best attended sport at Colorado College, and since nearly every aspect of college life or of any other has its particular gripes, we wish to enumerate a few of these connected with hockey, from the viewpoint of both participants and spectators.

The hockey players are definitely justified in their gripe against spectators who insist on smoking in the rink in spite of repeated requests not to. Perhaps a little explanation of why this courtesy is so important to the players will clear up the matter a bit.

As one player put it, "Smoking in the rink makes it twice as difficult for the players to breathe, causing them to get tired sooner and making the game more of a strain on everyone."

A solid reputation for good sportsmanship is always an asset to a college, and the spectators can do a great deal towards establishing this reputation for CC by applauding any good play made during the games whether it is made by our team or our opponents. The Canadian players especially remarked on this point. It is a custom in their country, and they were surprised to see that it is not practiced here as well. Good sportsmanship on the ice should be matched by good sportsmanship in the stands, and that excludes "booing." Either the actions of the opposition or the decisions of the referees.

Some question has been raised as to the seating arrangement of the students at the games. According to Juan Reid, Athletic Director, 800 seats are reserved for students for home games, if the full quota of tickets are not exchanged at the athletic office 24 hours before the game these tickets are put up for sale to townspeople. However, the students are asked to take the seats on the north side of the west end of the rink, as the south side is really the general admission section.

All that is needed to clear up these gripes is really cooperation on everyone's part, the result will be more enjoyable games for both players and spectators.

By MARY RUBLE

What a week this has been! No one pinned, engaged, married or hurt skiing. It hardly makes the past week worth living.

In keeping with current events, the library seems to be practicing atomic fission or so it would seem to listen to the radiators. According to reliable reports, though it is doubtful how reliable a report on happenings in the library at eight a. m. can be, a recent explosive earthquake was heard coming forth from the library. Wait till the radiators learn about the H-bomb! It won't be safe to enter the ivy covered walls.

The battle royal has again broken out between the Kappas and the Phi Delts. Monday night the milk can trophy was removed from its place of honor at the Kappa House and is now residing in some secret chamber at the Phi Delt House. If anyone hears a whine of shells or the roar of tanks—do not fear. 'Tis only the Kappas mobilized for revenge and the return of lost possessions.

Showing that humans will continue to organize into common groups a new club was recently formed on campus. It goes under the simple name of the Freshman Club and has as its motto the apt slogan: "It isn't a crime to be a freshman but only a crime to act like one." Every week a freshman of the week is elected and reigns supreme in the critical eyes of the upperclass members of this illustrious group. This doubtful honor is bestowed upon the inidvidual who most typifies the implications of the word "freshman." At present the field is crowded with a large group of people all worthy of being so distinguished.

Golddiggers is coming up soon, as demonstrated by the serious discussions as to where on earth you can feed two people and provide them with the other necessities of such an occasion on $2.73. The question is not "is he a good date," but "does he drink and what?" Ah, the complications of this modern world!

By Bob Humphreys

One aspect of our administration which is considered comparable to the Peak in its awe-inspiring qualities (though certainly less accessible for analysis than the imposing feature farther to the west) is that bug-a-boo of all cabals, the Undergraduate Life Committee. Much of the credit for the committee's lack of popularity must be due to such appelations as "The Little Board of Expulsion" or "The Cutler Inquisition." To clear away much of this mistaken and mysterious fear, we publish this report on the committee.

The present group was appointed by the faculty-elected Committee on Committees which consisted, at the time, of President Gill, Dean Holbrook, Mr. Krutzke, Dr. Gould, Dr. Worner, and Dr. Knapp. These men chose the following to make up the committee which rules on "anything, outside of the purely academic, which is of interest to the students." President Gill (ex-officio), Dean Adams (chairman), Dean Broome, Dean Fauteaux, Deans Reid and Mathias, Miss Morgan, Dr. Rawles, Mr. Ericson, Miss McNary, and Dr. Gray. Gale George and Jim Kinder serve as student representatives with speaking but non-voting privileges. Dean Adams states that both the president of the Associated Women Students and the Student Body President are "excellent student representatives with good manners, not awed by the committee nor afraid to speak."

Among the items considered by the present committee are the cut system (still under discussion), possibility of our observing an Armistice Day holiday, permission for "hell-raising" by the Growlers, the possibility of selling doughnuts for charity at dances, ways to improve chapel popularity, entrances on the social calender (subcommittee under Dean Fauteaux), and cases of expulsion due to chapel cuts, dishonesty, and cheating.

These cases are apparently decided without the basis of any written precedents or rules; however, precedence is considered in order to insure as much equity as is possible in spite of the individual differences in each case.

The committee is certainly powerful. It laps over into the realm of the Committee on Instruction (as in the case of the cut system) and the Honor Committee generally turns over violation cases, with recommendations to it. We do, however, have a member's assurance that "all angles in each case are discussed with the greatest fairness possible."

As to the future of the board, we see only the same bright light from the East that seems to be filtering in through every portal on the campus. It is doubtful that the student representatives will have voting power, at least in the near future; however, we find that such power would have changed no decision so far this year.

KRDO to Broadcast Hockey Games at 7:00

Radio station KRDO continues its on-the-spot coverage of CC hockey games this week as the two games against Minnesota will be broadcast. Game time will be at 7:00 p. m. (MST).

Who . . . Me?

Have you ever wondered where the line falls between social and pathological drinking? While you are thinking about the subject, here's a chance to try for $200. The Intercollegiate Association for Study of the Alcohol Problem is holding a contest. No doubt you are familiar with some old CC traditions such as T.G.I.F. If you can suggest some solution to this social pressure to drink, write it up in 300-500 words. Of course, some technical knowledge is necessary. The contest secretary will send such information on request. And then you may want to do a little research on your own—nothing like first-hand information. If you are interested in the subject of "Social Pressure Against Alcohol," write to: Contest Secretary, Box 3342, Merchandise Mart Station, Chicago 54, Illinois.

Walt's Fault

By WALT SWEET

In the process of winning the war, and subsequently of winning the peace, our old Alma Mater has lost a lot of its time-honored traditions. At the present time, there aren't enough of the old guard about who remember them to provide the impetus necessary for their rehibilitation, so they have died as certainly as if they had never been born at all!

There are, on the books, a number of pretty good songs other than "Colorado C-Men" which are considerably more distinctive of Colorado College than it is. When asked if they still sing "Our Colorado" or "The Black and Gold," however, most of the student body could honestly say they had never heard of them.

Time was when the Sophomore Class entertained with a 'barbecue' in the jungle (wherever that may have been!) and the Seniors had a Senior Prom. Neither of these functions hes been held since I have been here.

Time also was when the entire student body would remain in the stands after a football or basketball game to sing "Our Colorado" —win, lose, or draw. Now, we not only don't know the song, but don't even stick around to sing the one (repeat, ONE) that we do know.

There are probably lots of other things that grew to be traditional along sometime during the years. I was glad to see the "Kinnikinnik" brought back to life last year—it has an important place among our campus publications and is worthy of a continued place in the tradition of the College.

Now maybe it's silly to believe that customs such as these I have mentioned are worth hanging on to, but I don't think so. It seems that they add (or would add) a pattern and individuality to our college life that would make it seem somewhat more satisfying Don't get the idea, either, that I think the traditions we're building now are so much hooey and should be tossed out—may they live forever! TGIF is here to stay! It does seem sort of bad, though, to know only one College song (and to have so few class activities). The Tiger Club and the Growlers are to be commended for their attempt to teach us the old songs. I hope that in the months and years to come they extend their efforts to other fields of campus traditions—and maybe they and the class officers can reestablish some of these old customs as an integral part of college life.

"C" Club Initiates Fifteen Members Of Football Squad

In an impressive ceremony Sunday afternoon, fifteen members of CC's championship football team were initiated into the C Club.

The ceremony consisted of the customary ritual of initiation and the presention of a lifetime pass to all home games to President William Gill, Football coach Allison Binns, Basketball coach Jerry Carle, Trainer Roosevelt Collins and Dr. Harry Woodward. Movies of the Notre Dame 1949 football season were shown.

The afternoon was climaxed by the awarding of the Wagner Trophy to Don Laswell, as the most improved player on this year's football squad.

Delta Gammas to Vie For Best Hobo Title

The Delta Gamma lodge will be turned into a "Hobo Heaven" this Saturday night, when the D-G's and their dates compete for the prize which will be given to the most original "hobo." Nobody but tramps can come, so dress up in the world's worst outfit and try for the prize. The dance is from 9 'til 12, with music supplied by Floyd Frame.

AWS Announces Plans for 1950's Sensational Golddigger's Dance

The A.W.S. sponsored Golddiggers' Ball is looming close in the future. This annual turnabout is tabbed as one of the, if not THE best dances of the year. Everyone and anyone may go; however, instead of the girls having to wait around for the boys to ask them, it will be the boys' turn to wait, for it is strictly girl-ask-boy. The dance will be held in the Broadmoor Ballroom on Friday, February 17 from 9-12 at $1.20 a couple.

Each fraternity has chosen a man from their ranks to be their representative in the candidacy for "King of the Golddiggers"; an honorable position given to but one man a year by the feminine vote of the campus. The 1950 slate will include Sigma Chi's Senator Barton; Phi Gamma Delta's Dave Oatman; Stan Brenton of Phi Delta Theta; Beta Theta Pi's Dick McCleery; Jim Ward, Kappa Sigma and the Crown and Lance candidate, not yet chosen. The coronation will take place at 11:00 o'clock on the evening of the dance. Watch next week's TIGER for a case history of each candidate, complete with pictures.

It has been customary in the past for each woman to pick up her date, (furnishing transportation herself, be it taxi, Terraplane or Model T), and wine and dine him in the most fashionable way. Flowers, of course, are in order, and may be purchased or designed in any form, be he a cabbage head or a booze-hound. The corsage most suited to an individual personality will draw a prize for its designer. Don't miss the fun of this gala affair. It's only one week from tomorrow and high time to be saving and searching for the big date!

Twenty-Two Women Become Affilioted In Mid-Term Rushing

Tiger J-V's Split Two; Defeat CU; Lose to DU

The Colorado College J-V team made it two in a row over CU and four straight for the season last Friday night as they defeated the Buffs, at Boulder 12-3. This winning streak was snapped Monday night as the DU Freshmen knocked off the Bengal cubs 13-9 at the new Denver Arena.

As in the other game with the Buffalos, the Jayvees scored early and often netting five goals in the opening period, garnering three more in the second, and closing out with four in the final frame. CU scored two of their goals in the second period and their other one in the final stanza.

For the Tigers Omer Brandt was again the big gun as he banged home six goals. Behind him came Gerry Stevens with a three goal hat trick. Jim Gubbins snared two counters and the final score went to Tom Kelly. Due to the illness of Buff goalie Paul Fenuf was loaned to them while Al Flynn was in the net for the winning Bengals.

CC JAYVEES HOST TO WYOMING

The CC J-V's return to their home ice this week-end as they engage the Wyoming Cowboys in a two-game series, Friday and Saturday nights at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Tickets may be exchanged at the Athletic Office until 5:00 p. m. Friday, Feb. 10th.

Monday night things were quite different as an undermanned CC team did very well until the third period when the players were so tired they could hardly skate. Coach Don Bates took eleven men with him to Denver and two of these were injured in the first period, Gerry Stevens received a badly fractured jaw and Bill Thompson cracked a couple of ribs, Add to this, thef act that Omer Brandt sustained several bruised ribs but kept on playing and Tom Ventrucci was having trouble with his sinus and CC had a team that was barely able to put six healthy players on the ice.

Things were fairly even in the first two periods, the score being tied at the end of each one. Brandt rammed home the first goal with only fifty seconds gone. With eleven minutes gone in the final frame DU had whizzed in five goals to CC's none and held a commanding 12-7 lead.

High scorer for the Bengals was Brandt, this time with four goals. For the Pioneers, Norm Lupovich and Ed Miller were tied for scoring honors, each with a three goal hat trick.

Tiger Swimmers Sink Mines in RMC Meet

The Colorado College swimming team splashed over Mines last Saturday afternoon to crown themselves with their second conference victory, 44-30. The CC crew swam against the tremendous odds of 8 men to 16, but still managed to take five first places. The winning of this meet spotted the mermen as favorites for the conference meet which will be held in Greeley on the 25th of February.

Captain Dave Schultz led the CC's point getters, garnering 10 them, and behind him came Bob Wilkens with five points. Piling up the first places for the Bengals were: the medley relay team, Schultz in the 100 yd. freestyle, Doug Gregory in the diving, Wilkens in the 140 yd. backstroke and the relay team.

The next action the tankmen will see will be on February 18, when they travel to Boulder to oppose Colorado University.

TIGERS DOWN NODAKS 8-5—Goalie Clark Wilder, Captain Mike Yalich and Bud Eastwood combine to stop a Nodak scoring threat as CC took a wild 8-5 decision from North Dakota last Friday night.

CC SEXTET WIN AND TIE NODAKS

In what turned out to be the hardest fought hockey game seen at the Broadmoor Ice Palace in some time, the Colorado College Tigers defeated the North Dakota Nodaks 8-5 last Friday night. The following night the two teams played superior hockey and the end of the third period found the score tied at 3-3. By mutual agreement the game was called at this point and no overtime period was played. Thus the Bengals are a little bit nearer to that coveted spot in the NCAA playoffs that will be held at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on March 16, 17 and 18.

Friday night things happened quickly. The Nodaks notched the first goal with only 45 seconds gone in the first period. Four minutes later they had another one and things looked dark for the home team. But CC rallied and poured home three goals while North Dakota was getting only one. The Tigers banged home four more in the second period while Coach Cliff Purpur lads were held scoreless. In the final period the lads from up north started out on the comeback trail, netting two quick scores, but the locals had too big a lead to overcome the time and ran out with the North Dakota lads trying to put several desperation shots from the blue line by CC goalie Clark Wilder.

The 3000 fans who jammed the Ice Palace Saturday night probably expected to see the same rough brand of hockey exhibited the night before, but things turned out just about the opposite of the night before. This game was probably the best seen at the Ice Palace this year from the standpoint of good hockey. The Johnson brothers and the McKinnon brothers along with Captain Jim Medved really put on a show. For CC, Harry Whitworth and Tony Frasca were outstanding with their stick handling and general teamwork. Only three penalties were handed out in this game as against the twenty that were called in Friday nights affair.

Two terms describe the two nights of play. Hard-fought takes care of the first game, while the one great, with a capitol "g," describes the second one.

CC Aims for Two RMC Wins This Week from Mountaineer Quintet

With three straight victories under their belt, the CC basketball team settled down to intensive practice this week in preparation for the two game series this weekend with Western State. These two games have an important bearing on the Rocky Mountain Conference race, for a pair of Bengal wins would boost them into third place in the League standings.

Last Friday night's game produced a new star as Ronnie Bonkosky, sophomore transfer from Gilbert, Minnesota, showed the form exhibited in the early part of the season. He dumped in 10 points, all of them in the second half and he was one of the big reasons the Tigers came out on top. If he can give a repeat performance over the week-end or at least add to the scoring now being done by Jack Quamme and George Sweeney, two victories would seem fairly certain although it is never safe to predict anything.

Certain to be in the starting line-up for the mountaineers are two men who are high in the RMC scoring race, Jim Core and Bob Ali. In ninteen games these two players have combined for a total of 556 points and show us a coach that wouldn't like to have two players like that around.

All in all it looks as though this two game series may produce some fireworks so why not drop down to the City Auditorium tomorrow night or Saturday night; remember game time is 8:15 p. m.

SPORTS TRAIL

CC Swimmers Undefeated In Two Starts:

Although hockey and basketball are sharing the limelight here at CC, it might be well to mention at this time that Colorado College also has a top notch swimming team. The CC tankmen are coached by the one and only, Dr. Robert Stabler, who divides his time in teaching biology and coaching the swimming team at our little institution of higher learning. The undermanned Tiger swimmers have only six men on the roster but these six men have combined their talents to cop wins over Colorado State and Colorado Mines in their first two meets. Swimming may be considered a minor sport here at CC and it doesn't share the glory of the other major sports but if the CC tankers could pick up just a few more candidates there is a good chance that we could run off with the RMC swimming championship to be held at Greeley on Feb. 25. If there are any prospective swimmers who have a desire to swim please contact Coach Stabler as soon as possible.

Tiger Cagers Warrant Support This Weekend:

This weekend Coach Jerry Carle's CC basketeers go after their fourth and fifth consecutive wins of the season. Western State will provide the opposition in two RMC games at the city aud. By taking these two games CC could move up to third place in the conference standings and there is a good chance that the Bengal cagers can cop a double victory over the Mountaineers on our home court. The CC'ers have had tough luck this season due to several reason. First, they have played over half their games on foreign courts, secondly, three outstanding men have either dropped off or departed from the team this year. Ed Scott dropped the team after becoming a "papa," Will Perkins left school to join the New York Giants baseball camp at Sanford, Fla., and John Schefelbein transferred to Bradley University at the end of this semester. The third and final reason why the team has not been on top is due to the poor support they have received from the student body. There is no incentive in any sport to play before an empty house, that being the case of our basketball team in the last two years. CC has an enrollment of over 1,200 students and not more than 100 ever attend a home basketball game. When it comes time to hear criticism about the basketball team the students who never attend a game are the first to sound off—they do it every time. This weekend there isn't any other sport activity on the agenda except for the two games against Western State. For the information of those concerned your student activity book admits you FREE to the games, so let's go go down and support the Tiger cagers this weekend—it's your team and they deserve your backing—think it over.

WAA Bowling Meet To Be Held Saturday

The annual roll them and hope tournament will be held Saturday at 2:00 at the Pla-Mor bowling Alley. Each sorority and the Independents will be represented by a team of five members who will attempt to roll up the best overall score on three lines. M. A. Hodge is in charge of this and any details may be learned by consulting her.

CC made its annual trek into the outside basketball world by journeying to Greeley for the basketball playday, Saturday. A tournament was held with Greeley taking first and Colorado U. second. By strict game statistics CC was not too successful losing a lopsided game to Aggies and dropping a close one to CWC. As to the overall picture of fun and a good time the trip was definitely successful. Making the trip for CC were Ruth Reitinger, Sue Schlessman, DeeDee Beekley, Carol Fisher, Jean Kearns, Thora Hodge, Judy Johnson, Mary Ruble and Miss Dickie.

Intramural Race on; Betas, Kappa Sig, Sigma Chis Tied

The Intramural basketball race got under way last week & at the end of three nights of play the Sigma Chis, Betas and Kappa Sigs were in a tie for first place, each with one win and no losses. The Betas pulled the big surprise, upsetting the defending champions, Phi Delta Theta, in a 35-32 contest. In other league games the Independents lost two games; one to the Kappa Sigs 33-26, and one to the Sigma Chis 33-26.

Bengal Cagers Defeat Mines for 1st RMC Win

The Colorado College basketball team extended their latest winning streak to three games last Friday night as they racked up their first RMC victory, a 57-50 win over Colorado Mines.

Behind in the game until the final four minutes, the Tigers rose up with fury and, led by Ronnie Bonkosky as he hit for six straight points, the Bengals vaulted into the lead for the first time 46-44. Mines went back into the lead on a basket by Landers but Sweeney swished a foul shot and Bonkosky canned a bucket and free throw to put the game on ice for CC.

Mines spurted into an early lead and left the floor at halftime leading 27-20. High scorers for the revitalized Tigers was Jack Quamme with 15 points, followed by Sweeney with 13 and Bonkosky with 10. For the Miners, Doug Waterman was high man with 13 points.

Montana State Grabs RMC Lead; CC Fourth

Montana State with six victories and no defeats is perched on top of the Rocky Mountain Conference for the fifth straight week. In second place with five wins and one loss is defending champion Colorad State. Montana State also leads in the scoring race with their ace forward Les Curry at the top of the heap. It may also be noted that Curry is one of the ten leading scorers in the country.

Tiger Hockey Team Treks to Minnesota

With one leg of a Western berth in the National Tournament stowed away after a victory and a tie with North Dakota University, the Colorado College hockey sextet will take to the air this weekend for a pair of encounters with the rapidly improving University of Minnesota team at Minneapolis.

Coach Cheddy Thompson and a complement of 16 players will leave Thursday by chartered plane for games in Minneapolis, February 10 and 11.

The games with Minnesota are a must for the Tigers if they expect to remain in the running for one of the two Western berths in the NCAA play-offs. North Dakota has already dumped Doc Romnes' Gophers four times without defeat, while Michigan has beaten Minnesota twice, the last time by the narrow margin of 2-1.

CC's Bengals will meet a home team which boasts of seven outstanding lettermen and an abundance of reserve talent. Minnesota has been working this season with three full forward lines and has six capable defensemen on whom to call.

Coach Cheddy Thompson has not yet named his traveling squad. The first two lines of Harry Whitworth, Ron Hartwell and Chris Ray; Tony Frasca, Andy Gambucci and Cam Berry; and the four defensemen—Jim Starrak Mike Yalich, Bud Eastwood and Len Maccini—will definitely make the trip along with goalie Clark Wilder and his substitute Roy Ikola. Thompson must choose five more men from among himself, his third line, his manager and the school trainer to fill up the plane charter of 17

Choose King Tomorrow at Annual Golddigger's Ball

After a week of inspiring, entertaining and throat sticking campaigning tomorrow night, at 11:00 o'clock in the Broadmoor ballroom, the King of Golddiggers—the Shiek of the campus, will be crowned to reign over the 1950 year. The dance will begin at nine o'clock with couples being admitted for $1.20 per, or 60 cents a head—cabbages not included.

It is hoped that by now, the femine half has scraped up enough pennise to provide the Big Boy with a long evening of filet mignons, cigarettes, beverages and anything else his revengeful little heart may desire. Several companies downtown are laying in an extra supply of taxi drivers in view of the usual lack of transportation—but, if you don't have the chips for a long taxi ride, anything goes, so you may, in all fairness, cram your man into anything that comes under the head of transportation—just as long as it accomodates you, him and his corsage.

The man in hot rivalry for the "Mr. Big" award of the year have been put up by each of the men's organizations, not for good looks alone, but also for their active participation in campus life. Here is a short outline of each one's particular assets and liabilities so that you gals can go the the ballot box without any false prejudice, (disregarding, of course, the threats of violence from your date if you fail to vote for his candidate!)

Dave Oatman, "Oats", is the Phi Gamma Delta candidate, 21 years old, from Dundee, Illinois. His ready smile and shy, but amiable personality makes up one of his greatest assets. He has played steller football for three years; spends his leisure time skiing, or working or convelesing in the infirmary. He is a pre-med student and recently acquired a Packard Clipper.

Senator Bill Barton, the nickname drawn from his ability in public speaking and his ardent work on the debate team, is past president of Sigma Chi, and present treasurer. He was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges, is a member of the Council of World Affairs, the Newman Club, Phi Beta Kappa and the debate team. Twenty-four years old, Willums is planning to complete his studies in the Yale Law School after graduation. This senior candidate is from Casper, Wyoming.

Jim Ward, happy go lucky man-about-town, is the Kappa Sigma representative. His vital statistics include serving four years in the Marine Corps, living in Waterbury, Connecticut, and weighing 255 pounds. He played football for two years, has been vice-president, rush chairman and steward in his fraternity and is a junior, "majoring in Sociology."

Glenn Blagg, CC's tackle in fall football, is the 26-year-old Crown and Lance candidate, hailing from Pueblo, Colorado. He has lettered three years in varsity football and

Survey Shows CC Is Below National Educational Costs

As the cost of living has risen in the past decade so has the cost of a college education and likewise the tariff for a degree at Colorado College. However, even with the greater proportional increases accrued by a privately endowed liberal arts institution, CC still boasts an overall minimum expense compared with 330 of the nations higher institutions of learning Our tuition is $400 annually, $100 below the average indicated by a recent survey conducted by Colliers magazine. The total average cost per year of all colleges listed was $1,053, as compared with $775 ten years ago. CC's average total minimum cost per year is $1,000. It must be pointed out in examining this all-school record that the men, whose minimum average is $900, outnumber by two to one the women, whose average billet is slightly over $1,100.

In addition the student-aid program to CC students compares favorably with other institutions throughout this high-priced nation. Women students may hash in the dormitories, earning as much as $400 annually, while men may work for their board.

Although the situation is not as bad as other places, CC frankly admits decline in government expenditures on GI's is becoming a problem. Only about one out of every ten freshmen are veterans now.

Total faculty number, the calibre of faculty members and the number of graduate degrees held by members of the faculty and administration have increased in accordance with the rise in student enrollment and student costs. The ratio of 85 instructors and professors to 1,250 students still ranks as one of the most favorable in the nation.

President William Gill and his faculty are confident of the present, optimistic of the future and proud of CC's academic and financial standing as compared with the rest of the nation.

Semester's First Chapel Speaker Addresses Group

Last Tuesday morning, the first honored speaker of the semester in Shove Memorial Chapel was Luther B. Sharpe, who is the manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Artesia, New Mexico. Mr. Sharpe was invited here by Cen. Gill to discuss other matters and upon request accepted the invitation to speak in chapel. His subject was, "This Nation Under God."

"This generation should not lose its heritage," said Mr. Sharpe as he related of all our nation's past glories. He stated that from the landing of the Pilgrims up to the present day we have been struggling forward "under God" in order to preserve all that our forefathers had so long established.

"Today we have a job to do all over the world, as well as at home," stated Mr. Sharpe. However we have to watch out for "two weaknesses, inefficiency and disuse of power." He went on to say that we are not less democratic, but more democratic. "American dreams are beautiful," he concluded, "(They) have made us the most powerful nation in the world. (It) is a challenge. Let's keep on dreaming."

N. S. A. Discusses Future Activities

The meeting of the National Students Association in the Tuesday meeting discussed the choice of skits to prepare for the competition which will take place March 11. A change of plan has taken place in both the location and the date. The date has been moved forward a day and the location has been changed to Greeley, Colorado. Twenty people of a group will be able to be the representative of one school. The regional committee has asked that the shows be confined to a three minute type program.

In a notice from the N. S. A. regional office it has definitely been determined that a maximum of five and a minimum of two representatives will be decided at this meeting who will be sent to the international meeting in Prague. Plans will be laid far in advance for the foreign conference which will be held sometime in the summer of this year.

Robert Kelly, the national president, will be here on March 5th. he is touring the country visiting the schools with N. S. A. membership. His first visit in this area will be at the schools in New Mexico. Although his time will be limited he will be here for the evening according to present plans.

Summer travel programs will be sponsored by N. S. A. this summer. These trips will include tours of all of the European countries. In a series on nine tours designed to acquaint the students with political, social, economic and cultural Madrigal Group Sings At State Music Meet

The Colorado College Madrigal Singers, under the direction of John O. Fundingsland, sang at the Colorado Music Educators Conference held in Denver last Thursday through Saturday. Music educators from the entire state of Colorado were present.

It has been customary to have a few outstanding music organizations from the state perform at these yearly conferences and this year the Madrigal Singers of Colorado College were asked to sing at the Friday evening banquet for administrators and music educators. These students also sang in the clinic choir composed of members from each of the university and college choirs of Colorado. Mr. Harry Wilson of Columbia University's teachers college was the guest conductor of the clinic choir.

The first Madrigal group was formed at Colorado College about a year ago to give additional choral experience to advanced students. The singers enjoyed the work so much and the public responded so enthusiastically to to their singing that it was decided to make such a group a regular part of the college choral program. Mr. Fundingsland has been directing the activities of this group since its beginning.

The present group numbers eleven singers: Betty Fisher, Deborah Dunn, Elaine Steele and Rosemarie Young, soprano; Nancy Greenwood and Jane Nyblad, alto; Harold Lynn, Loren Driscoll and David Crabb, tenors; Jack Fitzgerald and Mark Orton, bass.

CC Alumni Club Holds Meeting in Denver

At a luncheon held in the Albany hotel in Denver last Monday, the Denver chapter of the Colorado College Association of Alumni was formed. Seventy-five graduates of CC now living in Denver elected Malcolm McDougal, class of 1922, as president Joseph L. Webb, treasurer, and Wesley W. Hamilton, secretary.

Several speeches were given with General Gill who gave a summary of the general program of the C.C.A. Mort Hopper, president of the Colorado Springs chapter, gave a short talk on the functions of the local chapter and activities. Other speeches were given by Coach Binns on the 1949 football season; Coach Thompson on this year's hockey prospects; and Coarch Carle talked about CC's basketball teams.

College Officials Voice Opinions in Regards To Students Involved in Broadmoor Incident

By Bob Humphreys

With presence at Friday night's hockey games becoming as dangerous as the "ribbon of death" is for the drivers on highway 85-87, we feel that it is necessary to inform the student body as to the possible repercussions from the latest battle at Broadmoor's Ice Palace. It is not our intention to judge the innocence or guilt of the men involved- -that decision is up to the court of law and the Undergraduate Life Committee. Neither do we pretend to present a complete review of the facts, nor statements from all those involved. The defendants might be jeopardized by any public assertion; and the Broadmoor officials, through their refusal to make any comment, make it evident that they either find it unimportant or inexpedient to let us in on the opinions of the Broadmoor interests.

From an interview with President Gill and Dean Reid, we are assured of the following: We have been biting one of the largest hands that feed us—year before last, El Pomar Foundation (synonymous with the Broadmoor) presented us with $125,000, no small sum for an institution of this size—Mr. Charles L. Tutt (Broadmoor official) is a member of the Board of Trustees—we are charged nothing for the use of the rink for hockey practice—the athletic department pays twenty cents for each of the assigned 800 seats at the Ice Palace which they know in advance will be used(reason for our strict observance of ticket regulations)—the case will have no, or little affect upon our use of the Ice Palace, incidentally, the Broadmoor was victim of last year's statue-breaking affair and now this incident—El Pomar does not control Colorado College, just helps—President Gill states, "I regret the affair exceedingly. A thorough investigation was made immediately after the incident and the administration is prepared to place this information before the Undergraduate Life Committee, which met Wednesday afternoon.

We are sure that President Gill deeply regrets the incident—we all do. The case is a serious one and worthy of careful consideration. We feel that it was neither wise nor just to try the students before the Committee on Undergraduate Life before their trial in court tomorrow afternoon. It is possible that the board's decision (which, although unknown at the time of this writing, will likely have been made before you read this editorial) will have an affect upon the decision of the court, which convenes tomorrow afternoon at 2:00. It seems to us a strange custom to punish a man before his guilt is proven.

In regards to the athletes involved in the Broadmoor incident, head football Coach, Allison Binns had this to say, "I was very disappointed and amazed that these boys placed themselves in such a serious situation. This action has a definite reflection on the various athletic teams here at CC." Binns also stated that if the boys are allowed to remain in school they will definitely be eligible to participate in school athletics.

Regardless of what results are obtained from this matter it has definitely placed all of us in an embarassing position and the bad publicity CC has received from this case may effect us all some day—who knows?

WEE TIGER'S PAWS

By Bob Humphreys

A slight discrepancy appeared in The Tiger last week. To the right of this column, under the heading of "Who—Me?" we were urged to try for $200." How? Let us read on. "No doubt," it states, "you are familiar with some old CC traditions such as T.G.I.F. If you can suggest some solution to this social pressure to indulge, write it up in 300-500 words." To the right of this anti-alcholic column, however, Walt Sweet, in his long-needed commentary on disappearing customs, said; "Don't get the idea, either, that I think the traditions should be tossed out—may they live forever! T. G. I. F. is here to stay!"

We are just as money-mad as any of the other college students, and we too have "wondered where

By WALT SWEET

Just a few odds and ends this week—F'rinstance—it seems fairly logical that Faculty and Administration members would be able to find some wee morsel of inspiration by attending weekly Chapel services—just as they are sure we will by being compelled to attend them. Now they may be right in assuming that the immature student must be led by the nose to culture, and perhaps it is good for us to be so led, but it's also bad business to force someone to do the things that you can't do without being forced. There are a few regular customers—less than ten last week!

Certainly if it's so worthwhile (and I usually think it is) that the student body must attend under threat, then there must be something to it from which Faculty and Administration can profit.

Three cheers to Miss Morgan in whose intelligent head brews the idea of vocational guidance. Make it work, gal; I'm sure that it would, once started to some extent, make life and the pursuit of that elusive happiness (a job!) a reality —at least in purpose—to a lot of confused people.

It has been repeatedly pointed out in the last few issues of this paper—to YOU the student body and to YOU the administration of Colorado College—that the TIGER is, in purpose, a medium for the expression of your likes and dislikes as related to our campus life and its politics. I get kind of tired, as does the Editor and do the other members of the staff, of being cornered by the students and faculty members who have objections to the things that we print. Be your comments pro or con, irate or appreciative, have the guts to put them down on paper and send them to us. We'll be only too glad to print them. Bull sessions may help straighten out your or our thinking on matters of interest, but the fastest way to get both sides is to let us have your comments in such form as they can be printed for everyone.

Plug—hats off to Frank and the Snack 'n Dance at the Plaza Hotel. Hang on to those prices and that informal atmosphere and you won't have to dig very deep for business!

For shame, Dave and Dick, for resorting to such an infantile means of settling differences. Goes to show you what an education can do for one, doesn't it?

Kick this around a bit—It was recently explained to me by a student here that the Proctor System of Examination had "failed." I patiently tried to ferret from him the standards by which he judged the system, but to no avail. It, as well as its counterpart the Honor System, trips up those who cheat, and it's probably about 50-50 as to which is the most effective. In principle, I agree with the Honor System, and bathed in such rosy

Counseling Committee Inaugerated at CC

By Nancy Jones

Through the efforts of Miss Sally Payne Morgan, assistant Dean of Women, a new planning committee is being inaugerated at the college for the purpose of guiding undergraduate students in their choice of studies. A different committee, consisting of instructors and majors of one department will meet on each Wednesday evening for supper at Bemis Hall followed by an informal meeting during which undergraduate students interested in that particular department will bring up any question they may have about requirements of the department or just discuss their own academic problems.

This plan, which has the full approbation of President Gill, should be of infinite value to Freshmen and Sophomore students, preventing them from making irreparable mistakes in choice of subjects which might not be detected until too late.

The first meeting, which was conducted by instructors and majors of the Sociology department, was held last Tuesday evening. The planning committee of the Sociology dept., headed by Professor Crabb included: Cal Flannigan, James Gander, Ruth Reitinger, B. J. Hanger, Jo Nell Temple, Mary Beekley, Jim Peterson, Lynn Aldirch and Katherine Kidder.

Undergraduate students in particular are urged to attend these meetings as they are for their express benefit. This movement is for vocational, academic and personal counseling and is planned to clear up your problems in this regard.

Dean Adams has this to say of the plan, "Miss Morgan's move in planning an unofficial counselling committee will be welcomed by faculty members as well as students. In the spring, when Sophomores pick their majors, the administration expects to provide a new system of making the various departmental requirements known. But since the system cannot adequately inform those students who are undecided on their majors, Miss Morgan's committee will have earned general gratitude by its preliminary work."

The Tiger will carry news on further activities of the group from week to week. Watch for announcement of your committee's meeting, and plan to attend.

By MARY RUBLE

'Twas interesting to note the various names given to that formidable body of deliberation, the Committee on Undergraduate Life. One of the most popular names was ommitted and it would seem wise to include this formal title for it among much of the populus. It is often referred to as the Committee on the Supression of Undergraduate Life, or, for brevity, simply the Suppression Committee.

Golddiggers Time brings all sorts of excitement. Regardless of the outcome of the election, popular polls not being too trustworthy, no candidate should be defeated because of lack of advertising. It's amazing how many different ways a serenade can be presented. I'm expecting sky writing anyday.

Nomination for student of the week goes to Gale George. While none could doubt the benefits of a arts education, still when one spends his time reading The History and Social Influence of the Potato it shows real intellectual pursuit. It should be pointed out, however, that such worldshaking books are popular and should be returned to the library at the end of two weeks so that all may have the opportunity to learn.

The bowling tournament was enjoyed by all. Great was the excitement as the balls rolled carefully down the gutter. Donna Wolf seemed to outdue herself in the old college try and frequently followed the ball down the alley in a prone position herself. Unfortunately, it was to no avail for no extra credit was given for pins knocked down by the individual.

Conventions seem to be here to stay. Anyone doubting the educational value of such a gathering should consult the lucky group that attended the recent music educators' convention held in Denver. It's amazing how many things can come under the general heading of music education.

Chivarly is lacking on the CC campus; at least in respect to rescues of young maidens from oncoming cars. Recently a young coed was seen to trip and fall on North Nevada. A young man witnessing the accident was heard to say "What did you do that for?

La Salle String Quartet Will Present Two Concerts at FAC

The La Salle String Quartet of Colorado College will give two concerts in the theatre of the Fine Arts Center on Thursday night, Feb. 23, and Wednesday night, March 22. The quartet made its Colorado debut here last November. The quartet was formed in 1946 at the Juilliard School of Music and they have played together ever since. Performances in the East include concerts in and around New York City, Norfolk, Virginia, Boston, Massachusetts, Philadelphia and Washington.

A special series ticket is available for the two concerts and mail orders are being accepted at Perkins Hall now.

The first concert on February 23 will open with the Mozart Quartet in F Major, K. 590. This will be followed by the Third String Quartet by Schonberg. This is the first time that this quartet has been heard in Colorado Springs. The Quartet in E minor, Opus 59, No. 2, by Beethoven will conclude the program.

Shortly after the second concert the La Salle Quartet will leave for an extended tour of the Eastern seaboard. Their concerts during the next few weeks include a performance at Glockner on February 17 and a performance at East High School, Denver, Februruary 24. The Quartet will take the Chapel program at Colorado College on March 7 and the next day will be guests of the Kiwanis Club at noon.

Sunday Concert To Present Two Guest Artists

Colorado College will present two guest stars on the regular Sunday afternoon concert next Sunday, February 19, in Perkins Hall Auditorium. The public is cordially invited as guests of Colorado College.

Josephine Vadala, soprano, studied voice in New York and Los Angeles and is now coaching with Dr. Antonio Brice in Denver. Miss Vadala won the National Federation of Music Clubs award for the State of Colorado and also for the Rocky Mountain Region. Recently she appeared as guest with the Denver Business Men's Orchestra at Phipps Auditorium in Denver singing two Wagner arias.

Miss Vadala will be accompanied by Betty Schade, who is a graduate student of Colorado College, workinw in piano with Dr. Max Lanner.

The other half of the program will be given to Latvian music performed by Velta Delle Gravitis. Mrs. Gravitis came to the United States in November 1949. She is a graduate in piano of the Conservatory of Music of Riga. She was assistant professor of music for four years in that conservatory. This part of the program will open with two works by Alfred Kalnins.

CC Groups to Give Services at Chapel

The first Chapel Board meeting of the second semester was held Tuesday, Feb. 9, in the choir room. At this meeting plans were discussed for inviting the individual sororities, fraternities, I.W.A., and Crown and Lance to plan and present a chapel service. Kappa Alpha Theta has been the first to volunteer and will give the chapel service on March 21.

Although it will be impossible for all the groups to participate this semester, the plan will be continued next year if it is successful. The board hopes that all the groups will eventually be represented in one of the services.

For those who are interested in planning a chapel service but do not know how to begin, Dean Broome will be glad to help in any way he can and the choir will be available for any Tuesday chapel service. The group giving the service can have one of their own members or can have an outside speaker, providing he is approved by the chapel board.

The board hopes the plan will be successful because Shove Chapel is the students' chapel, and the students should have the right, not only to attend, but to take part in the chapel programs.

two years in varsity wrestling. Also, in the field of wrestling, he is the NCAA heavyweight champion of the Rocky Mountain Conference. He is a member of the Growlers, Red Lantern and president of the C Club.

Bob Malowney, of Beta Theta Pi, is a sophomore from Denver, Colorado. Having already distinguished himself with a year of outstanding action on the freshman football team, he showed great promise this year of being a standout on the 1950 team. His easy smile and ready sense of humor have endeared him to all who know him. In addition to being a Beta, Bob is a member of the Growlers and the Newman Club.

Stan Brenton, a twenty-two-year-old senior from Rocky Ford, Colorado, is the man you saw last fall coaching coed football. He has been honored with both the presidency of Phi Delta Theta and of the Intrafraternity Council. For two semesters he was the Phi Delts intramural manager, and in his freshman year won his numerals in football. Stan, along with his many activities, has found time to develop a sincere interest in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

the line falls between social and pathological dringing." However, to write 300-500 words on some such subjects as "How To Do Away With An Old Colorado College Customary Social Pressure To Drink," Such As Thank God It's Friday Club" strikes us as resting a bit on the traitourous side. Patriotic songs, for instance, would most centainly be lost. The psychological affect of such an essay might have far worse consequences upon our noble institution than does T. G. I. F. upon Saturday morning classes.

"Who—Me?" did contain some vary interesting suggestions, however. "Of course, some technical knowledge is necessary." It continues, "The contest secretary will send such information on request. And then you may want to do a little research on your own—nothing like first-hand information." No, there certainly isn't.

Art Center Film

Returning to the Fine Arts Center screen by popular demand is the Scottish film, "I know Where I'm Going," with Wendy Hiller and Roger Livesay, which will be shown at three performances Tuesday, February 21, at 2:30, 7:25, and 9 p. m.

This is the story of a girl who, through the forces of circumstance and environment, believes that money is the yardstick by which her future happiness can be measured. It is played against a background of lovely highland Scotland, and uses the songs and the tales that have been handed down to generation after generation.

A great many people have come up to me in the last few weeks and expressed two points of view. The one group tell me how much they enjoy the things they have bought or had given them from Perkins-Shearer; the others have shown me things purchased at the other clothing stores. It has never been our desire to handle all the business in Colorado Springs, but rather to build a reputation on quality and integrity — in other-words to develop satisfaction that is lasting.

I sincerely believe that thru comparison the thrifty buyer will find that the merchandise at Perkins-Shearer will reflect quality and long lasting superior appearance.

Sessions of the Canterbury group are held every Sunday evening, in the parish hall of Grace church. In addition to Episcopal students, those students on the campus who are not affiliated with a similiar club are invited to attend. There are no dues to worry about and no formal business meetings. Dramatics Aid in Student Development

By David Berg

The drama department, in my way of thinking, is one of the more important instruments of education at Colorado College. Since the over-all aim of education should be directed towards the development and maturation of a well balanced personality, what better process can there be than the means by which the student learns to use all the expressive force of the theater to portray the variegated stage characterizations of personalities who are swept into dramatic problems of adjustment. The theater presents these individualized social-economic-psychological problems of adjustment, and the job of the student-actor is to utilize the functions of his mind and body to determine the approach and execution of his part in the play. The purpose of education is not entirely the development of brilliant students without any concern for their emotional stability. There is the dire need to bring about a healthy balance between emotional development and intellectual achievement. Too often have we seen the intellectual quiz-kid college buffeted by the emotional confusion of an incomplete personality.

The necessary insight and balance—which must supplement the mechanical transference of facts from text book to student—are exactly those qualities which the drama student digests in the course of his active participation in stage productions. The student-actor undergoes the genuine educational experience of learning to understand himself in relation to the character he portrays, achieves insight into the philosophical concepts behind the other characters in the play, becomes keenly aware of the broad psychological motivations of all, and through theory and practice functions in harmony as an integrated unit with the whole social project which a course in drama demands.

From my own personal observation of freshmen in drama, I have been struck by their complex need for adjustment to college. During all the preceding years of their lives, very little had been done to guide them along paths of self-reliance and creative thought. Unfortunately, the director of their elementary and secondary school education has led them to respond to orders from above only, rather than to initiate constructive thought and action of their own. (Unfortunately, too, under the circumstances, in subconscious rebellion against this narrow control, the impulses of release in their behavior may erupt into a devious course when they suddenly decide to separate themselves from the "restraints" of an adult world).

In his freshman year the drama student, under the guidance of Mr. Tyree, undergoes a method of education designed to stimulate the creative impulses of the mind. The system by which the high school student had only to respond automatically and by note is discarded. It may be undeniably true that after years of improper training the formation of good habits is not quite easy to master. The soporific comfort of being led by the hand as docil children is disturbed. In the course of time, however, through the experienced guidance of Mr. Tyree, productive results make themselves manifest. The student becomes aware of his rightful role in the class as a contributor and active participant in his own educational development. He begins to think for himself and has decided opinions on how a particular role should be played. This is the productive process by which he prepares himself adequately to lead a constructive well balanced life in school and out. In the college production of "The Glass Menagerie", much evidence is found to substantiate this point of view.

The creative work and final productive result of student and professor effort imbue them with a sense of achievement unknown in most other academic courses. In the drama courses offered by the alert Mr. Tyree, the students meet and overcome problems more relative to the nature of th world away from the cloistered security of campus life. This is the genuine function of dynamic education.

Men and Women . . . How They Differ

In this week's issue of LOOK, there is an article in which the author shows how the sexes differ in many ways. The magazine lists 23 ways that men differ from women, or visa versa. It shows that men aren't all that they strike up to be but this can create many arguments. We are herewith giving you the list and if you have not already seen it in LOOK, and you can form your own opinions.

2. Men tend to be better at facts and figures, mechanics.
3. Women dislike change, are more conservative in politics.
4. Men are more conservative in dress.

6. But men are more emotionally repressed, have more ulcers.
7. Women have more staying power than men—more patience.
8. Men, on the average, are taller, stronger, better athletes than women.
9. But men are biologically the weaker sex.
10. Men have more allergies, especially the weaker sex.
11. Women's bodies can stand cold, heat better than men.
12. Girls learn to talk, reason, coordinate earlier than boys.
13. Far fewer girls stutter and stammer than boys.
14. Girls mature earlier than boys.
15. But boys have earlier sex drives.
16. Men are more interested in national affairs and world affairs.
17. Women prefer social, human interest topics.

19. Hence, male criminals outnumber women ten to one.
20. Women are more sensitive and intuitive.

Tigers Entertain Mines in RMC Game Friday

Bengal Hoopsters Top Mountaineers Twice

The CC basketball team made it five in a row last weekend as they knocked off the Western State Mountaineers twice, 83-60 and 76-62.

In the first game, the Bengals couldn't miss in the opening minutes and rolled to a 17-7 lead in the first seven minutes, stretched this to 34-14 with six minutes to go in the first half. Western State then rallied for twelve points but the Tigers were on their way and led at the half, 43-27. The second half was little different as the regulars ran the score up to 51-31 before Jerry Carle yanked his starters and proceeded to clear the bench. Even this didn't keep the score down as the capable bench patrol pushed the score to 68-43 at the ten-minute mark and then eased off as the Mountaineers came back for three quick baskets. From here on out it was a matter of how high the score would go and the way the Tigers were hitting the 83-60 final score was no surprise to anyone who witnessed the game.

High scorer for CC and for the game was Captain Jack Quamme with 21 points followed by George Sweeney with 19. For Western State, Becker was high with 16 counters followed by Core with 13.

Saturday night CC took off in fashion similiar to the first game, leading 14-6 with six minutes gone, but evidently Western State hadn't read the script right for they came back with four buckets while the Tigers were only able to get one. The Mountaineers tied the game up at 18-18 at the halfway mark in the first half, but the Bengals took off again and raced away to a 28-20 lead with seven minutes left and the score at intermission was 35-29 with the Tigers in front. The rest must have done Western State some good because they came back red hot and netted eleven points while CC was getting only five to tie the score up at 40-40. Then the Mountaineers went ahead for the only time during the two game series, on a free throw by Core, but the Tigers came right back, and with twelve minutes left in the game they were out in front by five points and at the fourteen-minute they held a fifteen point lead. Up to this point both coaches had been playing it carefully and the five Western State men who started the game were still in there while Coach Carle had made only one change, substituting Tony Esposito for Ronnie Bonkosky. Now both coaches sent in their substitutes to give the starters a rest. The final score was 76-62 in favor of CC. High man for CC was Sweeney with 26 points followed by Quamme with 21 for the Mountaineres, Ali was high with 13 counters followed by Becker with 12 and Mikkelsen with 11. Wayne Roper, CC regular, did a great job under the boards and held Core, Western State's scoring star to only 9 points.

Frosh Cagers Cop Double Wins Last Weekend

The Freshmen basketball team continued on their winning ways last weekend as they came up with two victories, one over Cook Electric and the other over a powerful Wright Glass team. Coach Rex Hester and his yearlings deserve plenty of credit for their win over the Glassmen, a team that is second in the City League and that earlier in the season defeated Interstate Gas in an exhibition game.

The Tiger Cubs could do no wrong Friday night as they clicked together for a 59-35 victory over Cook Electric. The Freshmen took an early lead with four minutes gone and increased this to a 27-19 lead at halftime. The biggest lead the Cubs ever had was a twenty point splurge, 49-29, at the twelve minute mark in the final half. Chuck Mollin, from Denver, was high scorer for the yearlings, and for the game, with 16 points followed by Dunc Stephens with 15 and Dave Vine with 14. For Cook's, Manley was high scorer with 10 points.

In a close, tense game Saturday night, the Freshmen took a well-earned decision from Wright Glass 36-29. It was a close game all the way, with CC enjoying the longest lead of the evening, ahead two different times by eight points. Halftime found the Cubs out in front 14-11, and with seven minutes left to go in the game they were leading 21-13. Wright's came back with a rush and closed the gap to five points but they were hampered by the new two-minute rule and the Freshmen came home in front 36-29. Stephens and Vine shared scoring honors with ten points apiece while Clements was high man for Wright Glass with nine points.

Sports Writers Needed

Due to the change in personnel there are several openings for prospective sports writers on the Tiger staff. Due to the large number of sports activities on the agenda it is quite urgent that all interested writers contact Tiger Editor, Bob Leavitt as soon as possible.

CC Seeks Fourth RMC Victory Tomorrow Against Orediggers

Realizing that it's not the way the season is started but rather the way it's concluded, the Colorado College basketbal team is drilling long and hard this week with the prospect of maintaining its current winning streak in a victory over the visiting Colorado Miners, Friday night in the City Aud.

CC stepped into its own class of cage teams a month ago and has found itself on the winning side for the last five consecutive games. Only Colorado Mines here this Friday and Colorado State away February 25 remain on the schedule.

Coach Jerry Carle's Tigers showed real offensive strength last weekend in downing Western State 83-60 and 76-62, giving the locals undisputed third place in the Rocky Mountain Conference. This gives CC an overall season mark of seven wins and 13 losses, with a conference mark of three-three.

Percentage points prevent the liklihood of CC taking higher than second in league play. Should the Tigers win both remaining home contests, they would undoubtedly finish behind Colorado State which boasts two wins over Idaho State, the new conference member which CC doesn't meet this season.

When the Miners from Golden invade the City Aud this Friday they will be out to avenge the last-minute victory march staged by CC on the Miners floor February 3. In a game which was close throughout, with the lead changing hands several times, the Tiger quintet came out on top of a 57-50 decision.

Tiger Sextet Splits Two With Gophers Win 8-6, Lose 4-2

The Bengal hockey team journeyed to the midwest last weekend and came home with one victory, one loss and one player shy. CC won the first game against Minnesota Friday night 8-6, but lost the second one, 4-2, in Rochester, Minnesota, hometown of Clark Wilder star Tiger goalie. CC received a serious set-back to their NCAA tournament hopes when Andre Gambucci, ace goal-getter of the second line, broke his leg in the opening encounter.

The first night CC skated away to a 3-0 lead but couldn't hold as the Golphers came back to knot it up at 3-3 early in the second period. Minnesota went ahead but Ron Hartwell, who scored a 3 goal hat trick, tied it up. Again the Gophers went ahead and again the Tigers tied it up. Finally in the third period the Bengals went ahead to stay as they netted two goals and led 8-5. Minnesota's final score came with three minutes left in the game. Besides Hartwell, Chris Ray also scored the hat trick and Harry Whitworth had four assists.

The next night things went somewhat the same way as they had the pervious night. Minnesota got the only goal in the opening period. Jim Starrak came back to tie it up at 1-1, but the Gophers went ahead again 2-1 at 8:20 of the period. The Tigers tied it up again at 14:20 on a goal by Mike Yalich. Thus the two teams went into the final frame tied at 2-2, but Donc Romnes' boys went ahead 3-2 and finally 4-2. With ten minutes still to go in the game, the Bengals tried hard but were unable to score, dispite a desperate effort which saw Harvey Moran, Gopher goalie, credited with 19 saves in this period.

Bengal Jayvees Whip Wyoming 13-5; 8-2

The CC J-V hockey team took two decisions from the University of Wyoming sextet last weekend at the Broadmoor Ice Palace, 13-5 the opening night and 8-2 the following night.

Omer Brandt and Tom Kelly led the Baby Tigers in Friday night's game. Brandt opened the scoring as he netted two quick goals in the opening seventy seconds. Kelly took over for awhile and got the next two scores, and then Brandt came back again to flash the red light for the third time in the opening stanza. George Allen, Cowboy center, finally broke up this barrage as he rammed one home at 13:02 of the period. Jim Gubbins and Pete Alexander racked up one more apiece before John Gartner, Wyoming winger, snagged the second Poke goal and the last one of the period. In the second period Alexander got one more and Schultz scored for Wyoming. Crouse and Brandt went wild in the final period, the former ringing up three quick goals and the latter adding two more to his score. Final score, CC 13, Wyoming University 5.

J-V'S HOST TO TWO CLUBS

Tiger J-V's play two games this week, Colorado Mines—Thursday, Feb. 16th DU Frosh Monday Feb. 20th. Both at the Broadmoor Ice Palace. Exchange tickets before 5:00 p. m. Fri. afternoon.

The second night a vastly improved Wyoming squad took the ice against CC only to go down to defeat 8-2. The Cowpokes held the Cubs to a lone goal in the opening period, two more were added in the second frame and, led by Tom Kelley, the Bengal juniors dented the twines for five big scores in the final period. Kelly was the scoring star of the game as he scored a four goal hat trick. Wyoming showed more spirit in this second game and had a better attack working as they forced CC's goalie, Al Flynn, to make 30 saves as against the 15 he saved the night before. Wyoming's goalie, Weir, had 15 saves the first night and 18 the second night.

CC Sextet Meet Michigan Away in Crucial Series

After returning home with the bitter taste of defeat and minus one of the regular wings, the Colorado College hockey team buckled down to a few days of classes and is now preparing for the final road trip of the year, with two games in Ann Arbor, Mich., against powerful Michigan University February 17 and 18.

CC received its third defeat of the year on the recent plane trip to Minnesota, losing to the University, 4-2, on the cracker-box sized Rochester Ice Rink. The Tigers won the opener at St. Paul, 8-6, giving them a seasonal record of 14 wins, 3 losses and one tie.

KRDO TO AIR HOCKEY GAMES

CC-Michigan games 6:30 p.m. Fri. and Sat. Feb. 17 and 18. From Ann Arbor, Mich. Play by Play—Bill Cleary.

As big a loss as the game was that incurred by the second forward line of Tiger attack. Regular wingman Andy Gambucci, who has scored 25 goals and five assists for a total of 30 points this year, suffered a broken right leg in the first Minnesota game and will be out for the season. Gambucci had previously declined a bid to play, with the United States A. H. A. team in touring Europe in March, that he could help the Tigers' drive for an N. C. A. A. tourney berth.

Coach Cheddy Thompson has not yet definitely set his second line. Center Tony Frasca, one of the outstanding playmakers ever to appear in college hockey, will be working with Cam Berry at right wing, and probably either Bill McDonald or Bud Eastwood at Cambucci's left wing spot.

Sixteen players, Coach Thompson, the manager and the trainer departed by the Rock Island Rocket, Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 12:45 p. m., returning to Colorado Springs Monday morning.

Bengals Undermanned as NCAA Playoffs Near—

The lack of reserve "jinx" has again struck the Colorado College hockey team and this time at a crucial period. Each year about this time the Tiger sextet loses a few top players which definitely hampers their chances to cop an NCAA title. For the past two years the CC'ers have lost key players due to scholastic requirements and ineligibility standings which must be maintained during the season.

This year four of the Bengal skaters have been sidelined due either to injurys or breaking training rules. The most recent and probably the most costly loss of the season occurred last Friday at St. Paul when Andy Cambucci suffered a broken leg in a collision with teammate Tony Frasca in the Minnesota contest. Incidently, Gambucci was expected to be of great help to the CC diamond nine. The Eveleth lad is rated a top slugger and an excellent outfielder.

Another major loss to the CC puck squad took place early in the season when Don Robertson, a big rugged defenseman from Alberta dislocated his shoulder during a practice session. Robertson has been placed on the injured list for an indefinite length of time. A few weeks ago goalie Billie Dewire and center, John Schleicher were dismissed from the team because of breaking training regulations.

This weekend the Tigers face the University of Michigan in a crucial two game series at Ann Arbor. These games will have a lot of bearing in determining which two teams will represent the West in the national tournament to be held here in March. Any team expecting to defeat Michigan on their home ice must certainly play good hockey and let's hope our Tigers succeed in accomplishing that feat come Friday and Saturday. Considering the condition the team is in at present, your guess is as good as mine.

Cagers Can Tie for Second Place in Conference Race—

The greatly improved CC basketeers of Coach Jerry Carle proved to local fans last weekend that they are still in the race for the RMC championship. The Tigers took two well earned wins over Western State to move up to third place with three wins and three losses. This Friday night the CC'ers play their final home game of the season with Colorado Mines and from all expectations this will be one of the top game's of the season for the Carle crew. If the Tigers register a win over Mines and down Colorado State at Greeley next week, CC will be tied for second place with Greeley, in the final standings. Tomorrow evening should be titled "Jack Quamme Night," this will be Captain Jack's final home game of his college career. Quamme is rated as one of the greatest cage stars to ever wear the colors of Colorado College and this is his fourth year of varsity ball here at CC.

CC Student Seeking National AAU Handball Title—

Mal Dorfman, a sophomore from Philadelphia, Pa., who was national AAU junior handball champion last year is defending his title in the Regional AAU Handball Tournament being held in Denver. Dorfman won his first game last Tuesday night by defeating Herb Markus by 21-2 and 21-11 margins. Other results of Dorfman's quest for the regional title were not available at press deadline.

DU Tankman Hand CC First Loss 51-23

Denver University swept all but two events last Wednesday at the YMCA as they handed the CC swimmers their first defeat of the year 51-23. DU is reported to have the best swimming team in the Rocky Mountain region and this loss should bring no disgrace to the mermen of CC.

Ted Harris paced Denver as he snagged two firsts; one in the 220 and one in the 440-yd. free style. Carky Rubens was the leading point-getter for the Bengals as he garnered a first and a second. CC's two firsts came on Ruben's win ihtne 60-yd. freestyle and Hawk Mills victory in the 200-yd breast stroke. DU's Kohn won this event but was disqualified for using an illegal stroke. Doug Gregory, Tiger diving star was beaten for the first this yar as Jim Kyle of the Pioneers edged him out 89.5 points to 85.2.

The Tiger swimmers journey to Boulder this weekend to engage the CU Buffs in their last regular scheduled meet before the Conference meet in Creeley next week.

Basketball Team Lacked Support

According to a recent tabulation by the athletic department, student attendance at CC basketball game has been very poor. Although several times they have coincided with hockey games, most of the games show a weak school spirit. The largest attendance of CC students numbered 429 for the first game. This number was far outdistanced by CSHS students, who boasted a delegation of 623 at the second game. The basketball team has worked hard this year and deserves student support. The following figures indicate the at-

The Associated Women Students of Colorado College will hold their annual election for officers of the executive board for the 1950-1951 season on Tuesday, Feb. 18, in Bemis and Lennox. Two candidates are running for each office; names and qualifications are presented as follows: Candidates for president are Barbara Clark and Connie Koehler, both juniors. Barb is from Pleasantville, N. Y., a member of the Nugget staff, the welcoming committee and the Tiger club. This year she is secretary of Gamma Phi Beta and treasurer of A.W.S. Connie comes from South Bend, Ind., and currently serves as vice president of the A.W.S. board. She is also a member of the Tiger club and active on hall council.

Martha Healy and Barbara Prechtel, sophomores, are running for vice president. Marty calls Dallas, Tex., home and is presently on the A.W.S. vocational guidance committee. Her other activities include the A.W.S. welcoming committee, historian of Kappa Alpha Theta, sophomore class commissioner and the Tiger club. Barbara is from Denver and serves this years as A.W.S. secretary. She is a member of the TIGER staff and the welcoming committee and is deputy for Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Running for the office of treasurer are Betsy Bernard and Dorothy White, both members of the sophomore class. Betsy hails from Berkeley, Calif., and is scholarship chairman for Delta Gamma and active on the hall council. Dorothy comes from Chicago and serves as treasurer of the welcoming committee. She is active on the I.W.A. service committee.

Candidates for A.W.S. secretary are Emily Howe and Jeanne Roberts, freshmen. Emily is from Webster Groves, Mo., and is a freshman class commissioner. She is treasurer of the Theta pledge class, a member of hall council and belongs to the riding and Spanish clubs. Jeannie is a Colorado Springs girl. She is president of the Kappa pledge class and a member of the choir and the C.C. players.

These are the qualifications of the candidates. The election is now in the hands of the women students and it is each one's responsibility to vote. Ballot boxes will be open in Lennox and Bemis from 8 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon on Tuesday, Feb. 28.

Two CU Guest Stars To Present Concert

Colorado College will present two guest artists from Colorado University on the Sunday program, February 26, at 4:30 in Perkins Hall Auditorium. The public is invited to this sonata recital for flute and piano.

Charles Delaney, flutist, received his B. S. degree from Davidson in 1947. He began work on his Master's at the University of Colorado in 1947-48. He studied at the conservatory of Lausanne, Switzerland, 1948-49, winning second prize virtuosity degree.

Howard Waltz, pianist, is assistant professor of piano at the University of Colorado. Born in Arcadia, Indiana, he received a B. M. in piano at DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana, and an M. M. in musicology at the University of Wisconsin. He has studied piano with Rudolph Reuter, Rosina Lhecinne, and Robert Casadesus.

First Vocational Program Planned

On Wednesday evening, March 1, at 7:15, the first in a series of talks will be given in Bemis Hall on vocational guidance for students. These talks will be mainly for those students who are undecided as to what field they will major in, but still everyone is welcome to attend to learn more about the particular major. This first talk will cover the Sociology field, and among the things to be discussed will be the qualifications needed for the course, and what opportunities it offers to the graduating student. The discussion will be handled mainly by the students themselves, but Miss Donaldson and Miss van Diest will officiate as advisors. This is for everyone's benefit, and so if you are interested in the seriousness of your college major, be sure to attend.

Dr. Morganthau Chapel Speaker on American Century

Last Tuesday morning in Shove Chapel, Colorado College was honored to have as guest speaker, Dr. Hans J. Morgonthau, associate professor of Political Science at the University of Chicago. His subject was, "The American Century."

The past 100 years has produced a complete revolutionary change in this country and the world, said Dr. Morganthau. He went on to say that these revolutionary movements were political, technological, an moral changes, and that none of these could be forseen by the world.

Dr. Morganthau said the first step in the political revolution was the Spanish-American War. Although it wasn't a long war, and not many casualities were inflicted as were in World War II, it did establish the United States as a world power by its victory and the expansion of its borders. The second step in this political change was the victory of Japan over Russia in 1904. Then with the end of World War II, the political revolution was up-to-date, and the victory showed that the centers of power are no longer segregated in Europe but all over. Today Europe has become the prospective of economy of Russia and the United States.

The biggest technological cange in this century was the development of atomic energy, but Dr. Morganthau went on to say that just as this was beginning a bigger and more powerful force came into view, the H Bomb. We take a lot of things for granted today such as radio, television, and railroads, but a century ago the progress made by these developments

Administration Justifies Expulsion and Probation Action Taken Against Students

Two Colorado College students were expelled, two others were severly reprimanded by President William H. Gill and put on disciplinary probation and one other was absolved of all guilt as a result of action taken by the members of the college's Undergraduate Life Committee at a special meeting

Dean George W. Adams, chairman of the Undergraduate Life Committe, pointed out that the meeting was not a retrial in any form for the assault against four of the youths in the county court February 17. The college's charge was that the students behaved publicly in a disorderly manner tending to bring the student body of CC into disrepute, in their action at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on the night of February 10.

President Gill pointed out that their actions were in violation of the college's disciplinary code regarding drinking by CC students on or off campus.

Dismissed from school were Richard McCleary, 25-year-old senior from Watertown, Conn., and George Wester, 23-year-old sophomore from Chicago. Wester may be eligible for readmission to CC in September, 1950, while McCleary may be eligible for readmission to CC in February, 1951, should they prove their worthiness to complete their education here.

Absolved of all guilt in the disorderly actions was Joe Holmes, 21-year-old junior from Seattle. Put on disciplinary probation for the remainder of their stay at CC were Doug Van Metre, 22-year-old junior from Mt. Vernon, Ia., and Melburne Kensinger, 21-year-old sophomore from Mt. Carroll, Ill. Van Metre's El Pomar scholarship, which covers tuition to CC, was suspended.

CC Student Council, Interfraternity Council And AWS Reply To Criticism Of Court Trial

By BOB LEAVITT, Tiger Editor

The Colorado College Interfraternity Council, Student Council, and the Associated Women Students issued a statement in regards to the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce demand for a "full and complete investigation" of the court-room proceedure during the trial of four CC students involved in the Broadmoor incident.

The Chamber of Commerce stated in a letter to the Board of County Commissioners that "the proper dignity due all courts of law was lacking." The letter also charged that "The ability of the Justice of the Peace and other court officials to maintain proper conduct and to permit a fair and impartial trial was obviously lacking."

The three campus organizations realize that charges and statements by local organizations against the CC student body in regards to the court trial of February 17 were preventing us as students of Colorado College to establish close unity and intergration among the merchants, administration, and other various groups of the community. In answer to this the Interfraternity Council, Student Council, Student Council and AWS issued the following letter.

"As the result of a series of incidents, climaxed by the recent trial of five students and subsequent action by the Colorado College authorities, much antngonism has apparently been crented between various groups in the community.

"The Colorado College student body, as a part of this community, is keenly aware of the necessity of a greater degree of understanding and cooperation between these groups.

"We, as representatives of the Colorado College student body, earnestly desire such cooperation, and are eager to do all we can to achieve it."

This letter was forwarded to all local newspapers, the Chamber of Commerce and the "Tiger."

C of C Letter; Committee's Action Crush Hopes for Editorial Peace

By Bob Humphreys

We had hopes, at the conclusion of last Friday's entertaining anti-climax in the County Courtroom, that the "Broadmoor Incident of 1950" was through, was over-rated, was a farce. The smiles on the faces of Dean Adams, Dean Reid, and Dean Broome encouraged us—the 300 or so CC students who packed the courtroom rose as a unit (apparently unaware that they had been brought into ill repute) and cheered. All was serene.

Tuesday morning, however, we dropped our cinnamon roll when beside the red and white Free Press banner—taking precedence over such headlines as "Charge Miners for Contempt," "Furor Rages in Senate Over Red Agents in State Dept.," and "Spain's Envoy Assassinated"—we found that our conduct in the fight trial was "deplored" by the Chamber of Commerce.

We realize that the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce sits by Jupiter's right side up on Pikes Peak; they have a big publicity job and we respect big publicity jobs—favorable publicity, that is. We were well impressed with the C of C's power when, at the end of an icy return trip from Chicago under solid gray skies last Christmas, we found the Springs bathed in sunlight from a city-sized opening in the clouds—there is no complaint about this and other C of C projects of its kind. We do, however, question and challenge the perogative of the Chamber in charging that "the proper dignity due all courts of law was apparently lacking" in this trial. They roared away that what concerns them is "the evident breakdown of any semblance of respect for civil law." The C. of C. letter, copies of which were sent to President Gill and Dean Reid as well as the county Commissioners, continued vehemently:

"When a situation arises where the behavior of persons in a justice of the peace court constitutes flagrant contempt of the standing and dignity of that court, and such acts go unchallenged, then it is time that interested citizens protest and vigorously." We bow our heads in shame to the "interested citizens" who "protest and vigorously."

A student may not be a taxpayer, a voter, a contributor to vast charities but he is not necessarily a flagrantly contemptuous animal, either, and he deeply resents being treated as one.

Justice Whittlesey made a very fair and logical explanation when he said,"I didn't clear the court because I think it would have caused a much greater disturbance." We think he judged correctly. Nevertheless, the county commissioners have been asked to conduct a "full and complete investigation" of our conduct, and Judge Whittlesey's, at the trial. This columnist, for one laughed long and loud at much of the testimony (as well as at the prosecuting attorney) and applauded vigorously several times—we do not feel guilty, unless it is wrong to help ease a tense situation or to inject a smile into this sad, sad world with men such as those protesting our actions in a court of law.

It is most unwise for tension to

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Every year we all go the polls to elect a student council to represent us on all matters pertaining to student life that will come up during the following year. Somehow in the light of what has happened recently it makes this whole procedure seem futile. What's the use of having student government if this group is given no opportunity to say anything on any vital matter. It is all well and good to spend a Monday afternoon discussing the intercollegiate bridge tournament and the debaters tea but this is not my idea of the purpose and function of student government.

According to the ASCC constitution "the student council is empowered to act in collaboration with the Committee on Undergraduate Life on enfractions of the established policy regarding any acts of vandalism or use of intoxicants." We have done this in the past and if there have been any serious complaints I am unaware of them. Yet in this case the matter was taken from the students hands without an explanation. Why should the college have student government to the extend of printing phrases in a consituation giving us certain powers and rights and yet when a time comes for exercising these powers and rights deny them to us completely. If the student council is supposed to be an adult body governing a group of mature individuals then let's let such matters be taken care of where they should. On the other hand if we have student government in name only then let's admit it, forget the glowing phrased constitution and accept student government for what it is, a farce behind which a small select body operates. As a member of the student council and a student at Colorado College, I think we should know where we stand. The time has come for a clarification of the policy.

—Mary Ruble

Another crisis is on our hands and we find that our hands are tied. However, our mouths are not as yet taped, so I shall use the one remaining faculty that CC students have in registerinng their disapproval.

Let me go on record as saying that I do not approve of the way the boys who were involved in the "Broadmoor Incident" settled their differences with Ross. It went to a civil court and that I believe is where it should have gone and that is where it should have stayed.

It was poor publicity for our alma mater, but these boys were not acting as agents of Colorado College but in their own capacity. Had such a fight taken place at the "O" club or at Patty Jewett no more than a reprimand would have come from the "authorities" with perhaps a probation for the rest of their stay at C. C. We don't need to bite the hand that "feeds" us, but does that hand have a reign over us so that it dictates our every policy? Has anyone on that board who hands down decrees thought about the future of those boys? Or don't they have a heart or any humanity in their souls at all?

This past week has seen an unfortunate bungling of a matter which, we fear, was highly overrated as far as its seriousness was concerned. Monday afternoon, the subject was officially closed when the Committee on Undergraduate Life dismissed Richard McCleary and George Wester from school, Doug Van Meter and Mel Kensinger were placed on probation, their right to drink "alcoholic beverages," (they are both of legal age), was removed, and Van Metre's football scholarship was suspended, Joe Holmes, fifth member of the group was excused completely.

Now, here's the rub. Wester, Van Metre and Holmes were all found NOT GUILTY at their trial at court last Friday. Kensinger was never charged with anything. McCleary was the only one found guilty, his fine was light, and it never was made clear how the altercation was started

When the students mentioned at their second "trial" Monday afternoon that three had been acquitted and the fourth never accused, it seems that the Dean of Men stated that it did not matter, they were now in front of school authorities.

The committee stated that the students were being tried on "drunkeness and disorderly conduct," and only on these charges. Granted the fact that because five students out of a probable majority of the student body were caught does not make their actions right, it does seem rather childish and two-faced to say that the trial supposedly had nothing to do with the committee's verdict. Let's not kid ourselves, we take pride in believing that we are intelligent young adults. We know only too well thaat the administration is "in the middle." These students will soon be gone, and the school remains, but nevertheless, it appears downright hypocritical for the school authorities to "desert" their students because of future repercussions. This is not a short term view; rather, if we do what is just and decent now, the future will take care of itself.

This matter only demonstrates once again the ineffective and juvenile manner in which our school decides the fate of its "family." The reasons for the committee's decisions are not made known, even to the defendents themselves, and it seems that little cognizance is taken of the accused party's side of the matter. Whether a student "strike," a public student caucus, or a revision of the school's constitution is the answer we do not know, but a festering sore exists and something must be done——NOW! What do you think? Let us know.

P. S. Name withheld on request.

By WALT SWEET

To anyone with just a bit of decency, the Chapel service this week might have grated just a little bit. As far as this unenlightened peon is concerned, the discourtesy wasn't just a one-sided affair, either.

To begin with, it might be well for the powers that be to stop and realize for just a moment in making their decisions about chapel services that a man is not necessarily a good speaker who can hold the audience interested and enthralled for half an hour just because he is the British Ambassador or the author of the current best-seller. Prominence in one field or another, unfortunately, does not preclude excellence in speaking ability. The speaker this week was not the best that we have heard, but did a capable job of expressnig his views, and delivered a message which should be worth our thought for some time to come. His text will be taken, and the impact of his message should be felt in our learned circles. Unfortunately the attention he received was only about quarter-hearted.

The student body contributed to making the occasion a distasteful one by persisting in the age-old tradition of being rude to the guest speaker. Granted, it's awfully hard to sit there in the dark and be bored without getting pretty restless. This failing of the attendance at these regular Tuesday morning sessions is one that has been with us for a long time, and will probably continue regardless

"Why Study History"? Topic for Discussion

What good is history for a college major? For what matter, why even study history at all? If you really want the straight scoop—especially you freshmen and sophomores—you'll be at the next meeting of the History Club, next Sunday evening, at Lennox.

Sunday's meeting, at 7:30 p. m., at Lennox, is the first of a new series designed to acquaint the student body with the potentials of history study. On the program will be Helen Stevenson, an English major, speaking on "Why Study History?"; Winton Sweitzer, a history major, showing the opportunities and futures in history; and Dr. Lew Worner, professor of history, discussing history as a profession. Moderator for the evening will be Joan Brunner, president of the History Clulb.

Opportunity will be given for discussion of the topics and questioning by those present, with plenty of chances to point up both the advantages and disadvantages of history study.

Just in case you missed the first paragraph, the time again is Sunday, February 26, at 7:30 p. m., in Lennox House. The meeting is open to everyone on the campus, especially freshmen and sophomores who will soon be selecting a study major. Refreshments will follow the session.

Episcopal Group to Celebrate Lent with Double Header Day

The news on the campus today is that the Canterbury group, with home base at Crace Episcopal Church, will have a double-header day next Sunday for both Episcopal students on the campus and their friends.

The annual Lenten corporate celebration of the Holy Communion for the national Canterbury clubs will be held in St. Stephen's Chapel, at Crace Church, Sunday morning, at eight, followed with a breakfast for those attending.

At six in the evening the usual weekly dinner and discussion group will meet in the parish house under the direction of the chairman, Don Manzelli. The program will be provided by the Rev. Leonard Smith, assistant rector. Every unaffiliated student on the Campus is cordially invited to these weekly get-togethers for a four-fold program of dinner, worship, study and entertainment.

No one is expected to stay for the entire evening program but a policy of come as you are when you can, is strictly adhered to always. Those persons planning to attend other camp meetings, such as History Club, et. al., can be assured of starting off the evening pleasantly at Canterbury.

It is the quality not the quantity that counts! How many things are judged in this way. A man is judged for the quality of his friends, and also a merchant for the quality of his merchandise. Therefore, as we grow older we must be able to distinguish between these things, not only in our choice of friends, education, on religion, but, for instance, in the type of merchandise we purchase. I grant you that in all things quantity is important too, for quantity offers a wider realm for selection. It is in the final selection, however, that quality enters in, and here is where your final decision will rest.

Perkins-Shearer offers both of these things to its customers, but (as I said before) always in the end quality wins out. Quality is the backbone of Perkins-Shearer, and the basis for its reputation. It is the quality if the clothing you wear, not the quantity, that makes you well dressed.

Camp-Counselor Jobs Open to Students For Summer Vacation

Want a job this summer? If you like the out of doors, why not become a camp-counselor? It's a wonderful opportunity and a grand way to spend the summer. Right now there are hundreds of positions open all over the country, and college level counselors are widely sought after.

Many interested people are subdued before they start as they do not know where the camps are located, which ones need counselors, what kinds of counselors are needed, or where the camp directors may be reached. This obstruction has now been eliminated by the "Camping Magazine" which has estableshed a new Camp Staff Service Bureau. The Bureau is not an employment agency. Prospective counselors conduct their own negotiations with the camps of their choice.

The 1950 Summer Camp Job Directory gives you all the information you desire on hundreds of camp jobs. You may secure this directory for only $1.00. Just send the dollar and your name and address to Camp Staff Service Bureau, Callowy Publishing Company, 705 Park Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

Tigers Journey to Greeley for RMC Game Sat.

CC Gunning for Fifth Straight RMC Victory Against Colorado State

With final standings in the Rocky Mountain Conference practically set, the Colorado College Tigers will go after undisputed third place in the league Saturday night at Greeley against second-place Colorado State.

Colorado State sewed up second spot this week against Colorado Mines, with CC unable to overtake because of the two victories Greeley scored over Idaho State. CC will play the conference newcomer Monday evening at the City Aud at 8:15.

C. C. now boasts a four-win three-loss record in conference play. Should the Tigers lose at Greeley Saturday night, they would fall into a tie with Western State, which has completed its conference season with five wins and five losses for an even .500 mark.

Closing one of the most outstanding four-year basketball careers in the history of CC this weekend will be forward Jack Quamme, 22-year-old senior who graduates this June with a business administration degree. Voted "most valuable" in the conference last year, this stellar scorer and play maker has scored 982 points, needing the total of 18 in the two two remaining games to net 1,000.

The tow-headed six footer, who was an all-conference and all-state basketball player with Colorado Springs high school, is almost a cinch to repeat in all-RMC teams this year, having led the Tigers through a respectable conference season and an extremely rough intersectional card. He will be one of only two seniors playing his last game for CC. Also graduating this June will be Dwight Hamilton, former star with South Denver High, who has worked as a dependable reserve center for the Tigers for three years.

Bengal Cagers Defeat Colorado Mines 68-55 To Take Third in RMC

The CC basketball team made it six in a row and their fourth straight RMC victory last Friday night as they landed the Miners from Golden their seventh straight Conference loss 68-55.

CC jumped into an early 6-3 lead and then George Sweeney, Tiger pivot man, put on an amazing one man sbow as he hit for five consecutive buckets and two free throws in the next three minutes. This onslaught sent the Bengals into a 20-9 lead which they never relinquished and at the half they were leading 37-18.

Mines came back in the second half to whittle down a twenty-two point deficit to the slim margin of six, before Sweeney, Quamme and company put the Tigers back in the scoring column and the buzzer sounded with CC out in front 68-55.

High scorer for the Bengals and for the game was center George Sweeney as he dumped in 27 points, 20 of these coming in a superior first half performance. Captain Jack Quamme, playing in one of his last collegiate games before the home crowd, canned 17 as did teammate Ronnie Bonkosky. Doug Waterman led the scoring parade for John Karamigio's boys as he sank 15 points. Tom Johnson was next in line with 11.

Jayvee Sextet Splits Win 5-2, Lose 8-2

The Jayvee hockey team split two games over the last weekend. On Thursday night the Cubs defeated Colorado Mines 5-2 and on last Monday night the D.U. yearlings knocked off the Bengal juniors 8-2.

The first game was a good clean affair with CC jumping into a 3-0 lead early in the second period. Bob Pozzo broke the ice for Mines, rapping one home late in this middle frame. Bill Thompson made it 4-1 just before the buzzer sounded. Crouse ended the CC scoring with eight minutes left in the game. Tom McKay finished off the scoring with just three minutes left. All the Tigers turned in top-notch performances while Hooker and McKay were outstanding for Mines.

The D.U. freshmen brought their sterling team down to the Ice Palace last Monday night and skated off with an 8-2 triumph. The Pioneer yearlings were able to get one score in the first period and then they racked up four quick ones in the second frame to take a commanding 5-0 lead. Tom Kelly finally snared CC's first goal early in the final frame on assists from Brandt and Crouse. The Cubs tallied one more but it was sandwiched around two D.U. scores. This second goal was also by Kelly on an assist from Brandt. There was a small fight in this period as CC's Crouse and DU's Rusen squared off but the refs interfered before it gout out of hand. Both players were kicked out of the game. The story of the game can be told in the saves as Bengal goalie Flynn was forced to make 32 stops, 16 of them in the opening period, while Marin of Denver had to turn 12 aside.

This game concluded the season for the JV's and they climaxed their season with an impressive 6 won and 2 lost record.

CU Tankmen Sink Bengal Swimmers

Colorado University scored its fifth swimming victory of the year and Colorado College went down to its second defeat of the year as the Buffs swamped the Tigers 64-19 in a dual meet at Boulder last Saturday afternoon.

The Bengals were able to win only one of the nine events, this coming in the diving with Doug Gregory taking the blue ribbon. Bob Wilkins was third in this event. CC's under-manned squad was unable to take a second place and thus gained most of their points from thirds.

This concluded the regular season for Dr. Stabler's mermen with only the Conference meet at Greeley this Saturday on the agenda. The Tiger swimmers ended their season with two wins (both over RMC opponents) and two losses.

TIGER CAGERS TO MEET IOAHO STATE IN FINAL HOME CONFERENCE TILT MON. NIGHT

The CC Tigers will return to their home court Monday evening to oppose the Idaho State hoopsters in their final Rocky Mountain Conference game of the Season. This contest is being sponsored by the Colorado Springs Dowtown Quarterback club and is for the benefit of the Young America Athletic Program.

Coach Jerry Carle's CC Bengals are currently riding in third place in the hot RMC race and if the CC'ers can cop a win over Idaho State Monday evening they will be a few percentage points behind Colorado State who is resting in the second place spot.

Capt. Jack Quamme will definitely be playing his final game of the season for the CC cagers. Quamme has had four years of varsity service on the Tiger quintet and is rated an all-time great on a CC hoop team.

The starting lineup for the Carle men will probably consist of Quamme in one guard slot, with Ron Bonkosky at the other guard position, George Sweeney at the pivot post, and Wayne Roper and Marv Powell at the forward berths.

Idaho State defeated CC twice at Pocatello last season and the visitors are the new entry in the RMC this season. They are currently holding down the cellar berth in the conference race.

Game time Monday at the City Aud will be 8:15 and the price of general admission is 50 cents for all students.

The Kappa Sigs edged the Betas by a one point margin. Wes Boucher was high point man with 19 while Stan Deffenbaugh threw in 10 counters to lead the Betas.

Colorado Mines Frosh Trip CC Cub Quintet

The Colorado College Freshmen basketball team lost their second game of the season to Colorado Mines last Friday as the Miners from Golden defeated the Tiger juniors 45-38.

The Cubs led all thruout the first half in front at one time by ten points, but the Mines yearlings narrowed the margin down to six counters as the CC Frosh led at the half 22-16. Mines came back strong after the intermission and went into the lead for the first time with four minutes gone in the half, and they stretched this to 33-25 at the period and to 37-31 with six minutes left in the game.

The Bengal yearlings tried to come back but the lead was too great and the Miners held on to their lead and took the game 45-38.

High scorer for CC was Dune Stephens with 12 points, followed by Dave Vine with 11. For Mines, Hinrichs with 15 points, was the leading point-getter.

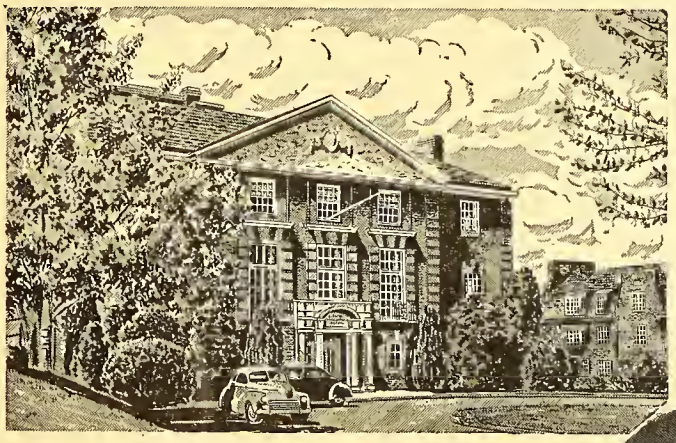
Michigan Tops CC Twice, 5-1; 11-1

The CC Tigers made an all-important trip to the mid-West last weekend and came home with two defeats, both of them administered by the high-flying Wolverines of the University of Michigan. The first night the score was 5-1 and Saturday night they really went wild in rolling up an 11-1 score.

Friday night, with both Lea Maccini and Clark Wilder on the sick list as a result of a mild attack of flu, the Tigers went down to defeat 5-1. For Michigan, center Neil Ceeley and Wingman Gil Burford accounted for two goals apiece while Paul Pelow got the other one. Three of these scores came in the first period with the final two coming in the last frame. It was also in this last period that CC garnered their only goal as Tony Frasca beat goalie John McInnes with a straight-away shot into the nets. Besides these players, Ross Smith was outstanding for the home team as he played a great defensive game. For the visitors, the whole first line of Hartwell, Whitworth, and Ray plus Frasca and Starrak played good hockey.

Roy Ikola, playing his first game of the year came up with a beautiful game and 38 saves.

The next night things were a little different. Michigan's first score came at 4:11 and they added three more in the remaining fifteen minutes of the period. It was in this frame that the Tigers scored their only goal as Harry Whitworth took a pass from Chris Ray and drilled it through McInnes. The Wolverines added three more in the second period and finished up with four in the final twenty minutes. Defensive star of the game was Jim Starrak with his vicious checking while Neil Ceeley and Bill Brumm were the scoring stars each turning in a three-goal hat-trick. Ceeley added four assists for good measure.



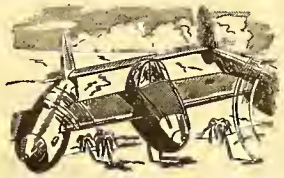
Major Bill Reynolds, Oregon '40
Pilot-Professor, U.S. Air Force!

Bill was an all-round athlete. He chose foothall as his favorite sport, made the varsity teams at Pomona Junior College and also at the University of Oregon.

A Theta Chi, Bill enjoyed campus social life. Found that it eased the pressure of rugged athletics and his heavy atudy schedule in Personnel Management.

Upon graduation, Bill chose a future in the Air Force. He "flew" his first Link trainer as an Aviation Cadet in 1940. By March, 1941, he had won his pilot wings.

The 1st Observation Squadron, Fort Riley, Kansas was Lieutenant Reynolds' first assignment. While there he met the future Mrs. Reynolds. They married a year later and now have two fine sons.



The Squadron moved to Panama, then to the Pacific. Bill advanced from pilot to operations officer to squadron commander. He came home a Major and qualified for a Regular Commission.

Recently commended for peacetime work —organizing and improving instruction techniques—Major Reynolds, a "Pilot-Professor", looks forward to a long and gainful career in the U. S. Air Force.

By MARY RUBLE

Hell week with all its ramifications is upon us again. The fraternities, in an effort to keep their pledges recognisable to the general public, have come out with a new fashion pattern of what the well dressed man will wear on campus. Along with uniforms to give the appearance of an active ROTC unit on campus there are the various marching activities of the different pledge classes. As to the destinction of the marching, no one seems to knows, they just march.

Kidnapping too, seems to have appeared during this busy week. There is a slightly new twist added, instead of holding the victim for ransom, the kidnapped one is left out on the wide praries to return at will and by their own method. In keeping with this Brandy and Sandy were transported to Woodland Park while Susan Weary spent several happy hours admiring the sunshine and natural elements at Austin Bluffs. Fortunately for Susan she was "rescued" by several young men who came bearing gifts.

Demonstrating that punctuality is a desirable trait, LaVon Rouse gave a long explanation to Patty Fisher that when she says seven o'clock she means seven o'clock and not five after seven. Let us hope that this is kept in mind. Then, there were the Phi Cams excitedly searching for lost pledge Dave Fletcher. After searching the various sorority houses the lost was found catching up on a few minutes of much needed sleep. Even a girl's home is not safe these days.

Congratulations to Ellie Ebersole on a job well done for work in Golddigger's. In a grand march resembling a variety store on parade Lefty Brinkman was selected the man wearing the most original corsage. This masterpiece of wierdness and beauty was conconstructed by Joan Tutin and featured a rabbit and a basket of eggs. Bob Malowoney, the grocery store candidate, reigned triumphantly over the empty pursed women and attention lavished men. Now all has returned to the semblence of normalcy that exemplifies the CC family and again it is the women's turn to await the telephone call and the men's to suffer through an expense ridden evening.

In keeping with the romantic tonch Carol Nichols is now wearing Walt Sweet's Beta pin. Is this the proper way for a student to behave?

In these days of alphabet agencies and wierd names it is often difficult to see the relationship between an organizaton and its title. For one group on campus the name seems to fit exceptionally well.

exist between the Chamber of Commerce, the Broadmoor, and Colorado College. Our purpose is not to incite enmity but rather to demonstrate the fact that we are much more than an enrolled bunch of idiots. Each of the above organizations could exist without the others but each is helped greatly by the others—we estimate, for instance, that CC students alone spend approximately $1,750,000 a year in Colorado Springs. Let's stick together gentlemen!

Aside from the regrettable action of the C. of C., we feel that an even greater injustice has been committed by the Undergraduate Life Committee in their action against the students involved in the Ice Palace fracas. These men were charged "that on the night of February 10, after drinking, they did publicly behave in a disorderly manner tending to bring the Colorado College student body into disrepute." On that basis, and in accordance with disciplinary code regarding drinking by CC students on or off campus, four men, three of them held innocent of the legal charges against them by a court of law, were punished more or less severely by the C. U. L.

We interviewed the first five students encountered at Lennox last Tuesday afternoon, and each stated that he thought the Committee of Undergraduate Life should clarify its stand on the case so that at least Mr. Wester's expulsion might be understood. Until the issue is farther clarified, we will fail to understand the basis for the administration's charges—the court was told that the disorderly behavior was not in public, and, from all indications, the students do not feel that they were brought into disrepute by the affair (not even by the C. of C.)

Dean Adams states that he believes "the committee tried hard to do their duty." He voluntarily assured us that "no outside forces used pressure against the committee." We wonder if the C.U.L.'s duty might someday be to expell us because of our journalistic efforts or because we are being investigated by the Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking of potentialities, we suggest the administration read Section 4, Article III of the Student Council Constitution, which states:

The third and final change is the moral revolution. We are fortunate in having a community of values and interest with our speech and with our ideals. This moral revolution came with the compromise of nationalistic ideas and international fears.

In conclusion Dr. Morganthau said that we are a nation of great wealth and most productive in the world but that this makes us the most envied. He said, "If we want to live in peace is another way of saying if we want to live at all," and that this great trend in the world is as equally a great challange to us.

"The Student Council is empowered to act in collaboration with the Committee on Undergraduate Life as a body to hold hearings and to judge any individual, group of individuals, or organizations which may be responsible for infraction of the established policy regarding any acts of vandalism or the use of intoxicants.

"The findings of the Council and the disciplinary measures proposed shall be presented by the President and one other representative of the Council to the Committee on Undergraduate Life for review and approval, or modification.

"Following approval of the recommendations of the Council by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, it shall be the duty of a joint committee of the Student Council and the Committee on Undergraduate Life to execute the disciplinary action agreed upon."

Constitution & Regulations for Honor System

ED NOTE—All students are requested to read this article over carefully for several changes have been made in the constitution.

PLEDGE—The Pledge, "I have neither given nor received aid on this examination," should be on each examination paper— either mimeographed and then signed, or written in full on each examination by the student. In case of the presentation of a paper without the signed "pledge," the instructor shall notify the student, who shall then sign the paper.

WHERE APPLIED—The provisions of this plan shall apply to all work done in the classes under the Honor System. All tests given in these classes shall be given in such a manner as to promote the Honor System. Students taking examinations under the Honor System will be allowed freedom of movement within the building where the examination is being given. Because of the problem of classroom space, West Hall; East Hall; and Tenney Hall will be considered as wings of Palmer Hall, and free movement within these areas is acceptable.

EXPLANATION IN EACH COURSE—Aside from the fixed principles that are inherent in the Honor System, each professor should explain clearly just how it will be applied in his particular course. The professor may apply the system to the preparation of term papers, laboratory problems, research work, etc., as he sees fit. For example, a math professor might wish for each individual student to work out assigned problems alone—or he might have no objection if the students wanted to work together on the problems. But in this and all similar cases, the professor should make clear the procedure he wants followed.

The presence of proctors in examinations given in courses under the Honor System is discontinued.

Depending on the nature of the examinations, the professor may be present in the examination room after issuing the examination questions to answer questions. If present, he will be there solely to answer questions and to receive the examination papers at the end of the allotted time.

REPORT ANY VIOLATIONS —Any violations of the Honor System should be dealt with in the following manner:

1. Warning—The individual who observes a violation should first directly approach the person concerned and warn the person that if they again see the person violate the Honor System, their name will be submitted to the Honor Council for appropriate action.

2. If a second violation is observed, it is the duty of the observer to submit a short written report of the incident to the chairman or to any member of the Honor Council.

HONOR COUNCIL—The Honor Council, consisting of 12 members, shall elect a chairman from their number. The Honor Council shall not be considered to be sitting officially unless all members are present. In the event of a prolonged absence of an Honor Council member, the class that he was elected from shall select an alternate.

The Honor Council shall appoint a recording secretary, not a member, and having no vote, who will record, in shorthand, all proceedings before it.

of my harrangue. It does seem to me, however, that we could be a little bit more courteous to our guest speakers regardless of whether we are interested in their message, or not. Frankly, the one this week was very much worth listening to!

The third person involved in this weeks display of poor taste was the Dean of the Chapel himself. While I hope that his facial remarks to the audience were not seen by the speaker, I do think that he was in error by inducing the laughter that followed them. Certainly Dr. Morgenthau was worthy of an ovation following his talk—laughter doesn't quite fill the bill.

Maybe this is all pretty trivial, but if each of us could just put ourselves in the brogans of the guy up there on the podium, I'm sure that we'd feel considerably different about the whole affair—I'm sure that I would!

were not even dreamed of. Today we can hear anyone in the world speak at his time of delivery, and that it isn't an unreal possibility that in time we will be able to see actions taking place throughout the world at the moment of their happenings. But because of these technological developments, it has established a totalitarian state and once this is established it can only be overthrown by an invading army or a coup-de-grace by its own army. The people cannot do it. Dr. Morganthau continued that the great danger lies in this and that if the people become conditioned to the totalitarian state they will not be able to change it with nothing less than war.

COLORADO COLLEGE | Thursday, March 2, 1950 | NUMBER XX

CC Players Next Production Will Be "The Male Animal"

The Colorado College Players, under the direction of Woodson Tyree, are now in the final stages of work on their forthcoming production of "The Male Animal," a college comedy by Elliott Nugent and James Thurber. The play, which will be presented on Mach 14, 15 and 16 in Perkins Hall is a picture of college life in general and the domestic crises of a retiring young professor in particular. These crises arise out of happenings during homecoming week at the college and culminate in a happy and hilarious ending.

The New York Sun in its review of the play said, "For a good many years now, James Thurber has been puzzling in print and in pictures over the facinating and rather alarming ways of the female—but he has never been so buoyantly funny about it as he is in 'The Male Animal'. It is richly funny and engagingly amiable in its masculine bewilderment."

In the CC Players' production Don Cooper will be starred as the professor, and Rosemary Musgrave will play his wife Ellen, Lynn Jones will be seen as Patricia Stanley, Ellen's sister. Other members of the cast are: David Berg, Jean Roberts, Kristine Sinding, Shirley Pierson and Jerry Ketchum.

Student activity books will be honored at the door for this production.

America Youth Hostels Offer Varied Low-Cost Trips for US Students

American students who want to travel this summer have the opportunity of going on a wide variety of low-cost hosteling trips in the U. S. and abroad, it was announced recently by Ben W. Miller, executive director of the American Youth Hostels.

Hosteling, inexpensive hiking or cycling along established routes with overnight stays in hostels maintained by Local Councils of interested citizens, has long been a popular mode of travel for young people abroad, and is attracting many followers in this country.

Trips sponsored by the AYH National Headquarters will range in length from five to ten weeks and will start in late June and early July. On these trips, hostelers will travel in small mixed groups with trained leaders. Estimated costs range from $115 for some trips in the United States to $780 for trips to the North Sea and Mediterranean areas. In all cases the cost covers the entire trip from starting to finishing points.

In the United States, hosteling groups will visit northern New England, the Great Lakes, Long Island Sound, the Colonial Virginia areas, and the National Parks and High Sierras. Trips planned for the North American continent include trips to the Canadian Rockies, Gaspe Peninsula, Ontario, the Maritime Provinces and the Saguenay River area, all in Canada, and to Mexico, Guatemala, and Alaska.

The trips to Europe will include visits to the British Isles, Scandinavia, France, the North Sea area, Central and Western Europe, and the Mediterranean area. Trips involving work projects will also be conducted in Germany and Holland.

Details of itineraries and costs of trips are available at AYH National Headquarters, 6 East 39th Street, New York 16.

World Affairs Council To Present Speaker on The U.S. Role in Europe

The Colorado College on World Affairs is presenting Dr. Ethan Colton speaking on "The American Role In Europe" in South Hall at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, March 7, 1950.

This is the second in a series of programs designed to bring to the people of the Pikes Peak region informed, entertaining and provocatvie speakers, who, in the opinion of the Council, can clarify many of the questions which arise from rapidly changing conditions in the world today.

Dr. Colton has been a frequent visitor to Europe since 1921 and has traveled to every European nation. His travels have made him familiar not only with the people but their problems as well.

Besides his many lectures, which have been highly received and commented upon, Dr. Colton has found time to author several important books which add to his stature as a leading interpreter of European events.

Community Chest Thanks CC for Check

Dear Mr. Kinder:

We have received a check for $190.00 from the Treasurer of Colorado College, which is the contribution from the students' Chest campaign to the 1949-50 Colorado Springs Community Chest fund.

Needless to say, we are most grateful for this generous gift. We hope there is some way by which the appreciation of the officers of the Chest and the member agencies can be conveyed to the student body of the College. It is not only the financial and welfare program of the Region which it evidences.

The Chest itself, and the member agencies welcome visits, and inquiries about their activities, at any time.

Ethel L. Anderson,
Executive Secretary.

Patton Addresses Chapel Audience

Dr. Lindsey Patton, rector of the Grace Episcopal church, was the guest speaker in Shove Memorial Chapel last Tuesday morning. His talk was based around the teachings of Saint Paul that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

There are many inhabitants on this earth who are, or were, physically deficient in their functions, said Dr. Patton, and they found some way to overcome these handicaps to excel in their field of science or art that benefitted mankind. He cited as an example of ancient times, Homer, who, though blind, wrote poetry and gave the modern world the legends of the Greek gods. Without his work, scholars would probably never know the intimate life of the ancient Greek world that he so diligently brought to light for us. Homer would rather have been a great warrior, continued Dr. Patton, but because of his blindness he had to resort to poetry, his second choice in his pursuit of happiness.

To present this thesis of "Man's extremity is God's opportunity," in the American way of life, Dr. Patton said that in the colonial period when the colonists settled around central New England, they set the pattern of the modern American. To stave off the mounting difficulties they used an equal amount of energy. Said Dr. Patton, "Men all over the world are game . . . there is no automatic character producing agency on this globe. Hardship produces fine character.

Blevins Davis, Drama Expert Speaks on the Theater Today

Blevins Davis, well known in the theater world in both America and in Europe, reaffirmed his belief that America is the leader in theater and allied arts when he spoke Monday before a CC class studying English and American drama of the twentieth century.

The legitimate theater, he told the students, is a real art form, far more so than either the radio or the motion picture. Illustrating his point, he told interesting stories about the production of such plays as Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth, the Queen" and George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

Stressing the necessity of hard work by actresses, actors, designers, producers, and directors, Davis spoke of the perfection achieved by leading Broadway stars and technicians. The speaker's wide acquaintence in the theater and his familiarity with the problems of the theater gave his remarks authority.

Davis contended that if really fine plays were given the public in this country and abroad they are received with enthusiasm. Although the United States does not have a national theater as do most countries, Davis believes we do have many excellent college and civic theaters, but he regrets that theater lovers and those whose tasts are being formed often do not have the opportunity to see first rate entertainment. He suggested that the United States give each year some of the money spent for military purposes for the development of a top notch national theater. Like George Bernard Shaw, he says we art more eager to spend money for war than for art.

Fraternity Hell Week . . . To Last or Be Outlawed

Without pretending to advocate the abandonment of fraternity "Hell-week", we might make a few suggestions as to the methods of conducting this annual circus peculiar to college campuses. Obviously, the reason hell-week is frowned upon by the college public relations is because of the considerable destruction to college public relations and even to human beings, that attends it. The attentions of the fraternity men during hell week are devoted entirely to making life miserable for the pledges, and no small effort is expended by these pledges in outlandish missions and buffonnery. Granted that most of those concerned, pledges included, but excepting college officials, have a good time, very little is accomplished constructively. This leaves but one excuse for its continuance, to have a good time, and actually that is its own excuse for existence.

But here is a point to consider. Couldn't they all have as good a time if, instead of putting out fires with mouthfuls of everything in the kitchen, Drano included, the pledges painted the house, inside and out? Or instead of marching through the Bemis dining hall, they put in new parking lots, fixed up the surroundings, and in general made themselves useful (as a couple of fraternities on campus did) . . .

Then too, there is quite often a case where a pledge is forced to neglect his class work. How about, compulsory study periods that could be held before various sessions of hell week began therefore eliminating the scholastic kickback?

Hell week is a traditional part of fraternity life, but because of adverse publicity, (some of it deservedly) it is being threatened with eradication unless the boys figure out a better way of conducting it. A compromise with those who would abolish it is not unreasonable, and for their own sake, the fraternities might be wise to consider it.

Walt's Fault

By WALT SWEET

Just a bit here and there . . .

Felicitations are certainly in order to those who have just finished making the grade for their respective Fraternities and Sororities. You have assumed a responsibility bigger than that of membership in just your individual organization. You have taken your place in the Greek world . . . at present, a world that is taking the test of outside slander and abuse. It is your job to maintain the system in its finest form . . . to make of your Fraternity or Sorority an organization which will not weaken, but strengthen the structure of the honored Greek-Letter tradition.

It is the opinion of this writer that the Student Council has shown its first signs of life in being at least riled up about the usurpation of its authority and constitutional rights by the Suppression Committee.

More power to you ASCC . . . there are certainly functions that fall within your domain . . . make sure that you get to use them for all of our benefit!

Senior Class Commissioner Liz Van Rensalier and Bud Parlapiano are to be commended for an excellent job so far of Senior Class coordination. All of us who are members of the Class appreciate the calendars and advice as to Graduation schedules.

Miss Donaldson's Soc. 112 Class entered into a very pertinent discussion, I believe, on Tuesday morning about the presence of a 'drinking problem' on campus. A question that was not adequately answered is, it seems to me . . . Who is responsible for the presence of such a problem . . . students or rule-makers? Probably both parties are responsible. It is my opinion that, once the issues of the

By Bob Humphreys

Prompted by a hastily made appointment than by a desire to see his noted photograph collection, we spent part of Monday afternoon in the office of Police Chief I. B. "Dad" Bruce. Being a highly car-blessed group of students possessing a normal (for our ages) number of delinquent tendencies, our contacts with the Chevrolet-mounted police are generally on the unpleasant and expensive side. Our consequent feelings are usually of animosity and defense against the bobbies.

We were surprised, therfore, when "Dad" Bruce, between puffs from his suitably large cigar, greeted us: "Pull up a chair. Colorado College hasn't caused me any trouble—no trouble at all, traffic or otherwise. Damned few of you ever get tickets—ten per cent I suppose." We had almost decided that we know the wrong 10 per cent, when he continued, "you kids spend almost two million dollars in this town every year. Where else could we get another payroll like that. We're not after your money, nor the soldiers'. There's enough money in this town to support the Police department without the help of the students." We agreed. He reminded us, however, that there are laws to be obeyed and that the department is "particularly strict on driving under 'any degree' of intoxication." He then contrasted the cases of the local resident, who insisted he hadn't had a drink and whose blood alcohol test showed .48, and the Colorado College student, "who was in here the other morning and admitted he had seven or eight beers." Dan Bruce appreciates honesty. "I haven't had ten college students in here in two years for drunkenness, which, is a fine record for any school." the CC alumnus continued.

We were assured that the Springs' Police Department has "only one thing to sell and that is service. We are attempting to make the Department the most talked about, best trained, most courteous, and best dressed in the country. Most of the employees are ex-service men, all have been to at

Beta Pledges Win Over Fiji Pledges In Tug-Of-War

Last Friday, February 24th, the mighty Beta Pledge class defeated the Fiji pledge class in a traditional tug-of-war. This event which has been suspended for the past year was renewed again this year to test the strength and ingenuity of the foes.

A goodly crowd surrounded the participants around "Ye old Skunk Hole," expecting to see the losers dragged through the cold, slimey waters but this didn't happen. Instead, the Fijis slipped around the edge of the "hole" and all that they got wet was the seats of their pants from slipping in the mud.

To the Beta victors went the trophy jug which will be up for grabs again next year.

Bengal Pucksters Host to Minnesota Fri. & Sat.

Thompson Forces After Two Wins and NCAA Bid Over Gophers

Colorado College will entertain the University of Minnesota Gophers at the Broadmoor Ice Palace this Friday and Saturday in the last CC bid for a berth in the National Collegiate Hockey Tournament, slated for Colorado Springs March 16, 17, and 18.

Nothing is definite and nothing will be regarding the two western teams until the selection committee gets together, but one thing is certain: the Bengals must win both Minnesota games to even be considered. Michigan is almost in without a dissenting vote. CC has lost two to Michigan, one to Minnesota, while winning one from Minnestota, one from North Dakota and tying North Dakota. Dakota has also lost two to Michigan, but has dumped Minnesota four times to balance the defeat she incurred from CC, which makes the two team's records against the same opponents look very similiar should the Tigers come out on top twice this week.

Tony Frasca, one of the outstanding stick-handlers in college hockey and center on one of CC's two front lines,must now work with Cam Berry and Bud Eastwood, two willing, capable, but inexperienced wings. The change also brings Eastwood up from defense to Gambucci's left wing spot, giving the Tigers four defensemen: Jim Starrak, Capt. Mike Yalich, Len Maccini and Carl Lawrence, with only the first three carrying the real load.

Only unit intact is the "boom-boom" line which together registered two hat tricks in the first Minnesota game and which as a trio is right near the top of national collegiate hockey scoring today. Center Harry Whitworth, who with Yalich is the only one to finish at CC this year, continues to operate smoothly witb wingmen Ron Hartwell and Chris Ray.

As a result of the sterling play of Roy Ikola against Michigan victories, Coach Thompson now has two dependable goalies on whom to count. Ikola, who seemed to have his old veteran touch at the opening of the season, took over for CC for the first time this season at Ann Arbor, when Clark Wilder came down with the flu, and performed in comparable fashion. Thompson has not indicated who will start this week.

Tiger Nine Schedules 16 Games; Mines First

Colorado College has announced its 1950 basball schedule, listing 16 games, which include three Rocky Mountain Conference opponents, two from the Skyline Six and one from the Big Seven.

Coach Jerry Carle, in his second year at the helm of the CC diamond club, will send his charges against Colorado Mines, April 4, in the opener. The Bengals will play two games each with Wyoming, Denver and Colorado University. In conference play the CC aggregation will meet Mines and Colorado State four times each during the coming season, and Western State twice.

Only returning hurler is Vic Pugel, a letterman who is consistent but certainly not outstanding. Only prospect up from the frosh squad is Dick Bergesen, and where the other pitching will come from, not even Coach Carle can say.

In the outfield Carle will have lettermen Vince Giammario, Pat Killen, Bill Dewire and John Litt, all good hitters. In addition there will be Bruce Carson and John Crumley from the frosh club, and Carl Lawrence and Andy Gambucci from the hockey team, both reputed to be top prospects.

Despite the loss of last year's infielder, Carle is not worried. Out for baseball with great reputations will be Mark Kochevar of the freshman club, Wayne Roper of Colorado Springs City League experience, hockey-player Tony Frasca from Boston and speedster Tony Esposito off the basketball crew. Indoor workouts are slated to begin March 1.

The 1950 schedule follows:

APRIL 14—
Colorado Mines at Colo. Springs, 3:00 p. m.
APRIL 7—
Wyoming Univ. at Colo. Springs, 3:00 p. m.
APRIL 8—

Bengals Take 63-57 Win Over Idaho State

The Tigers made their final scheduled game of the year a success last Monday night as they defeated Idaho State 63-57 in a nip and tuck affair.

Big event of the evening, besides the victory, was the attaining of the one thousand point mark by Bengal star Jack Quamme racked up seven points during the evening to give him a four-year total of 1,0004 points. Only other senior in the game was Dwight Hamilton and he came into his own, racking up 11 points.

Idaho State got the opening basket and held onto the lead for the first twelve minutes before a free throw by Marv Powell sent the Tigers ahead 15-14. With the score knotted at 20-20, CC countered seven times while the Bengals from Pocatello were scoring only two, sending the Tigers into a 27-22 halftime lead.

This lead didn't hold up though as Idaho State tied it up at 40-40 at the ten minute mark on two free throws by Lyle Anderson. The two teams traded buckets and then Hamilton sank a charity toss to send the Tigers ahead for good. Sweeney, Ssposito and Hamilton helped the Bengals into a safe 51-44 lead.

Scoring honors for the night went to Dewey Cunningham of IS with 13 points followed by Anderson with 12.

Colorado State Snaps CC Win Streak 80-72

Colorado State cemented their second place position in the RMC last Saturday night as they defeated the Tigers 80-72 in a close rough game in which 56 personal fouls were called.

The Tigers held their own thruout the first ten minutes of the contest with the Bears out in front at this time by only one point but a twelve point splurge in the next six minutes sent them into a comfortable fifteen point lead at halftime 44-29. CC came back after the intermission and whittled down the lead some but with their greater height the Bears were able to control the backboards and thus they were able to maintain their lead. Greeley led 76-62 going into the last three minutes when Ronnie Bonkosky sunk two quick buckets and Wayne Roper canned three to cut the lead down to 76-69, but time ran out on the Tigers with Colorado State coming out ahead 80-72.

High scorer for the Tigers was Bonkosky with 16 points. Captain Jack Quamme hit for fifteen points as did Wayne Roper while George Sweeney garnered 14. For the Bears Harry Wise was the big man as he scored 21 points followed by Cal Cordes with 19 and Frank Sajevic with 14.

Phi Delts Top Sig Chis To Tie for Hoop Lead

The small but fast Phi Delt cagers came from behind last Tuesday night to annex a 34-28 win over the league pacing Sigma Chi quintet. As a result of this game the Phi Delts and Sigma Chis are currently deadlocked for the I-M sunberth spot. Stan Brenton and Don Diones led the Phi Delt attack with 8 points apiece.

The intramural league will come to a close this weekend and an all-school Intramural Tournament will be held at Cossitt Gym next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday sponsored by the "C" Club.

Colorado State Takes RMC Swim Meet

Last Saturday the Greeley Bears again captured the Rocky Mountain Conference swimming title by sinking the CC Tigers and Colorado Miners. The defending titleholder scored 71½ points while CC was runnerup with 55½ and Mines placed last with 47.

The meet began with time trials in the morning and the undermanned Bengals qualified nine men as against Greeley's twenty-one.

The outstanding individual stars of the meet were Dave Schultz of CC and Dean Fair of Colorado State. Both of these men scored two firsts. Schultz breaking the 100 yd. freestyle time and also the individual medley time. Fair lowered both the 220 and 440 yd. freestyle times.

Other outstanding events which took place were the diving in which Doug Gregory took top honors, and the 400 yd. relay.

The relay, consisting of Arter, Wilkens, Stone and Rubens also set a new record as they breezed home in 4:10.8 as compared to the old record of 4:16.7.

Although CC finished second this year, Coach Doc Stabler believes that the mermen should be able to capture the title next year.

Western State Winner Of Ski Meet; CC Fifth

Last weekend the CC ski team entered its first competition of the season. A four-way meet consisting of a downhill race, slalom race, jumping contest, and a cross-country race was held at Western State College, Gunnison. Representing CC were Ollie Campbell, Perry Tyree, Bill Coit, Bill Purfield, Chuck Bacon and Phil Longnecker.

The best place for CC was made by Ollie Campbell with a position of 17th. Bill Coit flashed thru the finish gate placing 23rd. Phil Longnecker spilled on the last schuss losing one ski and part of his chin but managed to finish on one ski in 25th place. Close behind were Chuck Bacon and Perry Tyree skiing the course at its most ice stage. The team as a whole placed 5th in the downhill.

Sunday morning the jumping was held on Rozman hill near Crested Butte. Ollie Campbell leaped seventy-one- feet making the best place of the CC team as he did in all four events . Also jumping were Longnecker, Purfield and Coit; the latter two entered jumping competition for their first times.

Sunday evening, a banquet was held in Keating Hall on the Western State campus during which Denver University received a trophy for winning the meet. A few points behind was Western State. The other teams followed in this order: Wyoming U., Utah U., Colorado U., Colorado Mines, Colorado College, and Colorado A&M.

The CC ski team, with the encouragement of Dean Rawles, is looking forward to better luck in the Denver U. ski meet to be held at Winter Park this weekend.

UP AND AT 'EM!

New Theme as Tiger Spring Grid Drills Start

Colorado College became the first school in the Rocky Mountain region and one of the first in the country to begin spring football training more than 50 1950 grid hopefuls greeted Coach Allison K. Binns and Assistant Jerry C. Carle for an informal discussion and orientation period last Sunday. Suits have already been issued and drills commenced on Washburn Field Monday.

With plenty of snow on the mountains and with the 1949 season just past, the Bengals will settle down to four weeks of rugged conditioning and perfecting of the CC "T" formation.

Along with a host of newcomers to the CC gridiron were 19 lettermen from the Rocky Mountain Conference champions, seven varsity men who did not leter and 22 men up from the conference championship freshman Club. A quick look at the roster showed plenty of quality at every spot except tackle.

All of them looking for an invitation to join the CC crew when September rolls around, the CC lads heard Coach Binns point out that conference champions do not repeat by just playing the schedule. Indicating that next year would an be even tougher one than 1949, Binns and Carle, who just finished coaching basketball on Monday, told their players of an action-packed schedule of four weeks of rugged contact, fundamental drills and an emphasis on the timing of the CC offense.

Indicating an efficiency along with the planning angle, the CC athletic calendar shows that spring football closes just one week before track and baseball begin, allowing dual-purpose athletes all the participation they desire.

Climax of the four-week session will be a full-length, regulation intra-squad game on Washburn Field, March 24.

ONLY CC WRESTLER—Glenn Blagg, heavyweight, will be the only participant from CC at the RMC meet this Saturday at Golden.

Blagg to Wrestle In RMC Meet

Glenn Blagg, Rocky Mountain Conference, heavyweight champ for two consecutive years and winner of NCAA District 7, title for one year will represent CC at the annual conference wrestling meet at Golden this weekend. Blagg will probably tangle with Bill Priest, conference heavyweight champ from Colorado State last year.

I-M teams that will be seeking honors are the Sigma Chis, Phi Gams, Phi Delts, Betas, Kappa Sigs, Faculty, Hag Hall, and Independents. Pairings will be posted on the Cossitt bulletin board this weekend. The Phi Delts are the defending champs.

Tigger Gridders Rate 254 In Nation

The Tigers rated a percentage of 71.5 in their 1949 season which included 6 wins and 3 losses. Doug Van Metre, 200 lb. All-RMC end received honorable mention on the Little All-American team selected by the Williamson System.

This weekend is the last series of the current hockey season and I'm sure I don't havo to urge you all to get out to the Ice Palace and give the team the old CC support.

After the games we'll all want to get out and howl at one of the local college hangouts. You would be surprised how much your appearance means when meeting the rest of the gang. Be sure that your clothing reflects the well grooming of the college person.

Clothing from Perkins-Shearer will always give yon that well groomed appearance.

Quamme, Sweeney Named in All-RMC Balloting for 1949-50

In one of the closest polls in years this year's Rocky Mountain Conference basketball team was picked and CC landed one man on the first team and one on the second. Jack Quamme was named to the first team and George Sweeney was named to the second. Les Curry, high scoring ace from Montana State was the only unanimous choice for the team and rounding out the first five were Frank Sajevic and Harry Wise of Colorado State and Jim Core of Western State. Quamme is the only member of this year's team to be so honored three years in a row. An oddity in this year's balloting saw Joe McKethen, second team choice from Montana State, selected as the most valuable player in the Conference. Last year this award went to CC's captain Jack Quamme.

Outside of personnel improvement, we were told that other plans for the near future included stop light timing (to be installed in April) and increased parking accommodations (as soon as people realize that they must walk more than two blocks to the busy corner). COLORADO COLLEGE | Thursday, March 9, 1950 | NUMBERXXI

Pres. Gill Recommends Constitution Revision, Student Cooperation in Statement to CC Family Thursday

Since considerable discussion has arisen in regard to the proper jurisdicition of a case recently handled by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, I would like to say that the student attitude in the matter is not one of radical antagonism or desire for revolution, but rather an expression of dislike for the confusion and misunderstandings which have arisen. I hope I can clear up some of that confusion. As a result of a very frank and healthy meeting between the Committee on Undergraduate Life and the ASCC Council, I can report that both groups regret the misunderstandings regarding the handling of this case, misunderstandings which arose out of certain ambiguities in the ASCC constitution. A careful study of the entire ASCC Constitution and, a rational outlook on the general method of running a college reveals that both sides are just and sincere in their arguments.

Out of the meeting Thursday evening came two joint committees which are at work in an attempt to clarify the present provisions of the Constitution regarding jurisdiction over students' behavior and to recommend any needed revision of the Constitution for clarification. I am sure that the students, the administration, and the faculty hope to see these questions clarified so that similar misunderstandings and undesirable feelings amongst our family shall never arise again.

I am sure that all members of the Colorado College family recognize my attitude and hope concerning student government at CC. Just for the record, I believe that students should be encouraged to assume responsibility in the management of their affairs as rapidly as their willingness and ability are demonstrated.

William H. Gill
President, Colorado College

The Male Animal To be Given by CC Players Next Week

As their next opus, the CC Players will present James Thurber and Elliot Nugent's refreshing college comedy "The Male Animal" in Perkin's Hall on March 14, 15 and 16, under the direction of Woodson Tyree.

The plot revolves around the double delima of a retiring young university professor, who finds himself accused of Communist tendencies when he decides to read a Vanzetti letter to his English class, and is expounded by a rash but admiring student in the university magazine.

The appearance of one of his wife's old admirers for homecoming only presents another "thorn in the side" for the harassed prof and adds to the hilarity of the situation. How our academic introvert emerges from his scholarly shell to solve these weighty problems and assert his male superiority is the theme of the play.

Don Cooper will star in the Players' production as the distrought educator, and Rosemary Musgrave will be seen as his confused but patient wife Ellen. Lynn Jones will portray Ellen's popular younger sister; Dave Berg the overbearing university trustee; Pat Gormley, the returned ex-beau; and Jerry Bayless the rash young university journalist. Others in the cast are: Shirley Pierson, Jerry Ketchum, Bill Williams, Jean Roberts and Kris Sinding.

—Cut Courtesy Gazette-Telegraph

Purchase Card System To Go into Effect at CC in September 1950

Michael Hawkins, chairman of the PCS committee of the NSA, has announced that the Purchase Card system for Colorado College will go into effect September 1950. The purchase card, sold by a member NSA college to any of its students for one dollar, will entitle that student to sales discounts at cooperating enterprises in his own community or in any other community throughout the United States in which the plan has been put into effect.

The purchase card is designed to enlist the cooperation of each community in helping to lower the students' cost of living burden. In a sense it offers an opportunity for the community to help itself by broadening educational opportunity for the many who will later make material contributions to the nation's progress. It was found that students who took advantage of the plan substantially reduced their living expenses while at college and that local businesses cooperating in the system found substantial increases in their sales which more than offset the discounts offered.

The PCS cards will be used for discounts with commercial enterprises dealing directly with student necessities such as food, clothing, college supplies, launddry, and travel. Contracts will not be approved for luxury goods or goods not directly affecting regular student living and educational expenses.

Sociology Meeting, First for Discussing Majors, Huge Success

The first of several meetings designed to acquaint students with the opportunities and requirements for their majors was held in Bemis on March 1 with 63 students attending. Members of the faculty were invited to dinner at Bemis after which they took part in the general discussion which began at 7:30. The informal discussion with a social atmosphere gave the students an opportunity of learning how sociology enters into the variouis fields which they might choose. Short talks were given by faculty members and sociology majors.

One of these talks discussed the requirements for the sociology major, of graduate work and available jobs. Another took up the topic of the importance of a sociology major in a liberal education and the aid to understanding people even if the major is not used for a career. The importance of sociology in English and dramatics, and how it helps in understanding writers was discussed. The last speaker stated the future of a sociology career as an interviewer —as public relations director or in many other fields.

The group asked questions after each speaker had given a new view of social work and study. A chairman conducted the meeting to give each person a chance for questions. Interviewed faculty members and students expressed pleasure and interest after this first meeting.

SENIOR CLASS TEA TODAY

The Senior Class is being honored today by President and Mrs. Gill at a tea to be held in Bemis Hall from 4:30 to 6:00 o'clock. All Seniors, and wives or husbands of those who are married, are cordially urged to attend this last official affair of their college careers before Commencement.

La Salle Quartet Presents Works In Chapel Service

Judging by the spontaneous and enthusiastic applause accorded to to the La Salle String Quartet when they played this last Tuesday morning in chapel, there should be considerable student interest in their next appearances. This Sunday afternoon they will take part in a concert presented by the Colorado College Music Department in Perkins Hall at 4:30.

The quartet will present their first performance of the Hayden Quartet in C major, Op. 74, No. 1 on this Sunday concert. This popular and melodious work will mark their last appearance on one of the Perkins Hall Music Department Concerts for this season. However, they will play a full length concert in the Fine Arts Center Theater on March 22 before leaving for a concert tour on the Eastern seaboard.

Eugene Casselman, who is an associate professor in the Music Department of Colorado College, will sing two groups of songs on the program. He will be accompanied by Frances Pond.

Also on the same program, Mrs. Jessie Newgeon Hawkes, pianist, will play Bach's Italian Concerto and a group of Scarlatti Sonatas.

Public and students are invited to attend the concert as guests of Colorado College.

Deans Adams and Mathias Leave an Talent-Hunt Trip

Two of Colorado College's top administrative officials have left for the East Coast on "talent-scouting" and "student-recruiting" trips it was announced Saturday by President William H. Gill.

Dr. George W. Adams, dean of the college, and H. E. Mathias, director of admission, left Saturday on extensive tours that will include New York City, Boston, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Chicago and California. Both men will be feted by alumni groups throughout their journeys.

Dean Adams, who is in charge of faculty placement at CC and dean of the upper school, will conduct interviews in New York and Boston, stop briefly in Chicago and return to Colorado Springs March 18. He will leave here by plane March 28 for California, interviewing applicants in Southern California and returning March 31.

New York alumni have scheduled a supper party for Dean Adams on March 9, while the Boston chapter will honor the first-year CC dean at dinner March 13.

Dean Mathias will spend March 8 through March 18 visiting public and private schools in New York and appearing before student groups there. March 19-23 will be spent in New Jersey and Philadelphia schools. He has appearances slated at such schools as Nichols, Park, Buffalo Seminary, Scarsdale, Bronxville and Horace Mann in New York, and at Summit, Montclair Academy and Collingswood in New Jersey.

Officers of the CC New York alumni chapter will entertain Mathias at a luncheon on March 18. He will return March 25.

English Third In Series of Student Talks

The third in a series of round table discussions held to aid students in selecting their major fields which are open to all graduates in their partieular major will take place on Wednesday evening, March 15, at 7:15 in Bemis Hall.

The past two weeks have proven to be of great help to students in discussing sociology and history. These talks will continue to be under the direction of the students with the faculty sitting in only to offer suggestions whenever it is needed.

The English Department has selected Gale George to act as chairman for their commitie, and she will be aided by: Mary Daehler, Tom Williams, Carol Nichols, Bob Fisher, Mary Virginia Nichol, Linzee Packard, John Fitzgerald, Jane Stevenson, Bob Humphreys, Brenda Brandt, Dave Berg, Connie Cannon and Rosemary Musgrave.

Faculty advisors will be Professors Krutzke and Errieson, who will also be invited to dinner at Bemis.

The importance of these discussions cannot be too greatly emphasized, and Miss Sally Morgan deserves a great deal of credit in arranging these meetings. All students interested in making college useful to them now and helping them in their future life cannot miss any of these talks. Remember everyone is cordially invited to attend.

WEE TIGER'S PAWS

By Bob Humphreys

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Columnist Humphreys also writes a CC column, "Tiger Talk," which appears weekly in the Sunday morning issue of the Free Press.

We were privileged in being permitted to sit in on the joint meeting of the Committee on Undergraduate Life and the Student Council last Thursday evening. This distinguished assembly met in President Gill's office at the invitation of the U. L. C.—an invitation prompted by the Student Council's demand for an apology (possibly due also to a subversive meeting in a drafty, gothic attic at which we counted the beads of 36 student leaders and during which every course of action from torchlight parades to nothing was suggested) which was, in turn, prompted by the U. L. C.'s usurption of Council power during the course of the recent Broadmoor incident

The session concluded, much to our surprise, in a general spirit of cooperation and was tempered throughout with a good attitude from both groups. About midway in our notes, we find a definite break from the original purpose—in fact, this change began when Chuck Stoddard suggested that all disciplinary powers be granted to the Student Council, subject to U. L. C. ratification—and the final action of the conference was the appointing of two committees to revise the ASCC constitution. The first committee is empowered to "study various methods by which student government may come into more autority and operate more effectively." Committee number two has the power to completely revise the constitution, with a special eye to striking out all ambiguous wording and coordinating the other committee's action. Both committees are half student, half U. L. C. and will make their recomendations to the Council and the U. L. C. We have hopes that this will result in a powerful student government and a happier student body.

Letter to the Editor

Gentlemen (?) and Scholars:

There's nothing like real honest-to-gosh school spirit. If you don't believe it just ask a couple of our eager young professors.

After entertaining the crowd last week at the hockey game with their witty repetoire of two or three remarks until most of the students around them were ready to push their faces in, they were heard explaining school spirit to some of us between periods. Yes sir, just heckle the other team (especially the goalie) at the top of your voice no matter whether he's being beaten by five points or not. Really put on a show for the audience—they come to watch you, not the game.

We were amazed to learn that the the two dignified gentlemen were professors. What respect they must inspire in their students! May we suggest these enthusiasts sit on the other side of the ice-palace next week lest someone mistake them for CC students.

—Judith Petit.

Leading the field of objections to student control of student discipline, was the feeling among certain faculty members that the students are not mature enough to accept the responsibilities involved. We feel that the Council is capable; we have seen the system work perfectly on another campus; we know it can be done.

Before we can gain the faith of all, however, certain aspects of student conduct must be improved. For instance, the Chapel Board is striving to make attendance bearable; yet the noisy conversations of a few immature students in chapel were a very serious distraction from the concert to many of us last Tuesday. History exams are important, but a group like the LaSalle quartet is such a rare asset to our campus that tests should not overshadow it. The use of Shove as a study hall is a definite sign of our inability to accept what is given to us.

Another thing for every student's consideration is the fact that we will not be given further responsibility until it is proven that we can correctly accept the greatest one we now have—the honor system. Every violation of the honor code is another direct indication of our immaturity, and by misusing it we show that the student body is unfit to control itself.

By WALT SWEET

Last week there appeared on the editorial page of this paper another one of the ill-advised generalizations that makes thinking people nauseated! I refer, of course, to the article on Fraternity Heli-Week. There have been a number of such gems of journalism printed in papers and news magazines during the past year or so, all of which suffer from the same thing—over-generalization. To be able to write such stuff about a system in general, and to be able to skip so lightly over the really constructive work accomplished by the Fraternities during this period evidences little but thoughtlessness on the part the writer responsible. The Greeks themselves realize that all was not sweetness and light during Hell-week (so called), and will probably take action to see to it that the organizations responsible for the miscarriages reported are reminded of their obligations to the system in general.

The author of the disputed editorial states quite blandly that pledges are FORCED to neglect their studies. The Fraternity with which I am affiliated can quite honestly take said journalist to task for that unwarranted remark. Certain study hours for pledges were enforced during that week, and pledges were required to attend every class. Such, I am sure, is the case in all of the other organizations! If not, the offenders are forgetful of the primary usefulness of their organization to the College.

The poor uninformed guy that penned the column under fire further states that "The attentions of Fraternity men during hell week are devoted ENTIRELY to making life miserable for the pledges . . . ". The objects of sensible Fraternity men during this period are quite diametrically opposite to this! This is a testing period . . . in more ways than one. It promotes the unity so essential to the effectiveness of Fraternity life. It provides the background upon which the solemnity of the rituals of initiation can be most effectively superimposed as a thrilling climax. It provides, through constructive work in the various chapter houses, an idea of the magnitude and responsibilities in-

Spring has finally arrived, or so it seemed Saturday and Sunday. With the arrival of spring come many things here at Tejon Tech, not the least of which is the red, peeling faces of the skiers on Monday morning. Who says skiing isn't dangerous. Just ask Peggy Baker who had to wear sun glasses for several days after her trip into the mountains. It's getting so the C. C. campus looks like a movie studio on Monday morning with everyone hiding behind dark glasses.

Spring weather has a variety of effects on people. Take for instance the Slocum House crowd that engaged in a wild game of hide-and-go-seek on Saturday afternoon. Gale George and Hatsy Turner were safely hidden in the trash cart till an inopportune move caused the cart to turn over exposing their hiding place to Rosie Fuller, the "it" in the game.

Duck Nichol and Pat Sullivan seemed to find Saturday afternoon particularly enjoyable as they cantered across campus on horseback. Not only did the noble steed jump irrigation ditches with amazing agility but chased little children into their yards as they trotted along. Even in this mechanical age small children don't seem to be safe.

John White, according to the notice posted on campus, has an amazing record collection for sale. Some of the notables include: Swing and Flex with Oedipus Rex, Symphonie Pathetique, a prohibition saga by J. S. Belch and Oh You Kid, a collection of immortals including: Flapper Fantasy, a charming rondo entitled "Eight to the Bar Rail done in the incomparable style of Hot Shoes Hattie and many other such musical selections. It is nice to know that one

CC Players Do it Again

This play should have special appeal for anyone who is or ever have been connected with college life. It deals with the struggles of a retiring but harassed young university professor who is faced with a double delima. He is inno-

Post Presents Congressional Almanac to CC

That the Denver Post has presented to Colorado College, along with six other organizations in the state, a complete set of five volumes, dating from 1945-49, of the Congressional Quarterly Almanac and a two-year subscription to the regular Congressional Quarterly Current Reference Service, was announced today by President William H. Gill and Palmer Hoyt of the Post.

After a study of the library sources in Colorado Springs, it was decided that Coburn Library would be one of the logical recipients, since most questions of technical governmental and political science study are referred to Coburn Library by the Colorado Springs Public Library.

In advising President Gill of the choice of CC as one of the schools to whom the collection would be sent, Hoyt said, "It is my sincere hope that this material will be wisely used and that it will contribute toward the growing public acceptance of the responsibilities of American citizenship. Surely now, as at no time in our country's history has there been a more urgent call for the widest understanding and exercise of those responsibilities."

Accepting the gift for CC and Colorado Springs, President Gill answered Hoyt by saying, "I am sure that our political science people, both faculty and students and townspeople, will derive great benefit from this unusual refrence material. Indeed I anticipate that the Congressional Quarterly will be used with profit by a great majority of college and local people." President Gill also indicated a desire for the news services of the entire community and the townspeople of Colorado Springs to take advantage of the reference material at any time.

Beta-Phi Delt-Sigma Chi Celebrate Triad Founding Saturday Nite

The number three conjures up many associations—Neptune's tripod, an isosceles triangle, the three blind mice, even good luck (or is it bad?) is supposed to come in threes. But this weekend a different trio is celebrated on the CC campus, when the Miami Triad, representing three of the oldest college fraternities, will hold its annual dance.

Each of the Greek letter groups, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi, has chosen a queen to represent its chapter. Reigning for the Betas is Alice Matzen (nee Norten), wife of Beta Dick of the same name. Alice is a senior hailing from Princeton, N. J.; she is a member of the Tiger club and has done a great deal of work with the dance department.

Representing the blue and white of the Phi Delts is Mary Lou Kekeisen, who sports a diamond from Bill Shepherd. Mary Lou is a Delta Gamma from Decatur, Illinois. She is a sophomore class commissioner and a member of the chapel board.

Wearing the blue and gold crown of Sigma Chi is the ex-Miss Wright, feminine half of the Dave Schultz duo. Annie calls Bartlett, Illinois, home; she is rush chairman for Kappa Kappa Gamma and society editor of the TIGER.

The dance is formal and will be held at the Acacia ballroom Saturday night from 9 'til 12. Bill Geisler's band will furnish the music.

Top Four Teams To Battle for National Title March 16, 17, 18 At Broadmoor Rink

The field for the third annual NCAA hockey tournament, to be held at the Broadmoor Ice Palace next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was completed early this week with the announcement that the University of Michigan and Colorado College will represent the Western district. Already named from the East were Boston College, defending NCAA champions, and Boston University. The three visiting teams will arrive in Colorado Springs by plane early next week in order to get in some practice before the tournament gets under way on Thursday night. The pairings have not been announced yet but it is presumed that one of the western schools will oppose one of the eastern schools the first night with the two remaining teams clashing the next night. The two losers will meet Saturday afternoon for the consolation prize with the championship being decided on Saturday evening.

Latest reports indicate a sell-out crowd for all three nights although there are still some tickets left for Saturday afternoon.

The Boston College "Eagles" will arrive here with a 16 won and 3 lost record, one of these losses coming at the hands of Boston University. The Wolverof the University of Michigan hold the most impressive record of all the tournament teams. They have won 16 games and have only been beaten once, this defeat coming at the hands of a strong Michigan Tech team. Michigan defeated CC twice during the course of the regular season, 6-1 and 11-1. Boston University comes to town with 16 and 2 record, one of these losses coming at the hands of BC. CC enters the tournament with the least impressive record of competing teams. Coach Thompson's Tigers having won 16, lost five and tied 1. Even with this record our Bengals loom as the darkhorse of the tournament and may fair a lot better than some sports casters predict.

I-M Basketball Race Concludes Tonight

The Phi Delts and Phi Gams ring down the curtain tonight on the Intramural basketball scene as they meet at 9:00 at Cossitt Gym. This has been the closest race in years and as this edition goes to press it is possible that there may be a four-way tie for first place at the conclusion of the regular season.

It is hoped that the Intramural All-school tournament can be played next week but because of the closeness of the race it is not definite.

With the able assistance of over thirty collegiate hockey coaches throughout the country, the "Tiger Sports Department" will sponsor another "College Coaches All-American" hockey team for the 1950 season.

Ptarmigan Inter-Club Ski Meet, March 19

Trophies—Ribbons—Awards galore! Get your skis, poles, a little klister, and pull your fastcap securely on your head then come on out and take some of these prizes. LORIG'S SKI CORRAL is sponsoring Men's and Women's divisions of beginning and advanced slalom races for Ptarmigan members at Elk Park on Sunday, March 19.

Members of the CC Ski Team will set the courses and supervise the racing in general.

Don't shrink away from the word "race." The courses will hardly tax the entrant's ability at all. We're after a good time and a little competitive spirit. Watch the bulletin board in Palmer and the next issue of the TIGER for complete information, then turn out for a gay time. Remember, March 19. Mark it on your calendar.

CC Tigers Defeat University of Minnesota Twice 9-2, 6-1 to Receive Tournament Bid

Colorado College's vaunted hockey team put the double wammy on the Golden Gophers of Minnesota over the week-end and came out with two decisive victories, 9-2 the first night and 6-1 the second, to clinch the final spot in the forthcoming NCAA playoffs.

Friday night the two teams battled for six minutes before Troumbley, Minnesota defenseman, took a pass from Rube Bjorkman and rammed the puck by OC net-tender Roy Ikola. The Bengals retaliated three minutes later as Chris Ray took a pass from Lenny Maccini and lifted the disc by Copher goalie Bob Moran. Minnesota came back with the final score of the period as Bjorkman shot one by Ikola unassisted. The Tigers exploded in the second period as Chris Ray tied it up at 2:14 and then went ahead as five more goals were scored in the next thirteen minutes. Hartwell got one unassisted, Lawrence got one on an assist from Frasca, Frasca scored on a pass from Berry and Starrak shot one by Moran with the assist going to Whitworth. Captain Mike Yalich brought the crowd to its feet a few minutes later as he lifted a shot that went almost two thirds of the rink and skidded past Moran without his even seeing it. It is reported to be the longest collegiate goal on record, the puck having travelled a distance of almost 130 feet. Ikola received credit for an assist on this goal to provide an added twist. Maccini on a pass from Whitworth and Starrak on passes from Yalich and Ray concluded the scoring for CC and for the game. The game was fairly rough but only ten minor penalties were handed out. Outstanding for the Tigers was Roy Ikola as he turned aside numerous difficult shots and Tony Frasca as his play-making and stick handling sparked an otherwise not-to-strong second line. For Ikola it was his first game of the season before the local fans.

Saturday night the Bengals waited only for the face-off before going to work on Moran. Chris Ray got the opening goal at 2:03 followed by Lawrence at 3:35 and Whitworth at 5:39. Bodin broke into the scoring column for Minnesota at the 7:56 mark and this ended the scoring for the period although there were numerous scrambles around both cages. The Tigers came back in the second period to rack up two more goals, botb by Ron Hartwell. Whitworth got the final one for CC in the last stanza. Hartwell just missed a hat trick, a pass from Whitworth hopping over his stick while he was in the clear and set to blast one by Moran. The whole CC team was outstanding in this final regularly scheduled game of the season and it would be impossible to point out one player who played any better than the next.

It was announced before the third period of Saturday night's game that Jim Starrak, star defenseman, had been awarded the KRDO Most Valuable Player trophy for 1949-50 season. The selection was made after the fans had been given ballots to fill out and these ballots had been turned back in and tabulated.

Previous winners of this award were Don Bates, Joe Slattery and Dick Rowell

TWO STARS OF THE BOOM-BOOM LINE—These two veterans, Chris Ray, wing and Harry Whitworth, center, will be depended upon to carry a major share of the scoring next week as CC enters the NCAA tournament.

CC Darkhorse for NCAA Hockey Playoffs —

The four top collegiate sextets in the nation will face off at the Broadmoor Ice Palace on March 16, 17 and 18 to determine the 1950 National Collegiate hockey championship. On the bases of their seasonal record the University of Michigan and Boston University are rated slight favorites over Boston College the defending NCAA champs, and Colorado College who will be seeking a national title for the third consecutive year. Michigan and BU will send two well balanced teams on the ice while BC and CC have been plagued with injuries and ineligibilities the entire season. CC maybe tabbed as a darkhorse, but don't sell the Tigers short after the fine showing they displayed in annexing double victories over Minnesota last weekend.

Bengal Diamondeers to Open April 4—

With their first game less than three weeks away, the CC Tiger diamond nine commenced spring practice this week in Cossitt Cym as over 40 candidates turned out for the opening drills. Coach Jerry Carle will probably field one of the top hitting clubs in the conference but the Tigers are sadly in need of pitchers. Carle faces a 20 game schedule without one experienced hurler and from all expectations every member of the squad will take his turn on the mound sometime during the season.

Blagg Decisioned in RMC Matches—

CC's one man wrestling team in the person of Clenn Blagg returned home from the conference meet last week without a win. Blagg tangled with Bill Priest of Colorado State and lost a close decision to the Greeley heavyweight at Colden. This was Blagg's lone match of the season and his first defeat in Rocky Mountain competition.

Cagers to Enter National AAU Tourney—

The CC basketeers received a bid this week to enter the National AAU Tournament which is being held in Denver. The tourney commences March 19 and teams from all over the nation will be on hand to seek a national title. CC's opponent has not been named yet. Coach Carle's quintet will play Regis College in an exhibition tilt at Denver Friday evening.

Former CC Coach at Iowa U.—

Ben Douglas former grid coach at Colorado College in 1947 has been appointed assistant football coach at the University of Iowa. Douglas had one year at CC enjoying a fair season. This year he was head coach at Missouri School of Mines. He also tutored at Grinnell College his old Alma Mater.

cently accused of being "pink," and faces the possibility of dismissal from the university, because of an article written about him by an admiring but indiscreet student for the university magazine. On top of this disastrous happening, one of his wife's old admirers shows up for homecoming introducing more worries for our well-meaning, misunderstood educator. How he asserts his "male instincts" and solves his problems is the theme of this entertaining comedy.

As usual, director Woodson Tyree has done an excellent job of selecting an able and talented cast, and if rehersals are any indication, he is sure to come up with another of his sterling productions. "The Male Animal" is sure to be a treat you shouldn't miss, so be sure to see it.

Your attendance at these plays, which are given for your entertainment assures their continuance, so if you enjoyed former Players' productions, and would like to see more college dramas presented on a very high level, attend "The Male Animal," and show your support of this work. As usual, activity books will be honored at the door.

cident to membership in the organization.

Probably the biggest objection that I have to articles such as this one, the ones printed in Colliers Magazine a bit over a year ago, and one or two others that I have read in the newspapers here and there is the fact that the writers are quite prone to criticize the entire Fraternity system for the faults of a few of its members. It seems to me that such criticism would be much more effective if directed at the individual organizations and not just generally at the whole association of Greek-letter societies. One organization that I know of sent a man to the Infirmary . . . the one with which I am connected did not! We resent, and have a right to resent such blanket accusations. Other Fraternities kept their activities within the realm of cleanliness and constructive activity, and I am being put-out with the remarks of the journalist responsible for lambasting us with such general remarks. It would be fitting, O sage of decency, to be sure that your criticisms apply to all in the future, instead of applying the same label to everyone that is connected with the system.

Eagles to Defend NCAA Title Won Last Year

The Boston College Eagles will be taking their first step tonight in defense of the national title they won a year ago here in Colorado Springs when they face the Colorado College Tigers in the first game of the tourney.

Coach John "Snooks" Kelly and his Eagle sextet will enter tonight's game with a record of 14 victories and three defeats. Included among these fourteen wins are ones over Bowdoin and Boston University, another tournament team, that gave B.C. its seventh New England championship in ten years. The game with B.U. was the rubber match between these two schools, each having won one during regular season play. The other two losses came at the hands of Harvard, whom they had beaten earlier, and a strong Montreal team.

Leading the scoring parade for the Eagles was Warren Lewis, center of the first line, who tallied 23 goals and 18 assists for 41 points. Behind him came Lou Ceglarski with 15 goals and 22 assists for 37 points. Lewis is a senior and Ceglarski a junior.

When the Eagles take to the ice tonight they will probably line up with Warren Lewis at cente with George Sullivan and Giles Thread-

Tigers Seek Revenge Win Over Boston College; 1949 National NCAA Champions

Colorado College will be seeking their first NCAA tournament victory and their first win over Boston College when they face the high flying Eagles in the opening game of the national playoffs tonight at 8:15 p. m. at the Broadmoor Ice Palace, Coach Cheddy Thompson's eager Tigers put the finishing touches on their highly geared attack yesterday afternoon in preparation for their all-important tilt against BC.

Facing their toughest schedule in years CC completed their regular season with 16 wins, 5 losses and one tie. The Bengals played such top-noteh teams as Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and British Columbia. The Tigers played only four games on the road, not counting two games with Denver University, and came out with a split against Minnesota and two defeats at the hands of Michigan. The other two defeats came at the hands of a great University of British Columbia team, a team that stopped CC's ten-game winning streak.

This evening when Colorado College faces-off against Boston Col-

Attention Coeds! Public Relations Can Be Fun

By Nancy Jones

Here's a chance for C.C. coeds to help promote public relations between their college and at least three others. And this is what we call a very pleasant form of public relations. This little experiment in furthering good will between colleges entails an afternoon of dancing at the Broadmoor with a group of handsome hockey players from Boston University, Boston College and Michigan University, not to mention C.C.'s own hockey he-men.

All C.C. coeds are invited, to the get-together which will be held on Friday afternoon, March 17. Transportation will be provided for all who wish to attend, just be at Ticknor Hall at 2:15 and you'll be home by 5:00.

This party is sponsored by C.C. and all women students are urged to attend as it is an indication of our hospitality toward the visiting teams who are representing both eastern and midwestern colleges in the play-offs.

The queen of the tourney and her attendants will also be honored at the dance and music will be provided by Floyd Frame's orchestra.

It's sure to be an enjoyable afternoon which you won't want to miss so let's support this project and promote those public relations. Sounds like a lot of fun, so be there!

NOTICE - SENIORS

Any senior wishing the "invitation" type of notice, rather than the announcement form, for which the majority of the class voted, should contact Miss Berger's office in Cutler Hall immediately.

By MARY RUBLE

What an athletic bunch of females there are on the CC campus! While voting for officers in the W. A. A. election, the constituents were asked to indicate on the list of preferences. Track received one vote, fencing found two acclaimants, soccer polled one with lacrosse receiving one vote. Then there was All American Carol Grismer who expressed this year she might try entering in the men's intramurals in these two events. One person suggested that necking be included as intramural participation. It might prove difficult to determine the winner in this popular pastime. Another problem: should this be an individual or team sport?

Note to the unsaved: The faith revival is in town and promises to heal and save all in one evening. Perhaps we might get them to speak in chapel. Surely they should find numerous participants for their project.

The class of '50 is working hard to find the proper gift to present to C. C. upon their departure. Various suggestions show that people are thinking over this project seriously. A life size statue of General Gill on horseback that glows in the dark would be nice as would boats to carry one to class during the spring rains. Also worthy of consideration is the plan to get an orange crate inscribed with "the class of '50. This could be placed under the midget size drinking fountain. Another suggestion is that we buy umbrellas so Cossitt could be operated as an outdoor cafe. Then, come the irrigation season, the tables could be mounted on rafts to give a floating garden affect. With all these suggestions the gift should be outstanding.

Turning to things of a romantic nature, the pins continued to fall. Jean Wallace is sporting a Sigma Chi pin from Jerry Grabam while Barbara Harvey is wearing Dick Hahn's Phi Gam pin. Polly Robison is in the newly class with an engagement ring from Harold Lowry.

C. C. coeds engage in the wireest projects! Gay and Gloria Gonld, Judy Dunbar, Deede von Zitzewitz,

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

Just a few more ragtags and bobtails this week . . .

The question of the season, as far as this column is concerned, anyway, is "What happens to the Growlers and the Tiger club after the football season is over?" Even though I room with the president of the Growlers I haven't been able to get a very red-hot answer to this question. There's certainly room for lots of directed student activity in other seasons of the year, but it always seems that these outfits fold up and blow away when they get through playing hobs with the freshman class long towards the end of November. Where do they blow?

Nasty comments always start to float around about this time of year concerning the guiding lights of the English department and their particular ten-headed infant . . . freshman English. While most of these comments are probably due to the unfortunate assignments of term papers for Monday mornings and little else, some of them probably do warrant looking into just a little bit further than that. F'r instance, there's one ex-high school schoolmarm who is, by her own admission, an authority on the English lagnuage and who grades themes on the basis of how many words one has in his sentences. Seems to me that a course in freshman English should dabble with the mechanics of grammar and spelling and leave the development of embryo Steinbecks to more advanced courses in composition. The fundamentals could sure use a lot more attention . . . at least judging from some of the stuff I've read lately from freshman pens. O.K., I'll get off your back.

To the Hamlin Hall Council . . . you have me scared stiff and begging for forgiveness!

If the new attachment on the front door at Palmer Hall is supposed to prevent glass-shattering blows resulting from the door banging against the wall, I'm afraid that it's usefulness is questionable. One day the sudden jar caused by the firm and unyielding union of this novel appendage and

Music Workshop Gives Reception for Visiting Concert Artists Friday

The Colorado College Music Workshop held a reception Friday afternoon, March 10, at Lennox House, for Pierre Bernac, famous French Baritone, and his accompanist, Francis Poulenc, internationally known French composer and pianist, who gave a concert here the previous evening. This affair is generally agreed to have been the most successful ever held by the Music Workshop, and it was attended by a group of more than fifty students and faculty members.

Mr. Bernac sang five songs from his concert of Thursday night, and Mr. Poulnec played his "perpetual motion" pieces for the piano.

La Salle Quartet Present Program, Leave On Tour

After making their final appearance in Colorado Springs this season at the Fine Arts Center Theater next week, Colorado College's La Salle Quartet will leave for the east coast on a concert tour. The quartet will thus round out a season's schedule which has included sixteen appearances in the Colorado Springs area alone. Many of these were for local service clubs, high schools, and hospitals.

The east coast tour, which will last until mid-April, will start in Morristown, New Jersey, on April 5. From there the group will go to the nation's capitol where they will give a recital at the Phillips Memorial Gallery on Easter Sunday. A concert follows the next evening in Long Branch, New Jersey, after which they will perform at Mount Union College, Ohio.

The quartet then travels eastward again and performs for the Unity Institute at Montclair, New Jersey, and at a benefit sponsored by North Jersey chapters of the United World Federalists. The group will also perform at the Gardner Museum in Boston, and the tour closes in Norfolk, Virginia, with an appearance on the radio and a public concert.

In towns in which public concerts are given the quartet will also perform on high school assembly programs whereever possible. This is an unusual aspect af a concert tour and is offered to high schools in the name of Colorado College. Recent success was had when the quartet performed in East Denver High School, and they will repeat the program at Colorado Springs High School tomorrow morning.

For their last formal concert here this season, the La Salle Quartet will play a quartet by Joseph Hayden in C major, the 3rd quartet of the late Bela Bartok and one of Beethoven's latest quartets, in E flat major, Opus 127. This concert takes place next Wednesday evening, March 22 in the Fine Arts Center Theater.

Woodwind Quintet To Give Concert Sun.

The Colorado College Music Department will present the Colorado Springs Symphonic Woodwind Quintet in its regular Sunday afternoon concert on March 19 at 4:30 in Perkins Hall Auditorium.

Members of this quintet are all members of the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra. Stanley Finn, clarinet, has a Master's degree in music from Colorado College. He is probably the best known as a composer. Harvey Boatright, flute, is first flute in the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra. He is a freshman music major at Colorado College. Kathering E. Emig, oboe, is from New York City, and Everett Sherman, basson attended the American Conservatory of Music. Margaret Cornell, French horn, is a graduate student of the Julliard School of Music in New York City.

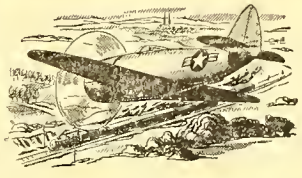
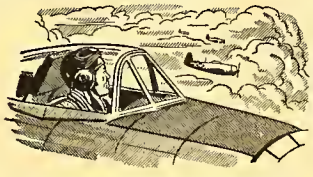
Major Roy Carlson, U. of Iowa, Training Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Red Oak, Iowa, Roy graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School at Council Bluffs. He was ready to enter the University when war changed his mind.

He went to work at Consolidated Vultee in San Diego, building PBY's and B-24's. But it wasn't long until he had put in his application for Aviation Cadet training.



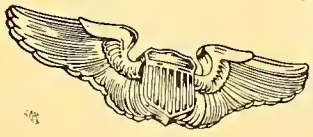
Cadet Carlson won his wings in April, 1943, was assigned to P-47 "Thunderbolts" with the 368th Fighter Group in England, to break ground for the Normandy invasion.



Roy completed 125 combat missions, leading many of them, supporting the invasion and the advances on into Germany. Won Air Medal, D.F.C., many other decorations. Promoted to Captain, then to Major.

Back home, he married the lovely Army nurse from Lowell, Massachusetts, whom he had met at Cannes, France. After the honeymoon, he returned to finish his studies at the University of Iowa.

Major Carlson is now Chief of Operations, 2471st Air Force Reserve Training Center, at O'Hare International Airport, near Chicago. Has two husky sons, a fine job, a great career still ahead of him!



If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Att: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Barbara Harvey Is Chosen 1950 NCAA Queen

Queen Selected by Four Teams in NCAA Playoff

Miss Barbara Harvey, Theta freshman from Chicago, Ill., was chosen by the hockey teams from Boston University, Boston College, Michigan University and Colorado College to reign as queen of the NCAA playoffs this weekend. Ballots with pictures were mailed to each team, voted upon and returned to the Public Relations office here at Colorado College where they were compiled and the winner announced.

Barbara will throw out the puck for each game in the NCAA tourney and be honored at the reception for the queen, her court and the four participating hockey teams. The reception will be sponsored by the CC Panhellenic Association. All girls are invited to attend for the price of nothing but a few hours of their time. Busses will leave from Ticknor at 2:15 on Friday afternoon and be back at 5 o'clock. A big afternoon of refreshments, music (by Floyd Frame) and an opportunity to both wish our team well and to meet the opponents.

Let's even further our reputation of goodwill and hospitality by being on hand to welcome the men representing the rest of the colleges in the United States, as well as the new NCAA queen. Her attendants, Ann Hinternoff of Wilmette, Ill.; Sandy Anderson, Garden City, Kans., Trudie Gress Colorado Springs, and Joan Tutin, Cambridge, Mass., will also be on the "honored guest" list.

Songtitle Costumes In Order for Dance

"Temptation," "Ragtime Cowboy Joe," the "Beer Barrel Polka," "Cigarettes, Whiskey and Wild, Wild Women" and the "Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch," all will attend the Kappa Alpha Theta record dance this Saturday night at the lodge. Yes, it's a "come dressed as a songtitle" dance, which may prove interesting as ingenious minds delve into some of the more popular tunes. Dancing will commence at 9:30, refreshments will be served and Mr. and Mrs. Fredrichs, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett, will act as chaperones.

Cow Country Setting For Kappa's 'Korral'

Once again the Kappa lodge will assume an atmosphere of old-time Western horse-pitality as the Kappas put their boots on tall and, and leave their horses at the hitchin' post to present the annual "Kappa Korral." The Bar None, complete with a face on the barroom floor, will provide an abundant supply of free lunch and "beer" to those attending. Dancing to records will take place in the hayloft—a thoroughly disguised living room, that is. Levies, boots and ten-gallon hats will be in order.

G.'s and Thetas tied for third with one win against two losses.

The last W. A. A. intermural event of the year will be softball to be held in April. Watch the TIGER for further announcements as to game schedule.

CC Madrigal Singers Aired Over Station KVOR LAST Sunday

The Colorado College Madrigal Singers were presented by the Colorado Springs Composer's Guild in a program of original "catches" and "rounds" over KVOR last Sunday.

Under the direction of Reuel Lahmer, the Singers performed compositions which music students submitted to the Guild in response to a request for original words for rounds. A round is defined as a "species of canon in unison," and a catch is a round of a humorous nature.

The CC Mardigal singers include: Loren Driscoll, Harold Lynn, Betty Fisher, Elaine Steel, Rosemarie Young, Deborah Dunn, Jane Nyblad, Nancy Greenwood, Jack Fitzgerald and Mark Orton, accompanied by Professor John Fundingsland.

Ptarmigan Ski Meet Postponed; No Snow; Aspen Trip Planned

This morning's report from Elk Park still says "No skiing." The recent snowfall only brought 2 inches to the area, and this has blown off since then.

Last year, Elk Park got a good snow late in April. The same may happen this year. For this reason, and for the fact that practically all the Ptarmigans are interested in holding such an event, the club meet is merely postponed until further notice.

The results of the questionnaire post cards so far indicate that from the 38 replies, 14 intend to ski at Aspen during Spring Vacation. Of this number, 6 definitely want to go up in the bus. Please hurry and get your post cards in the mail so the club may know if it can take a bus. If any non-members want to ride up, please call Dave Shultz at 8057-NW between 6:00 and 7:00 p. m. any day. If there aren't at least 20 passengers, it will be impossible to take the bus. The round trip bus ticket will be about $5 and the bus will probably stay in Aspen for a week.

A notice will be posted on the bulletin board in Palmer at 1:00 p. m. next Monday, stating definitely whether a bus will or will not be taken to Aspen. So, if you want to go, call 8057-NW before Monday.

Following this, a meeting was held and new officers installed.

C.C. WIVES

The March 22 meeting of the C.C. Wives club has been called off and the next meeting will be held April 15, at the Detention Home, 17 North Weber St. Please meet at Lennox House at 7:30 for transportation.

Guidance Meet Held By History Students

The second in a series of course information and guidance programs, which featured the history department, was held in Bemis Wednesday, March 8, with about 50 students attending. Evelyn Guenther presided over the meeting which included several talks and a question period.

The question period gave interested students a chance to ask about things not fully explained in the talks. After each speaker had given a short talk, the meeting was open for discussion and questions. Student and faculty speakers gave several views of the importance of a history major in school and in jobs.

The job opportunities are still many for the history major. Teaching history in grade schools, high schools and colleges is still a profession that has not been entirely filled. The outlook for jobs in Civil Service and government jobs is still good for the history major. In most government jobs at present a bachelor of science degree is required. Other highly educated positions require a Doctor's degree. Most of the opportunities are now found in government work because of the better advancement possibilities.

The third in the series of talks, that covering the English department, was held last night in Bemis.

State Dept. Exams For Foreign Work Open for Seniors

The political science department calls to the attention of graduating seniors that the Department of State will hold a competitive written examination for appointment as foreign service, on Sept. 5-8, 1950.

This examination is open to men and women between the ages of 21 and 31 as of July 1, 1950. Applicants must have been American citizens for at least ten years, and if married, to an American citizen. Candidates who pass the written examination will be given oral and physical examinations in the early part of 1951. Appointments to the foreign service officer are made at a salary ranging from $3650 to $4730 per year, according to experience and qualification.

The written examination is designed to test the candidate's intelligence and to determine the degree and quality of his education. There is a general examination consisting of five parts. Three parts of it are devoted to the ability to use and understand the English language. These parts test reading ability, vocabulary, and expression. Another part tests the applicant's ability to comprehend and interpret statistical material, numerical relationships, and simple mathmatical deductions The last part tests range and accuracy of factual information.

The general examination is followed by a Special Examination which consists of three parts. Part one is an examination on world history since 1776 and government. This part is so constructed that a candidate may select questions dealing with American history and government only. Part two is an examination on principles of economics. Part three is the modern language examination on ability to read with comprehension either French, German, Portugese, Russian, or Spanish. A candidate may elect to take examinations in two languages if he wishes.

Application for the examination must be made on State Department forms and be filed no later than June 30, 1950. Additional information, samples of questions, and sample application blanks may be examined in West Hall, Room 2.

Despite the smattering of snow in the last few days, it won't be long until we'll all be packing our winter clothes away and starting the hunt for spring sportswear.

Along with "greenup time" comes the urge to get into something light and comfortable. The job of keeping up with old "Mom Nature" and her blaze of fresh color is a challenge we all enjoy.

It is our job to keep you posted on the new ideas for spring and the best way to do this is to extend an invitation to come in soon and look around. There are many new things being developed to make life more comfortable. Come in soon and let us help you choose those that will be best for you.

What is it? There it goes? Is it a man? No! It's a CC coed in a pair of blue jeans.

Fellas, what is it with these women? All you see on this campus is form less blue legs prancing down the walks. I mean prancing too. Give them a pair of levis and they forget their femininity, and just throw it into the winds.

What we have hatched, it seems, is a bunch of amazons. Now they wear our pants, our shirts, and sometimes our shoes and socks. No telling what's next. Look what happened to Wellesley.

Men of CC revolt! Let's get rid of this curse! The West is the land where men are men and we'd like to see some women who are women.

Michigan Faces B.U.; Seek to Regain Title Won in 1948

When the University of Michigan takes to the ice tomorrow night they will be after the national title they won two years ago. Last year Boston College copped the crown and they will also be back to give the Wolverines a battle for the coveted title.

Sporting a record of 22 wins and only four losses, Michigan arrived in town yesterday fully confident that they will be the winners when the firing dies down on Saturday night. Included in those 22 wins are two over our Tigers. The Wolves took two decisions in Ann Arbor, 5-1 and 11-1. Other teams that have fallen before Vic Heylinger's crew are Minnesota (four times) Michigan Tech (three times), Toronto University, University of Montreal and Brown. Only teams to vanquish this outfit were Michigan Tech, Toronto University, and the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Leading the Michigan attack will be their high-scoring front line of Gil Burford, Neil Celley and Wally Grant. Heylinger also has such capable reserves up front as Al Bassey, Leonard Brumm, John Griffin and Owen McArdle. At the defense positions Bob Fleming and Ross Smith will probably start although Graham Cragg and Eddie May will be available for duty.

MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY "WOLVERINES"

BOSTON UNIVERSITY "TERRIERS"

In their initial appearance in NCAA tournament play and their first trip to the Broadmoor Ice Palace will be the rugged Boston University Terriers. Left to right, Bevins, Bradley, Folino, Cahoon, Darrett, Kelley, Robinson, Haynes, Martin, Czarnota, Jurgelevich, Dupuis, Garrity, Hixon, Bell, Anderson and Barnhill.

Since the graduation of Jack MacDonald at the end of the semester, Heylinger has been using Paul Milanowski in the nets and he has come up with several brilliant performances.

As of February 22, Gil Burford was out in front in the individual scoring race with 30 goals and 28 assists for 58 points. Since the Wolverines have played six more games since then it is very probable that he is over the sixty mark in total points. Behind him comes Celley with 28 goals and 17 assists for 45 points. Bad man for Michigan is Ross Smith as he has acquired fifty minutes in the penalty box.

This year's all-collegiate selections were sponsored by the Colorado College "Tiger" and the United Press.

CC's lone selection on the first team was Jim Starrak, rugged defenseman and a veteran of two years of collegiate hockey at Colorado College. Chris Ray, high scoring wingman was selected on the second all-America team.

A. S. C. C. Letter To Athletic Board

Mr. Howard M. Olson
Chairman, Board of Athletics
Dear Mr. Olson,

The purpose of this letter is to present the recommendation of the Student Council of the A. S. C. C. that basketball jersey No. 22 be retired permanently in honor of Captain Jack Quamme.

This recommendation is made in recognition of Jack's outstanding accomplishments in his four year career at Colorado College. During this time, Jack has lettered in basketball four times, has been the Team Captain two years, and has been selected for the All-Conference team three times. He is also the only man on record at Colorado College to score more than one thousand points for a Tiger team. At the end of last season, Jack was selected the most valuable player in the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Jack Quamme is not only outstanding on the basketball floor but is also an excellent student. He is a fine sportsman and friend of everyone on our campus.

The members of the Student Council feel that the retirement of Jack Quamme's jersey, No. 22, would be only fitting and proper tribute to an accomplished athlete and fine sportsman.

Sincerely,
Jim Kinder.

Track Notice

All students who are eligible and are interested in track are urged to start checking out track equipment any afternoon between 2:00 and 5:00 p. m. All those planning to go out should begin working out immediately. Formal coaching will begin after spring vacation but all candidates should be in condition by that time, according to Coach Cheddy Thompson.

Boston U. Sextet Faces Tough Foe In Second Game

Boston University, ably coached by Harry Cleverly, will be making their Colorado Springs and Broadmoor Ice Palace debut tomorrow night when they face the highly touted Wolverines of the University of Michigan in the second game of the tourney. B.U. goes into this action tomorrow night sporting a 17 won and four lost record.

One of the leaders in the Terrier attack will be spohomore sensation, Jack Garrity. During the current season this Medford boy racked up 49 goals and 29 assists to tie the national collegiate scoring record set last year by Joe and Bill Riley of Dartmouth. His nearest rivals were Dick Kelly and Ed Cahoon with 39 points apiece.

Cleverly will probably start off with Cahoon at center, Jack Kelly and Irv Haynes on the wings. The two defensemen will probably be Walt Anderson and Bill Jurgelevich while captain Ralph Bevins will be guarding the nets. Also due to see plenty of action are Dick Kelly, Garrity, Bill Downing, Ed Czarnota and Joe Folino.

In compiling their impressive won-lost record the Terriers faced such teams as Boston College, Dartmouth, Princeton, Brown and Yale. The four losses came at the hands of B.C. (twice), Dartmouth and Harvard.

'Late George Apley' To Be Shown Tues.

The film version of "The Late George Apley" by John P. Marquand and George S. Kaufman will be presented at the Fine Arts Center next Tuesday, March 21 at 2:30 in the afternoon and at 7:20 and 9 in the evening.

In 1937, John Marquand's novel "The late George Apley," a satire on a Boston Brahmin and his family who are victims of an obsolete etiquette and a meaningless routine of trivial interests, won the Pulitzer Prize. Later, George Kaufman, who said he knew nothing about Boston, and Marquand, who said he knew nothing about playwriting, collaborated on the Broadway play based on the novel. Still later, came the film version which preserves the novel's good humor, the ironical comedy of Back Bay manners, and the excellent characterization of Apley, dignified, sincere, ludicrously snobbish and patronizing. The film is an excellent satire on the narrow interests and attitudes of those adhering to the Boston Tradition; it portrays well, too, the revolt of the children.

This is the fifth of a series of films based on significant plays, novels, and short-stories brought by the Fine Arts Center at the request of Professor Amanda M. Ellis to suppliment work in courses in Twentieth Century Literature and Prose Fiction.

Earlier films included: "Anna Karenina," "Winterset," "Caesar and Cleopatra," and "Mourning Becomes Electra." In April, the Fine Arts Center is bringing Philip Barrie's "Holiday" and in May hopes to bring Somerset Maugham's "Quartet."

COLORADO COLLEGE Wednesday, March 22, 1950 NUMBER XXIII

Tigers Annex First Hockey Championship; Defeat Boston U. 13-4

Colorado College became the new collegiate hockey champs last Saturday night at the Broadmoor Ice Palace, as they romped over Boston University 13-4, racking up more goals than were ever before scored in a tournament game. Having been able to do nothing in the two previous playoffs, Coach Cheddy Thompson's boys really went to town this time. They defeated Boston College, defending champs, 10-3 and then waltzed by the other Boston club on Saturday night. The total of 23 goals scored in two games was the most convincing double victory ever scored in a tournament.

Boston University opened the scoring at 6:16 of the opening stanza as Jack Garrity sped down one side of the rink, flipped a pass behind the defense to Joe Czarnota who rifled it by Ikola. The first period ended with the Terriers out in front 1-0. The Tigers tied it up with seven minutes gone in the middle of second period as Harry Whitworth flipped one by Bevins on an assist from Jim Starrak. Twelve seconds later Carl Lawrence, hero of Thursday night's victory over Boston College, scored on assists from Tony Frasca and Cam Berry. The first score came while B.U. was two men short, and they were still short one man when the second goal was scored. CC's third goal, a beauty by Chris Ray on passes from Ron Hartwell and Mike Yalich, came at the 14:27 mark and again B.U. was one player short. When the buzzer sounded for the end of the period the Tigers were out in front 3-1. Then came the third period and the roof fell in on the Boston team. The Bengals rapped home ten goals in the twenty minute period to establish another tournament record for the most goals scored by one team in one period. Hartwell started the frame off with a whistling shot that Bevins never saw. Ray was next and his goal came on an assist from Whitworth. Jack Kelly of B.U. broke up the barrage momentarily as he took a pass from Garrity and blinked the red light. Play was fairly rapid for the next three minutes as the Terriers tried to stay in the game. Then they began to fold. Whitworth poured home his second goal with a double assist going to Ray and Hartwell. In the next three minutes and twenty-nine seconds the Tigers slammed home four goals, one each by Ray, Hartwell, Frasca and Berry. This brought the score to 10-2 but the Tigers were not through yet. Starrak netted one two minutes later and twenty-four seconds after that Ray scored his fourth goal of the evening. C.C. began to ease off a little now that the pressure was off and the Terriers banged home two goals in the last minute and a half. Carrity netted one and bell garnered the other. Sandwiched around these two goals was the final C.C. tally by Frasca.

VICTORY SMILES—It was a happy moment for Colorado College when Miss Barbara Harvey, queen of the third annual NCAA ice hockey tournament, presented the championship trophy to Captain Mike Yalich Saturday night after the Tigers routed Boston University 13-4, in the title encounter. Coach Cheddy Thompson grins happily as he stands at the left. Tony Frasca beams in the middle of the photo while Jim Starrak stands to the right of Yalich. Up front, still shouting is Bucky Reinking, mascot of the CC team.

Austrian Student Group to Perform at High School April 1

American students will be given an opportunity to become acquainted with the folkways of the Austrian people when a group of young people from the Alpine and Valley provinces of Austria present a program of folk dances and music at the High School auditorium on April 1.

The students, who range in age from 17 to 23 are traveling thru this country on a tour sponsored by the Amt Fur Studentenwanderugen, a non-profit organization similar to our American Youth Hostels. The tour was originally planned ten years ago but had to be canceled when Hitler seized Austria.

The tour is comprised of many talented young people, among them Misa Vroni Stroeki, 18-year-old yodler and zither player, and Peter Feiersinger, 21, accomplished harpist and member of a Tyrolian family who have been noted harpists in Austria for the past five hundred years. Felix Molzer, music director for the group is already a familiar figure to many who were so delighted with his famed Vienna Boys Choir which toured the United States in the spring of 1948.

Only one performance will be given, and tickets may be obtained for only $1.20 at either the Y.M.C.A. or the Y.W.C.A. All seats are reserved.

CC ANNEXES NCAA HOCKEY CROWN FOR GRAND CLIMAX OF NATIONAL TOURNEY

By Bob Leavitt—Tiger Editor

With echoes of victory still heard in the entire community, this week we pay special tribute and honor to the nation's best, our own Colorado College NCAA hockey championship team. For the first time in the entire history of Colorado a national collegiate title was won by a Colorado school and Colorado College tops the list in that feat.

Coach Cheddy Thompson and his band of Tiger pucksters have waited three long years for this opportunity and this time they couldn't be stopped. The CC'ers were at their best as they trounced Boston College defending champs, 10-3 in the opening game of the 1950 playoffs and to prove they were the best the Tigers went on to maul Boston University 13-4 in the championship encounter Saturday night.

In winning their first national title, CC also broke a national tournament scoring record by tallying 23 goals in two games. The Tigers netted 10 against Boston College and 13 against Boston University.

Many sportswriters and sportscasters were left with red faces throughout the playoffs since CC was rated the darkhorse and Michigan was heavily favored to cop the national title. However Michigan was knocked off by Boston University 4-3 and Colorado College went on to win both games by decisive scores.

From all indications the NCAA playoffs may be held here again next year as the NCAA bockey heads and the coaches of the four

BU Edges Michigan 4-3 To Enter Tourney Final

Boston University upset Michigan University 4-3 last Friday night at the Broadmoor Ice Palace to advance into the final round of the N.C.A.A. tourney. Thus, after winning the tournament in 1948 Michigan has lost out in the opening round both times since then.

The Wolverines raced off to a 2-0 lead in the opening period on goals by Paul Pelow and Wally Grant. Pelow's score came just forty-five seconds after the game got under way. Grant split the defense, took a pass from Keyes and flipped one by Bevins with the frame just half over.

Michigan appeared to be coasting on this lead in the second period but the Terriers soon changed this as they slapped four goals by McInnes to go ahead 4-2. Dick Kelly garnered the first score on assists from Jack Garrity and Floyd Robinson, only Negro in collegiate hockey. Jugelvich knotted the score at 9:34 on passes from Folino and Robinson. Jack Garrity, the Terrier's sophomore sensation sent them ahead to stay two minutes later as he came in all alone on McInnes, faked him out then slid the disc by him. Dick Kelly scored his second goal of the frame, and the final score of the period, with only two minutes remaining.

Michigan came out in the third period determined to do something about the score but the best they

Hockey Teom ond School Take Time Out for Gay Picnic

On Monday afternoon, Colorado College took to the hills out at Austin Bluffs. A "holiday" was proclaimed to honor C.C.'s National Collegiate Hockey Champs.

It was rumored that some sort of a celebration was in store for the victorious hockey team after Saturday night's game, but nothing was definite until a notice was read in the morning classes that all afternoon classes would be suspended unless there were comses with tests. Judging from the turnout of the college there were not many tests taking place.

Austin Bluffs crawled with students, faculty, and members of the administration for the afternoon. It was estimated that well over 1,000 people were there with more coming and going all the time.

The refreshments were supplied by Bemis dining room, Lennox cafeteria, and all the fraternities. The Growlers and the Tiger Club donated funds to purchase anything else that was needed to help feed all who attended the affair.

As the day progressed, Wes Bradley, acting as Master of Ceremonies introduced all the hockey players to the happy throng. General Gill offered his congratulations to the team in a short speech saying that we have every right in the world to be proud of them. Coach Cheddy Thompson and Dean Reid both added their praises to the members of the team, and to the fine support given to them by the students.

After these short informal talks, the school sang out with songs and cheers with the admirable aid of a student "orchestra." The festivities ended with the sun (what there was of it) setting behind Pike's Peak.

It was truly one of the finest all-school picnics ever presented, and everyone is hoping for another celebration of this kind again next year.

COLORADO COLLEGE'S STARRAK, FRASCA NAMED ON ALL-NCAA HOCKEY TOURNEY TEAM

The all star tournament team picked by coaches, officials and sports writers, with some liberties taken with positions, is as follows:

Smith topped the balloting for first team choice with 12 votes, Bevins drew 11, Frasca and Starrak nine. From there on it was close.

could do, was to net one score although they managed to keep the puck in enemy territory for most of the twenty minutes. Only some beautiful saves on the part of Ralph Bevins kept the Wolverines from getting more than one goal. The story of how Michigan tried can be told in the number of saves Bevins was forced to make. He was credited with 34 saves as against only 13 for McInnes.

teams entered in the tourney expressed their opinions that they would like to see the playoffs held at the Broadmoor come next year. Without a doubt the hospitality extended to the visiting teams was the finest in the country. Colorado College and the entire community proved to the Bostonians and the Michigan delegates that the Pikes Peak region is noted for its grand hospitality.

The spirit of the 3,000 ardent fans crowded in the Broadmoor Ice Palace was the best in the history of college hockey. In the event the tourney is scheduled to be held here next year, let's hope the Broadmoor and Colorado College can provide a larger ice rink and expand the sitting capacity of the ice palace in order that more spectators may have a chance to see the games.

With victory still ringing in the air the 1949-50 college hockey has come to a close and Colorado College is on top of the list of proud possessers of one of the most outstanding hockey teams to ever wear skates.

With only three seniors departing from this year's championship team, CC will come back next season with another strong hockey aggregation, one that will be capable of defending a national title.

By Joanne Metzler

Like to swim? Everybody does. The most famous summertime haunt is the beach. Here the whole gang congregates, seeking cool comfort on those hot summer days.

Bathing suits are the most appropriate costume, of course, and every girl wants a suit that is smart in design, durable in fabric and rich in color. The designers of Rose Marie Reid and Jantzen suits must have taken this fact into account, for they are designing the most popular suits worn by the American girl today.

The new one and two-piece suits for this year are being shown in the beautiful, long wearing fabrics of laxtex and nylon. They come in many bright and gay colors too.

To climax my story I might add that those wonderful suits are being shown at Perkins-Shearer's Town and Country Shop. Stop and see them, for in a Rose Marie Reid or Jantzen suit you'll be a bathing beauty on any beach.

CC Cagers Lose 73-59 National AAU Tourney

The Colorado College basketball team journeyed to Denver last Monday night to oppose Nebraska Wesleyan in the opening round of the National A.A.U. basketball tournament. The Tigers went down to defeat 73-59 thus elminating them from the tourney. They had faced the Nebraskans once before this season having dropped a 73-57 verdict to them on the Christmas trip.

Jack Quamme, Ronnie Bonkosky and Dwight Hamilton led the way for the Bengals in the opening twenty minutes and C.C. looked like world beaters as they left the floor at intermission leading 33-30.

The rest seemed to hurt the Tigers because they were stone cold for the first few minutes of the second half and the Nebraskans rolled to a 45-36 lead. Spearheading the attack for Nebraksa was big Del Miller, six foot five inch forward and his teammate Cliff Squires as they were able to control the backboards and at the same time these two boys led in the scoring column. Miller was high man for the evening with 25 points followed by Squires with 20. For C.C. Quamme and Bonkosky were tied with 13 points apiece. Next in line were Dwight Hamilton with 11 and George Sweeney with 10.

Bengal Nine Making Ready for Season Opener with Mines

Coach Jerry Carle greeted over 30 candidates for his 1950 baseball squad this weekend. Carle will hold outdoor drills daily for his Tiger hopefuls as they make ready for their opening game with Colorado Mines, April 4 on Stewart Field.

Due to a conflict in hockey and spring football several candidates have not had the opportunity to workout yet. Weather permitting Carle has only two weeks in preparing the Bengal nine for the opener with Mines.

Candidates seeking berths from last season's team are, Vic Pugel, pitcher; Bill Harley, catcher; John Litt, infield, and Bill Dewire, Vince Ciammaro and Pat Killen outfield.

Others seeking berths are: pitchers: Dick Bergesen, Herb Gollis and Dick Perse; catcher, Cuy Cibbs; infielders, Tony Esposito, Tony Frasca, Carl Lawrence, Mark Kochevar, Dave Hender, Frank Zingone and Jim Cilkinson. Tigers Top BC 10-3 In NCAA Opener

Colorado College opened play in the National Collegiate hockey tournament last Thursday night and handed Boston College a resounding 10-3 defeat. This makes the first tournament win for Coach Thompson's crew in three years and it avenged the two defeats the Eagles handed C. C. last year including one in tournament play.

Boston College scored first with only three minutes gone in the opening period. It took the Bengals a while to get over their first period jitters but they came out of them with a bang. Hartwell whizzed one by B.C. goalie Pete Maggio at 14:54 on a pass from Chris Ray. Lawrence scored the first of his five goals a minute later and then Hartwell made it 3-1 with three minutes left in the frame. Jackie Mulhern netted his second goal of the period as time ran out. This was the last time the Eagles were in the game as C.C. came back in the second period to rack up three goals that sent them into a comfortable 6-2 lead. Ray scored the fourth goal with only a minute gone by and Carl Lawrence garnered the other two, one at the ten minute mark and the other with four minutes left in the period.

It was the same story in the third period as the Tigers continued to pour it on. Lawrence and Frasca each blinked the red light with only twenty-one second separating their scores. C.C. scored its sixth straight goal as Bill MacDonald slapped one home, less than a minute after he entered the game for the first time. Lawrence ended the C.C. scoring at the 15:37 mark of the final frame. B.C. still had some punch left, at least enough to push one by Ikola with only four minutes left in the contest.

Michigan Rips BC 10-6; Gains NCAA Third Spot

Michigan's Wolverines found their attack that was sadly lacking the night before and really poured it on last Sat. Afternoon as they whipped Boston College 10-6 to give them third place in the tournament for the second consecutive year, while Boston College took over the bottom spot after winning the tourney last year.

The Wolverines opened the scoring as Gil Burford scored the first of his five goals on an assist from Neil Celley at the two minute mark. Burford got his second score about 8 minutes later again assisted by Celley. Heathcott ended the scoring for the period at 11:47 as he put one by Pete Maggio unassisted.

Boston College really came to life in the middle frame as they scored four consecutive goals to go into a 4-3 lead. Of these four goals, Warren Lewis got three, for a hat trick, and Songin got the other one. Michigan tied it up as Keyes came in all alone and pushed one past Maggio, and they went ahead as Keyes gained another score. The Eagles came back to tie it up on Mulhern's goal.

Two and a half minutes went by in the third period before the Wolverines scored to go into the lead permanently. Burford scored two within 45 seconds, Keyes scored his third goal and Burford came back with his fifth goal. Heathcott ended Michigan's scoring at the 8:31 mark. B.C. came back with one more scoring thrust and Mulhern rapped the disc home with less than four minutes to go in the game.

Burford tied the tournament record set by C.C.'s Carl Lawrence Thursday night as he scored five goals. Also an oddity as well as a new record was the fact that no penalties were handed out during the entire sixty minutes of action. Maggio and Casey of BC combined for 35 saves, while McInnis of Michigan had 20.

F.B.I. Uncovers Student Bomb Plot

By Mostly Cloudy

Washington, April 4—FBI chief J. Edgar Electrolux, announced today that a vast subversive plot has been discovered on the Colorado College campus. Details of the conspiracy and names of those involved are being witheld until the pranksters' families have been notified, the chief announced.

Rumors trickling into CC Press Relations office in the nation's capitol today indicated that the plot was discovered when several Tejon Tech students exploring the wine cellar of the Narrow-Moor hotel in the Colorado tourist mecca came across a large cache of dynamite in beer cans. Wires from the explosives were traced to an attic room of Bonnex House, CC Student Union building.

James Romley Beere-Imbiber (of the North Shore Beere-Imbibers) stated that he was "searching the cellar under the N-Moor Tavern for a cask of Amontillado, when there in the corner were some Coor's beer cans and, since I had just returned from a leetle soojourn in California, I wished to become acquainted with some Western beer. I opened a can and there it was —dynamite! No beer!" Mr. Beere-Imbiber is undergoing treatment for shock in a local fashionable hospital.

It is not known at this time whether or not the plot is communist inspired, but labels bearing the motif, "down with the capitalists," were found scratched into the beer cans. The Undergraduate Suppression Committee at the college announced that action will be taken "whether those accused are guilty or not."

Another discovery of the traveling Deans in their Eastern talent scouting. B. Bottomm Trouzers, new CC athletic director is pictured with friend. Mr. Trouzers is on the right.

COLDEN BELL RANCH
Divide, Colorado

Miss Mary Robison
Chairman Vocational Cuidance Com.
Colorado College

Dear Miss Robison:

We are looking for a waitress and a girl to take care of the guest rooms on our ranch for this coming summer season—if we can find a girl who can entertain guests well with some sort of a musical instrument, we would be willing to adjust the work, and take her . . .

. . . Last year the girl who was our waitress, also took care of our guest rooms and had plenty of time in between to go riding morning and afternoon. She had a very comfortable bed in the same cabin as the cook and they had their place fixed up very comfortably.

When we come out to Colorado, we shall be looking for a cook, who must be professional. We pride ourselves on our good cooking and have made quite a reputation for our food . . . .

RALSTON CREEK RANCH
Silver, Colorado

Dear Miss Robison:

I am doubtful that we shall have any opening this summer; but the sudden invitation of one of our staff to play tennis at Forest Hills and her acceptance create the possibility that we shall want one girl, over 21, to live in . . .

Anyone who could fill the job should be healthy, active, knowledgeable, socially gifted, and a good rider with a flat saddle. She would receive all her expenses, nothing more . . . If she loses nothing, she will make as much out of the summer as any of us.

. . . If you have any girl who would be interested, you might auggest that she write my wife and make arrangements to be here for a weekend so that we can check on the possibilities of a mutual antipathy. We could meet her in Denver and get her back there but will not even pay her fare from Colorado Springs.

P.R.R.'s Replace the Machines at Gossitt

It has been disclosed by the campus chapter of the Paul Revere Riders (better known as the Torch Light Paraders) that the old cigaret machines in Cossitt Hall were replaced as the first coup of the Undergraduate Vice Committee.

Mr. Don Manchfelli, president of the P.R.R.'s (no connection with the Young railroad enterprise), announced yesterday that "the action was taken after "Shugah" was discovered in a stupor in her Montgomery Hall apartment. It seems that she had been investigating the machines in Cossitt and discovered that the third handle from the left sent forth a package of marijuana "reefahs into the ahms of mah poah innocent little guhls and boys." Shugah is now reported to be tasting the pages of the 1950 Nugget in hopes of finding the source of the current CC opium.

Momentous Movement Made By Y.M.C.T.U.

By Laylow Useless

Mike "Guzzle" Hawkins and Ward "Bourbon" Congoll, co-chairmen of the Tejon chapter of the Young Men's Christian Temperance Union, have announced that the organization's offices will be moved, sometime in the near future, to the basement of Nove Chapel.

They stated in unison that "in accordance with Dean Sweep's new policy concerning imbibing in the chapel, the YMCTU finds it necessary to be closer to the field of operations. We are particularly alarmed by the fact that the bars (to be located at the west, north, and south entrances) will be permitted to remain open 24 hours a day. It might interfere with the students' studies," they continued.

Revision of CC Faculty and Administration for 1975

By M. R. MUSCHURCH

Early in November of 1975, the class of '50 held their reunion. I took my first vacation from my fascinating job as a sampler of soft drinks in a retail store—ulcers you know—and hurried back to greet my old friends. Stopping only long enough to kick a freshman with a broken leg out of an irrigation ditch I hurried back to the sacred portals of Cutler Hall for my first glorious look at the old alma mater. While on the surface many things seemed the same, still, a further glance at the list of professors and administrators showed that a few changes had occured. Several new departments had been added and several changes had occured in the personnel of the existing departments.

Jack Claghorn, the new dean of the college, assurged me that the revisions allowed Tejon Tech to further its purpose of providing a well rounded liberal education. Dr. Stabler was in charge of a most popular class in solfage and is teaching the theory and practice of the harp, while Dr. Could is holding large classes in tatting, petti point and crewel work. Miss Vanderpol head of the new department of charm and higher thinking, being ably assisted by Dorothy Faubian. Duck Nichols was the new irector of women's physical educat on with a special class in postural exercise.

Atletics were not being neglected and C. C. had one of their most sucessful seasons in '74. The track and gymnastics team, ably coached by Frank Krutzke had won the South Asiastic conference beating such notables as Guam Tech., and Hidden Island Junior College. A successful field day was held on June 33 with Dr. Grey's wrestling an weight lift'n t m distinguishing themselves The had been practicing all spring in the semblar in dumbell swinging held every Monday morning at 6 by Dr. Grey. At the same time Dr. Malone conducted his famous six day bicycle race while Dean Fautenux was in charge of the roller skating derby. Dr. Worner and Mr. Errieson had put C. C. on the map by winning the national yodeling while playing with a yo-yo contest.

Many of the old familiar organizations were still active. I talked to Cinnie Wahle who assured me that Q. A. was progres-

Sinkkashaft Shafted

By Tom Tryinhard

Colden, Colo., April 4—A prominent professor of shaft ventilation was found dynamited in the head today on the campus of the Colorado School of mines here. The murder was discovered when a student noticed blood spots on the rest room walls and discovered a body in the shower—or what was left of the shower. According to a coroner's report, the professor, Dr. I Sinkkashaft, had been dead for two days when discovered.

The president of the school announced that, as in the two similar cases within the past month, no action will be taken. "Boys will be boys," he stated.

Horatious Q. Dimplechineey Matthiars, new professor of African history and two of the history majors.

The 2nd Book of Revelations

Chapter the First

IN those days there was in the West, in the land of Odaroloc, in the great mountains of rock, a city which was named of the Springs, which was founded by the people called Palmeranians.

2. Now even before the time of the wandering peoples called tourists, yea even before the reign of King Franklin Delano, these palmeranians lusted after gold and silver, and found it in the hills, and builded of it a great idol; and this city of the Springs prospered.

3. And they builded a temple of learning, and filled it with teachers and scholars, yea even with wise men; and this Temple did prosper and its coffers were endowed to the brim with silver and gold.

4. In those days the people called tourists came upon this city, and they loved the coolness of its hills and worshipped the pleasantness of it all; and they heaped the pockets of the Palmeranians with silver and set their tents in the valleys and upon the hills, yea unto the foot of the mountain named Sekip.

5. And those who dwelled by the Springs were filled with joy, and their purses with gold and silver; and they destroyed their golden idol, and looked away from their Temple which was of the Tiger, unto the hills whence cometh their wealth; and on those mountains they builded great Temples of stone to the glory of the Tourists.

6. And there were dwelling at this time on a broad moor to the south of the Springs a people whose riches were great, and these people did possess much gold, many ships, great wells, and much land, yea and amongst them were even the sons of Kings; yet verily the greatest amongst them was the widow of a certain Spencer, who builded great temples to the Tourists upon the hills, and did fill their bellies with much food and provided them with beds and linen and many towels of fine cloth in an inn which she named Widemoor.

CHAPTER THE SECOND

AND it came to pass that the Pomarians, for thus were this inn-keeper and her friends called, looked with tears upon this city of the Springs and with weeping unto the Temple of the Tiger, and they did heap upon it much silver and provided it with teachers who were in the favor of those on the moor.

2. And they called upon a great warrior whose head glittered with laurels from the battlefields to the west of them, and did cry unto him to be High Priest of this hallowed place of learning; and straightway he did come unto the Temple at the base of the mountain called Sekip.

3. This great warrior called about him those who were of high office in the Temple, and these Stewards did sing hosannas unto his name, even as the people called Democrats cry unto a Truman called Harry; and these Stewards were numerous; and among them were those of wisdom: a Priest called Hotstream, a tax-collector surnamed Thomas, and a good woman named Louise.

4. There were, nevertheless, others: a Richard of very simple mind and great temper; an athlete who ruled attendance at the lectures of the wise; and a maiden named Carol who made a fearful noise unto the heavens (and in particular the great library).

5. Indeed, there was among them one Henry from the land of Xonnel, whose Stewardship had cast a shadow of fear amongst all those who studied at the Temple, and his power was such that the mountains shook even unto their foundations at his scowl.

6. Verily, these Stewards saieth unto this warrior, "there is great wickedness amongst the students, they drink much and reel about the streets, committing every kind of evil doing; yea, even unto destroying idols at the Widemoor"; and there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth.

7. It was in these times of great lamentation that the Priest called Hotstream left the Temple and that the prophets foretold of the departure of the wise woman named Louise; and the warrior called upon two men and a maiden to journey from the East; and they were Sallie, George, and Edwin.

8. Yet these wise people replaced the wise; and there was still great sorrow amongst those who dwelt in the shadow of Sekip.

CHAPTER THE THIRD

IT came to pass that a great battle occurred between certain students of this Temple and a Caretaker of the Widemoor Inn, and there was much ado; but a Public Court declared these students innocent and returned them unto the campus, yea unto the street of Tejon.

2. And the prophets and seers proclaimed that "verily hath an exceedingly great mountain been made of a molehill."

3. Yet the warrior and his stewards repaired unto their hall and sat in judgment against the offenders; and they were ignorant of the powers of the Council of Students.

4. And they sent out of the land two of those who had offended the Pomarians, and hurled terrible anatheams about the heads of all; and they wondered that the name of this place of great learning was not a stench in the nostrils of the Godly and a by-word of dissoluteness.

5. But it came to pass that the students arose and sent shouts unto the Hall of Reltuc, where met the Stewards and the High Priest, and their shouts reached even unto the newspapers of the city of the Springs.

6. And the Council of Students met with the High Priest and his Stewards, and they feasted upon promises, and their hunger was appeased.

CHAPTER THE FOURTH

BUT the Tiger God hath been supplanted by the God of Apathy, and it is easier to find hosannas to the Atlantic Pact in Pravda than an interested student on the Temple's campus.

2. And there appeareth many prophecies of doom, and there is much talk from the North Shore to Tiajuana of Hell-fire and brimstone, yea even of triple-chinned dragons; and only worship of the God of Apathy and of the Great God Teegeeyieff prevent the spread of fear throughout the land, yea even from Cache la Poudre to San Rafael.

3. Yet hope liveth amongst those who still think of the Tiger and they looketh to the man named George and the woman called Sallie.

4. But there are, however, those that asketh, "by what means in Hell can a few roses amongst a bed of thorns accomplish a Darned thing."

—Selah.

sing nicely under their new motto: "We'll make a lady of you yet." Miss Jakimowitz, professor of nature lore and advisor to the Kewie club, displayed a noteworthy collection of bird feathers collected on their early morning strolls. The sion of faculty life had finished a thorough survey on the social habits of the faculty. They pointed out that some were not in keeping with the high standards of C. C. and suggested that all be required to take Miss Ellis' course entitled: "Ball Room Dancing and the Ten Minute Intermission." The social life of the students had been adequate however and several successful social functions were held. Richard Elson reigned victorious as the Cold Diggers King with Mrs. Perkins being elected Homecoming Queen.

Chapel is now daily, the new director of the chapel, Freddy Robinson said. Several desirable additions have been made including the appointment of Pat Martin as choir director. New chimes have been installed and are under the direction of Dean Adams. Every morning before class and chapel they play, "If I Knew You Were Coming, I'd a Baked a Cake." An electric eye at the door detects all newspapers, books and magazines while the chapel attendants are equipped with thought machines to tell if all are paying strict attention to the speaker. Should anyone be found not listening they are immediately banished to a trade school where they are forced to prepare for getting a job.

The committee system continues to function with a special committee on committees for committees to look into committees on committees on stagecoach transportation. This is ably headed by Dean Mathias who is now beginning his 17th year as instructor in organization of committees-136." Dick Conrad is in charge of the committee for the outlawing of all social events to allow more time for the pursuance of academic careers. That this committee is successful is shown by the popularity of the course in philosophy and aesthetics being taught by Allison Binns with his assistant Ray Sylvester. (Continued from Page Two) hunt, we have felt relatively far-removed from the scandals of communist infiltration into our government. The results of a personal survey of our campus and its administration, however, point out that we have a somewhat similar and more terrifying problem here in our own backyard. The fact that we have certain key positions in not only our administration and faculty but also our student government filled by persons of questionable allegiance to the United States and its doctrines is a shocking revelation to even the most complacent soul among us.

This red-domination of our student thought begins at the top, and works progressively downward—a terrible insidious growth that is throttling our progress as a school. It is a well-known fact that the present Dean of the College came to us from a large eastern University quite openly referred to as the "Crimson." This very same Dean has worked to great extent for the betterment of the common man, and has introduced the foreign and very suspicious sounding term of 'efficiency' into numerous of his activities. Certainly, little other proof should be required to show his political leanings and his inherent danger to our cherished college system! If efficiency is foreign (who can say nay?), and all things foreign are considered to be Communistic . . . well, put two and two together!

It is also a well-known fact that ballet dancing is completely foreign to the American way. Yet, the teaching of this Russian-born style is conducted in surreptitious classes nearly every day on our campus! There can be little doubt that, through the Dance Department, the seeds of future reforms and revolutions are being sown!

It would not surprise me to find that the 'Ballet Russe de Colorado College' was really just the front for a carefully prepared program (prepared, mind you, with the full knowledge of the entire faculty and administration) of social and economic reform. It should be immediately and thoroughly investigated!!

Even our innocent and quite American - appearing Student Council shows pink-streaks behind itts ears. This reporter is not at liberty to divulge highly confidential information which has just come to his attention because its nature is such that, only by carefully planned security its terrifying implications be arrested. It has to do, however, with the awarding of certain medals to so-called 'Campus-Leaders', and is, in all probability just highly frosted and decorated repayment for subversive campaigns successfully waged! Further celebration at this time would endanger our democratic structure.

The— Swill Pail

By Carl Cowchip

A late news flash revealcd this evening that Chubbles Nadams is is to receive the national award for the Pogo Stick contest held during spring vacation. Goes to show you that CC can't be beat in any sport!

The Committee on Undermining Graduates has announced that they plan to kick out at least 20 per cent more of the enrollment in view of the crowded conditions of the halls. You don't have to do anything—you're number may be drawn! That's our favorite committee at work again.

In his recent trip East, our Dean of Derollment travelled to the St. Charles School for Men in Illinois and discovered five champion pole vaulters who will be with us next year. Their practice, it seems, was gained by starching ropes and scaling the electric fences around their campus.

. . . and on the brighter side of the news. School will be dismissed three weeks before exams so students may get rested up for the end of semester tea party.

The Amalgamated Union of Throat Slitters and Back Stabbers has announced a decreasing amount of late dating and slipping out" in the women's dormitories. Could "Shugah's" axel grease on the fire escapes be working?

The subject of co-ed dorms has been brought before the Student Council again with the argument that so many people are secretly married now that it wouldn't make any difference anyway. Horace Hinder smiled, spake softly, "Ah, sex!" and promised to take it to the Committee on Underwear in the morning.

. . . and may I close with the well known phrasc, taken from the late Finescriber's Hot Passion in the Pacific, "It was not the lodger namcd Roger, my friend, but the faculty kicking your well known end."

President Gill Explains Necessity Of Increasing Tuition at C.C.

As you are no doubt aware, the low return on invested capital has combined with the post-war inflation to create a most serious situation for all colleges.

Under these financial pressures, Colorado College has done its best to practice economies that contribute to holding down the cost of education. Since we must compete with institutions which are supported by taxes as well as with privately endowed institutions, the situation has become very acute, particularly when it comes to the matter af attracting well-qualified persons to our Faculty. It has now become apparent that instruction will suffer if economies are pushed further.

The Board of Trustees of Colorado College is determined that educational quality must not be sacrificed; and has reluctantly turned to the only alternative—that of increasing tuition charges.

I am happy to inform you that, after careful examination of the needs of the College, it has been decided to increase the charges by only $25.00 a semester, making the total charge $225.00 for a semester, or $450.00 for the academic year, effective September 1, 1950.

I feel that it is my duty to inform you of this revision in tuition charges, and hope that you will understand the College's position and share in my feeling that we are for the most pressing needs within the increase indicated.

William H. Gill

Carlemen Looking for Initial Win of Year In Weekend Series

With their first game out of the way, the CC baseball team got in some more practice this week in, preparation for a two game series against the University of Wyoming this weekend at Stewart Field. Wyoming has won two games so far this season, both victories coming over the University of New Mexico last weekend. The Cowboys trampled the Lobos 21-8 in the opener and then came back the next day to defeat them again 12-8. CC lost its opening game last Tuesday 6-5 to Colorado Mines.

Coach Jerry Carle hopes that Bill Dewire, his hard-hitting outfielder will be back in action this week after missing the opener because of a sprained ankle. If Dewire is back then Carle will probably use him in centerfield with Vince Giamarrio and either John Litt or Pat Killen taking over the other two pasture positions. Jack Grey will probably get the nod at first base with Wayne Roper being held in reserve. Either Frankie Zingone or Dwight Brothers will hold down the keystone sack while Tony Esposito and John Crumley will fill out the rest of the infield. Carle can use either Guy Gibbs or Bill Harley behind the bat and it is presumed that these two capable backstops will split the weekend duties. Any number of pitchers are ready to go but Vic Pugel, who showed up so well on Tuesday, and Dick Bergeson will probably draw the starting assignments with Mark Kochevar, Harry Whitworth and Ed Luke ready for relief duty.

Whites Swamp Golds 47-0 in Intersquad Tilt

On Wednesday, March 23, CC concluded a very successful spring football practice with its annual intra-squad game. The White team, made up mostly of last years first team, easily trampled the Gold team 47-0.

John Crumley led the scoring attack for the Whites as he scored two touchdowns, one of them on a 76 yard punt return. Mark Kochevar also scored two twice with Bill Perkins, Wes Boucher, and Dwight Brothers each adding one. Bob Jones kicked five extra points.

The Whites were as brilliant on defense as they were on offense as the Golds were able to penetrate only as far as the White 27 yard line. Next years teams will be selected from these two teams and, if this game was any indication, we should be as strong as we were last year.

CC Golf Schedule Out; Face CU, DU and Regis

The 1950 C.C. golf schedule was announced earlier this week along with some news about the intramural tournament. Colorado College will again play host to eight or ten colleges in the CC Invitational to be held in May.

The intramural tournament will be held this year on Friday and Saturday the 7th and 8th of April.

Returning Varsity lettermen from last year include Bob Crabb, Lick Hall, Phill Davis and Lloyd Gardner. Plenty is expected of Bob Strang ,a sophomore from Colorado Springs, who was medalist in last year's I-M tournament with a 78. The varsity will be composed of ten men with the first six playing in the matches. During the week the other four will challenge the first six to determine who will play in the next week's matches. The Broadmoor has been kind enough to allow varsity players to use their course a few times a week.

LACK OF SUPPORT HALTS HOCKEY BANQUET—

To the heroes go the spoils—however this is not the case of the CC national collegiate champion hockey team who clinched the NCAA title just a few weeks ago. Due to lack of funds and support from the citizens of Colorado Springs the CCA and the Downtotwn Quarterback club were unable to raise sufficient funds to sponsor a suitable banquet in honor of the championship Tiger puck aggregation. Colorado College brought the first national title to the Pikes Peak region and unbelievable as it may seem two well known sport organizations were unable to raise money enough to give the champions a feed. Is it possible that the regional fans have already forgotten that CC garnered the first collegiate title in the history of Colorado? However thanks to the alert members of the Quarterback club the Tigers will be honored at the weekly Quarterback luncheon next Monday noon.

TIGERS WEAK AT BAT IN OPENING GAME—

Coach Jerry Carle's CC diamondeers showed very little power at the plate as they dropped their opening game 6-5 at the hands of Colorado Mines. CC garnered a total of seven base hits. Defensively the Bengal nine performed sensational at times and the pitching may develop much better than anticipated. Two top Tiger sluggers were unavailable for the first game. Outfielder Bill Dewire is benched with a twisted ankle and infielder Tony Frasca has not reported for the team yet.

COACH THOMPSON URGES TRACK CANDIDATES TO WORK OUT DAILY—

With the first meet only one week away, Track Coach Cheddy Thompson urges all varsity track candidates to get in condition as the first meet which is slated for April 15 will be held here against Adams State and Western State. Coach Thompson hopes to discover some talented material in the intramural meet which will be held April 14.

Tiger Baseball Team Drops Close 6-5 Verdict To Colorado Mines, Despite Three-Run Seventh

A combination of good slow ball pitching and several costly errors sent the CC baseball team down to defeat in their opening game of the season last Tuesday afternoon on Stewart Field. The final score was 6-5 in favor of the Miners from Golden although the Tigers had the bases loaded and three runs already in when the third out was made in the seventh inning. The official game was limited to seven innings by agreement of the coaches although two extra innings were played with neither team coming up with any runs.

Vic Pugel was the starting pitcher for CC and he hurled good ball for the six innings he was on the mound. Only two of the five runs scored off him were earned, the others coming on errors. The Miners opened the scoring in the very first inning. With one away a walk and a single put runners on first and second but a bad throw to third base permitted one run to score and let the other one advance to third from where he scored on an infield out. The Bengals were held at bay for five innings before they finally solved the offerings of Joe Alberto, small Miner southpaw, for two runs in the sixth and three more in the seventh. In the meantime Mines garnered three more runs in the fourth inning on a long triple by Korn, who hit four-for-four during the afternoon, a single by Weyler, a double by Bond and a wild throw to first by CC catcher Guy Gibbs.

Mines garnered their last run in the seventh as Korn hit a long home run, into the trees in right field, off Pugel's relief man, Mark Kochevar. CC put on a last ditch rally in their half of the inning. Vince Giamarrio was safe on an error, Tony Esposito then drove a slow ball at the short stop but by the time he got the ball and had looked at second both runners were safe. John Crumley then doubled, plating one run and sending Esposito to third. John Litt then walked to load the bases. Grey and Killen were then retired with runners holding their base, but Zingone kept the rally going with a base on balls that forced in another run. Wayne Roper batted for Gibbs and was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in another run but Harry Whitworth, pinch-hitting for Kochevar popped out to end the game.

CC CONCERT CHOIR TO PRESENT PROGRAM IN PERKINS SUNDAY

The Colorado College Concert Choir under the direction of John Fundingsland will present a concert in Perkins Hall Auditorium Sunday afternoon, April 16 at 4:30. The Madrigal Singers will also sing a group of numbers. The concert choir numbers approximately 30 and is selected from the larger chapel choir. The objective of the concert choir is primarily a high standard of artistic performance as contrasted with broader educational objectives stressed in the chapel choir.

Since coming under the leadership of Mr. Fundingsland two years ago the Colorado College choral program has undergone several experimental changes in an endeavor to develop a program educationally sound and most beneficial to the the greatest number of students. In spite of the fact that there have been discouraging moments at times to both students and conductor during this process of change the choir has steadily improved. The forthcoming concert is expected to be a real musical treat for those interested in fine choral music.

The program is quite varied and includes secular as well as sacred music, both contemporary and early. Those who enjoy the lighter type of chorale music will find interest in some of the choir numbers as well as in those offered by the madrigal singers.

Following is a list of personnel participating in the performance:

Mary Daehler, CC Senior, Receives $1500 Fellowship

Mary Katherine Daehler, senior student at Colorado College and daughter of the former CC professor, Albert H. Daehler, has been named as one of the 20 recipients in the nation of the $1,500 first-year graduate fellowship awarded by the American Council of learned Societies, it was announced today by Dr. George W. Adams, dean of Colorado College.

The appointment of Miss Daehler to one of the awards was particularly significant in that she is one of the five girls in the nation to be named and is also the only recipiant between Minnesota and the Pacific coast.

Miss Daehler, who has been an honor student majoring in English, attained some of the highest scores on record at CC when taking her national graduate record examinations, particularly in her major field.

A native of Colorado Springs, she attended San Luis School here and entered CC in 1946. Although only sixteen upon entrance in CC and despite the fact that she has worked part-time in the college library, she has achieved honor grades in every academic subject.

Boasting an unusually substantial background in other languages and literature besides English, Miss Daehler has a reading knowledge of French, German, Latin, Greek and Anglo-Saxon.

With the $1,500 award good for any graduate school of her choice, Miss Deahler plans to attend the Radcliff Graduate School of Harvard University. Because of his special qualifications in 17th century literature, Prof. Douglas Bush at Harvard is the scholar with whom Miss Daehler hopes to do her graduate work. She is particularly interested in the relationship between the 17th century metaphysical poets and T. S. Eliot.

Dean Adams pointed out that the awards were made not only on the scholastic achievements in the candidate's major field, but also in the purposes and objectives of the candidate's future. He also indicated that the 20 awards were made after questioning 330 of the nation's colleges and universities, and that students were not allowed to apply, but had to be recommended originally.

CC CONCERT CHOIR—The Colorado College Concert Choir, under the direction of John Fundingsland, will present a concert in Perkins Hall, Sunday afternoon 4:30 p. m. The Concert Choir numbers 30 members and is selected from regular Chapel Choir.

Three CC Students Conduct Survey of Revenue of Students

Next Week a survey will be conducted on this campus. The purpose of this survey is to determine the importance of Colorado College as a source of additional revenue to Colorado Springs. The survey will determine the amount and the distribution of the expenditures of college students.

Questionnaires will be distributed throughout the classrooms during next week. Most questions may be answered by checks. Questions will concern such items as average monthly expenditures upon such items as food entertainment, and laundry. Names should not be put on the questionnaire.

Only with the cooperation and careful thinking of the students can this survey attain the accuracy necessary to make it a proper value—both to the students, to the college and to the community. The results of the survey will be made available to interested parties.

Crabb, mathematics; Mary K. Daehler, English; John Alexander, business and banking; K. C. Freyschlag, political science; Robert Knight, economics; John Pflug, chemistry; Constance Old Rowe, education, and Richard J. Sensenbrenner, business administration.

Of the juniors named one is from Colorado Springs, Donald Gillete Benton, who is majoring in economics. The other junior student named is Owen Knorr, majoring in zoology.

Other seniors honored include Elizabeth Apeland, psychology; Kenneth K. Cooper, philosophy; Francis E. Downey, business; Gale George, English; Jo Ann Lesman, French; Eldor J. "The Tradition" of skiing at Colorado College is the subject of a recent article in the 1950 "American Ski Annual and Skiing Journal," by Miss D. A. Stroup, Class of 1949 at CC.

Miss Stroup, who graduated in June of 1949, was an English major and a member of Delta Gamma sorority during her four years here.

One of the charter pioneers of the now enlarged popular Ptarmigan Club (CC ski organization named after the snow bird), Miss Stroup points out in her article how unique the skiing fraternity is at CC with its large combined vacation ski plans, whereby the great majority of the slat-riding enthusiasts journey together to the same area.

She points out that while there are many areas and mountains to choose from in this state, the skiers at CC have discovered they could ski much more inexpensively and have much more fun by spending vacations at the same area.

In her article written for the skier's annual guide and handbook, Miss Stroup traces the formation of the Ptarmigan Club at CC from its original 12 members to the recent gala vacation snow excursions to Winter Park, the site of the first big get-together in 1946. She indicates that after seeing 40 to 50 CC students together in 1946, the real ski enthusiasts at CC formed the Ptarmigan Club and began to sponsor Thanksgiving vacation trips, which by 1948 attracted approximately 200 skiers to the Winter Park area.

Library Mutilations Bring Up Honor System Support Question

"How can we expect continued support of our treasured Honor System if student misconduct continues in our library?" was the opinion of many students and faculty members this past week as they learned of deplorable action by students in defacing material. Either completely torn out or mutilated beyond further use were four pages from the Encyclopedia Britannica, Volume 4; four pages and one map from F. O. Saxelby's "Hardy Dictionary;" and nine pages of Warner's "Library of Best Literature."

All of the material was torn out on Thomas Hardy, who is the subject of freshman theme work, leaving the logical assumption that the damage was done by students of freshman English.

In addition to these mutilations, there has been removed 11 pages of Wagner's "Valkyrie" as well as six pages from the "Dictionary of National Biography," Volume 15. This latter volume is one of a 73 volume set which has been out of print for many years and occasionally appears in second hand catalogs for a price of from $200 to $300.

One of the distant goals of Colorado College's Honor System concerns use of books at the library, and certainly such action as this cannot help but hinder the progress of the plan. According to one student, "It is just another example of the immaturity of some of our students, which must be overcome before our Honor System encompasses every phase of CC life."

Library officials and students using the mutulated books have asked that the culprits have the thoughtfulness to return the torn-out pages, which still may be mended for use.

It's probably with a secret sigh of relief for most of us that we've decided not to hold the annual and traditional Songfest again this year. It's always a lot of work . . . but it's always been a lot of fun, too. I for one think that it's a dirty shame that the student body doesn't have priority on the use of campus buildings for their functions . . . especially for those functions which are traditional. It's also too bad that the A. W. S. can schedule such a program so far in advance only to learn on the eve of its presentation that it cannot be given as planned. the Chapel has been later reserved for a private wedding.

While it would probably be all well and good to plan to have the Songfest some other place, this column goes on record in opposing such change. We were scheduled to have the Chapel at this time a good many months ago, and it would delight me to see the student body go ahead and have their traditional service at the Chapel on that date . . . wedding or no wedding. When, in the name of all that's holy, are we going to get tired of this old business of being pushed around just to accomodate a certain few selfish people in the higher brackets of our learned circles. It seems only fair to me that the calendar of Student activities should be respected throughout the year not only by the students, but also by those who are in a position to make such arbitrary outside arrangements. Who is the school and its physical plant serving, any-

Letter to College Seniors from Secy. Of Labor M. Tobin

You college seniors are members of the largest graduating class in the history of United States education. You and your classmates many total half a million, a peak number not likely to be reached again in the near future. Last year about 422,000 students received degrees—a record at the time; next year the number of graduates is expected to decline somewhat.

The very size of the graduating class will intensify the competition for jobs when you seek employment. Furthermore, it is likely that there will be fewer job openings for new college graduates this year than there were 2 years ago, or even last year.

This is not to say the outlook is bleak. In some localities and in some occupations there will be jobs in abundance. And our economy is so strong and prosperous that the long-range growth posssihilities are limitless, if we as a Nation concentrate efforts to expand employment opportunities to keep pace with the growing labor force. Nevertheless, the fact remains that, on the average, you who are graduating this year will have to hunt longer and harder than your immediate predecessors before you find the job you want and for which you are trained.

Thus it becomes increasingly important that you get as much information as you can about where the opportunities lie—in what industries, in what occupations, in what sections of the country. To provide such information to college students, I am having prepared a series of short articles on job prospects for publication in college newspapers. I am attaching the first of these articles, which discusses the general employment outlook. Succeeding articles will cover occupations for which large numbers of this year's graduates will he trained.

This abbreviated national picture of the outlook for college graduates should be supplemented with more detailed information from campus placement and guidance bureaus and local offices of State employment services affiliated with the Labor Department's United States Employment Service. These services can add the local regional high lights which may alter or accent parts of the picture as sketched. They can also provide those professional counseling, testing and placement services, that have proved so valuable to facilitate the process of finding a satisfactory job.

It is my hope that, with an understanding of conditions in the field of your choice, you men and women who graduate this year will speedily find employment where you can best utilize your knowledge and skills and contribute most to the society that made possible your education.

We need the work of your hands and minds and the devotion of your hearts if our country is to grow and its citizens prosper.

Yours very truly,
Maurice J. Tobin
Secretary of Labor

Here it is Spring again—the season when nature breaks forth in many ways, crocuses, robins, baseball games and the fijis' binoculars have appeared among other early signs. It seems there is a hole in the trees between the Phi Gam house and the Bemis sun-deck.

A most inspiring scene was the sunrise service last week. Some students (not quite recovered from the night before) were very moved by the appearance of a couple of angels on a near-by hill-top. Any ideas . . . ? Rumor has it that a new dance school may be opened for CC students. Square-dancing will be under the direction of Miss Anna May Campbell, (Maizie's been practicing out at the Broadmoor), and it is fairly likely that Hans Bunch will be instructing in the fine art of Danish jitterbuggling.

Question of the week: Milk-can, milk-can, who's got the milk-can? In view of the coming Phi Delt-Kappa baseball game, the two parties are eager to continue their fued, but the object in demand seems to have disappeared.

On the more serious side, there has been a deep silence lately in Cossitt gym. Except for the pounding on of number stickers, rattling of tables, and mass hysterics, about half way through Monday afternoon, not a sound was heard. According to your Snooper everyone was concentrating on the name of Quixote's horse and composing a dissertation on the diet of a stomach-less man. A deeply significant problem that required a great deal of concentration was "why does Washington D. C. blow a whistle at noon?" Next question?

It has come to our attention that the chapel organist is getting notices for cutting chapel. How about that, Bobby?

Getting back to Spring and young men's fancies—Margie Ebright is now wearing a Beta pin from Herb Gollis and Donna Hutton one from her Sigma Chis friend, Bill Muzzey. Barbara Anson and Kay Freyschlag are engaged.

Lutheran Choir to Give Concert Tonight

The fifty voice capella choir of the Texas Lutheran College, Seguin, Tex., will appear in a sacred concert under the direction of Phillip Frederick Knautz at Shove Memorial Chapel, tonight at 8:15.

Now in its 21st season of concert tours, the choir has completed many outstanding engagements in Texas, the surrounding states, and Mexico. The choir is recognized as one of the outstanding college choirs in southwestern United States. This is the first time the choir will tour Colorado since the college has been receiving additional Lutheran synodical support.

This concert is open to the public without charge. The Lutheran churches of the city are underwriting all expenses connected with the choir's coming appearance.

Independent Groups Combine Forces for More Activity Plans

Joint meetings of the IWA and the Crown and Lance have been held on several occasions during the last two months to present a more unified program for independents on the campus.

Through the spring and next year it is planned that there will be a more extensive program of all school events and special activities for all independents as well as the regular club functions. Among the activities scheduled are the following: a special Sunrise Service party this weekend—contact Katherine Kidder or Jerry Swanson; an I-M softball team—see Bill King; I-M track participation under the direction of manager Ted Green; a special day including softball, potato sack races and other field sports with dancing in the evening; a stag dinner for the Crown and Lance and an end of semester picnic.

Sigma Chi "Apaches" On Warpath Saturday

The Sigma Chis will present the annual Apache dance on Saturday evening of this weekend. The "Apache," (French, not Indian) theme brings forth many abbreviated and variated costumes which are anticipated to reveal many ingenious notions. The house will take on the aspect of a small cabaret, with Frenchy decorations throughout. Favors of a unique nature will be distributed to the femmes attending.

"Gentlemen of the Cloth, 18 Century Style," Knapp's Talk

After the brief vacation that gave us a chance to catch up on studies (?) all activities have resumed normalcy, including Jonathon Edwards. The meeting this week will be held at the home of Dean Broome 19 W. Boulder. Dr. Knapp of the English department will speak on "Gentlemen of tbe Cloth, 18th Century Style." As this is the period in which he is particularly interested, some very interesting angles are anticipated.

The meeting will be at the usual time, 7:15 p. m. and refreshments and discussion will follow the talk. Everyone is welcome.

New Officers of Panhellenic Begin

The new officers of Panhellenic began their terms last Tuesday. Ann Schultz, Kappa Kappa Gamma, is the new president; Nancy Wilson, Delta Gamma, is vice president; Sally Organ, Kappa Alpha Theta is secretary and Maggie Packard, Gamma Phi is treasurer. Retiring officers are Helen Stevenson, president; Marge Gilliland, vice president; Nancy Bloche, secretary and Pat Sullivan, treasurer.

Panhellenic is made up of a senior and a junior representative from each of the women's Greek letter groups on campus. The senior member of each organization holds an office each year, with the representative sororities switched in order with each change in the spring so the same group does not hold the same office more than once every four years.

Intramural Track Meet Friday at 2:30 P. M.

Sigma Chis to Defend Title for Third Time

The annual Colorado College intramural track meet will be held Friday afternoon commencing at 2:30 on Washburn Field.

The Sigma Chis will be defending their crown for the third consecutive year. However the entries indicate that all teams appear evenly matched for this year's classic and no one team is favored to cop the championship.

Any student officially in school is eligible to participate if they have not lettered in track here at CC or at another college prior to entering CC.

The first four places will be cited for each individual team in all events. Five points will be awarded for first place, three for second place, and two for third place and one point for a fourth.

Each team will be limited to two men apiece in the sprints and three men each in the distance races and field events.

Track Coach Cheddy Thompson, intramural manager Mike Yalich and Bob Leavitt will be officials in charge of the meet. Members of the Tiger track team will act in the capacity of judges and official starters of all events.

"Hmm," said the tourist, "looks like we might have some rain."

"Could be," said the New Yorker. "I sure hope so. Not for myself, but for the kids here. I've seen it rain."

BENGAL LETTERMEN—Expected to carry the burden when CC engages Western State and Adams State at Washburn Field Saturday afternoon are the above returning lettermen. Tiger Thinclads Host to Western State And Adams State in Triangular Meet Sat.

With only six lettermen returning from last season, Coach Cheddy Thompson's Bengal tracksters open their seven meet schedule this Saturday afternoon in playing host to Western State and Adams State in a triangular meet on Washburn Field commencing at 2:30 p. m.

Colorado College, this week also announced a seven-meet track schedule, including three conference opponents, the big conference meet at Bozeman, Montana, and opening with the spirited Intramural meet on Friday, April 14.

The Intramural meet, which annually draws over 100 participants from the five fraternities and the Independent Men, will open at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Washburn Field.

Coach Cheddy Thompson, who is also director of intramurals at CC, annually schedules the intramural fest prior to the opening varsity encounter in the hope of picking up hidden talent for the college crew.

The following day—Saturday, April 15—the Tigers will play host to Adams State and to Western State (providing the snow in Gunnison melts) in a triangular set-to.

Thompson indicated that CC will send several participants to the CU Relays, April 29 in Boulder. The conference meet this year will be at Bozeman, Mont., May 19 and 20.

Six lettermen will be returning for CC ,with the two remaining members of the Pfeiffer brother aggregation heading the list. Dick, a senior, participating in the half-mile and mile run, as does his younger brother, Jack. Both men may be running on the CC Mile Relay team again this year, but without brother Bill, who graduated in 1949.

CC Lists 29 Men for Winter Sports Awards

Colorado College athletic officials today announced the list of winter sports letter winners in basketball, hockey, wrestling and skiing.

Cheddy Thompson, coach of the 1950 NCAA champions, announced 15 player winners and one manager, while Coach Jerry Carle of the CC cage crew named 10 players and one manager to the award list. Skiing and wrestling each designated one letterman.

Seniors on Thompson's ice crew included Captain Mike Yalich, Harry Whitworth, who earned his fourth award at CC, and Roy Ikola. Returning lettermen for next year include Ron Hartwell, Carl Lawrence, Clark Wilder, Tony Frasca, Cam Berry, Bud Eastwood, Bill MacDonald, Leon Maccini, Jim Starrak, Chris Ray, Andy Gambucci, Gordon Atkinson and Manager Neil Harrison. Starrak, Ray and Wilder had lettered before for the Tigers.

The Bengal cage aggregation named as captain for the 1950-51 season Marv Powell, Manzanola, Colo., forward who had lettered once before here. Named most valuable player for the squad was Capt. Jack Quamme, receiving his fourth letter and setting an all-time high CC scoring record. Tabbed Most Improved Player was Ron Bonkosky, who won his first award. Quamme and Bonkosky received trophies for their awards.

Other basketball letter winners were Wilfred Perkins, Wayne Roper, Dwight Hamilton, Jack Pfeiffer, Bob Brugger, George Sweeney, Tony Esposito and Manager Dick Conrad.

Juan Reid, director of athletics, presented a letter award to Glenn Blagg, district AAU heavyweight wrestling champion, who participated in three meets this season for the Tigers.

Dr. Thomas H. Rawles, treasurer of CC and long-time sponsor of the ski team, presented a skiing letter to Oliver Campbell, captain of the 1950 team. He also announced that the skiing program at CC would be enlarged next season, revealing that a new suburban-type ski bus would be purchased for the team and that young K. G. Freyeshlag, director of public relations and an avid ski enthusiast, would accompany the team next season as a managing coach.

Bengal Nine Bow to Wyoming 14-3 and 14-10 In Free Scoring Two Game Series

Wyoming University's baseball team, fresh from ten days in New Mexico, came to town last weekend and walked off with two victories. Both CC losses can be attributed to bad pitching and several mental errors. On Friday afternoon the two teams battled on even terms for the first four innings before the roof fell in on the Tiger starting pitcher Dick Bergeson. In a hectic fifth inning he allowed only two hits but two walks plus a pair of errors contributed to his downfall. Harry Whitworth was brought on to try and silence the Cowpokes but he couldn't find the plate and five walks and two hits gave the visitors four more runs and a comfortable 12-3 lead at the end of six innings. Mark Kochevar pitched the last three innings and gave up the final two runs although he allowed only one hit. He also walked one and struck out four. Altogether Wyoming got eight hits but four errors and ten walks spelled defeat for the Tigers. John Copenhaver pitched the whole game for the Cowboys, giving up eleven hits but they were well scattered. He walked three and struck out twelve. The losing pitcher was Bergeson.

Hitting was the theme of the second game as each team collected 19 hits but the difference was in the run department as Wyoming wound up with 14 while CC had only 10.

The Tigers jumped into an early lead only to have Wyoming come back to tie it up at 3-3 in the third inning. Four bingles in the fourth sent CC into a 6-3 lead. The Cowpokes got one of these back in their half of the fifth but the Bengals promptly retalliated with three more runs in their half of the frame to send them into a comparatively safe 9-4 lead. Then came the eighth inning and Coach Carle's pitching collapsed. Kochevar had pitched well up to this time but he began to tire and Bergeson was brought in. In that inning Kochevar gave up three hits and one run. Bergeson just didn't have it after his five inning stint of the day before and the Pokes went on to ring up four runs on four hits in the one third inning he worked. Dick Perse was then brought in. he had had only two days of practice but he hurled creditable ball in the one and two third innings he worked. He allowed the final run on just one hit plus two walks. Wyoming also had trouble with their pitching as four hurlers marched to the mound but they came through when the chips were down.

Hitting star for the afternoon was John Kosich, Cowboy catcher as he garnered three hits in six times up and drove in five runs. For CC, Pat Killen had four-for-five, Kochevar had three-for-four and John Crumley had three-for-five.

CC Nine Seek First Win At Greeley In Conference Series

With their losing streak stretched to three games last week as the result of two losses at the hands of Wyoming, the CC base ball team will try to get on the winning side of the ledger this week as they engage Colorado State twice at Greeley.

Coach Jerry Carle will probably stick to his same line-up although he may make one change. Jack Grey will be at first with Tony Frasca possibly inserted in the second base slot in place of Frankie Zingone. Tony Esposito will handle the short field with John Crumley stationed at third. In the outfield Carle has four good men with Vince Giamarrio and Bill Dwire sure to start along with either Pat Killen or John Litt, behind the bat Bill Harley and Guy Gibbs will probably split the series.

The hospital list is fairly light this week as John Litt has recovered from the strained ligaments that he pulled last Saturday and Bill Dewire is getting along fine after missing the first game because of sickness and a sprained ankle which still bothers him some.

With the pitching department still the big question mark Coach Carle will probably start Dick Bergeson in one game and Mark Kochevar in the other one. Harry Whitworth and Dick Perse will be held in reserve and Dewire and Giamarrio can pitch if the situation warrants it.

For Colorado State Pete Butler will again field a veteran team and he has three good pitchers that are capable of going the full nine innings. These include Ben Dreith, Harry Wise and Frank Sajevic. It was mainly the work of these three that enabled Colorado State to win the Rocky Mountain Conference and District Seven playoff (with the Skyline Six Champ) last year. They then journeyed to California to face Southern Cal. in a playoff for the Western Championship. They finally lost out, losing to the Trojans two games to one.

William and Mary in 1776, Phi Beta Kappa was established as the Beta chapter at CC in 1904, making the 1950 gathering the 46th annual initiation of the group.

Officers of the CC chapter for the current year are Prof. David W. Crabb, president; Dean Louise W. Fauteaux, vice president; Dr. Stephanie Jakimiwitz, secretary-treasurer, and Prof. Richard M. Pearl and Dr. Margaret Hanaman, members of the executive board.

Officers of the present chapter pointed out that the college group has expended its activities the past year to include annual donations of $25 to Coburn Library for the purchase of new books. In addition the 1949 group voted a donation of $100 to the college's 75th anniversary celebration fund drive.

New Phi Beta Kappa members will also be honored along with members of Delta Epsilon and Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary academic fraternities, at the annual Honors Dinner, slated for Tuesday, April 25, in Bemis Hall. Principal speaker will be Dr. Robert L. Stearns, president of the University of Colorado.

way? . . . The people of Colorado Springs and vicinity, or the students who attend classes here, pay tuition here, and in general expect the privileges of the use of the equipment and buildings that their dollars go to maintain! A certain amount of palm-patting and back-slapping among the townspeople is of course necessary, but when they become so important as to take priority over the students in the use of buildings it seems to me that things have gone too darned far!

To the Fraternities, Sororities, and Independent groups, I would like to make the following suggestion: Get in contact with the happy couple who is to be wed in the Chapel on April 30, and warn them that their happy day is liable to be spoiled by the blended voices of some seven or eight hundred students, and that if they are really interested in having a quiet ceremony they'd either better plan it for some other place or some other date. Sure, it's not their fault, and it's probably being sort of juvenile suggesting such a plan of attack ,but the students here have got to establish their authority sometime . . . that is if they really want the things they seem to want. Maybe some such program of action would finally convince the powers-that-be around this school that we, as students, have the right to expect that the plans that we make, and the calendars we draw up will be respected above all other proposed activities. Maybe it takes a mass demonstration of this sort to prove to them that we're tired of being only the secondary part of the school!! Let's try it . . what d'ya say?

CC Netters Play 6-6 Tie After 9-3 Loss

Coach Pete Alexander's Tiger tennis team swung into action last weekend and came up with one loss and one tie in the two series with Wyoming.

On Friday afternoon CC was only able to win three matches as the Cowboys from Laramie garnered nine. Tiger winners included Jim Swett in the singles, Jim Wiebrecht in singles and Wiebrecht and Jim Hill in the doubles.

It was a little different story on Saturday as the Bengal racquet men split twelve matches with the Cowpokes. The CC winners were Monty Gatchell, Jim Gourd, Wiebrecht, and Swett in the singles while Charlie Smeeth and Swett teamed to win the doubles as did Gatchell and Wiebrecht.

The next Tennis match is slated for Friday when the team travels to Boulder to engage Colorado University.

JOB CLINIC

The Colorado College Business Department will conduct a nationally known Job Clinic on the campus April 29. Several well known and prominent men will speak to CC students who will be seeking work after graduation. Consult next week's TIGER for full details.

With the healthy figure of 870 returning the survey sheets, CC administrators learned that students felt there was much less cheating evidenced under the Honor System than under the proctoring system, and that there was a great source of pride in being able to conduct such a system successfully.

NSA Lists U. S. Schools That Use Honor System

Last week you were probably one of the many who filled out a form giving your opinion of the Honor System here at Colorado College. Just to pass a little further information along to you, the N. S. A. gave to your editor a list of 38 schools who have the honor system and we are passing it on to you. This honor system isn't new, but it is beginning to catch on throughout the country and we should be proud to be among the first to have such a system.

New Cut Policy May Be Adopted at CC

The ASCC in conjunction with the NSA is setting up several proposals in adopting a new cut policy at CC. Although no definite action has been taken yet it is expected that ASCC will make several recommendations to the Committee on Instruction and to the Committee on Undergraduate Life.

Dean Adams sent a letter to the student council last Monday stating that the Committee on Instructions objected to the recommendations made by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, regarding the proposed changes in the Cut Policy. The matter will be discussed at the student council meeting next Monday afternoon.

Each spring we of Colorado College have an opportunity to have our say in student government. On April 20 it is the duty of everyone to vote for the new student body president. This is the time for us to show what we want in a student body president. It is the president we elect who will represent us in the student activities on this campus, on other campuses and in this community. Only the most since.e and desirous individual can so represent us. For such qualities of leadership we must look to Jim Starrak.

Genial Jim, a ruggedly handsome Canuck from Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, is sincerely interested in student affairs. He is a keen observer and a true representative of our student body. In addition, he is genuinely and sincerely inte.ested in working for a better student government at C.C. The position of student body president takes more time than any other campus position, and Jim has the time, desire, and know-how to devote to our problems.

Thus far, Jim has proven himself a capable candidate. He has been a representative to the Student Council for the entire year, and there has demonstrated his sound judgement in student affairs. Currently he is House Manager of Kappa Sigma, a fraternity officer, member of "C" club, and a varsity letter winner. Jim not only holds these offices, he serves and works for the best interest of each.

When we go to the polls and vote, remember—there is a job to be done. This job can only be accomplished by an energetic, resourceful young man with experience in student affairs. A vote for Jim Starrak for the position of A.S.C.C. president means a vote for efficient leadership during the coming year.

Election Of ASCC President Is Your Responsibility

Van Allen

Tossing his broad hat into the ASCC presidential ring is effervescent Van Allen, 21-year-old Junior from Denver, Colo. Van, now well into his second year at Colorado College, is the pride and joy of Phi Gamma Delta where he is currently holding forth as Rush Chairman of that organization.

Van is truly a unique candidate as the school constitution had to be changed before he was eligible to run. Having spent his freshman year on the campus of the University of Utah, he transferred to CC in 1948, thereby loosing some of the necessary hours required for the presidential post. However, a constitutional amendment, passed by the entire student body, enabled the Stu'ent Council to give Van the green light.

Friendly and individualistic, Allen is well known from one end of the campus to the other as a capable and enthusiastic leader. He is a representative on the Student Council, and the guiding light on the most of Phi Gamma Delta's important committees. One of his greatest assets, perhaps second only to his gift for gab and his ease in meeting people, is his ability to concentrate and think clearly. Van has compiled an overall average of 1.6 here at CC and is currently riding the crest of a 1.2 mid term mark.

He was born in Denver where he attended the local schools until his family moved to Utah after a brief stop at Lincoln, Nebraska. Graduating from East High of Salt Lake City, he hitched up with Uncle Sam's paratroopers and spent thirteen months in Japan. After that it was two quarters at Utah and then back to his first love—Colorado—and CC.

Van has the time and the desire to make good as student body president. He is the type of person YOU would like representing you to other schools, the faculty, and the administration. If you want a fellow with ability, ambition, and adequate time to do a thorough and sincere job, then Van Allen can not be beat.

Over in the Beta house we think a lot of Joe—oh, we like him other places too, but not as well as we do in the Beta house. In fact we just finished electing him secretary. The vote was unanimous because nobody else wanted the job. Last year we re-elected him as social chairman for the second time, but we found out that he wasn't embezzling.

We don't exactly know what to say about Joe. We were hoping that those guys over in Cutler would announce the new cut policy just before this campaign so that we could play up the fact that it originated in Joe's committee of the NSA. He put a lot of work in on that thing and we feel that pressure has been used on the U.L.C. to keep them from releasing it at this time. Joe does know a lot of people though. He knows most of the faculty in the geology department and he's acquainted with a great number of students, taking into consideration of course the fact that he has only been here three years. Joe's a geology major and, therefore, is quite familiar with the old fossils—what better qualifications could one have for working with the administration. He's very familiar, we might say intimately familiar, with many of the girls here. One of them even wears his fraternity pin. Her name is Barbara Clark and some of you girls might know her as you just elected her president of the Associated Women Student. All in all, though, we believe it's safe to say that "with those who know Joe Creager best, it's Joe Creagor two to one."

Joe's a very busy man. He made a 2.0 average last semester and since then has raised it to a 1.4. Although he has been a Growler for three years he still doesn't know what their purpose is, except to wake up everyone one morning out of the year. If anyone who reads this (if anyone reads it) is on the Student Council, he or she will probably remember that Joe's a member of that organization too. Yes, he is a busy boy; however, he's not too busy to accept another office or two (we say we might want to use this article for another campaign sometime).

Joe wants to keep his platform flexible and he's not one for reckless commitments, so we'll just sum up the rest of his beliefs by stating that he's against administrations and that should be fine because it looks as if he'll have voting power on the Undergraduate Life Committee next year. It's quite possible that the Student

Dwight Brothers

Dwight Brothers, who answers to many nicknames, "Sonny" perhaps being the most prominent, is Sigma Chi's candidate for Student Body President. Dwight's past record, both at C. C. and in his earlier days in high school, speaks for his energy, ability, and popularity. Dwight graduated from the Colorado Springs High School in 1947, where his experience in Student Government started early. He served in the Student Senate for three years, and during his last year he was President of the Senior Class, and leader of the Student Government. Besides being the recognized leader of student activities, Dwight was an outstanding athlete, lettering in football and baseball for three years, and in basketball for two years. His attainments along the academic line were rewarded in 1947 by an Honor Scholarship to C. C.

During his Freshman year Dwight was captain of the Freshman Football team, perhaps the most outstanding Freshman team in C. C.'s history. He has lettered twice in football, in both his Sophomore and Junior years, and he lettered in Track last year; this spring finds him once again participating in varsity sports. He has participated actively and successfully in intramural sports for his fraternity.

His fraternity record is outoutstanding; during his Sophomore year he was Vice-President of his Fraternity, and he has served as Rush Chairman, and has been on the Inter-Fraternity Council for two years. This year his fraternity, Sigma Chi, has expressed its confidence in his ability by nominating him for the highest student office, Student Body President.

Dwight has served on the Honor Council since the Honor System was established at C. C. in 1948, and his interest in student affairs, and his ability, has made him an outstanding member of that body. Dwight has been Secretary of the "C" Club during the course of this year. His major field of study is Economics, and his name has consistently appeared on the Dean's List.

Dwight's past record speaks for itself—he has always been a leader, in every field of activity into which he has entered. His platform is brief and simple, and sincere he doesn't make any rash promises, and he doesn't offer any program that he can't deliver and carry through; he does, however, offer to the student-body at C. C. his strong interest, and ability, to serve it, and serve it well, in the most effective possible manner.

Election Of ASCC President Is Your Responsibility

Jack Pfeiffer

During his first year at Colorado College, Jack Pfeiffer was started on the road of student service by his class who elected him as one of their commissioners. Since his freshman year, Jack has never shirked the opportunity to serve in a public capacity for the students of Colorado College. We have all seen him at our athletic meets either as a spirited cheer leader or as a major participant.

Jack's hard work and perseverance have not gone unnoticed or unrewarded. He has won a Honor Scholarship from the College and a National Commander's Scholarship which was awarded by the American Legion. Only fifteen of these scholarships are awarded each year throughout the entire United States.

The Homecoming Enthusiasm Chairman is usually chosen from the senior class. This year, however, on the important seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the college, Jack Pfeiffer, a junior, was elected to the post. By lettering in basketball and track for two years, Jack is a member of the C Club. He is also an active member of the Crowlers and Inter-Fraternity Council.

During his service on the Student Council this year, Jack was appointed to serve with Dean Adams on the Foreign Student Committee. He was also one of the two students chosen to serve on the Disciplinary Action Committee, whose purpose is to revise the ASCC Constitution, so as to bring the power of student discipline completely into the hands of the Student Council. As a member of this committee, Jack has the necessary background to carry on to a successful conclusion, this, the most important of present student problems.

Through all of his many extra curricular activities, Jack has maintained a scholastic average of 2.5. Of possibly even greater importance is the fact that Jack is carrying no responsibilities this year which would carry over to the coming school year to interfere with the duties of student body president. Therefore, he would be able to devote all the time necessary for carrying out the serious obligations of that office.

An Election Fable

By Thurber Aesop

Once upon a time, long, long ago, there were 1,250 squirrels living in a small forest at the foot of the mountains. Also in this forest there lived several big black bears, and the meadows around it were filled with great numbers of field mice.

It was springtime and the squirrels had eaten up most of the nuts which had been stored the past fall in their nests. Some of them had used up all of their pecans, hickory nuts, walnuts, and acorns because they had mixed them with pure mountain spring water and sugar from the holly plants and brewed a highly alcoholic beverage which they called "Acoors" after the acorns which were the main ingredient.

A few of the boys got together one day down at the Tree Room and over their Acoors, discussed the necessity of choosing a leader for the Associated Squirrels and Coconut Chasers. Now, it was very necessary for these animals to have a leader because it would soon be time for all of the able-bodied male squirrels to leave their nests and look for food; and if there was no one to lead them and to post lookouts in the treetops, the bears would come from their caves and kill all the women and children squirrels or, even worse, take over the community's place of worship. There was also a great deal of danger that the Chamber of Field Mice Commerce would raid the squirrels' nest while they were out climbing trees and take all of their remaining food.

Yes, it was much more necessary for those squirrels to have a good leader than it was for most other squirrels in other forests, for the bears in this forest were particularly stupid and mean and, unlike other bears, they liked to eat squirrels.

Anyhow, these leading citizens decided to call for an election in the forest, and each of the five main squirrel lodges put up a candidate for this very important position as leader of the ASCC. So the Federated Girl-Daters started painting "Merle's the Squirrel" on the walnuts and the other four lodges began their campaigns—the Better Throttle Pushers handed out acorns with "Joe" stenciled on them; the Kurly Squirrels adopted the "We Did It Before, We Can Do It Again" type of campaign; the Finest Darn Theologists tried to get the members of the Better Throttle Pushers lodge so loaded up on Acoors that they wouldn't be able to draw campaign posters; and the Squirrel Kissers worked on the female squirrels.

The campaign was a great one—all the trees were covered with posters, there were long parades, and the lodges spent many nuts. Most interested of all those in the forest, however, were the bears, for they knew that if the squirrels choose a good leader there would be a shortage of squirrel meat for the coming year. So they disguised themselves as men and women and left their caves in order to find out how the squirrels were going to vote.

They had just passed the second oak tree to the left when they came upon a couple of young girl squirrels chatting in front of a

New Cut Policy May Be Adopted at CC

The ASCC in conjunction with the NSA is setting up several proposals in adopting a new cut policy at CC. Although no definite action bas been taken yet it is expected that ASCC will make several recommendations to the Committee on Instruction and to the Committee on Undergraduate Life.

Dean Adams sent a letter to the student council last Monday stating that the Committee on Instructions objected to the recommendations made by the Committee on Undergraduate Life, regarding the proposed changes in the Cut Policy. The matter will be discussed at the student council meeting next Monday afternoon.

This honor system isn't new, but it is beginning to catch on throughout the country and we should be proud to be among the first to have such a system.

All School Campaign Assembly at Perkins To Precede Election Voting Thursday

In order that the CC student body may see and hear the campaign platforms of the various candidates for ASCC president there will be an all-school assembly at Perkins Hall Thursday morning at 10:00 a. m.

All five campaign managers and candidates for president are slated to appear. The campaign managers will give short speeches about their respective candidate and the candidate himself will undoubtedly come thru with a few well chosen words to the students.

The various campaign managers are as follows: Rolly Rogers will introduce and speak for Dwight Brothers, Sigma Chi Nominee; Linzee Packard will speak for Jack Pfeiffer, Phi Delta Theta candidate; Bob Humphreys will introduce and speak for Joe Creager, Beta Theta Pi selection; Arval Morris will speak for Jim Starrak, Kappa Sigma candidate and Ed Dworak will introduce and speak for Van Allen, Phi Gamma Delta nominee. The Independent men did not nominate a candidate this year.

The election committee is composed of Bob Smith, Ralph Parkman and Dick McCleery, all members of the student council. This committee will tabulate the counting of votes after the closing of the polls. The polls will be open from 10:45 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Thursday, April 20. Polling booths will be at Perkins and Palmer Halls. Individual ballots will be at the polls.

There are undoubtedly a number of good arguments that justify the hubbub that comes with the "ballyhooing" of candidates for the ASCC president, but the students should be primarily concerned with the most important of these arguments and its application to student government on the CC campus.

campaign poster. The conversation ran something like this: "Oooooh, I'm going to vote for him; he's so handsome and squirrely and he can pitch an acorn farther than anyone in the forest." "Oh, no, Cobena, vote for Merle because I'm pinned to his lodge brother. Besides, the candidates are all good and all of the lodge men are going to vote for their lodge brothers."

The bears smiled and walked away.

The election day came and passed and the ballots were counted. Bill Pecangrinder was elected by 101 votes (the same number as the total of his lodge members plus girl squirrels wearing the lodge pin), and the total vote was 453. At the Tree Room and the Nut House there was much talk, between swallows of Acoors, about the victor; and some thought that he was the best squirrel while others claimed that he had walnut shells for brains. It was concluded, however, that although he wasn't necessarily the most capable, he was certainly the most popular.

The bears, meanwhile, met in their caves and held a great celebration. They drank excessive amounts of fermented honey until, having decided the squirrels were exceedingly stupid and were most certainly not behind their leader, they went roaring upon the trees where the squirrels lived, took over the forest chapel so that the young bears might be married there, carried away most of the lady squirrels, stole all the nuts, and drank up all the Acoors.

The moral of this story is: A vote in the box is worth two in the bush.

Dick Pfeiffer, winner of Sonny Price Award

D. PFEIFFER WINS SONNY PRICE AWARD

The winner of the Sonny Price Award for the year 1949-50, was announced to be Dick Pfeiffer, who has participated in more activities and services for the college than any other senior student on the CC campus.

The Sonny Price Award was estabilshed by the Student Council of 1948-49, to be $200 given annually to the outstanding leader of the senior class. As the council, this year, contributed $100 of this award to aid in the initiation of the Foreign Student program, the amount will be necessarily reduced to $100 for the present award. The winner is determined by a committee, appointed by the Student Council, which grades the activities of each senior, through the distribution of questionnaires and according to an established point system.

Dick's activities have included the following: member of Student Council, member of NSA, Student-Faculty Committee; Election Committee; Publications Board; Vice-president and Treasurer of Interfraternity Council; Editor and Business Manager of the Nugget; President and Treasurer of Growlers; cheerleader; member of C Club; Red Lantern; dance production, "Quest for Sita"; Spanish Club; Ptarmigan Ski Club; single member on campus of Sigma Delta Psi, honorary athletic fraternity; Who's Who in American Colleges; recipient of honorary scholarship; recipient of Bever Award; member and Treasurer of Phi Delta Theta fraternity; candidate for ASCC President; Captain and letter-man of CC track team; participant in intramural sports in football, basketball, softball, volley ball, wrestling, skiing, swimming, diving, golf, and cross country record holder; hasher; fraternity steward; Chapel attendant; associate owner of Colorado Springs Chauffeur Agency; delegate to regional N. His talk underlined the fact that people like literature for different reasons. One person does not see the same Othello as another person will, altbough the words they read are identical.

He told of how words with abstract meanings like loyalty and courage, could not have the effect on a younger person that it would have on an older person. Pres. Gill Announces That All Classes at C.C. Are to Operate Under Honor System

After two experimental and reasonably succesful years of operation under the Honor System, the Colorado College student body has been awarded one of the maturest and most advanced academic procedures in the country—an Honor System which covers every class at CC and every phase of intra-class and strictly academic activity.

President Gill announced this with a smile today— a smile which showed that he was definitely one of the strong advocates of a universal Honor System. His announcement came following a lengthy debate-filled special faculty meeting Monday afternoon which had been called for the single purpose on the extension of the present honor system.

Faculty members Monday afternoon heard the results of the lengthy questionnaires which had been submitted to the CC students. With the healthy figure of 870 returning the survey sheets, CC administrators learned that students felt there was much less cheating evidenced under the Honor System than under the proctoring system, and that there was a great source of pride in being able to conduct such a system successfully.

In the spring of 1948 Pres. Gill and a number of faculty members who had had previous experience with the system fostered the plan here with the adoption of the Honor System in 12 classes. Each semester the project expanded with the plaudits of all spectators, until this past semester 134 courses of the 218 offered have been operating under the Honor System.

It was indicated by those in favor and by parties slightly opposed to the introduction of the universal system that this would be the chance for students at CC to prove their real maturity. When the system goes into effect in September of next fall it will be up to the students to show whether the plan can continue to operate.

By Bob Humphreys

The high school in which we spent four carefree years bad an auditorium but only half the enrollment of CC. This institution bas a Chapel which is used for tbe weddings of the offspring of CC graduates, for a required crossword puzzle hour every Tuesday morning, and as a practice room for organ pupils. We also bave indirect claim upon the Fine Arts Center auditorium—if the program is purely artistic in nature. Of course, there's a dingy little hole with clanging radiators, deceptively called Cogswell Theater; or one might use all that space in Cossitt—of course a gymnasium is generally for athletic purposes.

No, we haven't forgotten the auditorium—or practice room—in Perkins Hall, but we may as well ignore it completely. This college bas the normal number of strong, healthy voice; however few of them can transcend the Perkins din. Bio-chemistry and Bartok don't mix. That is the reason for tbe scheduling of the faculty lecture series in the inadequate basement of Shove; and, coupled with the apparent animosity of the Fine Arts department towards those outside the pale of culture, it is the reason why the job clinic will be held in Cossitt's "basketball auditorium."

We got to wondering the other day what would happen if someone decided to get married in the chapel at the time when graduation exercises were scheduled, so we destered our pizza pie platter at Frank's and juorneyed over into the realm of "The Empress of Fine Arts and Library Disturbance." Practice schedules are posted on the doors of all the rooms in Perkins, so we tried our darndest to look like a music major and spent several minutes studying each door. Sure enough, eacb of the practice rooms is occupied continuously from 8:00 a. m. to 11:00 p. m.; however, the rooms which bear the names of the prominent faculty members have very little business after 2:00 p. m.

We realize that these rooms (as distinguished from the practice rooms) may not have loud-speaker connections with the auditorium but we found them well equipped otherwise.

Our conclusion was that art would not suffer too much from loss of time if Perkins were silent at least for a couple hours each week. We hear, however, that the director of Perkins hall refuses to change any practice scbedule merely so that some uncultured program might thrive downstairs. Art marches on! We wonder if they ever took sophomore comprehensives to the accompaniment of Ravel's "Piano Concerto for the Left Hand" played by a right-banded student.

Cheer up, seniors! If it doesn't rain, snow, or if the lawn isn't flooded, graduation exercises could be held in front of Palmer Hall in case of an emergency.

OUR PAWS TO . . .

. . . Tiger Town's younger set. They think the lawns are flooded for their enjoyment when everybody else knows that it's just a scheme of the local "shoe-shineries."

The medicine show man pounded his chest and cried: "Look what my wonderful snake oil has done for me! I am more than 200 years old. I was one of the original Minute Men at Concord."

A farmer, plumb skeptical, grasped the medicine's assistant and demanded: "Is he really over 200 years old?"

The assistant answered. "Darned if I know. I've just been working for him about 120 years."

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

Until just a few days ago it seemed that the N. S. A. ship of state was sailing along in relatively untroubled waters. Their proposal concerning suggested revisions in the Cut-System had met with suprisingly little opposition when presented to the Committee on Undergraduate Life, and it was with somewhat disheartening impact that it was learned that the August Committee on Instruction planned to announce its disapproval shortly. The Committee on Undergraduate Life suggested that the unlimited cuts be extended to those Juniors and Seniors who had been admitted to an upper school—really not a modification of the N.S.A. proposal at all. The Committee on Instruction, however, feels that students are still immature enough at this upper level to need the restrictions of the present cut policy but with some pretty drastic additions. This outfit plans to suggest that the parents of students who have earned their second penalty hour (tacked on to graduation requirements for over-cutting) be notified, and told that should their darling immatuer son or daughter cut enough times to earn the next penalty hour (or some such arrangement) they will be given the bum's rush from these pearly gates of knowledge. In other words they will get the boot! Ain't that grand?

As yet there's no panic on this sudden reversal—perhaps there won't ever be one—I certainly hope not. Any revision of the student adopted cut-policy is a pretty ticklish business. It was initiated with a desire on the part of the student body to equalize treatment in classes—and especially to discourage the Faculty from gradind on the basis of class attendance. Most schools have some such arrangement—good, bad, or indifferent. Please don't misunderstand me to say that I am in favor of the policy as it exists now, I merely mean to point out the difficulties incident to any suggested revision.

It is the opinion of this column that we have given the Cut-System in its present form a fair trial and found it wanting in many respects. It has accomplished some of the things for which it was designed, and has created new problems that weren't apparent when it was adopted. Having been given such fair trial, it seems that it is only fair that some revisions be made in those parts where it has been tried and found guilty. Certainly one would expect Juniors and Seniors who have done the work necessary to obtain admission to upper schools to be conscientious enough in their class-attendance to need no policy of enforcement to make them continue in that pattern. It seems sort of ridiculous to kick somebody out of school for over cutting, too, when, after all, they're hurting nobody but themselves. It seems to me that this is just a wee bit drastic.

The thing seems to be pretty well out of our hands at the time. I only hope that when the Committee on Instruction presents their views to the Faculty that the Faculty sees fit to knock their ears down a bit. There are times to go overboard with this militarism—now isn't the time.

Bill: "My wife is scared to death that someone will steal her clothes."

Phil: "Doesn't she have them insured?"

Bill: "She has a better idea than that. She has someone stay in the closet and watch them. I found him there last night."

By MARY RUBLE

It's that time of year again—time to choose a student body president. While people might be a bit confused as to the purpose and the workings of the student council surely no one could help realizing that a campaign is being carried on. The trees around campus look like highway 66 with all the posters while no meal in Bemis is held without music. Sometimes the music is by records, sometimes by personal appearance, and sometimes it is characterized by general confusion still, it is definitely present. Then there's the Pfeiffer band wagon which provides chaotic noises every night to lull one gently to sleep or make that same sleep impossible. The Betas seem to be working on "the greatest amount of noise is best" theory and regularly invade the quad in what sounds like a heavy bombing raid. Think what it would be like if we had 25 candidates running.

A further bit of joy and glee is added to the life of the residents of the quad in the form of the early morning softball games. It's amazing how much enthusiasm can emit from a 6 a. m. ball game. Oh for the quiet life of a night matron in a deaf and dumb school.

Social life carries on and in the "now it's o couple" catagory there is Shirley Campbell engaged to Frank Brown from Colorado A&M and Jackie Van Valin and Harold Lynn planning to take the fatal step. Helen Giertz is wearing Jack Claghorn's pin while Jean Syzman ski is sporting one from Duane Burt.

An extensive variety of costumes made their appearance at the various dances held last weekend. There was Brenda Brandt playing the role of the W.C.T.U. at the Bowery dance while Pete Buckstaff appeared as the spirit of motherhood. Dave Hart and Jeannette Vanderpol appeared as flaming youth with Dick Nerad excellently portraying Teddy Roosevelt. Gale George, as the famous Gertrude Ederle, spent the evening searching for the English Channel.

Odds and ends lacking classification: Button Elliott and Betty Lamb displayed unusual athletic ability by winning the chinning contest at the C. Club picnic. Displaying this same athletic ability, Persie Swett caught a softball on her nose and now has two attractive black eyes. In a literary trend Pat Starrels finds herself all too frequently mistaken for the new librarian. And so it goes.

CC Students Operate Station KVOR One Day

Tuesday was Colorado College day at radio station KVOR, when students of the Radio Production class and other students interested in radio literally "took over" the running of the station.

Station officials assigned positions from auditions held the preceeding week and Tuesday morning at 6:00 the prospective announcers and continuity writers began to file into the station. Pushing aside all inhibitions, they took over the positions regularly held by veteran announcers and radio staff writers.

College day was one phase of a program designed by Professor Woodson Tyree to acquaint students with the actual operation of a radio station, and to give them practical experience in writing and announcing, the aim of the course.

Students in the Radio Production class had already had experience in broadcasting the regular weekly programs which the college presents over both local stations and hope to have the opportunity of running station KRDO.

Two Seniors to Give Recital at Perkins Sun.

The Sunday afternoon concert in Perkins Hall Auditorium at 4:30 will present two seniors in recital. Evalyn Sullivan, who will graduate in June, will play a Bach Concerto in D Minor. John White of the music faculty will be the accompanist. Miss Sullivan is a piano student of Mr. White.

James Erb will have half the program as his senior recital with John White at the piano. Erb is a student of Eugene Casselman and needs no introduction to Colorado College or to Colorado Springs. For the past several years he has been conductor of the Workshop Singers. He has sung on many concert programs, sang the leading role in the Fountain Valley School operetta, "The Mikado," a year ago and has sung at Grace Church regularly. He will sing three groups of songs.

Department of Labor Reveals Job Facts for 1950 Graduates

With about 5000,000 college students graduating this year—the largest number in our country's history—the job outlook for the new college graduates is generally good. It is not, however as good as in 1947 and 1948. The outlook is clouded by three factors: the large number of graduates who will be seeking jobs; a moderate increase in the total number of unemployed persons; and the filling of war-created shortages of college graduates in some specialized fields by the large graduating classes of 1948 and 1949.

General observations about conditions in the job market tend to hide widely varying situations. Prospects are excellent in some occupations, industries, and areas. In others, where wartime and post-war shortages have now been filled, many graduates will find it difficult to get jobs.

In teaching, for example, there is at once an acute shortage of personnel in the elementary schools and a growing oversupply at the high school level. Other professional fields in which stiff competition for jobs is expected in the next few years include law, journalism, and personnel work. In engineering, the number of graduates will exceed the number of openings in the early 1950's; after the next four or five years, the employment situation for new graduates is likely to improve in this rapidly growing profession. In chemistry, competition will be keen during the next few years among persons without graduate training; the outlook is better for those with graduate degrees.

There will probably be an oversupply of business administration graduates. A surplus of new graduates has already developed in the field of accounting. Liberal arts graduates with work experience or specialized training will find it easier to get jobs than those with only a general undergraduate education.

Prospects for new entrants are good in health service occupations. There is a current shortage of nurses, and demand for nursing service will probably continue to rise. In medicine and dentistry those able to enter and complete training will have good opportunities; however competition is very keen for admission to professional schools. In pharmacy the supply of new graduates has almost caught up with the demand; the profession may be overcrowded in the long run if enrollments in pharmacy continue at the present high levels. Good opportunities are expected for other occupational groups important in health service, such as veterinarians, medical X-ray technicians, medical laboratory technicians, dental hygenists, physical therapists, occupational therapists, and dietitians.

Those whose training lies in the crowded fields have several alternatives open to them. First of all, they would be well advised to explore the possibilities of entering any fields allied to their field of primary interest, where there may be more openings. They should also explore the possibility of graduate training to equip themselves with more specialized skills.

Travel Service Offers Student Trips Abroad

Summer trips to Europe for students and teachers are available at very low prices through Laborde Travel Service, Inc., sponsored by the Cooperative Bureau for Teachers. Prices of these tours begin at $550 and include round-trip transportation to and from the United States by Youth Argosy planes or student ships, international summer session at a European university, meals, accommodations in good hotels or in private homes, excursions, sightseeing and group travel in Europe. Laborde has two different kinds of trips—one for people who want to travel independently at their own expense after finishing the group program at one of the summer schools, and the other for those who prefer to have a planned program for the entire time they spend abroad.

The majority of Laborde trips center around the International Summer School conducted by the University of Innsbruck and the Austrian League of the United Nations at Mayrhogen in Austria (accepted under the G. I. Bill). There is also a special trip this coming summer based on a six-week course in directing Drama and Opera at the Mazarteum in Salzburg.

Another trip gives a week in Paris and four weeks at the University of Caen in Normandy. Here, emphasis is on the excellent refresher courses for teachers and students of French at the university summer session. There will also be lectures on French history, literature, economics and music by distinguished professors, and excursions to Mont-Saint-Michel, Rouen, and other places in Normandy where medieval and modern history has been made.

Next summer Laborde Travel Service is also offering a trip to the Scandinavian countries, England, Holland, and France—with a holiday course in Copenhagen, including field trips to farms, factories, modern housing developments.

For folders and further information about these and other trips in Switzerland, Italy, Southern France, Spain—ask Mrs. Mary S. Barkalow, Bemis Hall.

CC DANCE DEPT. IN ANNUAL CONCERT AT FINE ARTS CENTER THEATER TONIGHT

Music of Moussorgsky, as well as original compositions by CC students and faculty, will be featured in the dance concert tonight at the Fine Arts Center. Modest Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibitian" provides the background for the main section of the program this year. Although written in 1874, "Pictures" did not become popularly known until 1922 when the Ravel orchestration was made. Ten years ago, Jan Veen, Boston dance master, did a choreography for "Pictures at an Exhibition." It ran three consecutive seasons at the "Pops" with the Boston Symphony Hall.

Gregory MacDougall, assistant professor of dance, has done the chreography after Veen. The piece as written by Moussorgsky was for a single piano. Robert Wharton, instructor in music, has made a two piano transcription which will be played by him and John White, also an instructor in music.

The "Pictures at an Exhibition" is a colorful musical interpretation of the life through much of Europe in the 19th Century. The inspiration for "Pictures" came from the paintings of Victor Hartmann which were shown after Hartmann's death. He had travelled in much of Europe and his friend Moussorgsky tried to capture the spirit of Poland, France, Italy and Russia as he depicted it.

Two of the compositions produced last year will be presented again this year in addition to "Pictures at an Exhibition." They are the graceful and swift moving "Dance Suite" and the excitingly dramatic "Primitive."

The "Dance Suite" was written by Professor Lahmer and two of his composition students, Ted Coons and Ruth Itschner. The "Primitive" is an original composition by Stan Finn.

Choreography for both these pieces was done by Gregory MacDougall. A few minor changes have been made but are on essentially the same theme as last year.

All the dancers are C. C. students studying under MacDougall. Costume design and execution are being carried out under his direction. The stage crew is from Professor Woodson Tyree's production class and under his supervision.

Dean Fauteaux and Mother Rundell Feted

The pledge class of Gamma Phi Beta held a dessert in honor of Dean Fauteaux and Mother Rundell at the lodge last Friday evening. The house mothers of all the fraternities and sororities were present, along with the Gamma Phi active chapter. After tea and cake were served, gifts were presented to Mrs. Fauteaux and Mother Rundell. Bridge and Canasta games wound up the festivities for the evening.

To Smoke or Not to Smoke

By TED LOTT

It was a dark discouraging day as I sat in my mouldy room crying over my little mound of cigarette butts; all that remained of my care free days of many many packs of fresh, round, and firmly packed weeds. Now I was flat except for a couple of tired pennies that remained in the recesses of my pockets. Oh Lord, how I wanted a smoke. To take my mind from this dilemna I picked up a magazine and browsed through it. Suddenly there appeared in blazing headlines (blazing, as the picture of a blazing match was before me, lighting a cigarette) "I stopped Smoking, Successfully." This, I decided, was for me. As I read it my whole future spread across my mind—I could be a martyr and sneer at those hapless individuals that sucked in smoke all day, and suffered in the presence of no smoking signs. Oh, how wonderful it will be, I thought, to wave away someone desperately trying to offer me a cigarette. Ah, you poor slave to the eternal white stick, no longer will I have to suffer with you.

Sometime later I was enjoying dinner with my many smokestack friends when one of the distressed creatures asked me for a butt. Now was my chance to show my great accomplishment. Casually I informed him that I no longer was smoking and was unable to help him. He looked at me an instant with a expression of disbelief, then turned his attention elsewhere. This came as a profound shock to me as I had expected him to shower great praise upon me. Oh well, he is a rather unemotional fellow anyway. Others would be more understanding.

Now as I, A poor shaking soul, wend my way toward classes, friendless and alone, I like to reflect upon the sun filled days when I too was one of them. A being who could give a cigarette to one in need. OH MISERY!

Question of the Day; Is a Kiss A-Lliptical

We Americans do everything well, so why shouldn't we excel in the technique of kissing, the art of osculatory timing, holding and repetition? The answer is that we do; we know how to kiss with more finesse than most other peoples but where we sometimes fail is knowing how to kiss a certain type of lips.

Firstly here are three don'ts on kissing. Don't kiss a girl who is over eighty year old, the wick doesn't need turning up as there just isn't any kerosene.

Secondly, don't kiss a girl whose false teeth are not in tightly because you won't look well wearing a set of teeth over yours.

Thirdly, don't kiss a girl who is wearing a heavy veil because it's just like eating soup without taking out of the can.

At this point let's consider the different types of feminine lips and how you should handle each situation. For instance, the girl with the nervous lips. These are the kind that quiver when you place your mustache above them. If you desire less quiver just press your lips tighter to hers. If you want more emotion the relaxing of this pressure does the trick.

Then there are the athletic lips that are puckered into a hard doughnut-like ring. This same type sometimes holds her lips in such a straight line you feel like you are kissing a crack in the sidewalk. The way to control this is to ask her a question and when she relaxes her lips to talk don't lose any time but osculate the lovely quickly.

The next study is the very thickly rouged lips and here you must look out for skidding. This kiss should not be hurried, but made with deliberation because if you rush into it you may slide off her lips and swallow and earring. To swallow an earring is not so bad unless she is wearing those long drops. You will find this variety to be most indigestible.

Now we have the girl who holds her lips so that they look like the bell of a cornet. She usually closes her eyes, thrusts her neck forward and remains motionless, waiting in anticipation. Obviously she is an amateur and therefore is a greedy kisser because she has no technique and from experience she knows there will be no encore. Be careful just before the kiss that you don't unconsciously shape your lips the same way or you'll be so far away from each other it would be better to write. The way to work with this type is, after she gets all set, tell her something funny and when she starts to smile do your stuff.

Then there is the girl who converses all during the kiss. She is the one whose lips are as dry as the Sphinx's nose and who is usually talking out the side of her mouth while you are trying to hold a kiss like the famous movie star lover. The remedy is very simple for this. Just hold her so tight that she can't talk. (NOTE: Be

Eleven Steps for Wooing And Winning the Ladies

Most American women grow up, become engaged, marry and have children without ever coming closer to a double-distilled, 90-proof job of wooing than the nauseous bleatings of Dagwood for that great American heroine, Blondie. To help the poor American male who has the will but scant knowledge of the way of wooing and winning his woman, the May issue of Esquire features an unusual eight-page supplement, THE ART OF COURTSHIP. Below are listed 10 phases of a deluxe courtship from the first date to the fireworks:

1. FIRST DATE—This may be your first mistake, so make it a good one. Send camellias; they're less usual than gardinias, and so (she'll make you think) are you.

2. RECONNAISSANCE — Next trey that jug of wine and book of verse gambit. A picnic. But shake her head for rattles now, or you never will know.

3. HAT IN THE RING—All right, she's smart. Now you're sending her little gifts. As long as you think you know what you're doing, be original!

4. SURPRISE—For some special occasion, toss her a bouble along with something practical like a sewing machine or a wash tub. If she's bright she'll catch on.

5. BIG DRIVE—The pressure is on. If she isn't pure glacier with a granite base, theatre tickets and champaign will soften her.

6. FIRST FIGHT—You spoiled her and the brat had the effrontery to answer back. Send a vegetable corsage with plenty of onions to put her in her place.

7. PEACE OFFERING—Don't weaken. Let her languish for awhile—then send her a kitten. Every time it meows she'll think of you and she'll meow.

8. THE COMEBACK—A quiet, candlelit table and soft music. Just feed her, now, you're in.

9. HOME STRETCH—So this is it. So you've decided to put this one on ice. Turn on the heat with a leather vanity case and a fur piece. If you can't win with this barrage, better have your head examined.

10. THE FINISH—Congratulations. The camellias did it—with the help of a little stone for her finger.

That's all there is to it. And so to wed—and all those dishes and diapers!

sure to relax your tigbt hold on her before she passes out).

The last on the list of types is the girl who leaves her mouth partly open when you kiss her. You must handle this type with great care because you may get bitten or give an imitation of a lion tamer putting his head in the lion's mouth. However, you can fool this kind of kissee by just waiting until she has to swallow and by giving her a kiss before she can let her lips sag apart again.

With this information you should be well fortified against all slips of the lips excepting the ones that lead to the altar and that simply means that you have learned your lesson in kissing too well.

Phi Gam Bowery Dance Resembles Roaring 20s

Up the winding road of Ute Pass, slicked over with snow and rain, a colonade of Fiji cars made their way to Green Mountain Falls to the Columbine Inn, where last Saturday they held their annual Bowery dance.

The famous street of New York and the flaming 20's were depicted in the array of costumes that clad the "bowery bums." The highlight of the evening was the solemn ceremony of the presentation of a purple garter to the dates. While Bill Sereff and his band played over the murmurs of the "Oh's" and and "Ah's," the group sang the traditional "Purple Garter Song." It was one of the most successful dances that the Phi Gams held all year, and it looks like the purple garter is here to stay.

French Style Blast At Sigma Chi House

The Sigma Chi Fraternity held its annual Apache Dance last Saturday night at the chapter house. Upon entering the back door of Apache-land, the be-gartered Mam'selles and dapper Mon'-suers found themselves in a sewer-like tunnel leading to a typical French saloon. A background of soft music prevailed throughout the evening, both in the cabaret and the roof garden. (—which was reached through the ascension of a treacherous stairway, and passing through the photographie Shoppe). Amidst a sawdust covered floor and barrel furniture, the strains of "Vio-vio-vio la!" were intermittently heard, with an occasional round of the old American folk song, "Uncle George." The Sigma Chis take off their tams to Ollie Campbell for doing a wonderful job providing various types of entertainment for all to enjoy.

Seven New Initiates Of Beta Theta Pi

Sunday evening Beta Theta Pi held a formal initiation for second semester pledges in Shove Chapel. Seven men received the diamond and the three stars. They are: Lawrence C. Waddington, Evanston, Ill.; Courtland O. Bymaster, Colorado Springs; Ralph M. Wood, Red Cliff, Colo.; Robert J. Colquitt, Denver; John S. Reidhead, Wayzata, Minn.; Stephen S Head, Evanston, Ill.; Donald K. Chisholm, Chicago, Ill.

Following the initiation a formal banquet was held in Carpenter's Hall down town. The fraternity sincerely wishes to thank the following girls for giving their time toward helping make the banquet a success. They were: Mrs. James Harrison, Archie Borman, Barbara Ramsey; Joan Tutin; Thora Hodge, Mary Altendorf, Carol Nichols and Margie Ebright.

C.E.D. Outlines Securily of Freedom

A very vital article dealing with the Survival of Freedom has just been released by the Committee of Economic Development. The Article has been prepared by economists and social scientists after research in the field of Freedom in this and other countries.

They state that freedom cannot survive in today's world without a reasonably adequate security. An adequate security program obviously requires a large military establishment. But it must also include such non-military weapons as diplomacy, world information, economic aid and an effective intelligence service. All this is not enough because security measures, uncurbed by the requirements of freedom, can undermine our institutions. Public apathy and the pressure for security can lead us along a dangerous road—a road that will end in what has aptly been called a garrison-police state. In such a police state the soldier and the political policeman rise to power while the institutions of civilian society and of Freedom shrink. In the name of security the channels of public information dry up; the press becomes a mere purveyor of political handouts. When the public is cut off from significant information, editors, commentators and group leaders become less acurate in their judgements. Public discussion of political issues will become less and less; the power of Congress dwindles; the courts weaken and the civilian administration is taken into the militarists hands. This exemplified in some of the staclilite states and their controller.

But even the most democratic states recognize the need for some sort of security program for we must protect our freedom to a certain degree. It is necessary that we continue our loyalty investigations; that we keep censorship over scientific investigations and technical information and maintan an adequate defense program.

Bengals to Oppose Mines Twice This Weekend

Tiger Nine Splits Two Game Series with Colorado State; Win 6-2 Then Lose 10-2

The Colorado College baseball team split a two-game series last weekend with the Colorado State Bears at Greeley. CC won the opening game on Friday 6-2 as Dick Bergeson hurled four-hit ball and beat Ben Dreith, one of the best pitchers in the region. In the second game, played in weather suitable for swimming, Mark Kocevar went the first seven innings, allowing eigbt runs. Harry Wise pitched for the Bears, allowing seven hits. The final score was 10-2 in favor of Colorado State.

On Friday the Tigers started off with a run in the first inning, garnered four more in the third and sewed it up with a single tally in the ninth. Colorado State acored both their runa in the second inning. CC's four runs came on two errors, a wild pitch, Bill Dewire'a single and Pat Killen's triple Greeley scored both runs on one hit, a walk and three errors.

Tony Esposito led the Bengals with two hits while Sajevic led the Bears with three hits. In the pitching department Dreith walked three and struck out nine while Bergeson walked three and struck out eight, five of these strike outs coming in the last two innings.

A steady downpour throughout Saturday's game made playing conditions rather difficult. Colorado State opened the scoring in the very first inning as Ed Kinney homered with none on. A single by Wise and an error paved the way for their sceond run. The sixth was the big inning as the Bears countered four times on a double, two singles, a walk and an error. CC scored their two runs in tbe eighth inning on Killen's bomer with Jack Gray on base.

Killen led the Tiger hitters with two hits while Ed Kinney led the Bears with three hits. Kochevar walked four and struck our four. Wise walked four and struck out six.

CC Cubs Baseball Team Lases to Camp Carsan 11-5

The Freshmen baseball team opened up their season last Friday afternoon, playing host to Camp Carson. The Frosh proved to be perfect hosts as they let the soldiers walk off with an 11-5 victory.

There was never much doubt as to who was going to win after the first inning as the army men teed off on the offerings of Harvey Carter for eight runs in the initial inning. Errors paved the way for the most of these runs as the Cubs were not yet sure of themselves in the field.

Four Camp Carson hurlers kept the hits well separated so that Coach Duggan's players didn't do to well in the run column. Carter worked the first six innings with Carl Rinker working the last two. The game was cut short due to rain.

CC to Play at Golden Tomorrow; Miners Here For Single Game Sat.

The Colorado College baseball team faces two more RMC battle this weekend and two victories would set the Tigers on top of tha conferenee. The Colorado State series showed that CC does hava some pitching and now if Coach Carle's players could come up with some good hitting and good pitching in the same game it would spell disaster for a good many opponents.

This week's opponent is tha Colorado School of Mines and they already hold one decision over CC. It is expected that Joe Alberto, the little lefthander who set the Tigers down before, will hurl in Friday'a game at Golden with Hurley Pepper, their big righthander, drawing the assignment the following day when the two teams square off on Stewart Field at 2:00 p. m. Leading tha Mine's attack will probably be Bill Korn, slugging first baseman who had four-for-four in the CC game.

Coach Carle will probably go along with his usual starting lineup. Jack Gray will be at first base, Frankie Zingone or Tony Frasca at second base, Tony Esposito at short stop, John Crumley or Frasca at third. Carle has four capable outfielders to choose from so they will all aee servica during the series. They are: Vince Giammarrio, Bill Dewire, Pat Killen and John Litt. Guy Gibbs, who caught both games at Greeley, and Bill Harley will probably split the catching duties. Dick Bergeson and Mark Kochevar will probably do tha pitching in the series although Vic Pugal, currently nursing a sora arm, may be ready for aetion. In reserve are Harry Whitworth and Dick Perse.

Leahy and Anderson To Head CC 1950 Coaching School

Notre Dame's Frank Leahy and Forrest Anderson of Bradley University will head the staff for Colorado College's second annual Coaching School, to be held June 5 thru 9, it was announced recently by C. C. football Coach Allison Binns, director of the school.

This will be Leahy's second appearance to the Tiger school while Anderson will be making his first appearance to the C.C. campus. Leahy holds one of the greatest records in college football while Anderson's Bradley University cagers finished as No. 1 team in the nation this year. Bradley is slated to compete in N. C. A. A. cage tourney at Kansas City this week.

Assisting Leahy on the gridiron staff will be two former All-Americans who are now on the Notre Dame staff. They are Joe McArdle and Bernie Crimmins. McArdle won All-American honors as a guard at Fordham in 1932 and 1933. Crimmins was an All-American at Notre Dame in 1941 and he will handle the quarterbacks with McArdle slated to handle the line.

Two Notre Dame returning regulars will also be on hand as guest of the C.C. Coaching School. Leahy plans to use these two men in demonstrations. Both are members of the unbeaten and untied 1949 Irish eleven.

Both Leahy and Anderson will give daily lectures on various aspects of their respective coaching sports. One academic hour will be allowed to all those attending school. Room and board for the entire school can be received for $25.00 on the C.C. campus. Veterans can attend on the GI Bill.

Last year 137 prep and college coaches attended the school and Coach Binns expects even a greater number this year.

Under the joint sponsorship of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Epsilon, the event has co-chairman this year in Prof. David W. Crabb, president of the former, and Prof. Richard M. Pearl, Delta Epsilon.

Invitations have been mailed with reply forms to all members of the CC Board of Trustees; faculty, alumni and local members of the honor organizations; husbands, wives and parents of initiates and special friends of the college. CC HOCKEY TEAM HONORED: The Colorado College NCAA championship hockey team was honored last Thursday evening by the Colorado Springs Elks Clulb at the club house. Over 300 members of the order of Elks were on hand to honor the champion CC teem. The Banquet consisted of a feed, movies of the CC-BU title geme and other entertainment. The entire CC teem are shown above being introduced by hockey Coach Cheddy Thompson.

Two inebriates were leaning against a bar. The stout one had his right hand closed and occasionally peeked into it.

"Whatcha got?" his friend asked.

"Guess what," was the reply.

"June Bug?"

"Nope." The inebriate took another peek.

"Bluebird?"

"Nope, guess again."

"Heck, how do I know; maybe it's an elephant!"

At that, the drunk took another somewhat longer look, smiled and asked, "What color?"

CC Now Possesses Ancient Letter of Teddy Roosevelt Dated 1908

In among the ancient maze of dust and debris a very important letter was excavated by Mrs. Jackie Kirchner just the other day. The letter was filed in the miscellaneous section of the CC campus storeroom. This letter could have been written by Adam but we sincerely doubt he could have found the time because of his successful dinosaurburger concession. However disappointing this may be, we here relate that it was written by no other person but good old Teddy Roosevelt. It seems that Teddy was very much interested in recommending a forestry school for CC. That only goes to prove that he could also spot a good limb at quite a distance.

The letter dated May 27, 1908 was written on White House stationery and Teddy had changed the sentence, "It is in the west that the largest portion of our national forests lie" to read "It is in the west that the largest number of our National Forests lies."

This change was accomplished by Teddy's own handwriting. Mesmore Kendall, secretary to Grand old T. R. recalled that "No matter how carefully I wrote the letters he dictated he always corrected the text in his own handwriting. Once he did this I rewrote the letters, making the corrections, and returned them to him for signing. "Don't do that," Teddy would exclaim, "I always do something like that it makes the letters more personal." So if any of you are interested in seeing this monument to Teddy's ingenuity in the art of writing one may observe this phenomenon clinging to the walls of the reception room.

The rattle of hoofs—a dash of purple—robed sheiks led by the Keedive down the sandy, Morocco street. The American Gob watched them turn the corner, prepared to move on when a veiled, chic-looking sheba running toward him, touched his sleeve:

"Queek, queek," she hissed, "whick way—the Kan?"

"Lady," replied the Gob sorrowfully, "I don't know—I'm a long way from home!"

Arriving at a strange hotel, a fussy woman thought she'd better know where the fire escape was. So she started exploring. During her tour, she opened a door and found herself in a bathroom occupied by an elderly gentleman taking a bath.

"Oh I'm sorry!" she twittered, "I was looking for the fire escape."

Continuing her search, presently she heard the pat of feet behind and a shout that made her turn. It was the elderly gentleman, clad in a bath towel.

"Wait a minute!" he gasped. "Where's the fire?"

CARLE BEATS BUTLER ON DIAMOND:

CC baseball coach Jerry Carle pulled the prize punch of the week last Friday afternoon at Greeley when his Tiger diamondeers scored a 6-2 win over Colorado State, 1949 RMC baseball champs. Greeley also took the NCAA District "7" playoff last season. State was rated the top team in the region again this season since they were loaded with returning lettermen and a top pitching staff. However CC's Dick Bergensen limited the heavy hitting Bears to three base hits while the Tigtrs collected six bingles off big Ben Dreith. sensational State hurler. This was a sweet victory for Coach Carle for this is the first time he has defeated a Butler coached team in his two years at CC. On Saturday the two teams played in a steady downpour and Greeley aiming to avenge the defeat handed them on Friday would not call the game off in spite of the fact 40 baseballs were used in the same. When Mr. Butler and his Bears come down to Colorado Springs on May 6 and 7, they can rest assured that they will receive a grand reception.

CC INTRAMURAL PROGRAM VERY SUCCESSFUL:

The CC intramural athletic program is again approaching the end of another successful year. Under the direction of Cheddy Thompson and Mike Yalich, CC has had one of the most outstanding intramural programs in years. The competition among various organizations has been very keen and the spirit of the students attending the intramural games is excellent. In fact at times intramural games have drawn more ardent fans than a varsity athletic event. Capacity crowds have attended touch football games, boxing and wrestling matches, basketball games and early morning softball games. Let's keep up the excellent interschool athletic competition.

COLLEGE STUDENTS STRONGLY OPPOSE ENTRY QUOTA PLAN

Although college students are overwhelmingly opposed to the quota systm, it is still being used by many colleges to bar entrees on the basis of race and religion, charges Arnold Forster, Civil Rights Director of the AntiDefamation League, in a recent issue of Look magazine.

Administrators of liberal arts colleges questioned were remarkably unamious in condemning the quota system, yet study of the application forms of 518 colleges disclosed that over 92 percent contained at least one question which could lead to discrimination.

In October 1949, two letters were sent to each accredited liberal arts college in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, one signed by an obvious "Jewish" name and one by a "non-Jewish." Of the total 106, forty-one responded differently to the "non-Jewish" letter.

In a survey just completed, only one out of 10 seniors expressed preference for colleges which discriminate. Almost 80 percent of the non-Jewish seniors said it would make no difference to them if a member of a minority group worked beside them and almost 70 percent would be willing to entertain any of them in their homes.

The low index of prejudice on the campus is apparently, however, not the result of a college education, concludes the Look article, since the incidence of prejudice among seniors is largely the same as that for freshmen.

Survey of Revenue Conducted This Week

A survey is being conducted this week among CC students to determine the importance of the college as a large source of reveue to the city and the amount and distribution of the expenditures of college students.

The questionnaire will check the monthly incomes and expenditures of the students. Expenses are grouped as follows: food, lodging, clothing bought at local stores, laundry and cleaning, organization dues, entertainment (movies, bars and recreation), miscellaneous, automobile expenses, and medical expenses, with amounts to be estimated for each item. Financial aid is ascertained by income from local pobs and any scholarships held by htudents.

Student cooperation is urged in this survey to assure accurate compilation of the data. Results will be made available soon.

satire and irony of the story. The truly great books are books that can be read time and again without tiring of the story. They present a different light each time and a better understanding appears at every reading. A person who enjoys reading good literature again and again is building an impression, just as the writer did when he wrote the book.

Mr. Ericcson stated that good literature is not an escape but a means of enjoying life for its own sake. He told of his own experience in high school when he wanted to learn more of the sociology and economic problems of his home town. He found the same problems existed in Great Literary masterpieces; even though they had been written years before the great writers had searched deeply into the people of the time and made them as human and real as if they had lived only yesterday.

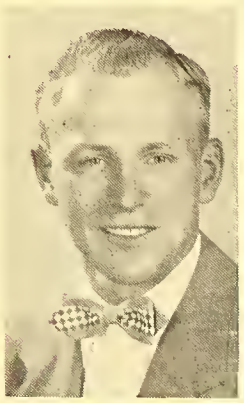
Dwight Brothers, Sigma Chi, from Colorado Springs was decisively elected as the new president of the Colorado College Student Body in the final election held at Palmer Hall today. A total of 662 students voted in the finals with Brothers receiving 462 votes and Jack Pfeiffer the other candidate polling a total of 200 votes.



DWIGHT BROTHERS

Brothers will succeed Jim Kinder the outgoing ASCC president. The new prexy will take over as Student Council head at a joint meeting to be held next Monday afternoon.

When contacted this afternoon after the tabulating of votes, the new student council president said, "I extend my sincere thanks to the entire student body for the honor bestowed upon me. I would like all students and organizations to consult me on all problems and suggestions that may concern student government. I also thank everyone for the grand turn out. This indicates the real interest in student government, and I wil try to fulfill any faith which you may have in me. It has been a very fair and outstanding campaign on the part of all—especially the candidates and their managers."

CC Job Clinic to Be Held Saturday At Perkins Hall

The first job clinic to be held on this campus will take place this Saturday from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Four experts on the job qualifications, opportunities, and interview techniques will address students in Perkins Hall, and A. M. Riddle, manager of the Research department of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Corporation, will be speaker at a luncheon to be held in the Plaza hotel Coffee Shop.

Mr. Riddle's topic will be "The New West Moves Ahead." He has been with the Colorado Fuel and Iron Corporation for over 25 years and, at the present time, directs market research and statistical activities for the steel firm. He is a member of the American Marketing Association, the Denver Chamber of Commerce, and the Manufacturers' Association of Colorado.

Other speakers include: Robert Joyce, Employment Officer of the Public Service Company of Colorado; Carl H. Of particular value to the student will be the question and answer period at 2:00 and the Lennox House smoker at 4:00, for, at these sessions, more detailed opinions may be aired by these experts. Mr. Joseph Reich, president of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, will moderate the panel to be held at 10:00.

All CC students, men and women, are most eordially invited to attend the clinic; however, it is most important to the juniors and seniors.

Tickets for the luncheon ($1.00 each) may be obtained from members of the business and economics departments.

Three Colo. College Students Elected As NSA Regional Officers at Greeley

Colorado College students were elected to three of the seven regional offices of the National Students Association during the Rocky Mountain region convention at the Colorado State College of education last weekend. The new officers are as follows: Roy Homer, Colorado A&M, president; Pat Moore, Loretta Heights, vice president of Student Affairs; Linzee Packard, CC, vice president, of Educational Problems; Bob Wintz, Colorado A&M, vice president of International Affairs; Ann Lindstrom, Colorado University, secretary; Dave Sproule, CC, treasurer, and Bob Humphreys, CC, Public Relations officer.

A preliminary sketch of and statement of the philosophical basis for a national students' Bill of Rights was discussed and approved by the delegates from member schools in the region. These drafts, originating in this region, will be carried to the national NSA convention next fall for adoption on a nation-wide basis.

Schools in Idaho, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, and Wyoming, as well as Colorado, are included in the Rocky Mountain region; but only Colorado schools were represented by means other than correspondence. Eleven schools in this state were represented by the 65 delegates attending the Greeley convention.

Those attending from CC were Jim Kinder, Clariee Hads, Jane Little, David Sproule, Bob Packard and Bob Humphreys. Jim Doherty accomanpied the group as faculty advisor. Members of the Drama Department presented a stunt on the customary Friday evening skit show.

MEMOIRS OF A PERKINS HALL PIANO

I come from a long line of Steinways that have played an important role in American art. They call me the Empress because my keyboard is so well-suited to the demands of the Emperor Concerto.

My chief lament is that I get so little rest. Every afternoon I have to suffer under the probing little fingers of nervous students. You see, I and several of my more aristocratic sisters hold court in the rooms of the north of the corridor and are used for the giving of lessons. Anyone who thinks we don't get a workout in the afternoons ought to talk to the Duchess next door, in Dr. Lanner's room. He gives lessons on her every afternoon from one till five. She tells me that sometimes her action gets so tired she can hardly fling a hammer.

I hear from one of my pals downstrairs that she just begged and begged that the Job Clinic be held in the auditorium here so that she could learn what the opportunities were for a slightly worn piano; and finally they have agreed to hold it here after all. I suppose that the baskets will be mad over at Cossitt, but after all this is the place where it should be held.

I don't think people really realize how hard it is on the nerves of a sensitive piano like me to have to play in a room all day that isn't sound-proofed. I haven't heard a soul around here say that they would object to moving into a new and adequate building. In the meantime, I guess all we can do is try our best to serve the students who pay extra fees in order to study and practice music as a part of the total academic program.—David Crabb.

WEE TIGER'S PAWS

By Bob Humphreys

This weekend sees the birth of tbe first program to take into consideration tbe fact that we are bere to prepare our little gray matter for the hardknocks wbich lie ahead in the business and professional world. Actually, the job clinic isn't the first program but it is the first one to be publicised.

Of equal importance with this Saturday's five-man performance, is the career counselling program which Miss Morgan introduced upon her arrival in Colorado Springs. "Shugah's" one-woman project, if given the green light by the administration, may well blossom into one of the biggest things that ever hit the college.

Her plan begins with an improved faculty-student adviser system, includes a valuable system of aptitude tests, and bas its natural conclusion in the job clinics and personal career advice. The job clinic, which promises to be a big success just as it is on otber campuses ,is only the first part of the plan to be carried out on a grand scale; and, if the remainder is put into effect next year, we will owe a big round of applause to the big boys over in the bell tower and to Miss Morgan in particular.

While on the eubject of the job clinic, and in all due respect to the one hundred students who cooperated with us Tuesday, we may as well mention our first experiment in Gallupation. We journeyed around campus and asked 57 men and 43 women the same group of nine questions.

Among the results, we found that 81 students thought the job clinic was a great idea, four thought it wasn't so hot, and 15 weren't well enough acquainted with the program.

We also discovered that 87 per cent of the students questioned thought that a course in basic journalism should be included in the curriculum; and, much to our surprise 61 of those questioned said that they would like to take such a course if they could spare the hours from their major subject. Also in tbe journalistic area, we found that 78 per cent believe that student publications should

The recent inauguration of an over-all honor system, with its unavoidable imperfections, is a cause for rejoicing. The proposed amendment to the cut system, coming at the same time, is cause for somewhat less than rejoicing. The successive proposals are similar to one step forward and two steps back.

One of the major objectives of higher learning is the development of responsible citizenship, and responsibility begins and ends with the self. To allow each person the freedom and limitation of his own sense of honor is certainly conducive to the development of this major objective. An attempt to control cutting by dismissal is just as certainly opposed to it.

It is probably true that the inauguration of a free cut policy would be attended by the same imperfections as the incipient honor system of three years ago. Several months after its introduction some few diehards had already pronounced the system a failure, but after almost three years of trial it has become a permanent and comprehensive policy. It would seem advisable then to consider a free cut policy in the same light.

Differing from the honor system, responsibility for its success or failure falls on both students and faculty and would necessitate a change in both their attitudes. With its many real and imaginary difficulties though, it has more than a fair chance for success and the attempt would certainly be worthwhile. Removal of the coercive factor from school life would do more than any amount of enforced curriculum to develop democratic responsibility.—Gerald J. Boyle.

If the reports are true, and there seems to be good reason to believe that they are, that the administration would like to put a bit of choke on the TIGER, I personally believe it is one of the most dangerous and disasterous things they can do.

Admittedly the administration has some responsibility for the paper, but I feel it must be limited to the same restrictions that are on any paper, no more. These came mainly under restrictions of the libel laws, defamation of character provisions and prohibitions against obscene literature.

With our new honor system going into effect, any actions of this type to stifle freedom of expression would seem to work at cross purposes.

The paper must have this freedom of expression in order to be sure that ALL views get a full hearing. What disappoints me is that at present when certain actions or people are criticized there, is too frequently, no answer from the party or parties concerned. If this would only take place the TIGER would do more to serve its purpose as a sounding board. This I do not believe is the TIGER'S fault but lies with the people who refuse or do not expreas their opinions openly for all to know.

If ideas or comments are bad, they should be attacked. If the attack is wrong it should be rebutted.

That is the only way tbe CC family can know what is going on. If there is a gag put on the TIGER our only means of spreading information and commen in CC will be stopped. All will be left to underhanded stories, rumor and lies. If printed in the TIGER, however, all would have a chance at evaluation. This is the only way to keep an informed public and help our college grow.

The administration now has the power to stop what they think is actually bad in its publication, as I especially know. There is no need for further censorship and restrictions on what may or may not be printed.

If further limitations are put on the staff and editor of the TIGER I personally request the word "student" be struck from the masthead and the administration bear the cost of production of the paper.—Bill Murray.

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

In just about all administrative procedure, it seems, those dealing with 'channels' sometimes forget which channel they are in (or ought to be in), I think. We've had several good practical examples of being in the wrong channel this year—the latest of which directly affects "The Tiger" and its place on the campus as the student's "voice." Last week scattered rumors were heard that the administration of the school was to throttle the stuff printed in these columns—and I, for one, don't like it at all! Of course, I suppose that one must get used to such petty dictatorship, but this column isn't going to give up without a fight, anyway!

The thing that made me the maddest about the whole deal, I think, is that the administrative officers responsible for applying the pressure neglected to take problems to the Publications Board —one set up to handle such matters, and to act as a 'buffer' between "The Tiger" and Nugget and the administration and outside influentials. They took it into their own hands to hand down the ultimatum—neglecting the medium of the Board. F. D. R. complex,

Chapel Speaker on Life's Treasures

"Where your treasure is there is your heart; show me what you like to do and I will tell you what you are", said Rev. Kenneth Smith, President of the Association of Ministers in opening his talk on self-examination Tuesday. Too many people make the center of their existence the search for pleasure and satisfying their own personal desires, in other words, their only god is their Ego, themselves. Money is another prime ambition of many, and was criticised by Smith, "It profits us nothing to gain tha world if we lose our souls." In other lives worry and fear play too large a part. All these elements can be balanced and used to advantage, so this is a good time for us to look into ourselves to be sura we are not allowing one to over-balance the others.

CC LaSalle String Quartet Plays To Enthusiastic Eastern Audiences

The LaSalle Quartet of Colorado College returned Saturday from a three-week concert tour on the eastern seaboard where they represented the college in performances featuring controversial modern works. They performed a series of concerts for art museums in Washington, Norfolk, Boston, and Montclair, New Jersey, as well as performing for student assemblies in various high schools, and presenting concerts in Long Branch, Asbury Park, New Jersey, and Alliance, Ohio.

The most unusual and exciting concerts were before high school audiences. Since the quartet was representing the college, they prefaced each of these performances with a short talk about our music program bere and about string quartet music in general. They discovered that only a handful of the students had ever heard chamber music before ,and since they had no opportunity of forming previous opinions, these students were particularly excited and enthusiastic in their reactions to the Bartok string quartet. One performance of this work in a high school auditorium was brought to a close by a cello string breaking in the middle of the piece, and one student commented, "Gee, that's a nice piece but it's too short."

The quartet performed at a chapel service of the student body of Mount Union College in Alliance, Ohio. This service was held in a downtown movie theater which was the only place in the town large enough to accommodate the audience. After this performance the quartet held a clinic for music students of the collega for the purpose of discussing chamber music. At this clinic the quartet was requested to play the quartet by Schoonberg which had not been scheduled for performance in Alliance. The students' reaction to this work was one of spontaneous enthusiasm.

This work by Schoenberg was the most controversial music played by the quartet. In an article in the Sunday paper previous to tha concert in Norfolk, one writer spoke of this quartet as the "acid test for musical liberals. Schoenberg is one of the most controversial figures in music today. His atonal musical language, harsh, dissonant, unbelievably ugly te to ears attuned to Beethoven, Wagner, Beethoven and Mozart, has been hissed and jeered repeatedly, and has been the cause of near riots in concert halls." However, after the concert by the La Salle Quartet the same writer had this to say: "Schoenberg has caused riots elsewhere; last night's performance was no cause for even faint muttering. There was no repellent harshness; nothing to cause you to grit your teeth. It flowed along smoothly, and the boys tossed it off like last winter's overcoat."

All in all the quartet was gone for about three weeks, travelled over five thousand miles and played as many as two performances a day. They will probably tour the same area at about the same time next year.

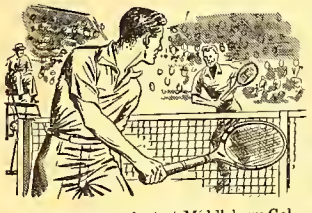
Air Intelligence, U.S. Air Force



An excellent student at Middlebury College, Vermont, Paul found time to win the coveted All Sports Trophy in bis senior year. He graduated in June, 1938.

His big plane education was topped with 23 missions over the far-famed "Hump," flying C-54 transports. After V-J Day, he stayed on in the Far East until March of 1948—specializing in Air Intelligence.

Back home, after accepting a Regular Air Force Commission, Captain Buskey went to Air Tactical school, was there rated an outstanding student, and won assignment to Command and Staff school.

Dr. Carter Gives Talk In Oklahoma City

Speaking before the Mississippi Valley Historical Society in Oklahoma City on April 11; Dr. Harvey L. Carter, professor of history said, "Americans traditionally and almost sub-consciously vote upon party lines laid down 100 years ago." In his speech he traced political patterns since the foundation of the Republican Party in 1854, using as illustrations the Midwest states of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

The professor went on to cite certain economic tendencies related to political preference. He said, "The evidence is strong enough to indicate the wealthier farmers as well as the business and industrial centers, tended to support the Republican Party."

He also pointed out men are not always swayed in political views by economic interest, religion and polities also have a definite relationship.

In a summary of his discussion of American political behavior Dr. Carter said, "A political pattern, once established tends to be continued indefinitely, insofar as presidential elections are concerned." Only two issues have been strong enough to modify established political patterns in a permanent way.

Sophomores To Hear Pros & Cons For Choice of Majors

There has been a certain amount of student complaint that sophomores who are faced with a choice of a major lack information which would be useful in making that choice.

In an attempt to remedy that situation, the Committee on Instruction has approved a plan whereby the Head of each department is requested to hold a special briefing session on his subject and its requirements. These meetings should all be held simultaneously at 10:00 A. M. on Tuesday, May 2nd, in the rooms especially assigned below for the purpose.

At the various meetings, the department head or his representative will cover the following points:

(a) The requirements for the major will be carefully explained, and wherever possible each student present will be given a written statement of the requirements.

By MARY RUBLE

Man the life boats, the irrigation season has begun again! It's time to bring the water wings out of mothballs, inflate that old inner tube and practice your surface diving to retrieve those dropped books. It's even been suggested that Frankie Laine is searching the area near the Chapel for signs of the swamp girl. Spring, it's wonderful!

Speaking of spring, the local G&T gave an excellent account of the pre-game activities to open the Sky Sox season in Monday night's paper. Their mention of the sun shining brightly didn't seem to jibe too well with the snowstorm that afternoon.

A battle royal was waged Wednesday afternoon between the Kappas and the Phi Delts for the possession of the illustrious milk can trophy. Complete with organized battle plans, flags and a deceptive force, the Kappas marched over to the Phi Delt house with Barbie Lett chanting the cadence. The Kappas retreated successfully with their prize and were followed by a Phi Delt raiding party. Again the battle flourished but the Phi Delts retired in confusion. According to a dispatch issued from Ddq. Kappa House, the trophy is now safely hidden but during the search it was stored in the Union Bus Depot in a dime storage locker. Tho tides of war take strange turns.

Cinnie Wahle and Bruce Kellner modeled tho winning costume at the Artists and Models Dance. Cinnio was gowned attractively as the spirit of the 20's while Bruce came as her French poodle with the aid of long underwear and a liberal supply of mops. Lyn Innis and Dick Rutledge were outstanding as the crow and the scarecrow.

In the pinned and engaged class Roso Perry is wearing Jim Cooper's Phi Gam pin. Dottie Wilkenson is soon to say "I do" to Lt. Sills from Camp Carson while Pat Hollister is displaying a ring from Dick McCleary.

Baseball has really taken over to the extent of filling the time formerly alloted to Loren Driscoll's radio show. Perhaps Loren can arrange to fill in for the Sky Sox in case of any more summer snows. What price recreation?

CC Seeks Two Victories Over Golden Buffalos Here This Weekend

Having played four games in the last six days, the CC baseball team will remain idle today in preparation for Colorado University, whom they face in a two game series tomorrow and Saturday on Stewart Field at 2:30.

CU has a fairly impressive record so far this year ,a record that includes two decisive wins over Colorado Mines, 18-6 and 29-9. Leading the Buffalo attack will probably be Bill Ley, outstanding third baseman and last year's leading hitter in the Big Seven. Coach Frank Prentup can call on several capable hurlers for this series but Bob Manire and Ed Pudlik will probably draw the starting assignments.

CC Coach Jerry Carle will probably go with his usual starting line-up of Jack Cray on first, Tony Frasca at second, Tony Esposito at short and John Crumley at third. Vince Giammario, Bill Dewire and Pat Killen will probably be in the outer garden. Bill Harley and Guy Gibbs will probably split the catching duties Vic Pugel and Dick Bergesen will undoubtedly draw the starting mound assignments with Mark Kochevar, Dick Perse and Harry Whitworth being held in reserve.

Mines Dumps CC Nine In Twelve Innings 8-7

A fighting Colorado School of Mines baseball team was not to be denied last Tuesday afternoon at Golden as they rallied for three runs in the bottom of the twelfth inning to defeat CC 8-7 in a RMC game.

Mines opened the scoring in the last of the first inning with two unearned runs. Two singles and the first of CC's eight errors gave the Orediggers their advantage. A third run scored in the last of the fifth on an infield hit, a sacrafice and a long single. The Tigers broke their scoring draught in the sixth inning when, with two out Bill Dewire homered with the bases empty. Three more runs crossed the plate in the seventh for the visitors as Hurley Pepper, Mines pitcher, lost his control and walked three straight men. Crumley was safe on a fielder's choice with one run scoring and then Dewire looped a fly ball into short field that dropped in for a double scoring two runs. Mines knotched a tally in the sixth on a single and a long triple by Pepper. Thus the two teams went into the ninth inning tied up at 4-4. Vince Giammario opened the inning with a home run, untying the score. Mines promptly rose to the occasion and knotted the score again on two singles and a sacrafice.

The two teams failed to score in either the tenth or the eleventh frames although both teams had the sacks loaded in the eleventh. Two singles and a walk jammed the sacks but they couldn't get that tally in their half of the inning on an error and a sacrifice put a Mines runner on second. Tiger Coach Jerry Carle then ordered Dick Bergesen to intentionally pass the next two hitters to get at a weak hitter. The strategy payed off as Bergesen forced the batter to foul out to catcher Guy Gibbs. Tony Frasca opened the twelfth frame with a home run. Gibbs singled, went to second on a sacrifice Bergesen then walked and Vince Giammario came through in the clutch again with a ringing double scoring Gibbs with the second run of the inning. Sporting this two run lead CC took the field in the last of the twelfth. Alberts opened up with a walk, Hohne doubled sending Roberts home. Pepper flied out for the second out but Dick Bench tripled pending in the tying run. Bob Einarson then broke up the ball game with a single to right field scoring with the winning run.

Both pitchers went all the way with Bergesen walking three and striking out seven. Pepper walked six and struck out six. Hitting stars included Giammario, Dewire, Korn and Einarson. All but the latter had two hits in five times up while Einarson had two-for-six.

Frosh Nine Split Two Games; Lose 12-5, Win 19-10

The CC Freshmen baseball team dropped their second decision of the year to Camp Carson last Friday 12-5. A combination of a fast ball pitcher and some costly errors again spelled the measure of defeat.

On Saturday afternoon the Freshmen met Pueblo Junior College and when the firing was over the Tiger Cubs were on the winning end of the 19-10 score.

Behind until the sixth inning CC exploded for ten runs driving pitcher Dick Mihalco from the hill. Buck Hall came into relieve him but he fared little better as the Frosh teed off on him for six more runs in the seventh. Two home runs were hit, one by Casey Pino for PJC in the first with none on and the other by CC's Wes Boucher in the fifth with the sacks empty.

Marion Young scattered the ten runs well, allowing not more than two in any one inning and coasting home after his mates went into the lead in the sixth inning.

INTRAMURAL

BILLBOARD

The early morning intramural softball league underwent a rapid start last week as all teams saw action in the first four days of play. Last Thursday morning the Sigma Chis trounced the undermanned Faculty 22-3 in a seven inning contest behind the five hit hurling of Bob Jones.

The Sigma Chis opened up with a big ten run first inning and then went on to defeat the Faculty 22-3. Two five run innings added to the lopsided score. Faculty games do not count in the Intramural softball.

On Friday morning the Phi Gams whipped the Betas 10-0 as Glenn Faucett set the Betas down without a hit and struck out thirteen of the sixteen men he faced. Only one Beta reached base and this was on an error.

Tuesday morning on Stewart Field the Kappa Sigs capitalized on a three-run rally in the initial frame to edge the Independents 3-2 in a well played encounter. Risal Lomo tossed a four hitter for the losers while Hula twirled a three hitter for the winning Kappa Sigs.

TIGERS ROMP OVER COLORADO MINES TWICE COLLECT 22-3; THEN EKE OUT 11-10 WIN

The Colorado College baseball team got good pitching and good hitting last weekend and the result was two wins over Colorado School of Mines. The Tigers really had their hitting clothes on Friday at Golden as they splattered sixteen hits, good for twenty-two runs, all over the place and walked off with a 22-3 victory. Vic Pugel went all the way to record his first win of the year. The scene shifted to Stewart Field for Saturday's contest and the Bengals scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth and came out on top 11-10.

In Friday's game the Tigers opened up with four runs in the first inning and then blew the game wide open with a six-run outburst in the second frame featured by two home runs. Tony Esposito homered with one on and then Crumley was safe on an error to be brought home a minute later on Dewire's blast. From there on out it was a just rout. CC scored two more counters in the third, four in the fourth, two in the sixth, two in the seventh and they finished up with two more in the ninth. Mines scored all three of their runs in the first inning on a home run by Norm Korn with two runners on.

Hitting star of the game was Tony Esposito with five hits in seven times up, including a home run, and these five hits drove in six runs. Other hitters for the Tigers included Bill Dewire with three-for-four and Pat Killen with two-for-three. Pugal walked three and struck out five in his second appearance of the year.

On Saturday CC went right to work with a three run rally in the first inning but starting pitcher Dick Bergesen couldn't hold the lead as the Orediggers bounced back for seven big runs in the second. Mark Kochevar finally came in to put out the fire and then went the rest of the way to gain three more runs and scattering eight hits. The Bengals pecked away at this lead scoring two runs in the third and they went into the lead in the fourth on a four-run outburst. Esposito's triple with two on was the big blow of the inning. Mines scored in the fifth and then took the lead on a two run surge in the seventh, but CC was not to be denied a walk, a single and two errors paved the way for the victory.

Home runs were again plentiful as Dewire hit one in the first with two on and then Crumley and Killen each knocked one out in the third with the sacks empty. John Crumley led the hitters with three-for-five, followed by Vince Giammario with two-for-four. Norm Korn and Dick Bench led the Miners with two hits apiece. The losing pitcher was Joe Alberts, the slow ball artist who defeated CC in the opening game of the season.

Besides the three mentioned above other point getters for C.C. were Jack Claghorn, Ace Gardner and Phil Davis.

'HAMLET,' ACADEMY AWARD WINNER TO PLAY AT TRAIL THEATRE MONDAY, TUESDAY

Laurence Oliver's Academy Award winning film, "Hamlet," will open at the Trail theatre two days only starting Monday, May 1.

One columnist on this paper was especially man-handled in his interviews with the higher-ups for his remarks concerning off-campus agencies responsible for interference in our campus life. He was instructed, to stifle any further publication of material concerning anything off-campus. Now it seems to me that when such interference affects the student body they not only have the right to be interested in it but have the right to express that interest in THEIR (repeat THEIR) student newspaper. True, their editorial remarks may not be altogether right, but then one learns soon in newspaper reading that the editorial page is not always to be taken as the unimpeachable source of truth and light. Rather than that it is usually space set aside for student comment concerning common problems and suggested solutions. To stifle such comments represses the free principle of discussion and clarification so necessary to democratic living. (I'd better be careful or the torch will burn my fingers!)

We've been sort of secretly proud of the fact that the "Tiger" this year has progressed from being just a weekly calendar sheet to being a paper that has attempted to look objectively and critically at many of the campus and student activities that need some definite action. Now it has more or less been suggested that we keep our noses clean and go back to being just that weekly calendar sheet of stale reports and even staler jokes.

While I, and other members of this year's staff, haven't always been in strict agreement with the remarks and writing of our fellow writers, we have felt that we were all entitled to hear each other's side, and free to print those various sides. I may not like what you have to say, but I will defend with the life of my typewriter ribbon your right to say it!

Archeology Speech At Fine Arts Center

W. S. Stallings, Jr., of the Taylor Museum at the Fine Arts Center, will speak tonight on "Talking Tree Rings" in his address sponsored by the Colorado Archeology Society.

He will discuss the dates of the construction and habitation in the prehistoric ruins found in the American Southwest as determined by the rings formed in a beam used in the building of these ancient dwellings.

Mr. Stallings will speak at the Art Center and the public is cordially invited to attend.

be completely free from administrative control.

The remainder of the survey, although of a different type, was not so encouraging. When asked the length of the term of a United States Senator, 16 answered two years 3 students decided on three years, 30 per cent said four years, four stuck with five years, and 46 per cent hit on the correct six years—one student (apparently an FDR supporter) replied sixteen years.

Replies ranging from Bess Truman to Stymington indicated that only 41 of these students knew the name of the present Secretary of Defense. Even FDR himself would have been surprised at the difference in opinion as to the number of Justices that the U. S. Supreme Court bench supports. The results were as follows: four Justices, three votes; six, four votes; five students decided that there were seven; the same number settled on eight; a wise 52 said that there were "nine old men"; four guessed that there must be ten; 23 (still thinking of the New Deal) decided on twelve; three of those questioned stabbed at the number thirteen; and one proud Democrat insisted on ninteen.

The greatest shock of all, however, was the discovery that 15 per cent of these representative students did not know the name of the Vice President of the United States.

New Student Council Officers Elected Mon.

At the meeting of the Student Council held last Monday, Jane Little, a junior from Chicago, was unamiously elected as the new N. S. A. prexy for the coming year. Jane, a Gamma Phi Beta, was last year's Student Council Secretary. Among her other activities, she is the N. S. A. Editor of the Nugget, Assistant Editor of Kinnikinnik, President of her dorm, and a member of the Tiger Club. Last summer she attended the National N. S. A. Convention which will undoubtedly be a big help in her new job. In the past, Jane has been the Campus Editor of the Tiger, and secretary of her sorority.

Also at the meeting new officers were elected to the Student Council. Succeeding Chuck Stoddard as Vice-president is Joe Creager of Beta Theta Pi. Previous to his new job, Joe was in charge of the cut policy on the Council. Ginny Sharp of Gamma Phi Beta is the new Secretary. Dave Oatman, a Phi Gam is following Bill Schoof into the office of Treasurer. Jack Pfeiffer, Phi Delta Theta, who has been active in the Student Council as head of the Foreign Student Program, Enthusiasm Chairman, and member of the Disciplinary Committee, replaces Dick McCleery as Publications Board Chairman. Sally Rambeau of Kappa Alpha Theta is the new Lennox House Representative, and Mary Sutton, a Kappa Kappa Gamma succeeds Helen Van Dusen as Social Chairman.

The new student body president, Dwight Brothers, presided over the meeting.

Labor Dept. Shows Opportunities for Education Majors

Graduates trained for elementary school teaching should find a wide choice of employment opportunities in most states this spring. On the other hand, prospective teachers on the secondary school level wiill find a highly competitive employment situation in all but a few subject fields.

The need for teachers in elementary schools will continue to increase over the next several years. According to a recent study by the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, enrollments in grades 1 to 8 will probably sharply rise for the next seven years in most states and then level off. The total number of teachers being required about 1953.

Strong competition for high school teaching positions is expected in the country as a whole for the next few years at least. With a few exceptions, shortages are now limited to rural areas and such special subject fields as home economics. The greatest oversupply in most states is in men's physical education, the social sciences and English.

It is likely that education and experience requirements will be raised. Students training for high school teaching should plan to get a master's degree in order to qualify for the best employment opportunities.

The Job Clinic Committee wishes to extend its sincere thanks to those membera of the student body and faculty whose active participation insured the success of the first annual Job Clinic. We especially wish to thank those who aided us by selling tickets and assisting at registration.

Dean Paul Roberts to Speak at Shove Sun.

"Europe in 1949" will be the subject of an address by Dean Paul Roberts of St. John's cathedral, Denver, in Shove chapel May 7 at 4:30 p. m. under the co-sponsorship of the Colorado Springs chapter of the Guild of American Organists and the El Paso County Ministerial Alliance.

On visits to Germany, France, Italy, Austria and Spain last summer, Dean Roberts found the same conditions that were reflected in a Saturday Evening Post article on Italy.

Dean Roberts has pointed out that the governments of these lands are unable to meet the situation, and for that reason representatives of various church groups are constantly appealing to Americans for help.

One phase of this assistance from eurch groups is the Christian Rural Overseas program, known as CROP. This organization is sponsored by the Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief. In 1949 about 30 car loads of food were contributed in Colorado and shipped overseas where the distribution was made by church agencies.

The offering received after Dean Roberts speaks will be used to purchase powdered milk to be shipped thru CROP for children in Europe.

The Colorado College Chapel Choir, under the direction of John O. Fundingsland, will be a feature on an unusual program to be presented at Shove Memorial Chapel next Sunday afternoon (May 7) at 4:30. The choir will sing works by Reuel Lahmer, Everett Titcomb and Leo Sowerby, as well as s contemporary Canadian composer, Healy Willan. The service is being presented by the Colorado Springs Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, and will include numbers by four organists of the city, including Ray Berry, Dean of the local chapter, who has just returned from a successful concert tour of the midwest. Several local ministers will also have part in the service, including Dean Edwin C. Broome, who is also Chaplain of the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

The public is cordially invited to this program of music and worship.

Organists Guild At Vesper Service

The Colorado Springs Chapter, American Guild of Organists, will present a Guild Service at Shove Memorial Chapel, Colorado college, next Sunday afternoon (May 7) at 4:30 o'clock. This vesper service will be of special interest to the public for in addition to the Colorado College Choir, under the direction of John O. Fundingsland, there will be four organists taking part. Robert Lynn will play the opening voluntaries, Frances Pond, the middle voluntary, Dorothy Schlegel the closing voluntary, and Ray Berry the service accompaniments.

AAUW Hostesses to CC's Senior Women

The senior girls of Colorado College will be the guests of honor at a breakfast to be given Sunday morning by the American Association of University Women at the home of Miss Irene Shaver, 1106 North Nevada Avenue from 9:30 to 11. The Recent Graduates group of the association will act as hostesses.

As its name implies, AAUW is a society of college bred women united to promote the status of women in educational, cultural and economic fields. It works on a community, state, national and international basis, and gives the university-trained woman an opportunity to co-operate with others in furthering the interests of women everywhere. In widening her acquaintance among the educated women of the region, the new college graduate finds many social advantages and forms congenial friendships. Senior girls living in other states will find branches of the organization in their home cities.

All senior girls of Colorado College are cordially invited to attend the breakfast to enjoy a social hour meeting local members of AAUW.

Adams' Talk on Everyman and Learning World

Basing many of his remarks upon the report of the President's Commission on Higher Education, Dean George W. Adams addressed the final college lecture series to an audience in Shove Chapel last Wednesday night. Dr. Adams objected to some of what he called "the more sweeping recommendations" of the Commission and stated that until such time as the costs of the "cold war" fall sufficiently to make things easier for income tax payers, much of the Commission's plan for higher education will be too expensive for the government to undertake.

The lecture was the last of a series of four which have been given each Wednesday night. The title of Dean Adams' address was "Everyman and the World of Learning."

Quoting the Commission's statement that the colleges should be ready to handle 4,600,000 students by 1960, Dean Adams gave as his opinion that even if the state of the treasury would permit, any such expansion would be dependent upon additions to the publicly controlled institutions and would be so large and come so fast that a serious deterioration of the quality of education would probably ensue.

He pointed out that a large proportion of new college students would probably be in attendance at new "community colleges" which in most instances would be additions to the public school systems of various cities rather than colleges in the sense the word is usually used.

One of the major objections to such a vast expansion as has been proposed, he said, is the inability of the graduate schools to train thoroughly the 300,000 college teachers which the Commission says will be needed by 1960. Dr. Adams remarked that the commission was on very firm ground in wishing to make it possible for able young men and women to go to college who could not do so without financial assistance. However, he said he believed that these could be cared for without providing for the 4,600,000 envisioned in the Commission's recommendation.

The speaker pointed out that the privately controlled colleges would receive no direct government grants such as would come to the public colleges under the Commission's plan, but added the privately controlled schools were sufficiently valuable to the believers in a free society so that their alumni and friends could provide aufficient funds to keep all but the weaker ones in existence.

"C" Club Meeting

There will be an important "C" Club meeting next Thursday, May 11 at C Club room at 10:00 a. m. Election of officers and plans for a dance will be the main topic of the meeting according to Pres. Glenn Blagg.

NEW CUT SYSTEM IN EFFECT AT CC NEXT SEPTEMBER

At the CC faculty meeting held Monday several amendments were passed that were close to the student council recommendations for improving the cut-system. Beginning next fall all Juniors and Seniors who have qualified for admission to an upper school and the remainder of the Freshman and Sophomore students with a 2.0 average will have unlimited cuts.

Medical excuses may be granted by the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women in cases where the illness is certified by a physician or other competent authority (mothers, head-residents or house-mothers). The new provision for penalties allows a student to acquire three extra hours for over-cutting; if he cuts more he will be dismissed from college and cannot apply for re-admission for a semester. This corresponds to the student council proposal with ona addition; letters will be sent home warning parents as each penalty hour is added. The main reason for the change is that under the present system students planning to transfer have the advantage over those remaining here. As Dean Adams commented, "This is another illustration of the way in which the faculty is co-operating with President Gill's policy of treating students as responsible people."

Two representatives of the Student Council, Chuck Stoddard and Joe Creager, attended the meeting to express the students' point of view and answer questions.

Noted India Missionary To Speak Here Tonight

Miss Annamma Thomas, noted India Missionary, will speak at an open meeting pertaining to the youth and the world situation at the lecture hall of Shove Memorial Chapel on the Colorado College Campus, tonight, at 7:30. The students of the college and high school students are especially invited to attend this meeting, though the meeting is open to the public at large.

Miss Thomas is a representative of the Student Volunteer Movement of New York. This movement is an interdenominational group interested in the furtherance of overseas missions. As the traveling secretary, she is on a speaking tour of the western states. She will appear under the sponsorship of the Executive Committee of the Ministerial Alliance.

Born in Travancore, South India, Miss Thomas is a member of the Mar Thoma Syrian Church of Malabar, which traces its beginning to the third century, if not back to St. Thomas, the Apostle. She is a graduate of Union Christian College in Alwaye, Travancore, where she majored in Philosophy, and Serampore Theological Seminary, Bengal, where she was the first woman of her church to receive a B.D. degree. She recently received an M.A. degree in religious education from Hartford Seminary Foundation, Connecticut.

Miss Thomas has represented her church on many occasions, including: Oslo World Christian Youth Conference, the Amsterdam Assembly of the World Council of Churches, and the Whitby Conference of the General Committee of the World Student Christian Federation. She has also represented the India Student Christian Movement on these occasions. She will return to India next fall.

Upperclassmen Lax in Voting; Freshmen 1st, Sophomores 2nd

This is for 784 of you—the 784 of you that voted on April 20 for a student body president. The TIGER stated that 65 per cent of the student body participated in the election. Actually it was a little less but 65 per cent is a close enough figure. To all standards it was a good turnout. Still there were over 35 per cent who did not vote. Why?

The class of '53 was best represented in voting. Out of approximately 310 freshmen, 71.6 per cent voted. This shows a freshman class that is sincere and really wants a strong student government.

The sophomore class ran second to the freshman with 65.4 per cent voting out of an approximate enrollment of 324 students. As second year students they want a stronger voice in their student government. It is the largest class at CC and the percentage of votes was high; however a number of them stayed away from the polls.

The upperclassmen had the poorest turnout in the voting with 63.5 per cent of 274 seniors and only 61 per cent of 265 juniors going to the polls. Since these two classes would know more about the student activities and probably have the greatest participation in campus organizations, it certainly is surprising to see that the juniors, with only one year of college remaining, did not feel the need of supporting the election more than they did. Also, as all the candidates are juniors themselves, it would seem a blow to them to know that they were not given the complete support of their own class.

As for this year's graduating class, it is feasible that they would have the smallest percentage of voters in the election because they can hold a feeling of "I-won't-be-here-next-year - so - why-should-I-care - who - gets - elected-or who-doesn't." It is good to know, how-

Stan Brenton Explains Proposal on Drinking

In the Inter-fraternity Council meeting of April 21 the problem of drinking at fraternity parties was discussed. It wae felt by eome of the representatives that since drinking is going on, it would be better to have the control of this problem within the organizations themselves.

Although this problem is familiar to the administrative officials and has been discussed with them, the suggested remedy was presented by Lee Schlessman as a student body plan and not a faculty plan.

The rumors which have grown up and enlarged over the probability of free drinking on the Colorado College campus are entirely false and may do a great deal of harm to the possibility of of student control of fraternity functions and also to the administrative officials involved in this "scuttlebut."

STAN BRENTON,

By MARY RUBLE

Saturday Afternoon—

The afternoon sun beat down on the field and shone brightly in the center fielder's eyes. She yanked her cap down further and pulled her glove tighter on her hand. The only balls that had come her way all afternoon were those that the infielders had missed and so she had used most of her energy running back and forth from the sidelines. "End of the sixth, two out and the score 23 to 18", she thought, "It isn't that the batters are so good but that the fielding is so bad. Still it gives one a good feeling to be able to get on base". Three balls, two strikes this was it. "Now's the perfect time for the pitcher to go wild and start walking people. It never failed." Pop up fly to second base. "She caught it, I'll be damned."

On the sidelines the enthusiasm was great but slightly confused. Although no one was too sure what was going on still a little yelling improves any ball game. The catcher fished the ball out of the irrigation ditch again and carefully wiped it off on her muddy pants. "There must be an easier way to water the grass," she thought to herself. A fly ball went careening out of bounds near the third base line narrowly missing hitting a spectator on the head. "Strike", said the umpire firmly. "Open your eyes and look." "Get serious, where do you think my knees are—if that was any lower it would have rolled on the ground." "Where's your seeing eye dog?" "You're out".

In front of the library a few disinterested students tried to tell themselves that they really wanted to spend the afternoon reading about the Spanish-American War. "How about a quick cup?" "I just got here ten minutes ago." "Aw, it'll do you good." "O.K., but it's got to be quick". A truck load of howling individuals roared by. "It's b--r, b--r, b--r; that makes you feel so queer; on the farm, on the farm", they shouted.

Inside the library a fly lazily buzzed over the head of the girl reading the Greek Lit. book. The librarian dropped a stack of books which fell to the floor with a series of loud thuds. All but the sleeping boy at the far table turned to look. A tall boy stooped to get a drink

Annual Picnic Of Pic & Pan To be May 13

By Nancy Jones

Pic and Pan, Honorary speech and dramatic society of Colorado College will hold its annual picnic on May 13 at the home of Professor Woodson Tyree.

Pic and Pan expects to receive approximately 40 new members this year. Membership is honorary and is decided on the basis of at least one year's work in drama (acting, production and business), radio, speech and debate. Honors will be given to a group of graduating seniors who have contributed to the furtheranee of interest in drama, speech and debate for four years. The names of the members to receive honors will be announced in next week's "Tiger."

This has been a very productive year for creative dramatics on both stage and radio, and has seen three very successful stage productions, Peg O' My Heart, The Glass Menegerie and The Male Animal. Drama students also assisted with the production of the variety show and the dance concert, and classes in story acting have been held each week for children from the public schools of Colorado Springs.

The radio enthusiasts were equally busy this year with the presentation of seven radio showe weekly all during the year plus work on the newly formed Pic and Pan Theatre of the Air, a series of half-hour weekly programe entirely student produced, directed and acted. CC students active in radio acting were also conscripted for parts in the Civic Players Radio Guild programs.

The College Debatere have met with great success this year, and have met with speakers of both the Colorado and Wyoming Leagues.

A list of those eligible for admission to the picnic will be posted in South Hall this week, and will consist of those who have assisted in the production of the three plays, the casts of the plays, debaters, members of the Acting, Theatre Practice, and Radio Production classes, and all old members of Pic and Pan. Due to the inadequacy of funds in the treasuary, it will be necessary to ask all who plan to attend to contribute one dollar for food. If you are going to be at the picnic, please give your dollar to Peg Merle Smith, Lynn Jones or Nancy Jones, as soon as possible. If this affair comes up to the tradition set by previous Pic and Pan picnies, it should be a party you won't want to mies.

By WALT SWEET

It looks like the Interfraternity council has come up with a pretty fair idea to chew on . . . as things stand, however, that's probably as far as they'll get with it. This idea of taking a more mature viewpoint on the "drinking problem" is a desirable one, I think, but will have to be pretty thoroughly worked out before any sort of college approval or sanction will be forthcoming. Whatever comes of it will have to be pretty experimental and tame, I expect, and we're in no position to expect that the cloak of subversiveness will be removed from drinking on campus. Maybe with time . . . who knows?

Senator, I think you're on the right track about our honor system. I think that it's not too idealistic to work out, at all. That word "idealistic" is getting to be about as easy to apply to really genuine and praetical things as the name "communist" is to people whose ideas differ from youre. I think that it is a real step forward to adopt the Honor System thruout the school, and hope that it eventually finds its way into all of our campus and off-campus activities.

I believe that we're all glad to see the Student Counell come up

TRAIL—"Black Hand"

* * If you take in the flick at the Trail now, you'll see extortion, kidnapping, murder by stiletto and knife, and attack by pickaxe. Gene Kelley vows revenge on the infamous Black Hand (Mafia) organization in New York's Little Italy for murder of his lawyer father. J. Carrol Naish is the relentless detective. Kelly discovers his true love (Teresa Celli) in the melee. It's a two-beller if you're the cops and robbers, shoot-em-up, bang-bang type. Gene Kelley doesn't even have time for a soft shoe in the "Black Hand."

UTE—"Cheaper by the Dozen"

Preview

* * * At the Ute theatre this week will be Clifton Webb, ably abetted by his Belvedereish wit and twelve house apes, starring in "Cheaper by the Dozen." Co-starring with him are Jeanne Crain and Myrna Loy who will probably have a hard time trying to drown out the successful baby-sitter's infamous talents. Webb's only sly humor is somewhat sublimated to allow him to be the kindly, yet strict, father of a seemingless endless tide of offspring.

This flick promises to afford its audience an hour or so of good entertainment and many laughs—popcorn not withstanding.

P.S.—Beware of the "bouncing ball cartoon!

UTE—"The Third Man"

Preview

* * * * The only thing that most people seem to know about this forthcoming movie is that the plot, characters, and background are dominated by what must be a large and long suffering zither.

The plot is laid in postwar Vienna and twists in and out of the darkest and shabbiest alleys of that once beautiful city. It concerns itself with the tense search for the third man who has supposedly murdered the hero's best friend. This film is definitely a glorified version of the time worn game of cops and robbers, but it has in its dramatic and gripping favor the inspired directing of Carol Reed and unlimited production forces of Alexander Korda and David O. Selznick.

Joseph Cotton, altho the hero, plays second fiddle (or should we say second zither) to an endless cast of supporting actors. Valli (mm-m-mm-m) and Trevor Howard, comparative newcomers to American screen, have been given credit for doing credit to their profession. Orson Welles is cast, for the first time in his life, as the third man and fortunately for movie-goers spends most of his time giving sinister looks and very little over dramatic and affected dialogue.

We rate this cinema as a four-beller and a must.

UTE—"Riding High"

* * * Three bells to "Riding High" and to the Ute for having it last week.

Frank Capra directed this excellent remake of his old (1934) film, Broadway Bill. True, it was another horse story, but one with a fine guiding hand and a somewhat new slant. Der Bingle, as usual, fit into his role and old clothes like a tired foot in an old shoe and was most helpfully supported by most of the original cast.

Sigma Chi's New Sweetheart to be Crowned at Antler's Hotel, May 13

Six campus coeds have been elected to the honor candidacy for the annual Sweetheart of Sigma Chi contest. The chapter chooses these candidates each year in connection with their ties within the chapter. Pictured above are Jane Stone, pinned to Jay Stone; Zane Bowers, pinned to Jim Bowers; (the two thus far mentioned are also married to their fraternity men); Lorie Wilkening, pinned to Joe Holmes; Betty Lamb, who is pinned to Hal Beile; Beryl Barr, pinned to Jim Smith and Mary Allerton of the Jones-Allerton combination. One of these girls will be crowned the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi at the annual Sweetheart Dance which is to be held, this year, on May 13 at the Antler's Hotel.

The Sigma Chi chapter chooses one of these coeds as their Sweetheart by a secret balloting which takes place in advance of the dance. Prior to the selection, the girls will be guests of the Sigma Chis at a dinner held in their house, when the candidates will reign as guests of honor. Once chosen, the Sweetheart acts as hostess at all social events held in the fraternity house throughout the coming year, and represents Beta Gamma in the annual Province Sweetheart contest in the fall.

With the arrival of the early morning interfraternity softball season, the Thetas have started serving breakfast for the boys participating in the annual 6:00 a. m. tourney. The first breakfast was held this morning at 7 o'clock for the Betas and the Phi Delts. The following Tuesday there will be a meal waiting at the KAT house for the Crown and Lance and Phi Gams, and on Friday, May 12, the Kappa Sigmas and Sigma Chis will be served.

BETA GAMMA OF SIGMA CHI has chosen the following girls as candidates in the annual Sweetheart of Sigma Chi contest. Crown & Lance First Serenade Last Monday for June McHardy

Monday night was an important one for Crown and Lance, organization for Independent Men on the Colorado College campus, as they held the first serenade in the history of the organization. The serenade honored June McHardy, sophomore from Bay City, Wis., who is pinned to Bill Murray, senior from Jamaica, N. Y. Miss McHardy is vice president of the Independent Women's Association at CC, a former member of the AWS Service committee and has been active in Pick and Pan, dramatic organization, and in dance.

Crown and Lance is now the name of the organization for Independents that has been known as Independent Men's Association in recent years and previously as Romans, Barbs and IMO. Last year the group adopted the name Crown and Lance, though no change was made in function and structure. It is open to all unaffiliated men on the local campus and is responsible for many all-school functions throughout the year.

Ralph Stacy Reigns Over Beta Picnic

Last Sunday, April 30, the Betas held their annual spring picnic out at Austin Bluffs. Festivities were centered around a softball game, and frying steaks over an open fire. From the amount of tenderloin and potatoe salad consumed by the members of the chapter and their dates, it can be said that the affair was a huge success. The climax of the picnic was the crowning of Ralph Stacy as the Queen of May.

Thetas' and Kappas' Kite and Key Dance Proclaimed Success

Last Saturday—in spite of prevailing wind and rain—the Kappas and Thetas celebrated spring at a formal "Kite and Key Dance" which the two sororities held at the Alamo Hotel. Favors for the escorts were key chains. The decorations carried out the Kite and Key theme as well as a spring theme. On the wall above the orchestra were a large Kite and a Key. The entrance was decorated with a flower-bedecked fence and a trellis over a bubbling fountain. There seemed to be a surplus of photographers, in fact pictures were taken for just about everything.

The two sororities were well pleased with their joint venture. It was lots of fun for both and talk of combining forces each year is being enthusiastically voiced.

W. Lewis Abbott Club Elects Jim Gander Pres.

On Thursday, April 27, the W. Lewis Abbott Sociology Club of CC, held a meeting in Cossitt cafeteria for the purpose of the election of officers and a discussion of this year's business which was necessary to terminate the activities of the club for this term.

New officers elected for 1950-51 were: President, Jim Gander; vice-president, Carolyn Aldrich; secretary, George Smith; treasurer, Bill Harley, and publicity secretary, Jack Ellenberger.

The club voted to have another group photograph made of the club in place of the one which has already been taken, because it was felt that the earlier picture did not adequately represent the actual membership.

Other business discussed at the meeting included an arrangement for the collection of next year's club funds, the possible organization, next year, of an honor group in CC's Sociology department, and plans for a picnic to be held for all seniors leaving the club this term. An announcement of the time and place of the next club gathering will be posted following a meeting of the new executive board, on Monday, May 1.

All of those who intend to major in Sociology are urged to join the W. Lewis Abbott Club next year.

The dates of the Delta Gammas received copper, engraved beer mugs as their favors. Among the guests of honor were Dean and Mrs. Broome, Mom Jackson and Mrs. Price of Denver.

CC Nine Host to Colorado State Friday, Saturday

Tigers Need Two Wins Over Bears To Stay In Running For RMC Title

The Colorado College baseball team face their third opponent in four days tomorrow when they tangle with the Colorado State Bears in the first of a two game series at Stewart Field. Game time tomorrow is 3:00 with the Saturday encounter slated to get under way at 2:00

These two teams have met twice before this year with each team winning one. Dick Bergesen defeated Ben Drieth and Harry Wise bested Mark Kochevar at Greeley earlier in the season. All four of these hurlers will probably see action this weekend. Along with Dreith and Wise, Bear coach Pete Butler will probably use, among others, Biebel behind the plate, Lowell Stuckey at third, Elwell Stuckey at second and Frank Sajevic in right field. Sajevic will also be available for relief pitching if he is needed.

CC Coach Jerry Carle will probably use his revamped lineup again with John Crumley at first, Tony Frasca at second, Tony Esposito at short and John Litt at third. The outfield will be the same with Pat Killen, Vince Giammario and Bill Dewire patroling the outer garden. Guy Gibbs and Bill Harley will probably split the catching duties. Bergesen and Kochevar will probably draw the starting assignments although Viv Pugel may work one game. Ready for relief duty will be Harry Whitworth and Dick Perse.

DICK BERGESEN — This sophomore hurler will receive the starting nod when CC opposes Colorado State Friday afternoon in the first of two RMC games at Stewart Field. Bergesen has a seasonal record of two wins and three losses.

CC Nine Edges Carson; Then Tops Lowry Field

Last Wednesday afternoon the Colorado College baseball team eked out a 6-5 win over the Camp Carson Mountaineers, scoring twice in the last of the ninth to gain the victory. Vic Pugel was the winning pitcher, having come on in the ninth. He was the fourth CC pitcher of the afternoon, Coach Carle wanting to give some of his pitchers a work out. Dick Perse went the first three innings, Harry Whitworth the middle three and Kochevar worked the seventh and eighth before giving away to Pugel.

On Tuesday afternoon the Tigers played host to the Flyers from Lowrey Field and walked off with a 16-10 victory. Dick Bergesen who went the first five innings, was the winning pitcher. Mark Kochevar pitched the last four frames.

CC managed to bunch their runs in five different innings, getting four in the first, three in the third, one in the fourth, four in the fifth and four more in the seventh.

The Flyers scored two in the first, one in the fourth, five in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Hitting honors for the afternoon went to Vince Giamarrio and Tony Esposito, as they each garnered three hits. For the losers Harrison also had three hits. In their futile attempt to pull the game out of the fire the visitors used five pitchers but they were unable to stem the tide of hits and runs. Altogether the Tigers had only 17 as against 12 for Lowry Field.

SENIOR-FACULTY SOFTBALL GAME

The annual Faculty and Senior softball game will be played off on Stewart Field, Thursday, May 11 at 3:30 p. m. All seniors wishing to play are urged to contact Coach Mike Yalich as soon as possible.

Bengal Golfers Face DU and CU This Week

With two wins in their last three matches, the CC golf team will get down to some serious practice this week in preparation for two matches that will be held this weekend. On Friday afternoon the Tiger linksmen will tee off against Regis in Denver and then they will come back to face Colorado University on Saturday afternoon at the Broadmoor Golf Course.

Bob Crabb is definitely still the best on the squad with the rest of the members not far behind. In back of Crabb are such good players as Dick Hall, Johnny Schleicher, Phil Davis, Ace Gardner, Bob Strang and Jack Claghorn.

Both the matches this week are return engagements. In the first match of the year CC lost to Colorado University and Regis College in a triangular meet at Boulder. Since then the Tigers have come back to beat Regis so maybe they can turn the trick on CU this weekend. Two weeks ago CC defeated Regis by two points over the Patty Jewett course and will be facing them this week in the rubber match of the series. Following this match the CC golfers will have only one meet left, a match with DU scheduled for next Tuesday at Patty Jewett, before the big annual Colorado College Invitation Golf Meet to be held next Friday and Saturday over the Broadmoor course. Last year this tournament was won by the University of Oklahoma.

CU DIAMONDEERS DEFEAT TIGERS 9-5 ON HOME FIELD FRI.

The Colorado College baseball team outplayed Colorado University for the first six innings last Friday afternoon before they folded under the Buffalo attack, finally losing out to the Buffs 9-5.

The Tigers started off on the right foot as they scored three runs in the very first inning off starting pitcher Joe Nix, before Ed Pudlik came in to put out the fire. He stayed in to pitch the rest of the way, gaining credit for the victory. Vic Pugel started on the mound for CC but he tired in the eighth, Dick Bergesen coming in to finish the game. CU scored first. A walk and a three-base error plus a double and a single—gave the Buffs a two-run cushion but they couldn't hold it. Giammario opened the CC half of the first inning with a single, Esposito tripled him home and then John Crumley got the first of his three hits sending Esposito home. After Crumley had been picked off first, four straight walks forced in the third run. CU went ahead in the game in the top of the second on a double, a force play, a steal of home, a single, another stolen base and a walk. CC came right back to score two in their half of the inning. A walk and a single put two runners on and they both scored when Hugh Graham dropped Guy Gibbs fly ball in center field. This was all as far as the CC scoring went and Vic Pugel settled down to hold the visitors runless until the seventh when they sewed up the game with a three-run outburst. A walk, three singles and an infield out took care of the scoring. Then for good measure they added single tallies in the eighth and ninth.

Gene Rogers paced the hitters garnering three singles and a double to pace the Buffalos 15-hit attack. Crumley led the Tigers at the plate with three hits. In the pitching department Pugel walked five and struck out five. Nix walked four and Pudlik walked one and struck out six. The second game of the series scheduled for Saturday afternoon was called off because of cold weather.

BENGAL NETMEN IN 7-1 VICTORY OVER REGIS

Coach Pete Alexander's tennis team really exploded last Friday as they trampled the Regis Rangers in Denver 8-1. The only CC loss of match was Monty Gatchell who lost to Crotty 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. The match with Colorado University scheduled for Saturday afternoon was postponed because of cold weather.

The results of the rest of the matches were:

(CC players listed first)
Smeeth def. McGuire 6-0, 6-2.
Orsborn def. Sauer 6-4, 6-2.
Larson def. Connell 6-3, 6-4.
Morrow def. Druding 6-1, 6-1.
Gourd def. Mockler 6-1, 6-2.

CC RACQUETMEN TO MEET COLORADO STATE ON SAT.

With two wins, two losses and one tie as their season record, Coach Pete Alexander and his tennis squad hope to get in some good practice sessions before their match with Colorado State this weekend in Greeley.

Counted on to defeat the Bears this week will be Chuck Smeeth, Jack Orsborn, Chuck Morrow, Jim Gourd, Jim Hill, Monty Gatchell and Lars Larson. After this match the Tiger netmen will have only one more match, a return engagement with Regis College, before the RMC meet.

Tiger Linksmen in Two Matches; Win 20-1, Lase 7-2

The Colorado College golf team led by Bob Crabb, soundly trounced Colorado Mines last Thursday afternoon in Denver 20-1. Mines only point came as a result of two and one half points garnered in matches with Johnny Schleicher and Bob Strang. The rest of the team scored three and nothing victories.

On Friday CC ran up against one of the best golf teams in the region and went down to defeat 7-2. The victor was Denver University. Bob Crabb took one of the Tigers matches by defeating Frank Van Meter of Denver 3-2. Crabb then teamed with Bob Strang to win in a four-ball match over Van Meter and Joe Lynch, 3-1.

Medalist for the match was Crabb with a par 72 over the Welshire golf course in Denver. Besides Crabb and Strang other CC players included Dick Hall, Phil Davis, Johnny Schleicher and Jack Claghorn.

TIGER TRACK TEAM IN TRIANGULAR MEET AT GREELEY SAT.

The Colorado College track team will get back into active competition this week after a week's layoff, caused by the CU Relays, when they face Colorado State and Montana State in a triangular meet on Saturday in Greeley.

Only four men went to Boulder for the relays and it will be these four plus Marv Powell who will carry a major share of the burden this weekend. Coach Cheddy Thompson will be relying on cindermen Jack and Dick Pfeiffer, Ted Baird, Courty Bymaster, Chuck Betton, Beau Seibert and Bob Rosberg to bring in the points while in the field events Marv Powell, John Nichols, Bob Brugger and Doug Van Metre will carry CC's hopes.

All of these men came through very well in the dual meet with Mines, especially Marv Powell who won the pole vault with a jump of 12½ feet and tied for first in the high jump, clearing the bar at six feet even and it is hoped that they will come through this week in the meet at Greeley.

INTRAMURAL BILLBOARD

After three weeks of play the Phi Gams are still out front in the early morning intramural softball league with three wins and no losses.

Last Wednesday morning the Fijis edged the Faculty nine 10-9 in a nip and tuck contest. Fastballer Glenn Faucett relieved Joe Stoddard on the mound for the winners in the third frame after Stoddard allowed the Professors 8 hits and 9 runs. Faucett came in held the Faculty scoreless the remainder of the game. Rex Hester was the losing pitcher for the Profs.

Carle Selected to NCAA Committee:

JERRY CARLE

CC's Jerry Carle was named on the NCAA District "7" Selection Committee this week along with Fritz Brennecke, Colorado Mines, and Glenn Jacoby, Wyoming, This committee will select the top baseball team in the region to represent District "7" in the Western NCAA playoffs to be held in Omaha in June.

Binns Eyes Prospective Gridders for September:

Football Coach Allison Binns came thru with a few well chosen lines at the Downtown Quarterback Club last Monday when he stated that although competition is stronger than ever, a greater number of prepsters are interested in entering CC. He indicated that CC will receive a number of Denver and Pueblo athletes come fall. This means a bright future for CC football and maybe another RMC title.

Carle Meets Butler Again This Weekend:

Coach Jerry Carle's diamondeers will oppose Pete Butler's Colorado State Bears in a crucial two game series on Stewart Field Friday and Saturday. CC split a two game series with the Bears at Greeley two weeks ago, but Carle wants both games this time in his attempt to best a Butler coached team. Colorado State is the defending NCAA District "7" title holders. Steady pitching will be the determining factor in the Tigers quest for victory over their old rivals.

Perkins Optioned to Kitty League

Wilfred Perkins former CC diamond star was optioned to the Kitty League in Class "D" ball last week. The former CC standout was originally sent to Superior, Wis. in the Northern League. However, last week the Chicago White Sox' farm heads optioned the Colorado Springs infielder to Madisonville, Kentucky.

of water quietly cursing the class of '24 for building such a low drinking fountain. There was a quiet scratch of fountain pens, a rustle of pages being turned and a not so low undercurrent of whispering.

On the Bemis sun deck the full rays of the sun beat down. "You'd better go inside, you're awfully red. You'll get burned if you stay out any longer." "Put some of this stuff on my back will you. It's supposed to keep me from peeling." "I'll say three clubs." "You've got a lot of nerve, you'll never make it." "Pass."

The discus throwers and pole vaulters were carefully watched by the assembled group on McGregor's fire escape. "Do you think it will rain?" "It wouldn't dare. We're having a b--r bust tonight." "Is she still going out with him. She must be an idiot."

The tennis player chased the ball that had gone over the fence. "Will you please learn to hit that thing inside the court at least? Surely that isn't too much to ask." "I told you that I couldn't play tennis." "That is obvious."

"Coffee black and a small cherry coke." "What's the matter, can't you afford to buy shoes these days?" "It's entirely too nice a day to wear shoes." "You know it's downright amazing how many more Monday mornings there are than Saturday afternoons."

ever, that a majority of them, at least, leaving CC knowing that they helped in providing a strong future in the student government for all those who will be returning to CC next fall, and for the incoming class of '54.

The percentage of the 1250 students who did vote is a good percentage, but it could be and should be better. The student body president wants to feel that he has the support of the whole college, not just part of it, and the complete support is assured only by every student's voting. At least he will know that everyone is aware of the important job he has and the responsibility it carries, and this in itself will help him a great deal in carrying out his innumerable duties.

We are pleased to see that you 784 voters got out to express your opinion, and we hope that the future will show that 100 per cent of the students will do all they can to support our new president.

with a clarification on the disciplinary probation business. I think that they're also to be commended for spending as much time in the past few weeks as they have in giving their disciplinary cases a really fair and complete trial. No one can complain about that kind of justice!

The interest noted in a recent survey concerning the adoption of a course in Journalism is, I think, heartening. I concur most emphatically, however, with the Publications Board in recommending that it be taught by someone qualified by a little more than just writing experience. We've all found that many times the best experienced men do not make the best instructors . . . there's a knack to teaching that should indicate someone better qualified for the job. We have the man on the Faculty now.

To the seniors . . . "Enjoy yuorself, it's later than you think!"

Which Came First?

A government-financed survey now announces officially that new eggs are fresher than old eggs. Other "findings" were: Eggs keep better when cool and moist than when dry and hot; eggs being moved are more likely to be broken than eggs left in one place. The survey was financed under the Research and Marketing Act of 1946. (Note: A Congressional Committee has recommended $11,000,000 for research projects next year.)

Kinder Commends Students' Interest In CC Government

I wish to thank all members of the student body for the active interest shown in student affairs during the past year. Without the interest of all students, self-government cannot justify its existence. I believe that the students of Colorado College have shown that they not only intend to maintain the leading student government in the Rocky Mountain region, but that they are ready to accept the responsibility of even more self-government.

Beginning next September, all classes will be operated on the honor system. At the same time, a much improved cut policy will go into operation. I sincerely hope that as the honor system continues to progress and gain strength, it will be extended to cover class attendance as well as all other phases of campus life.

The members of the new Student Council have been well chosen. Under the able leadership of President Dwight Brothers, I feel certain that they will enjoy a very successful year.

To the student body and especially to the retiring members of the Student Council, I say THANK YOU again. To the new members of the Student Council and to Dwight, I extend my very best wishes for better student government in the interest of a better Colorado College.

Sincerely,

JIM KINDER,
Retired ASCC Pres.

WICHITA GIRL AWARDED HIGH SCHOLASTIC SCHOLARSHIP TO COLORADO COLLEGE

The Alice Bemis Norton Scholarship Award, the largest scholarship awarded by Colorado College will be given this year to Miss Georgiana L. Shaw, of Wichita, Kansas. Georgiana, daughter of a prominent Wichita physician, will graduate from East High School with the highest scholastic standing in a class of 703 students. She has had an outstanding academic record, averaging perfect "A's" for all her years in high school.

Besides being an unusual student, Georgiana has also been very active in extra-curricular activities in high school. This year she is a member of the high school glee club, the pep club, the Student Congress and the Wichita Y-Teens club as well as the secretary of her class, and secretary of the National Honor Society, in itself a singular honor.

Her main interest is in music, and she is a talented pianist and flutist. Last year Georgiana was one of a very few young musicians chosen to travel to New York to participate in the New York Philharmonic Weekend With Music, during which trip she was interviewed by Deams Taylor on the regular Philharmonic program.

As to her ambitions for the future, Georgiana hopes to combine two loves dear to her heart by teaching music to young children. President Gill plans to visit Georgiana during his forthcoming trip East and welcome her into the Colorado College family.

CC Senior Receives Atomic Fellowship In Radiological Physics at Vanderbilt

Warren Jack O'Brein, CC senior, of Tigertown has just been notified by the Atomic Energy Commission that he has been awarded a Atomic Energy Commission Fellowship in Radiological Physics. A telegram was followed by a letter which gave more detailed explanation of the duties. The Fellowship will start in September at Vanderbilt University. Vanderbuilt along with several other colleges and universities has aided and promoted the Atomic Studies both in the University and at Oak Ridge, Tennesse. After his training at Vanderbilt Mr. O'brien will spend six months at Oak Ridge, Tennesse where he will train in the Health Physics Laboratory. His training will include radiation and Isotope measurements and will be directed at protection against the radiation and other harmful effects of the atomic research development.

The fellowship can well be envied because of the wide range of Atomic development. The harnesing of Atomic energy by the scientists will probably completely change the course of science. The complete coverage of almost all sciences is one of the most outstanding features the New Atomic research and developments. The appointments are given to people with a good Electrical or Physics background and are selected by the Atomic Energy Commission after thoroughly investigating the persons ability to train in these researeh fields.

BRITANNICA OFFERS SUMMER WORK FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

Students of Colorado College have been offered an opportunity to earn up to $75-$125 a week in summer vacation work through a special arrangement with Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc., it was announced recently by Edwin B. Miller, division manager of the Denver Britannica office.

"Throughout our region," Mr. Miller explained, "schools are confronted with a shortage of teachers, cramped classroom space, and a still-continuing responsibility to provide their children with educational tools right in the home."

"This situation," he continued, "has made it necessary for Britannica to expand its operations. The duty of summertime representatives is to show parents one or another of the Britannica programs:

"The 10-year Encyclopedia Britannica educational program, or

"The 10-year educational program built around Britannica Junior."

Both men and women undergraduates of selected colleges and universities are being offered the opportunity to show the Britannica programs to interested parents during the summer months, Mr. Miller explained.

WEE TIGER'S PAWS

By Bob Humphreys

Just a couple of perennial gripes this week.

Outside of the conspicuous absence of the Seniors at Chapel Tuesday morning, there was nothing unusual about the compelled congregation. The sermon was neither exceptionally good nor exceptionally bad; the music was good, as usual. The crossword puzzle was, I hear, abnormally difficult.

Mrs. Mayfield must have been exceptionally sexy, however, as our computations (made from the first row of the West balcony) revealed that three-fourths of the main floor (and West balcony) students were either studying or reading the Rocky Mountain News —the latter seemed to be the most predominant.

Dean Broome would have been justified in announcing: "The reading this morning is taken from the reply to the second letter in Molly's column." The Dean did ask, however, if it is "mature to read the newspaper while someone is speaking in Chapel." No murmur ran t b r o u g b the handsome structure—it is doubtful if anyone, other than your's truly, heard the question. The Dean went on to say that a mature person is one who is thoughtful of others, who has a code of ethics, a sense of justice and integrity, a realization of the religious, and who cooperates. On this basis, we humbly f i g u r e, approximately three-fourths of the students at this noble institution are about as mature as a three year old Doukhobor.

We realize that freedom of religion at C. C. consists of eacb student having the right to ignore God in his own way, but how in H— can the Student Council ask the administration for a better cut system, an improved honor system, and greater disciplinary power when the Chapel aisles are filled with retreating students before the choir finishes singing the A-men.

The second complaint this week concerns the graying heads over in Cutler. We wonder when the big boys are ever going to realize tbat Senior comprehensives are about as sensible, constructive, and justified as is the hydrogen bomb.

Spring Formal at Patty Jewett C. C.

Tomorrow night the Phi Gams are holding their annual Spring Formal out at Patty Jewett's Country Club. As this will be the last dance of the year for the Fijis, they plan to go "all-out" in supplying the best music and refreshments. Although the dance won't start until nine o'clock, the brotbers and their dates will have dinner out there beginning at seven. Along with the favors and tbe good time, the music will be supplied by Verne Byers and his orchestra.

MEET and EAT at Your STUDENT UNION

SNOOPER

By Judy Pettit

This last week must have been the quietest in our history. Only with the occasional appearance of haggard pasty faces and red eyes have the seniors made their presence felt. According to one man's opinion there were three alternatives: to study, not to study but to worry, or neither. The latest heard on that score was a large-scale debate in MacGregor Tuesday as to which night would be devoted to recuperating.

Apparently not much money was won on the Derby Saturday. Ralph Stacy seems to be one of the few lucky ones to bet on Middleground

They say over and over again that the importance of a College education is not so much to store up a lot of facts and figures in one's gray matter as it is to develop the student's reasoning and learning powers. For instance, we can't remember our father's name unless he sends us a check once a month with his signature on the bottom; but, contrary to public opinion, we do feel that we are learning how to think. We, for one, have lost both pages of notes that we have taken this year, and right now we can't find any of our text books. If we were planning to graduate this year, we'd be up that creek after spending about $8,000 for a degree.

We trust that the administration once learned to tbink and, consequently, will some day realize that a positive honor system, a good grading system, and Senior comps do not belong in the same group.

Spring Gardening

A program of Spring cleaning and gardening is in view for members of Kappa Alpha Theta. The date has been set as Thursday, May 11 at 5 o'clock. Thetas are urged to wear jeans and levies and be prepared to have fun. When the planting is completed, dinner will be served in the lodge.

with the result that the Betas are considering crowning him Queen of Kentucky Derby as well as of May-Day.

Maybe it's just the gay season or perhaps the temptation of Dave Sproule's face or the suggestiveness of that gooey piece of lemon pie. At any rate Barb Clark combined the three much to everyone's surprise the other night.

It was after midnight not long ago and the dorm was quiet except for someone's scratchy pen and the flipping of pages. Suddenly the door creaked and slowly swung open as a black Thing crept in, coiled in an inky slithering mess. When everyone recovered from the shock it turned out to be Debby Dunn—she had given up the fight with her typewriter ribbon.

Miss Rowe was quite surprised to receive a telegram from Pres. Truman, and C.O.D. at that. By the way, he's an old buddy of Rosie Johnson's.

CU days were really a success judging from the small invasion of CC students in Boulder last weekend. Between carnivals, songfests, the Buff show and parties a good time was had by all. Saturday night was the big blast—seems a picnic fire blew up near Les Lockhart.

PREVIEW AND REVIEW

By The FIRST NIGHTERS

UTE—"Third Man," May 9-15. Shows at 6:59 and 9:05. "Francis," May 16-22.
Trail—"Story of Molly X" and "Give Out Sisters," May 11-15.
Chief—"Barricade," starts May 11.

• • • •

The First Nighters still hold with their prediction on Third Man, but it's type of flick you have to see from the beginning. Remember, shows start at 6:59 and 9:05.

Trail—Molly X (Preview)

The Story of Molly X, now unreeling at the Trail, centers on a burglary gang and a California women's prison. Molly tries to find out who killed her husband; Dorothy Hart can't figure out who killed her guy; very complicated. With the aid of Joh nRussell, however, the whole puzzle is solved before the film ends. Lots of prison scenes.

Chief—Barricade (Preview)

Barricade, a Westerner filmed in technicolor on the California desert, comes to the Chief this Thursday. Raymond Massey has illegal possession of a gold mine. Ruth Roman and Dane Clark, both fugitives from justice, seek protection at the gold camp. Lawyer Robert Douglas enters the camp to find out about Massey's illegal possession of the camp. When the rightful owners show up, Massey makes prisoners of the other three, and it's shoot-'em-up bang-bang from there on. Raymond Massey is a heel all the way thru and Ruth Roman . . . well! No prediction on this flick—not enough pre-show data.

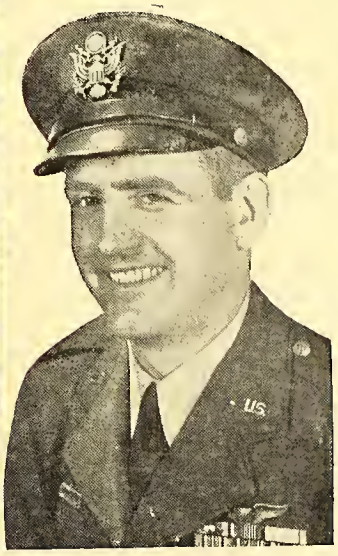
Trail—The Black Hand (Preview)

Gene Kelly should stick to dancing! Advance publicity said this was his first dramatic role—we strenuously hope that it will be his last. Kelly's attempts at Italianizing himself were as conceivable as unlimited chapel cuts.

Kelly's revenge on the Black Hand was the keynote of this whole fiasco and was attained only after there was nobody else left to get rid of but the culprits. More killings have taken place in an hour, but only at the battle of Gettysburg.

Your first nighters give this cinema a passive shrug of the shoulders for future college trade and a slam bang recommendation for all ten-year-olds.



Major Nathan Adams, Auburn '40 Personnel Manager, U.S. Air Force

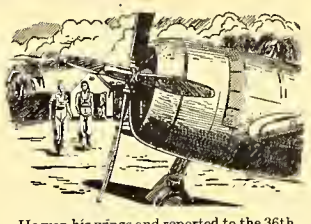
Following a three month course, Lt. Adams decided the Air Force was the place for him. He applied for pilot training, was accepted, proceeded to Maxwell Field.



He won his wings and reported to the 36th Fighter Group in Puerto Rico. The group soon returned to the States, giving Adams a chance to marry his college sweetheart.

Within months Adams was overseas, flying "rhubarbs" (missions against enemy transport). He flew 63 P-47 missions within seven months, returned to the States late in 1944 for rest and recuperation.

V-J Day came, and Adams decided to make the service a career. He choose personnel work as his career field, was assigned for training to the Adjutant General's School at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia.

Now a regular Air Force Major, he heads a 32-man section at Bolling Air Force Base. He advises his Commanding Officer on selection, assignment and promotion of all officers and airmen in the command.

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 26½, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or navigator in the U. S. Air Force. Procurement Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Att: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

V-A Releases Data On Summer School

Veterans planning to attend summer school under the GI Bill should start making necessary arrangements now, Veterans Administration said today.

First, they should determine whether their V-A certificates of eligibility are in order. And, if they are changing courses, they should learn from V-A whether they will be required to undergo advisement and guidance.

A veteran who is now in school and who intends to continue this summer in the same school and the same course need merely register at his school. His present certificate of eligibility, on file with V-A, is sufficient.

But, if he wants to continue in the same course but at a different school, he should apply at once for a supplemental certificate of eligibility at his nearest V-A office. On his application, he must list the name of the new school and name of course. The application should be sent to the V-A regional office having jurisdiction over his present school.

If the veteran plans to take a different course this summer, either in his present school or at another school, he will have to take one, and possibly two, steps.

First, he should apply for his supplemental certificate of eligibility.

Second, he should find out from V-A whether his new course is or is not in the same general field as his present one. If it is found to be in the same general field, the supplemental certificate is all that is required.

If it is found to be in a different general field, and his need of the new course has been determined, he may be required to take advisement and guidance from V-A to find out his aptitude for the new course.

V-A emphasized that applications for supplemental and original certificates of eligibility may be submitted to regional offices by mail.

Phi Delt-Kappas Clash In Diamond Meet Sun.

It's that time again. The feudin, fussin and stealin will be ended (?) for another year when the Kappas and Phi Delts play their annual baseball game Sunday, May 14, to determine which trophy case will be graced by the presence of the Milk Can trophy. The Kappas won last year, but somehow, the trophy is at the Phi Delt house at the present time. The Kappas retrieved the Can the first time it was stolen from their house by means of a diplomatic march into the Phi Delt house. Their present plans to obtain the Can before the game are not known.

The Phi Delts will entertain at a breakfast Sunday morning, after which the teams will dress for the occasion and the game will be played. Rules are as follows: Phi Delts must wear pencil-slim skirts, (furnished by the slimmer members of Kappa); they may catch with either hand, (just one); bat left-handed; hop from third to home on one leg and may have only nine players and three outs. A minor detail of the event is the fact that the Phi Delts must begin the game with the Kappas leading, 30 to 0. Restrictions imposed upon the Kappas consist of blankets or sheets pinned about their necks so as to hinder their performance in the game; only twelve players (six in the infield), and five outs.

Win, lose or draw, it will be the exciting game of the semester, so don't miss it. Spectators are heartily invited. The game will probably begin about 10 o'clock on Stewart Field. Preliminary training will begin on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with both teams participating in the practice session. Refreshments will be served.

GAMMA PHI'S AND D. G.'S COP I-M SOFTBALL RACE

There has been great rivalry and keen competition this spring between the women's intramural softball games. Close scores brought large spirited audiences and many interested faces at the library windows. The DG's and Gamma Phi's came through by both winning three games and losone. All of these games were very exciting, with the girls on all the teams really working hard for thei teams really working hard for their own score. The final score is as follows:

	W.	L.
Delta Gamma	3	1
Gamma Phis	3	1
Thetas	2	2
Kappas	2	2
Independents	2	4

Lots of thanks go to the boys who umpired.

CC Frosh Compile Fair Record So Far

The Colorado College Freshmen baseball team has been doing fairly well so far this year. After getting off to a slow start and losing their first three games they then settled down to win their next three, only to go into another losing streak that has now stretched to three games.

Two weeks ago they journeyed to Canon City to face the Canon Abbey nine and they walked off with an 11-5 victory. Carl Rinker, the first of three CC pitchers, was the winner. Wes Boucher and John "Pinky" Pearson aided the Cub cause, each hitting a home run. The following day the Frosh faced the local high school aggregation and whipped them 21-3, behind the neat hurling of Wes Boucher. This marked the first time that the Freshmen have beaten the high school and it was the highest score ever run up against the Terror baseball team. Marv Bales was the victim of the attack.

Last Saturday afternoon the Cubs faced Pueblo Junior College in a double-header in Pueblo and came out on the losing end in both games. In the first contest the score was 6-5 as starting CC pitcher Carl Rinker was unable to hold a five run lead. Don Crouse came in to put out the fire but the damage had already been done. In the second game the Indians walked to a 10-9 victory. PJC's last four runs were walked across the plate as four Cub hurlers were unable to control the ball. Boucher started but was relieved by Dale Aire. Pearson came up to replace Aire and finally Crouse came in to finish up but he was in there long enough to receive the loss. Hewitt was the winning pitcher for Pueblo

Last Tuesday the Freshmen went up to Denver and played Fitzsimmons Hospital in the first game of an afternoon-night twinbill. They lost to Fitzsimmins 8-6 and the evening game with Lowry Field was called off because of rain. Carl Rinker was again the starter for the Cubs and again he was charged with the loss. Fitzsimmons scored in the 1st inning, again in the 4th and tallied again in the 8th while CC was garnering their runs in the 1st and again in the 5th.

Bengal Baseball Team Splits Two Games With Colorado State; Win 13-5, Lose 12-9

Colorado College and Colorado State continued their athletic rivalry last weekend as the Bears met CC in a two game series at Stewart Field. The Tigers won the openei 13-5 behind the neat pitching of Dick Bergesen as he bested Ben Dreith for the second straight time. Greeley gained a split in the series as Harry Wise set the Bengals down with the final score 12-9. Bergesen was at his best on Friday as he erning three-for-four, including a home run in the eighth with one on.

CC was especially hard hit in the injury department since four players were injured, two of whom shut out the Bears for the first two innings in the fourts but in the meantime CC was getting to Dreith for five runs in the third and three more in the fourth to send them into a comfortable 8-3 lead. The Bears scored their final run in the seventh and CC came back in the last of the seventh for five more runs to sew up the ball game. The final score was 13-5 in favor of CC. In his winning effort Bergesen walked eight and struck out ten.

The story was a little different on Saturday as starting pitcher Vic Pugel had trouble finding the plate and before he retired from the game in the second inning Colorado State was off to a 5-0 lead. They added one more in the fifth, one in the sixth and three in the seventh, all off Dick Perse. Harry Whitworth came on to finish up allowing the final two runs in the eighth. Harry Wise went all the way for the Bears although he was in hot water several times. The Tigers scored all their runs in bunches as they countered five times in the fifth, scored two more in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

Frank Sajevic led Colorado State at bat pounding out five hits in six times up. He scored five runs and batted in three. Tony Esposito led the Tigers in hitting, garnare through for the season. Tony Frasca pulled a muscle in his shoulder and is out for the season. Another member out permanently is Frankie Zingone who was spiked on his right hand, a wound that needed three stiches. Others injured were Mark Kochevar with a badly bruised finger on his pitching hand and Pat Killen with a wrenched ankle. Colorado State did not escape the jinx as Thurm Wright twisted his ankle sliding into second base and had to be carried from the field.

CC Host to Invitation Golf Meet Friday and Sat.

CC TRACK TEAM TO FACE WYOMING AND CU ON SATURDAY

The Colorado College track team will go into their final meet of the season this Saturday, before the Conference meet in Bozeman, Montana next week, the decided underdog when they face Wyoming and Colorado University in a triangular meet in Boulder.

Leading the Tiger attack, this week as in past weeks, will be the Pfeiffer brothers, Dick and Jack, Marv Powell, and Ted Baird. Dick Pfeiffer runs the 880, the mile and a leg on the relay team. Brother Jack runs in the two mile, mile and a leg on the relay team. Powell pole vaults and high jumps, while Baird runs the 100, and 220.

For the Cowboys Mickey Dunn will probably be their leading point-getter. Dunn competes in the 100, 120 high hurdles and the broad jump. Dan DiDominico is the best of the milers while Bolich will compete in the high jump and Welty in the pole vault.

For CU, they have two outstanding stars among their members. One is Fritz Krieger in the javelin and the other is Allen in the discus. Besides these two there is Gregg, one of the top pole vaulters in the region. These three should give the Tigers some real opposition.

CC Golfers Lose to DU Square Season Record

In their final match of the year, not including the Invitational meet this weekend, the Tiger linksmen lost their fourth match of the year as Denver University defeated them last Tuesday afternoon 15½-11½.

Bob Crabb came in with a one-over-par 73 to cop medalist honors. Paul McMullin of Denver carded a 74. This match left the CC golfers with an even up record of four wins and four losses for the year.

cc

Bengal Racquetmen to Face Regis Here Fri.

The CC tennis team will close out their regular season's schedule this Friday when they face Regis at the Broadmoor courts. This will be the second meeting of the year between these two schools, GC having won the first one 8-1.

Slated to play for the Tigers are Charlie Smeeth, Jack Orsborn, Jim Gourd, Monty Gatchell, Chuck Morrow, Lars Larson and Jim Hill. For Regis McGuire, Sauer and Connell will be among those playing.

Following this match there will be only the Conference meet left on the schedule and it will be held next weekend.

Tiger Nine to Trek to Gunnison for RMC Tilts

With two wins in their last three games, the CC baseball team got down to work this week in preparation for a very important two game R.M.C. series with Western State this weekend at Gunnison.

The Mountaineers have played only two R. M. C. games so far, losing twice to Colorado Mines 2-0 and 6-5. Western State will probably go along with the same lineup that faced Mines. This includes Kancida at first, Visconti at second with Schmidli at short and Grieve around at third. Four capable outfielders will probably see service during the series, these being Lucas, Crain, Tanner and Hoff. Tremper and McCracken will probably split the catching duties.

The Mountaineers will definitely pitch their ace Casey Jones with either Kunihiro or Ogleby slated to work the other game.

The Tigers will enter the game with a slightly revamped line-up, due to costly injuries. John Crumley will be at first base, Dwight Brothers at second, Tony Esposito at short and John Litt at third. Coach Carle will go with his regular outfield of Pat Killen, Vince Giammario and Bill Dewire, Guy Gibbs and Bill Harley will probably split the catching duties.

The pitching department again looms as the problem. Dick Bergesen will definitely work one game but who will start the other one is a question. Vic Pugel appeared to be off to a good season but his control failed him last Saturday. Whether he will get the starting nod is still a question mark. Mark Kochevar has a badly bruised finger on his pitching hand and may be unable to throw. In this case Dick Perse and Harry Whitworth will probably see plenty of action on the hill.

After this series with Western State the Tigers have only two more games scheduled. Both of these will be with Denver University next week, with the first game slated for Stewart Field next Thursday and a return contest scheduled in the Capitol city on Friday.

In a track meet that was nip and tuck until the last two events were run off, Colorado State defeated the Tiger thinclads 73-58 at Greeley last Saturday afternoon.

The Bears led by only one point before the last two events, the broad jump and the mile relay, but CS swept all three places in the broad jump and won the mile relay to give them their margin of victory.

Besides a sweep of the broad jump, the Bears also swept the javelin, shotput and the 120 high hurdles. CC made a clean sweep of the 100 yard dash and the 220 but it was not enough to carry the Tigers to victory.

Oaklahoma to Defend Title Won Last Year Ten Schools Entered

The fourth annual Colorado College Invitational Golf meet will get under way tomorrow at the Broadmoor Golf Course. From all accounts it appears that this one will be the best yet.

Growing from a small field of regional schools in 1947, the 1950 affair will include such schools as the University of Oklahoma, 1949 winner, Nebraska, Iowa, CU, DU, Wyoming and Colorado College, the host school. Filling out the ten team field will be Colorado Aggies, Colorado Mines and Regis.

Returning will be the defending champs from Oklahoma, but not returning will be the 1949 medalist, Owen Panner of Oklahoma. He may not be missed, though, as Oklahoma again fields a strong team. One indication of this is that Jim Vickers, Colorado State champion and recent winner over Frank Stranahan in the Dallas Western Amateur, is the number two man on the team. Number one man is sharp-shooting Bo Faulkenberry.

Nebraska will be led by Joe Gifford and Dick Spangler, while Iowa will arrive here with only one senior and five sophomores on their team. The senior, W. G. "Skip" Carlson, is playing number one with Bill Ferguson, another crack golfer in the Big Ten, holding down the second position.

Denver will be the favorite among the regional schools altho CC and CU may have something to say about this come Friday and Saturday. Leading the Pioneer golfers will be Joe Lynch and Frank Van Meter, while Hank Heinly and Bill Forbes will lead the CU attack.

Bob Crabb, medalist in three of CC's meets so far this year, may surprise some of the outstanding visitors and he will be ably supported by Johnny Schleicher, Phil Davis, Bob Strang, Dick Hall and Jack Claghorn.

The Invitational is scheduled for 36 holes of medal play with the four low scores to count toward the team championship.

Student Council Takes Disciplinary Action

On Monday, April 24, a trial was held by the Student Council, after charges of vandalism were brought by the Quadrangle Association against a student. The student was accused of being found in a women's residence hall after closing hours. After a hearing by the Student Council, he was found guilty as charged, and the following recommendation was made by the Student Council to the Committee on Undergraduate Life:

We, the Student Council recommend that the student involved be suspended from Colorado College, as of April 24, 1950, and not be allowed to apply for readmission until September, 1951.

This recommendation was approved by the Committee on Undergraduate Life on Wednesday, April 26.

The Colorado College golf team made it two in a row over the Regis Rangers last Friday as they defeated them 14-13. Two weeks ago the Tigers won 14½-12½. The match was played over Park Hill course.

A.W.S. ANNUAL SPRING BANQUET HONORED DEAN FAUTEAUX AT BEMIS HALL LAST NIGHT

Last night the Associated Women Students of Colorado College held their annual spring banquet honoring the outstanding senior women. The banquet this year was also given as an honorary tribute to Mrs. Louise Fauteaux, retiring Dean of Women. This year marks the twentieth anniversary of A.W.S. at Colorado College and the theme of the banquet, "Mid-Century Review," was a look-back on the achievements of the past fifty years. Bemis Hall dining-room was decorated with pictures depicting the changes and progress during this time. Guests of Honor for the banquet were: President and Mrs. Gill, Dean and Mrs. Hershey, and Dean and Mrs. Adams.

The Toastmistress for the banquet was Gale George, out-going President of A.W.S. First on the program were the athletic awards presented by Mary Ruble, President of the Women's Athletic Association. The highest athletic award, given to senior women each year in recognition of outstanding sportsmanship and all-round participation in athletics, is the Senior Cup Award. This year, it was given to four senior women: Jean Kearns, Ruth Reitinger, La Von Rouse, and Mary Ruble. The Team Trophy Cup, given to the women's organization with the highest number of earned points, went, for the third consecutive year, to Gamma Phi Beta sorority. This award also had a special significance, because the Gamma Phi's may now keep the cup permanently.

Other point awards received were: "CC," Carol Fisher, Jean Kearns, Ruth Reitinger, LaVon Rouse, and Mary Ruble; "C," Burton Elliott, Carol Fisher, Pat Foreman, B. J. Hunger, Mary Ann Hodge, Thora Hodge, Pat Martin, June Sloss, and Sue Schlessman. Numeral awards, according to classes, were as follows: "53," Maisie Campbell, Lou Gundry, Betty Gould, Judy Johnson, Betty Lamb, Glenn Lock, Ted Rogers, and Artie Toll; "52," D. D. Beckley, Mary Ann Hodge, Thora Hodge, Sue Schlessman, and Lucie Wilkerding; "51," Audrey Baldwin, Beryl Burr, and Nancy Wilson; "50," Penny Boutin, Jeanne Cooper, Johnny Leamond, Carl Nichols, Jeanne Ramsay, Lia Van Roosmalen, and Sue Weary.

Next on the program, President Gill presented the Scholarship Award to Mary Daehler, in recognition of the highest scholarship achieved among senior women. Barbara Clark, the newly elected President of A.W.S., then spoke about plans for the coming year and introduced the new A.W.S. board.

The highlighting event of this part of the program was the awards presented by Dean Fauteaux to six outstanding senior women, in recognition of their achievements in the past four years. Recipients of this award were:

Rosemary Fuller, Gale George, Margo Gilliland, Clarice Hads, Mary Ruble, and Pat Starrels.

The rest of the evening's program was a tribute to Dean Fauteaux. Miss Grace Wilson, Dean of Women at Colorado State College in Greeley, was the first speaker, her topic being, "Friend and colleague." Following this, Marion Crowder Plumb, former student at C.C. and past president of A.W.S., spoke as a "Friend and Former Student." The last event on the program was a talk by the Toastmistress, Gale George, concerning "Friend and Present Student." At the conclusion, Gale presented a silver tea set to Mrs. Fauteaux, a gift from all the women students.

CC Concert Choir Heard in Pueblo

The Colorado College choir concluded their concert appearances for the year with a concert in Pueblo last Friday evening. The concert was sponsored by the St. Paul Methodist Church and included a group of numbers by the Madrigal Singers as well as several groups by the concert choir. The concert was so well received that the choir has a standing invitation to sing there again at any time.

The Colorado College choir also participated in the American Guild of Organists Vesper on Sunday, May 7. Many attending this service who had not heard the college choir recently were quite surprised and pleased at the marked progress shown by the choir this year. In fact the choir is rapidly gaining prestige both locally and throughout the state as one of the outstanding choirs of Colorado.

MRS. LOUISE FAUTEAUX, left, retiring Dean of Women, who was honored by the Associated Women Students at their annual awards banquet which was held in Bemis Hall Wednesday night.

CC Will Have New Business, Sociology Heads Next Fall

Princeton and Stanford are to furnish two professors for major chairs at Colorado College beginning in September, according to an announcement by President William H. Gill. Kenneth J. Curran of Princeton has been named Professor of Economics and head of the department of Economics and business Administration while Charles M. Frisen, of Stanford, is to be associate professor of sociology and acting head of the department of sociology. Both men are replacements for the late W. Lewis Abbott, who died a year ago in an automobile accident. Professor Abbott was head of a combined department of economics, business and sociology.

Professor Curran took his A.B. with highest honors at Princeton in 1925. After five years as a business man in Persia, he spent another five years as an employee of Standard Brands in the Middle West. With this background of business, he returned to Princeton as a graduate student in Economics. Upon obtaining his Ph.D., he was appointed to a teaching position and is just completing his ninth year in that capacity. From 1943 to 1946, he served with the army in North Africa and Italy. He is a Lieut. Colonel in the reserves.

Professor Frisen took his undergraduate work at the College of the Pacific and his graduate studies at Northwestern and at Stanford. He will receive his Ph.D. from the latter university this summer. Pic and Pan to Present Children's Play Today At Perkins Hall

The work carried on all year by members of PIC AND PAN in children's theatre will be brought to a close with the presentation of a charming play for children, "Six Who Pass While the Yintiles Boil," this Thursday afternoon at 4:00 at Perkins Hall.

The play was given for the first times last Saturday, and was presented Wednesday at the Cheyenne School.

The story of a little boy who saves his queen from losing her head at the hands of The Dreadful Headsman, and in the process meets some very interesting people, the delightful one-act play is surprisingly well acted by a group of talented little people who seem to possess all the aplomb and self-confidence of veteran actors.

The fairy tale atmosphere is enhanced by the colorful and imaginative set created by Peggy Merle Smith, featuring an exotic butterfly which is an integral part of the plot and seems almost alive.

Joyce Matthews can be proud of her little actors, together they have come up with a very pleasing production.

WALT'S FAULT

By WALT SWEET

F. W. Bonfils, the colorful editor of the old Denver Post, once said that "There's no hope for the satisfied man!" By that, I'm sure that he wasn't holding out for dissatisfaction, but was condemning complacency. Satisfaction with immediate accomplishments is a feeling that we all have, but the ever-broadening search for something just a little better . . . just a little nearer to being perfect . . . is the thing that has not only made our country the place it is, but has operated to make our school a better place. We owe this year's student government a vote of gratitude for the progress they have made in bettering student life at C.C., and have every right to charge the new leaders with the responsibility of furthering those advances in their policies next year. A beginning has been made in not only gaining independence for the student body, but also in proving that the student body was capable of the responsibilities incident to that independence. Some of those advances have already been challenged by the administration, and it is my sincere hope, that next year's student government will fight for their retention as consistently as this year's council fought for their adoption!

During the past school year, the students have compiled a great record of achievement in campus betterment, and also in the improvement of their own status here at school. The paper has advanced from being a weekly calendar to being a weekly newspaper which feels free to print student comment on just about any subject. It can be better, and should be better, but it will be a fight to make it better if Cutler has anything more to say about it! The Student Council has finally clarified the disciplinary procedure . . . a really big step toward the recognition of the student body as an important part of the college. The students have given the Honor System the green light, and have shown that it can, and will work throughout the school. Many more things . . .

But, again to the theme . . . "there's no hope for the satisfied man". These advances have been well worth working for, they're not all we want, but are worth fighting to keep. There are bigger goals . . . toward which we should keep on working.

By Mary Ruble

Four long years ago it didn't seem possible but here it is—the time for the class of '50 to join the ranks of the currently unemployed. We may easily forget the name of Don Quoixite's horse, the date of the battle of Gettysburg and the difference between unit revenue and marginal unit revenue but there are certain things we will always remember: the snowstorm during homecoming when all classes were dismissed and everyone skiied on the art center hill or built monuments of snow, the Miners coming down and blowing up the bridge across Monument creek, and the freshmen-sophomore fight when the sophomores cut down the pole and floated it away.

Falls were glorious times with the grid iron classics between the various girls dorms and the winning of the Rocky Mountain Conference. Then there was the morning when we all woke up to find a bus resting on the front steps of Palmer and Cutler Halls firmly barricaded. The irrigation ditches were filled with dead leaves and became a deadly trap to unsuspecting freshmen.

Soon it was winter and ho hard to climb out of bed in the morning. Life went on with numerous cups of coffee, long rides on the Rocket, and the spectacular ski trips. Sunburns were replaced by broken legs and people began to think in term of hockey. Winged victory disappeared from the library after being given a new head and the bell fell out of Cutler after being rung too vigorously. Palmer caught fire amid cheers for the blaze and boos for the firemen. Soon it was finals with a prolonged marathon race in the library and not too successful efforts to rally.

Spring finally arrived and no-

PREview AND REview

By The FIRST NIGHTERS

Chief—"The Man on the Eiffel Tower"—(Review)

P.U.! Never has such a good cast been assembled with such devastating results. The only thing about this Parisian ogre that warrants recognition was the scenic photgoraphy.

The plot revolves around a free lance, money hungry, manic depressive killer and Charles Laughton's seemingly futile attempts to deliver him to the guillotine. The producer should have done this in the first reel and turned the whole thing into a travelogue of Paris. Burgess Meredeth tries twice to kill himself and is (alas) unsuccessful both times. The three noticably stacked women in the story served no purpose other than to clutter up the screen and the "plot."

The cops and robbers theme is having a gigantic comeback much to the dismay of what must be a cinema starved public.

A beer can falling on a tin roof to the Chief and to "The Man on the Eiffel Tower."

Ute—"The Third Man" (Review)

This well executed flick was, in our possibly dubious judgement, somewhat overdone. The plot, tho acting and the cast were all of high quality, but somewhat not as many bells rang as predicted.

The picture was built up to be so good that little short of a five beller was expected by the audience. In our opinion, again dubious, it hard to give "The Third Man" a distinct rating because of its rather anticlimatic effect. The suspense created was excellent, but the climax was so long in coming and the aftermath so strange that the result was the same on the audience as a slamming door on a cake in the oven. Also we found ourselves unconsciously shuddering every time the zither hit a loud note.

If you saw it, however, you didn't go wrong and must have come away satisfied. We might say this film was a three and/or four beller; we'll leave it up to you.

P.S. The high point of our whole evening at the Whooping Indian was what happened to Tom when he got hit with that iron tennis ball.

Ute—Cheaper by the Dozen (Review)

As predicted this flick turned out to be a strong three beller and well worth 65c.

Clifton Webb, as usual, was practically the whole show even if his talents touched more on the prolific side than the humorous. What a constitution,, what a life, what a . . .!

We said that Jeanne Crain and Myrna Loy would also appear and that is about all they did. "Miss" Loy, however, must have done considerably more before the time this film represented; approximately eleven times more.

All in all though, if you saw this delightfully refreshing (for a change) movie you must have had a goodly share of chuckles and not too many gripes.

PS—Don't forget, we warned you about that "bouncing ball."

Mr. David Hart Leaving CC Facully; Plans To Study Abroad

Mr. David Hart, instructor in speech and director of debate at Colorado College is leaving the college this spring to study abroad. Mr. Hart's efforts in speech and debate during the 3 years at CC have been very successful. The debate team, under Mr. Hart's direction has made a fine record for itself in the Colorado-Wyoming League, and has progressed greatly since he took over as director.

From humble beginnings in Cogswell with a simple P. A. system, the radio phase of the speech department has grown steadily through the work of Professor Woodson Tyree and Mr. Hart. A recent personal donation of Mr. Hart's father, Mr. Harry A. Hart of Dodge City, Kansas, has made possible the purchase of necessary equipment for the control-room, which is now nearly complete, lacking only transmitting equipment.

Through the control-room and studio located in South Hall, students interested in radio speech, engineering, production, direction and writing may get first-hand, practical experience in those phases of radio work.

The equipment housed in South Hall is not only a boon to student writers, actors and directors, it is also a practical laboratory for physics students taking courses in electronics. Using the radio equipment there, they can more easily work out problems, and conduct experiments.

As a final activity for this semester, the "Alpha Kappa Psi Scholarship Key" will be presented at the commencement exercises. It is awarded annually to the graduating high-ranking male student of business who has taken three full years of work at Colorado College.

CC Nine Faces DU To-day in Last Home Game

Tigers Play Pioneers Here This Afternoon; In Denver Tomorrow

The Colorado College baseball team concludes its home season this afternoon when they face the Denver Pioneers on Stewart Field at 3:00 p. m. For the Tigers it will be their fourth game in four days while DU saw action on Tuesday against Lowry Field.

The Pioneers, under the coaching eye of Wes Weber, will probably start with Lee Nelson at first, Bobby Lott at second, Gordon Cooper at short and Bernie Katz at third. Three newcomers will probably be in the outfield, Jim Efurdt, Dale Berglund and Don Carline. Either Gene Wurtz or Buddy Ryen will handle the catching chores while the ace of the DU moundstaff, Art Dollaghan will probably be the starting pitcher. Available for relief is Bob Garland.

CC coach Jerry Carle will probably go along with John Crumley at first, Tony Frasca at second, Tony Esposito at short and John Litt at third. Bill Dewire, Vince Giamarrio and Pat Killen will make up the outfield. Either Guy Gibbs or Bill Harley will do the catching with either Vic Pugel or Dick Bergesen on the hill.

Denver U. Golfers Win CC Invitational Meet Iowa U. Second; Dennis of Kansas Medalist

The fourth annual Colorado College Invitational Golf meet was held last weekend over the beautiful but tricky Broadmoor lay-out, and Denver University came through to victory with a total score of 624, seven strokes better than second place Iowa. Thus Denver regains the championship they won in 1948. Oklahoma won last year and placed third this year.

Medalist for the two-day meet was the one-man golf team from Kansas University, Dave Dennis as he carded a two-day total of 147. He put together scores of 74-73 for his winning total. Behind him came Skip Carlson of Iowa with a 149, Frank Van Meter with a 151 and Bob Crabb of CC, tied for fourth, with a 152. Only Carlson's 74 and Dennis's winning total bettered the 75 turned in by Crabb. The first three teams plus CC's

Varsity Nine Rips Cubs 18-11; Last Frosh Tilt

The Colorado College varsity baseball team opened up the last week of the season Monday as they met and defeated the Freshmen team 18-11. This was the final game of the year for the Freshmen. They finished up with a 3-7 record. For the varsity it was their first of five games to be played this week.

Coach Jerry Carle went the full seven innings for the varsity and held the Freshmen scoreless until the fourth when they scored once. Carle then brought in his whole starting outfield and replaced them with his pitchers. By this time the score stood at 14-1 as the varsity scored three in the first, three more in the second, five in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth. Carl Rinker started on the mound for the Freshmen, was relieved by Norm Tuftedal in the third and then Freshmen Coach John Duggan took over the hurling chores in the fifth. The Freshmen finally got a rally going in the fifth as four runners crossed the plate.

Tiger Diamondeers Whip Western State 11-7; Lose 12-0 in Final RMC Game of Season

The CC baseball team met Western State at Gunnison last weekend in two RMC games, the last in Conference competition for the Tiger nine this year. As has been the case in previous two game series this year the Bengals won the first one and then dropped the second one. Vic Pugel went the first seven innings on Friday and received credit for the victory. Mark Kochevar came on to pitch the last two innings. Dick Bergesen started on Saturday and was not quite as effective as usual, although fielding lapses caused his downfall. The Mountaineers tallied seven unearned runs in the first two innings and from there on they had little trouble holding on to that lead. Harry Whitworth worked the last three innings.

The visitors went right to work on Friday as they tallied one run in the opening frame. Six more runners crossed the plate in the third, as the Carlemen batted around, on seven hits and a fly ball. Big hit of the inning was a home run by Vince Giammario. A single tally was added in the fourth and then the Bengals were held scoreless until the ninth. In the meantime WS picked up single counters in the first, fourth, fifth and seventh. The run in the seventh was Don Schmedli's home run with nobody on. Pugel weakened in the eighth and allowed four straight hits, a double, a triple, and two singles. Kochevar then came in to put the fire out and pitched the ninth, allowing one more run. Leading by only one run in the top of the ninth CC sewed it up with three runs as three singles and an error did the damage.

Western State opened with a bang on Saturday as they countered four unearned runs in the very first inning. An error, two walks and a dropped fly ball accounted for three runs, a single brought in the fourth run of the frame. Three more runs tallied in the second on an error, a single and a home run by Grieve. A single run scored in the fifth and three more tallied in the sixth before Bergesen was relieved by Whitworth. They scored their final run in the seventh. The Tigers threatened in two different innings, the fifth and the seventh. In the fifth John Litt tripled, but the next 3 batters grounded out. Then in the seventh they put runners on first and second with none out, but Marasich, WS hurler, got out of the jam as he struck out one and forced two to fly out.

Bengal Nine Triumphs Over Fitzsimmons 15-4

The CC diamond crew continued on its winning ways last Tuesday afternoon as they easily defeated Fitzsimmons General Hospital 15-4. The Tigers' bats were booming as they pounded out sixteen hits, eight good enough for extra bases. Mark Kochevar hurled the first six innings with Dick Bergesen coming on to finish him up. Soccabasin started on the hill for Fitzsimmins and was relieved in the second by Kelly, who went the rest of the way. Kochevar was the winner and Soccabasin the loser.

The Bengals got off to a fast start scoring two runs in the first. In the second they batted around, countering five times, They batted around again in the sixth, scoring five on only three hits but capitalizing on two errors. Fitzsimmons was limited to nine hits by the two CC pitchers and their runs were scattered around as they got one in the first, fourth, fifth, and then finished up with a final one in the ninth.

TIGER TRACK TEAM IN RMC MEET AT BOZEMAN, MONT.

After journeying outside the Conference confines last weekend and getting soundly trounced for it, the CC track team will come back to more equal competition this weekend when they face Colorado State, Colorado Mines and Montana State in the Conference meet at Bozeman, Montana.

An elevenman squad plus Coach Cheddy Thompson and Manager Ted Green left yesterday morning for Bozeman. Expected to carry the brunt of the Tiger attack are Marv Powell, Jack Pfeiffer and Dick Pfeiffer. Powell will be entered in the pole vault and high jump, while the Pfeiffer brothers will be running in the mile, two mile, 880 and the mile relay. Doug Van Metre and Gary Lewis will be entered in the field events with the rest of the squad concentrating on the cinder events. Making up the rest of the squad were Jim Walker, Chuck Betton, Beau Seibert, Carl Lawrence, Emil Voelz and Bob Rosberg.

Mines should be favored to take the meet this year on the basis of comparative scores although these can usually be thrown out the window when the Conference championship is at stake.

Colorado College | Wednesday, May 24, 1950 | Colorado Springs, Colo.

LARGEST CLASS IN CC HISTORY WILL GRADUATE JUNE 3

Record-breaking graduation classes will continue to be the rule instead of the exception at Colorado College on Saturday, June 3, when CC tops the year's previous commencement record total for the third straight year with 236 seniors and 15 master of arts candidates.

The all-time high of 236 seniors includes graduates of the August, 1940, summer school and January, 1950, semester grads. Of these 212 will march in the academic procession, while 24 will graduate in absentia due to job commitments or illness.

CC seniors started their year's end activities off with a bang on May 10 when, at the close of two-day-long comprehensive examinations, they trekked to the mountains for the annual all-day picnic.

Sunday afternoon, May 28, in Shove Chapel at 3 o'clock, seniors will don their caps and gowns for the first time to attend the Baccalaureate service. The colorful academic procession will form in Palmer Hall and march to the Chapel. Dean Edwin C. Broome, Jr., will deliver the Baccalaureate address, and the Chapel Choir under the direction of John Fundingsland, will sing two anthems. Dean George W. Adams will give the invocation and Pres. William H. Gill the scripture reading.

All of the undergraduates and townspeople are cordially invited to attend the Baccalaureate program.

Final examinations will continue May 29 and 30, and at 1:00 p. m. on Wednesday, May 31, seniors meet in the chapel with Prof. D. W. Crabb, faculty marshal, to receive instructions about the formal ceremony of commencement. Election of permanent class officers will take place at this time and tickets requested by seniors for the commencement exercises will be distributed.

All women of tht class of 1950 will be honored on Wednesday, May 31, from 4 to 5:30 o'clock when the dean of women and staff of the women's residence halls present their annual senior tea in Bemis Hall.

With class commissioners Elizabeth Van Ronscalaer and James E. "Bud" Parliapiano and Lorena Berger, secretary of the college, responsible for the planning of most of the final senior activities, the highlight of the festivities will be the senior-parent informal dinner on Friday evening, June 2, at 6:45 o'clock in the Crystal room of the Alamo hotel.

More than 400 reservations have already been made for the informal affair. K. C. Freyschlag, director of public relations at CC and a member of the graduating class, will act as toastmaster. He and his committee have lined up an entertaining program, which will be brief, allowing time for the personal parties that always take place when seniors and parents get together.

The Board of Trustees will meet at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, June 3, and the regular Commencement exercises will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in Shove Memorial chapel.

The Commencement address will be given by William E. Stevenson, President of Oberlin college, whose daughter, Helen, is a member of the graduating class.

Special music will be played by the La Salle String Quartet.

Following the commencement

TIGER Office
May 23, 1950

As a result of last week's issue of the TIGER and from the various reactions braught on from the jokes submitted in last week's issue of the paper, I realize I owe an apology to the entire Colorada College family.

May I say that the jokes were nat intended to harm anyone or to be obscene. These jokes were taken from other college papers and it was merely a blunder on my part in submitting that type of literature in our campus publication.

Again—I'm sorry. Yau can rest assured that during the remainder of my term as editor of the TIGER no such material as this will ever again appear. I am very pleased to hear that the students at CC do not wish to read this type of literature in their student newspaper.

My policies next semester will be directed solely toward the interest of the student body, and the TIGER will never again be used for experimental purposes. Thank you!

Bob Leavitt,
Tiger Editor-in-Chief body could study anymore. CC won the NCAA hockey championship and the whole school celebrated. Softball games were held at the first crack of dawn to the great joy of the quad. Election time loomed with numerous serenades, ice cream, and flowers. Sophomore comps were held amid the vocalizing of off-key soprones and graduate records were taken. Comps were held and strange as it may seem life went off asusual both during the ordeal and afterwards. Then it was time for the senior picnic with its snowstorms, songs and celebrating. And now here we go: last issue of the TIGER, last class, last final—it's about time—and packing of trunks.
